Royal-Commerce Win Another

The Royal-Commerce team has strengthened its hold on the lead in the Bank League by defeating the Bank of Montreal team on Saturday afternoon, for the second time last week, by 5 goals to 3. The game was an interesting one, but the winners despite the fact that the Montreal team scored the first goal, had more than a shade on the losers. They played the better combination and always kept hammering along. The Montreal team scored soon after the opening but the combination team equalized within a few minutes and at the half were in front 2 to 1. They got two in succession at the go-in in the second half and then sandwiched in another between two counters by the Montreal team. Charlie Curtis handled the bell satisfactorily.

Tool Room Won Five-One

Two Canadian General teams, the Tool Room and the Machine Shop were opponents in a Mercantile League game at Brock Street Rink the Tool Room winning handily by five goals to one, and at one period in the second half, were ahead three to nil. The Machine Shop scored their only counter on a nice three man combination, putting the figures at 3 to 1, but the Tool Room came back with two more before the final bell rang.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

The Peterborough Intermediate and Junior O. H. A. teams will practise at Brock Street rink to-night, the Intermediates at 7 and the Juniors at 7.30 o'clock. A full attendance of both teams is requested. The Intermediates are especially urged to be out, as the team to play against Trenton to-morrow night will be selected after the practice.

There will be a meeting of the Executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club at the Examiner office to-night, at 8.30 o'clock for the purpose of selecting the line-up for to-morrow night's game against Trenton. Every member of the Executive is asked to be on hand.

There was a lively game in the Collegiate Inter-form League Thursday afternoon at Brock Street rink, when Form 3B team defeated the Fourth team by 8 goals to 5. The play was fairly even, and interesting, if not scientific. Mr. Will O'Brien refereed satisfactorily. There was a large attendance, especially of the "co-eds." The teams were: Form 3B — Goal, Huycke; point, G. Matthews; cover, Ray; forwards, Armstrong, Leahy, Laing, Dixon.

Form 3B team defeated the Fourth formers, was the victim of a painful accident early in the game, the puck striking him in the nose and inflicting a deep gash.

SUCCESSFUL CARNIVAL HELD AT LAKEFIELD

What was probably the most successful event of the season was carried off in Lakefield on Friday night last, when a large, fancy dress carnival, under the auspices of St. John the Baptist Woman's Auxiliary took place in the skating rink.

Many were the costumes, in many cases expensive ones, that fitted around the rink and caused a lot of speculation as to who would be the prize winners. Great praise is due the judges for the impartial way in which they dealt with the case on hand. Among those who took part in costume were:

Evening Star—Miss Minnie Webster.
Flower Girl—Miss Leota Labelle.
Christmas Doll—Miss M. Dean, Peterborough.
College Girl—Miss Addie Wigg.
Winter—Miss Eva Alford.
Miss Canada—Miss R. Jory.

The judges were: Mrs. E. R. Tate, Mrs. F. J. Tate, Mrs. G. B. Hilliard, Mr. Chant, Rev. Mr. Sawers. About 350 in round numbers were present, and the rink was crowded. It was almost impossible to get from the ice to the waiting room and over $75 was taken in at the gate. Two bus loads of young men drove up from Peterborough, but did not arrive until late in the evening owing to the bad roads.

The Change of a Name.

How family names change in the course of many years is illustrated by the conversion of "Boteville" into "Thynne." An English deed bearing date in the closing days of the fifteenth century shows three brothers then flourishing—John Boteville of Boteville and Thomas and William Boteville. The trio are distinguished from all other Botevilles by the explanation "of the Inne," or family residence, the title to which had come to their joint possession. John's grandson was known as Ralph Botevile-of-the-Inne, from which the transition to Ralph Thynne is easy. His descendants have been Thynnes ever since.

The Price of Love.

Says an advertisement in the London Express: "Mary—Waited three hours at appointed spot until questioned by suspicious policeman. If this is the price of love it is too heavy a one for me to pay. Farewell. Potts."

Time and Patience.

No road is too long for him who advances slowly and does not hurry, and no attainment is beyond his reach who equips himself with patience to achieve it.—La Bruyere.

Doctor Told Her She Did Not Have A Pint Of Good Blood In Her Body.

Mrs. Dosithe P. Cormier, Middle Sackville, N.B., says:

"In the spring of 1907 I was all run down, and the doctor told me I had not a pint of good blood in my body. I took different remedies from doctors, but they did not seem to do me any good. After having taken a lot of different other kinds of medicine, and they did not seem to benefit me, I was almost in despair and did not know what to do until my husband met a lady and told her about my sickness and she told him to try Burdock Blood Bitters as she had received the greatest benefit from using it. My husband went and bought me a bottle, and after having taken it I felt better, so I kept on using one bottle after another until I had taken six in all and then I was strong and well. I am positive that my being alive to-day is due to the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. One spring since then I was not feeling very well and had a lot of work to do. I thought I would procure a bottle of Burdock Blood Bitters and after I had taken two I was able to do a lot of hard work all the summer, and I never felt better in my life. In the winter of 1906 I had Pneumonia, and it left me with a severe pain in the left side. Every morning when I would get out of bed I had to sit down for a while it was so painful. After I had used Burdock Blood Bitters the pain disappeared completely. It has also cured me of bleeding piles. I have received so much benefit from Burdock Blood Bitters that you may publish this as it may help others as it has me."

CITY FREE FROM INFECTIOUS DISEASES—VERY LITTLE TYPHOID

Dr. McPherson, Medical Health Officer Submits His Report to the Board of Health This Morning—Dr. McNulty Has Been Elected Chairman for the Year.

The Board of Health held their regular meeting in the City Board Room this morning and considerable business was transacted.

Dr. McNulty was elected chairman for the ensuing year. Moved by Mayor Morrow and seconded by Dr. Young.

A communication was received from Mrs. M. Martin, requesting that a sewer be put in on Simcoe St., between Reid and Downie streets. The request was referred to the City Engineer.

A pamphlet was received by the Board from Dr. J. W. S. McCullough, Chief Health Officer of Ontario, advising them of a free Tuberculosis exhibit, and submitting it for their consideration. The Secretary was instructed to ascertain what accommodation would be required for the Exhibition, and what the Board would be required to do.

Dr. A. W. McPherson read a report as follows:

Gentlemen,—I beg to submit for your consideration a report for the year ending Nov. 30, 1910.

It is with pleasure that I am able to state that during this time the city has been comparatively free from infectious diseases. As might be expected from last year's record scarlet fever heads the list, with thirty-four infected houses, and about sixty cases. Among this number there was but one death. Diphtheria was very light. Only three families were affected with a total of seven cases. Small-pox was not represented. Typhoid fever has been very prevalent in the neighbourhood, but Peterborough has been remarkably free from it. Only seven cases have been reported. In following up the source it was ascertained that two resulted from infected wells, one probably because infected while in Toronto; three resulted from contact with persons suffering from the disease, and one the source of which could not be definitely learned. There were no fatal cases. The minor infectious diseases have decreased since last year, with the exception of whooping cough. This seems to be fairly widespread throughout the city and vicinity.

It is with regret that I have to report the appearance of a small epidemic of infantile paralysis. Although the cases were not reported the number might be placed at about ten or twelve with at least three deaths.

In this connection I should like to draw your attention to the new regulations which place infantile paralysis in the list of diseases which must be reported to the Health authorities. I might further add that with the exception of scarlet fever, diphtheria, small pox and typhoid the various infectious diseases are not reported. If the minor infections were reported as they should be we could get the cooperation of the teachers in controlling the epidemics. In this way the unnecessary exposure at school would be materially lessened and the number of children of school age who are left at home on account of sickness would, in the end, be minimized.

In looking back over the year we can congratulate ourselves on account of progress made. Since the last report an Isolation Hospital, with an accommodation for about 30 patients, has been begun, and it is expected that early in the year it will be ready for occupation. Another move in the right direction is the establishment of a laboratory for the examination of city water. This will obviate the necessity of furnishing a laboratory in connection with the new hospital. But there are still many opportunities for further progress and make questions pertinent to the health of the citizens that must soon be met and seriously considered. To my mind the most serious is the milk supply. The excellent report of the Provincial Milk Commission has brought forcibly to our minds what has been done and is being done in other cities to secure a reasonably pure, clean milk. I would suggest that the matter be considered at an early date, and steps be taken to secure the cooperation of the dairy men and the milk vendoure.

Another problem is the sanitary work. At present, as you are aware, the sanitary work forms part of the police duty. It sems to me that this is of sufficient importance to warrant the appointment of a sanitary inspector. From the standpoint of beauty, as well as physical comfort and health, we should insist on a proper standard of cleanliness of the lanes, back yards, vacant lots and out-houses. This cannot be satisfactorily accomplished under the present system and if the milk question is considered, as it doubtless will, there will be additional duties for such an officer.

Last year I suggested the advisability of a scavenger system. From the financial as well as from the sanitary standpoint, this seems most expedient.

A. W. McPHERSON,

Moved by Dr. Young, seconded by Mayor Morrow, that the report be adopted.—Carried.

A. W. Cressman presented a bill for $3.08.

Dr. Young moved that Mr. Cressman be asked to inform the Board on whose authority the goods were furnished and where they were sent.

The garbage, and milk question, was also discussed, and it was decided that Dr. McPherson communicate with the authorities at St. Catharines and some other cities, where a proper system is employed, and find out some points about it.

LECTURE WILL BE GIVEN ON DAVID COPPERFIELD

Mrs. Sidney Dunn, who appears under the auspices of the Woman's Art Association on Tuesday evening, is enthusiastically received by her large audiences, and is thus spoken of by the leading papers of Toronto and Hamilton:

Mail and Empire:—Katharine Hale. Mrs. Sidney Dunn gave a series of dramatic readings, from David Copperfield, and I think that the spirit of Dickens never entered a piec of work more vitally than in the wonderful depiction of character after character, which this slender woman gave. The art of Mrs. Dunn is sincere. She reads—nay, more—she enacts, her characters into actual life.

The Globe:—Mrs. Dunn held the closest attention of her large audience, her portrayal of the various characters of the book being natural and well sustained.

Hamilton Spectator:—Mrs. Dunn was at her best in her interpretations of David Copperfield. Mrs. Dunn runs the gamut of emotions, and is equally good in her tragic moments, or in lighter vein, her sense of humour being as keen, as her depth of emotion and power. Altogether, the evening was a delightful one, and at its close Mrs. Dunn received an ovation.

PRESENTATION

Mr. Wilbur Cole Honored by the George Street Choir Last Night

Mr. Wilbur Cole, who has been a member of George street choir for a number of years, was the recipient of a handsome watch fob from the members, on the occasion of his leaving the city.

The presentation was made after the evening service, by the organist, Mr. T. H. Puttenham, who in his remarks voiced the sentiment of the choir in testifying to the regular attendance and excellent help given by Mr. Cole at all times, and regretted the loss to the choir. Mr. Cole replied, thanking everyone for their remembrance and appreciation.

Members of the Choir committee, Miss Higgins, Messrs. Cunningham and McCarrel also spoke briefly in expressions of regret at the departure of Mr. Cole.

EXAMINER'S NEW STORY COMMENCES ON THURSDAY

The Examiner's new serial story, "The Innocent Murderers" will commence in Thursday's issue of the Examiner and, good as have been the stories already given in this paper, the Examiner has no hesitation in saying that the new serial will be found even more fascinating and engrossing than its predecessors. "The Innocent Murderers" is a story that is as unusual in its action as its title is remarkable, and once commenced is sure to be finished by everyone. The mystery vein predominates throughout the story, and the incidents are so unusual and the situations so dramatic that the reader's attention never wavers. Perhaps the greatest surprise is in the ending. It is not one of those every-day stories whose finale you can guess after reading the first few chapters. In fact you are as much at sea as to the wind-up of the mystery in the second last chapter as you are at the first page. By all means read "The Innocent Murderers." Commences in Thursday's Examiner.

Was Injured By A Blast John Noyes Is Hurt

John Noyes, Munro avenue, East City, who was employed by Mr. Jos. Yelland in connection with Trent Canal work at Turtle Lake, was badly injured on Saturday as a consequence of an accident during blasting operations. It appears that when the blast was discharged a large stone was hurled about a hundred feet, hitting the ice and then, bounding, struck Mr. Noyes on the leg, inflicting a most painful injury. The injured man was brought home on Sunday, being driven into Peterborough by Mr. Darcy, of the Burleigh Falls hotel.

Arrangements are completed for tomorrow night's Horse Show in the Armories, which promises to be the most successful event of its kind ever held in Peterborough. There will be keen competition in every class of carriage and roadsters, as many entries have been received. With the added attraction of Mr. Stratton's thoroughbred harness horses, a concert by the 57th Regimental Band, tug-of-war between the Cavalry and Artillery, and between the Right and Left sections of the 57th Regiment, there is every reason to expect a record crowd. Seating accommodation for three thousand people has been arranged and the citizens are urged to attend.

DO YOUR HANDS CHAP?

Zam-Buk Will Give Ease in One Night

For badly chapped hands, cold cracks, frost bite, etc., Zam-Buk is the best known balm. Wash the hands or part affected in water as hot as can be borne. Dry with a soft towel, and then smear the Zam-Buk well over the part. If it is the hands, wear a pair of old gloves overnight. By morning the pain will be gone. Then use Zam-Buk a few more times and the cracks will be healed. Mrs. A. F. Phillips, of Avers Cliff, Que., says: "I suffered terribly from chapped hands. At times my hands were so sore that I could almost have cried with the pain. I thought I would try Zam-Buk and see what the wonderful healing balm would do for me. I obtained a supply, and in a very short time my hands were cured."

Mrs. W. B. Baillient, of Port Hawkesbury, N. S., writes: "Some time ago my hands were very badly chapped. Ordinary ointments did not heal them, and I was advised to try Zam Buk. To my great delight, it healed my hands in a remarkably short time."

Zam Buk will also be found a sure cure for ulcers, blood poison, varicose sores, ringworm, inflamed patches, babies' eruptions and chapped places, cut, burns, bruises and skin injuries generally. All druggists and stores sell at 50c. box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., on receipt of price.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. LETITIA BLAIR, Canifton, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to suffering women.

GOOD ROADS AGAIN.

Mr. A. W. Campbell, the Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals for Canada, the first and greatest apostle of improved highways for Ontario, has been addressing the Empire Club, Toronto, on his favourite topic, more particularly to urge co-operation between cities and towns and the country for the purpose of securing good roads, says the Brantford Expositor. Mr. Campbell stated that in the twenty years which he had devoted to the study of Ontario roads $21,000,000 had been spent in labour, and $19,000,000 cash had been paid for actual improvements on the highways of the Province, and during that time very little real headway had been made. With the $40,000,000 that had been expended, he said he could have macadamized every rod of road in Ontario, and in the next ten years such a transformation would take place, entailing the expense of not a dollar more than had been wasted so foolishly in past years.

Mr. Campbell outlined a typical plan, whereby the 500-mile road between Montreal and Windsor could be macadamized at a total cost of $1,500,000, to be met by ten thousand automobilists in Ontario, who would be willing to pay the required levy of $100 per year. After the roads had been built then the important feature of the whole movement was to adopt an efficient system of maintenance, and this could be done by dividing a road into districts and providing each district with a staff of caretakers. Under such reform Mr. Campbell said that he had pictured a highway leading northward from Toronto to Muskoka, on to Northern Ontario through the Temiskaming Valley, up to the sixteen-million-acre clay belt, and along to Winnipeg, joining the two Provinces.

One obstacle in the way of the improvement of our highways is that the residents of the rural parts are of opinion that the demand for reform comes chiefly from the owners of machines which are usually regarded as being destructive of good highways. A tax on automobiles, such as Mr. Campbell proposes would remove this feeling to a large extent, and might be an inducement to the Provincial Government to contribute one-half rather than one-third the cost of making county roads. It would be more desirable to do this, we think, than to concentrate our efforts on one or two trunk systems, such as Mr. Campbell proposes.

Another way in which the Provincial government might help would be to build two or three miles of approved highway in every county which has not yet adopted the county system, and to maintain the same for, say, three years. Object lessons of this character would certainly do very much to better the condition of all the highways in the province, by giving the agriculturists a chance to see what the benefit of good roads would be to themselves, who are after all, the chief users.

VANCOUVER VOTES FOR A COMMISSION.

(Brantford Expositor)

The city of Vancouver at the municipal elections in that city on January 12, had a referendum on the question of government by commission, and submitted the questions in the form of three affirmative propositions, as follows:

1st—Are you in favour of our present form of government, namely, a board of 12 aldermen and a mayor?

2nd—Are you in favour of a board of aldermen with, or assisted by, a board of control of four controllers, and the mayor?

3rd—Are you in favour of a commission government consisting only of five commissioners, one of whom is the mayor.

The electors of Vancouver, it will be seen, had three propositions before them; one, the retention of the present system of government by a board of aldermen and a mayor; a second, aldermen, a board of control and a mayor as is the Toronto plan: and, thirdly, government by a commission, consisting of five members one of whom shall be the mayor.

In Vancouver the proposal is to have the civic business divided into five departments, which would have charge of the following matters: Public safety, finance, public works, public property, and public affairs, the latter being in charge of the mayor. Every by-law passed by the Commission would have to be laid on the table for ten days to thirty days, and if during this interval a number of voters object to it they may, upon presentation of a petition signed by 15 per cent. of the voters who voted at the last election for mayor, have the objectionable by-law referred back to the electorate to be endorsed or rejected by the majority of the vote. All money by-laws and all public franchises must be referred to the electorate without the necessity of a petition.

Provision is made for a recall, which is the authority of the electorate to request, by petition, any member of the commission or council, to resign or offer himself for re-election. If the petition is signed by 25 per cent. of the voters who voted for mayor at last election, then the commissioner named must offer himself for re-election within 40 days, but if the petition bears only 15 per cent. of the voters who voted for mayor, then the commissioner named will not have to offer himself for re-election until the next municipal election. These petitions must be signed by qualified voters, each giving his street address, and they must be examined by the city clerk within ten days after presentation. If not sufficiently signed they are handed back, and additional names may be secured within a reasonable length of time.

Vancouver decided in favour of the commission idea, thus adding its name to the following cities which have already voted favourably upon the adoption of the commission form of government:

Alabama—Montgomery, Birmingham.

California — Berkeley, Los Angeles, Riverside, San Diego.

Colorado — Colorado Springs, Grand Junction.

Some of the arguments in favour of the adoption of the commission plan which were put forward during the Vancouver campaign, were the following:

There are no wards. The city is the unit. The council deals with each section of the city on its merits.

A commission is always in the limelight, and personally responsible to the ratepayers. A board of aldermen is wrapped in red tape with a series of numerous committees, and there is no individual responsibility.

Corruption springs principally from the power to grant franchises. The board of aldermen have this power; the commissioners have not. It is vested in the people.

An alderman is only incidentally a city governor. He has nothing to lose, and may have much to gain. The commissioner is essentially a city manager. He has no other business, and if he sacrifices his character he loses his business. The virtue of the commission lies of course, in the selection of the proper men: in the hands of bad men, it suggests great possibilities of evil. The fact, however, that so many cities are voting in its favour suggests general dissatisfaction with the present aldermanic system and the need of more business-like methods in the conduct of civic affairs than those at present prevailing.

THE SPLENDID WORK OF THE FORESTRY DEPARTMENT

(London Advertiser)

At the Liberal Club last night Mr. H. H. Miller, M.P. for South Grey, made an excellent speech on the work of the forestry, mining and fishing departments of the Government. It was out of the beaten track of political speeches and was most interesting. Mr. George S. Gibbons, president of the club, occupied the chair.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Miller referred to the honour done London by the crown in knighting Sir George Gibbons. It was a matter of congratulation, not only to Londoners, but to Canadians generally, that Ontario possessed two such diplomats as Sir Alan Aylesworth and Sir George Gibbons. They compared with the best any country could produce.

"I might achieve greater renown or glory if I should discuss the navy question, or the Nationalist movement, the advisability or inadvisability of a trade agreement with the United States, or the best method of providing a better inspection of banks in Canada, but I will speak to you tonight on the work of the forestry, the mining, and the fisheries department of the Government," declared Mr. Miller. "I am of the opinion that Canadians generally are not well enough acquainted with the great work being done in Parliament."

A Danger.

There was a danger, continued the speaker, of over-much pride in the natural resources of Canada. The country was undoubtedly wonderfully blessed with wealth of all kinds. That pride might lead a nation into difficulties, for there was always the danger of trusting too much in the resources and failing to develop them or conserve them, as they should be. The forestry branch is under the direction of Hon. Frank Oliver. It was a most important branch and growing in importance. It was organized in 1899, and its objects were to plant and encourage the planting of trees, and protect those already planted. To this end, forest reserves were laid out. In the west there were 26 of these, with a total area of 10,600,000 acres. The purpose of setting aside these reserves was fivefold—to devote to the growing of timber land not suited for agricultural purposes, to protect watersheds, to protect fish and game, to provide public pleasure grounds for the people of Canada, and for the purpose of experimenting in forest management and reforestration. In addition to the reserves of the Dominion Government, the Ontario Government has 11,600,000 acres devoted to forests while Quebec had 106,000,000 acres. None of the other provinces have any.

Plant Trees.

One of the main objects of the department was to encourage the western farmer to plant trees. To that end trees were provided and inspectors are appointed to see that the work is well done. As a result of this policy last year there were 2,010 requests for trees granted, and 2,590,000 trees were provided the farmers. So great was the demand that the department found it impossible to supply the wants of the people. Since the establishment of the department in 1901 a total of 13,750,000 trees had been provided. It was the experience that 85 per cent of the trees thrived and grew.

Forest Fires.

Mr. Miller pointed out the great destruction of timber through forest fires. The Government was grappling with the problem in the west, a large number of fire rangers having been appointed to protect these reserves, with the result that a great deal of timber had been saved from destruction. Pamphlets were distributed throughout the country, calling the attention of visitors to the danger of forest fires, and obtaining the co-operation of all in protecting the timber of the country.

The Government was doing a great work in the matter of irrigation. In the west, the C. P. R. and other large companies had commenced great irrigation works. The Government, foreseeing the danger, took possession of all water supplies. In this way, the rights of the people were protected from private control. As a result, many small owners were appealing to the Government for a water supply, and their requests were being attended to.

Mineral Resources.

Considerable time was devoted to the work of the geological survey and mines department. Canadians were just beginning to discover the infinite variety of the mineral resources of the country. Last year the minerals produced in Canada amounted to $90,000,000, and the mere surface had been touched. The work of surveying parties, under the direction of the Government was dealt with, and Mr. Miller drew attention to the great good done the country in furnishing expert reports on tested fields, and in this manner preventing much of the wildcat speculation that would otherwise result.

One of the most interesting parts of the address was that in which he dealt with peat. Throughout the country, there were enormous peat beds of wonderful richness. For many years efforts had been made to manufacture the peat and get it on the market. Chief among those who had made interesting experiments were Mr. Milne, and Dr. McWilliam, of London. They had made great strides toward perfecting a process of manufacture, and Mr. Miller thought the day got far distant when peat would be sold in large quantities. It was of great value for gas producer engines, and it was a reasonable thing to expect that in the near future electricity would be developed in large quantities near peat beds and transmitted throughout the country. There was a great mining movement in Canada close at hand, and a great share of the credit for it would be given to the mines department when it did arrive.

The Fishing Industry.

The importance of the fishing industry could not be denied. Last year the sum of $20,000,000 had been obtained from the sale of fish, the largest in the history of the industry in Canada. There were now 41 hatcheries in Canada and last year they distributed over a billion small fish in the various waters of the Dominion. The result of the work done in these hatcheries was that fish were becoming more plentiful, and better results would accrue in the future. All the great lakes had shown an increase, save Lake Erie, and this was due to the fact that the Provincial Government had granted too many gill-net licenses in that lake.

WRECK NEAR KINGSTON.

Kingston, Jan. 24.—Two men lost their lives, another being injured, in one of the worst wrecks which ever occurred in this vicinity. The scene was on the Grand Trunk, near Collins Bay, seven miles from Kingston, at two o'clock yesterday morning. Two freights figured in the smash. The dead are William Dennis, engineer, and Thomas McDermott, fireman, both from Belleville. William Cunningham, brakeman, of Gananoque, was badly injured, his right arm being amputated upon his arrival at the hospital.

The collision was a rear-end one. The train run into was a special, which became stalled at Lemmon's Cut. Conductor Manson Smith told the brakeman to flag the train following, but before he got many yards from the caboose the other train was upon him, running at the rate of about 30 miles an hour. The engine struck the caboose train in front and smashed it to kindling wood.

Dennis and McDermott, who had not time to jump, were pinned in the wreckage, but managed to crawl out.

Fireman McDermott was found in the cab standing on his head. His body was not mutilated. The body of William Dennis was not found until about noon. It was burnt beyond recognition. His hand was grasping the reverse lever.

The Cartridge Exploded.

Rockland, Jan. 24.—A peculiar and very sad accident occurred at the home of Thomas York, when his youngest son, had the end of the first finger of his right hand and the thumb of his left hand blown off. At the time he was picking a revolver cartridge to get the lead out so that he might use the shell for his lead pencil. The boy lit a match to look inside, when it exploded. The palm of his left hand and his forehead are badly burned.

More Massacres.

Athens, Jan. 24.—A recrudescence of the anti-Christian agitation in Adana, a villayet of Asiatic Turkey, is feared. The Turks are believed to be preparing for fresh massacres of Armenians, many of whose houses are marked with a red cross and the inscription "readth." The Government has asked that troops be sent to Adna to keep order, as the garrison there is not to be relied upon.

Mr. Collins moved a vote of thanks to the City Council for the use of the Council Chambers, also to the press for the liberal support they had given. This was duly seconded and carried.

"THE FOURTH ESTATE"

Next week "The Grand" offers, for the first time here, Liebler & Company's production of the newspaper play "The Fourth Estate," by Joseph Meddill Patterson and Harriett Ford. The play has only recently gone on tour, having divided the entire season between long engagements in New York and Chicago. Its success in both cities was pronounced, entitling the play to a place among the first three or four popular successes of the year. The reasons for its popularity are not hard to find, for the unanimous verdict of its critics proves it to be a skillfully constructed, eventful, thrilling drama, cast into interesting surroundings by writers who knew the life behind the scenes of newspaperdom. Three of the four acts of the play take place in the offices of a great metropolitan daily newspaper, the New York Advance; the first and third acts transpiring in the office of the managing editor, the last in the composing room at the time of the making up of a history-making issue of the paper, a scene which, with its ponderous battery of real linotype machines running at full blast, and its realistic representation of a full crew of operators, stereotypers, make-up-men, copy-cutters, and what not at work under high pressure, with a virile, roaring drama surging up around them, has with no small show of reason been called the most interesting, thrilling and sensational scene staged in recent years. That the play is not mere melodrama, however, is attested by an editorial in Collier's Weekly, that spoke of the play as the sort of thing that makes our stage worth while. The play is the first joint work of Joseph Medill Patterson, the Chicago millionaire, socialist, and newspaperman, and Harriett Ford, a dramatist of much ability and experience. Its production is one of Liebeler and Company's best; its staging is by Hugh Ford.

You Can See How It Heals

No Question or Doubt as to the healing power of

Dr. Chase's Ointment

To people who have used internal treatment in an effort to cure eczema it is almost beyond belief what benefit can be obtained by a few applications of this soothing, healing ointment.

It is seldom that the cause of eczema can be determined, but one thing is certain, the itching must be stoped and the sores healed up.

These results are secured by the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment. The itching is relieved almost instantly, and you will be surprised at the healing which will take place overnight.

A little patience and persistent treatment with Dr. Chase's Ointment will give you more practical and definite results than a whole lot of dosing with internal medicines. You can see how the Ointment heals. The other is guesswork.

Mr. Geo. Peterson, South Bay, Ont., writes: "I wish to communicate to you the great benefit I received from using Dr. W. Chase's Ointment. For years I suffered with a great skin disease on my head, a sort of eczema. I tried four doctors, giving each a fair trial; but got no better. In fact, the disease spread to my left arm.

"I saw Dr. Chase's Ointment advertised and began using it. Persistent use of this treatment has entirely cured me, and I give you a statement of my case with pleasure, as I hope thereby to induce some other sufferer to try the same Dr. Chase's Ointment.

Because this ointment has made its world-wide reputation by curing the most severe and long-standing cases of eczema and piles is no reason why you should overlook its scores of uses in the relief of itching and irritation of the skin.

DELIGHTUL PROGRAMME AT ST. JOHN'S CHURCH

THOSE WHO TOOK PART

A very pleasant gathering of Parishioners attended the social given by the Young People's Association of St. John's church in the schoolroom last Mr. Halpany's orchestra, which was gotten up by Mr. R. J. Devey, included vocal and instrumental selections and recitations and every item received hearty applause from the audience.

The first item was an overture by Mr. Halpony's orchestra, which was rendered with great expression and sympathy. This orchestra, composed of Mr. and Mrs. Halpany and their twosons, has attained a high degree of proficiency through constant practice and plays only the higher class of music. Their effort was heartily encored and was responded to with a second selection. During the evening Mr. Halpany sang a comic song in his own inimitable way, and had to respond to the call of the audience with another.

Mr. T. Woodworth delighted those present with his two recitations, and in this sphere is unexcelled in Peterborough. He is an elocutionist of the highest order, and has an extensive repertoire to select from. His numbers vary from grave to gay, and claim the attention of an audience from start to finish. Although Mr. Woodworth is a comparative stranger, he has already a large circle of admirers who delight to listen to his entertaining sketches as was evidenced last night by the hearty applause accorded him.

Amongst other items was a delightful duet by Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Devey, which was well received. At the close of the programme refreshments were served by Coleman Bros. and a pleasant evening was brought to a close by the singing of the national anthem.

Blacklister Fined In The Police Court

A local man appeared in the Police Court this morning, charged with a breach of the Liquor License Act. He was only charged with the offence on Saturday, however, and the nominal fine of $10.00 and costs was imposed. The total amounted to $13.75. He was given ten days in which to pay his fine.

Only Four Inspectors.

Winnipeg, Jan. 24.—Investigations by the civil commission, which is enquiring into the causes of recent fires and studying the work of the brigade, brought out the information that only four men are employed by the city to inspect the wiring of buildings. When it is considered that structures to the value of $15,000,000 were erected in 1910 alone, the force seems ridiculously small. The same shortage of staff applies to the building department.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

NOT long ago I went to call on a friend of mine, an old lady who is blessed with that most wonderful of household possessions — an old-fashioned attic. A really old-fashioned one, mysterious, filled with vague memories and vaguer suggestions of years long since gone by.

Shall I tell you how I spent that afternoon?

My little old friend took me up to the attic — "garret," she quaintly named it — to show me what she called her "treasure trunk."

She is the mother of a large family of girls and boys who have long since flown away from the old home nest.

This attic is a large, long, dark room with a pleasant smell of old lavender and dried flowers pervading it. Old clothes hang ghostlike along the walls and queer old furniture crams every nook and corner.

The treasure trunk was near the window and I noticed, when my friend pulled it out from the wall, that it was entirely free from dust and had the appearance of having been opened frequently.

The treasure trunk wasn't anything as magnificent as the name might suggest, but a most modest little affair covered with black leather and studded with brass nails. It looked like a very poor and humble country relative of the grand and complicated affairs that department stores sell nowadays, but my friend handled it as lovingly as if the ugly little thing were made of gold.

It was a queer collection of "treasures" that met my eye when the lid was lifted, and yet just such a collection as I suppose mothers have made from time immemorial.

A little old rag doll with features long since worn away by the vigourous kissing doubtless of some baby girl; a toy drum—very tender fingers lifted this little object from the trunk, for the toy drum, like the little toy dog and the little tin soldier, was laid aside by a little boy Blue who toddled off to his trundle bed—

"To dream of the pretty toys
And as he was dreaming an angel song
Awakened the little boy Blue.
Oh, the years they are many, the years they are long,
But the little toy friends are true."

And then farther down were the mementos of the school-time of her children, a broken slate, a tattered book or two, a roll of papers scrawled over with straggly childish figures, report cards and a funny little old-fashioned cap—its brilliant red faded and dimmed.

"This trunk is my most wonderful possession," she said. "I think if the house were afire I should try to save this first."

And I believed her.

"When I get lonely for my children, I come up here and look at these things my babies played with long ago and then I feel rich and comforted beyond all words to say. I should be poor indeed without this little trunk to help me summon back my babies."

A treasure trunk isn't such a bad possession to have, is it?

COUNTY TEMPERANCE ORGANIZATION FORMED

Officers and Committees Arranged at an Enthusiastic and Representative Gathering in the Y. M. C. A. Yesterday---Address by Mr. Duggan, of the Dominion Alliance.

At the temperance meeting addressed by Mr. F. W. Duggan at the Y.M.C.A., yesterday afternoon, a resolution was passed to the effect that an organization be formed to be known as the Peterborough County Temperance and Alliance. The object of the Alliance, shall be to unite all the churches and all moral reform agencies in Peterborough County in a practical effort to secure the greatest present repression and the speediest ultimate suppression of the drink traffic, and that the officers of the Alliance shall consist of a President, Honourary President and three Vice-Presidents, one of whom shall be the County President of the W.C.T.U., and a Secretary and Treasurer. The Honourary President to be a member of the Executive of the Provincial Alliance, having headquarters at Toronto.

This resolution being carried, the next step was to elect officers, and this was accordingly done as follows.

Hon. Pres.—Ex-Mayor Wm. Yelland
President—Mr. H. B. Cowan, Peterborough.
1st Vice-Pres.—James Thompson, M P.P., Havelock.
2nd Vice-Pres.—Samuel Armstrong Jermyn.
3rd VicePres.—Mrs. Lewis, of the W C.T.U.
Secretary—Richard Lees, Peterborough.
Treasurer — E. G. Kennedy, Lakefield.

Havelock—No representative.
Lakefield—F. Lillicrapt.
Norwood—G. A. Brethren.
Asphodel—John Sargeant, of Westwood.
Dummer—E. H. Hawthorne, of Warsaw.
Harvey—Alex. Thompson, of Lakehurst.
Otonabee — Joseph A. Taylor, of Keene.
Smith—Thomas Graham, Peterborough.
Chandos—Wm. Hales, Apsley.
Douro—D. Darling, Lakefield.
Ennismore—Not represented.
Monaghan—S. Carver, Peterborough
Belmont—J. A. Sexsmith, M. P., of Havelock.
Cavendish and Galway—Not represented.

Peterborough—

In his address to the audience, Mr Duggan, told them that they might not have a license in the city and yet it is possible for the liquor men to sell. He said that it was advisable to organize an organization in each city, with its separate representatives also with smaller organizations throughout the country, with the main one as the head. Get the county organization to appoint the executives, chairman, sec.-treas., then organize and make them responsible to the centre organization. In speaking of the success of the movement he stated that they would cut off this year between 65 and 80 licenses. He said that at the present time there were about at least 65 or 70 places now actively engaged in an educational campaign for the purpose of submitting local option in 1912. Over $52,169 was subscribed to help the local option last year. This year they conduct 2,500 meetings, advocating local option.

A number of people from all parts surrounding the city were present, and a number of them were asked to give those present a little idea how the state of affairs were in their different sections with regard to local option. Mr. Cruickshanks, representing Smith township, said that he thought that Smith would fall in with any scheme they woud advocate or arrange. Mr Johnson, of Otonabee, said that that township was strongly in favour of local option. A representative of Norwood said that the local option had worked wonders for that town, but he did not think that the local option sentiment was as strong as it had been. A representative of Lakefield said that he thought that it had helped Lakefield a lot, also Douro and Burleigh, and he thought that the organization would be a great help.

Speaking of the Licence Inspectors of some towns, one of the speakers intimated that the inspectors did not follow up a case as they should. This statement was responded to by another speaker, who declared that the Inspector was not given a chance in half of the cases. He said that the people would say that such and such a person was not doing right, but they would refuse to give evidence against them, on account of the bad friendship that generally ensued. In a case such as this, the speaker declared, the Inspector had nothing to work on. A Millbrook representative testified to the good that local option had done to that town. He said that blacksmiths and storekeepers told him that the farmers always paid up their bills more promptly than they did, and etc.

The report of the committee, which had retired for the election of officers was then read and adopted.

TIRED, RUN DOWN PEOPLE

A North Carolina Man Suggests a Remedy

Greensboro, N. C.—"For a long time I was so run down and debilitated that I could hardly drag around. My appetite was poor and I could not sleep nights. I had tried different so-called tonics without benefit. I was advised to try your cod liver and iron tonic, Vinol, and I am so glad I did, for it gave me a hearty appetite, I soon commenced to sleep soundly and I feel strong, well and more active than I have for years. Every run down or debilitated person should just give Vinol a trial." K. Allsbrook. (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

What Vinol did for Mr. Allsbrook it will do for every weak, run-down or debilitated person in this vicinity. To show our faith we will furnish the medicine free if it does not do as we claim. Come in and get a bottle on these terms. McDermid and Jury, druggists, corner George and Charlotte streets; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

"PAID IN FULL"

The Greatest of American Plays

The greatest play of the time and the most popular, will be the attraction at the Grand Opera House next Saturday, matinee and evening, when Eugene Walter's "Paid in Full," with a cast that brings out in highest degree the superbly dramatic qualities, the human sympathy, the comedy that makes this the most appealing work the stage has seen. "Paid in Full" is a masterpiece. It drives across the footlights and grips with a power that is not once relaxed. It contains every factor that lifts a play to the highest place in public favour. Consider its wonderful record and it becomes plain that everybody likes it. Two years in New York it ran, going without halt through a summer, exceeding in drawing power the musical shows that until then had been the only form of hot weather theatricals Broadway would patronize. At the same time in Chicago, it scored an all-summer run. Then throughout last season five companies appeared in it, more than ever before had played any piece at the same time, and again this year an equal number are touring the country. With all this is the fact that more persons have seen "Paid in Full" than any other play in a like length of time, which sustains Acton Davies, the eminent dramatic critic of the New York Sun, who wrote: "Paid in Full' is the biggest dramatic hit of the age." It is a vital, living story of the hour, depicting with compelling power conditions and persons that help make up the human sum of every American city. It is a play to be seen more than once and it will have a hearty reception in this city. It will be acted by a competent cast so that every atom of its tremendously entertaining quality will be brought out to the full. To see this great play acted by a good cast is a treat not to be missed by anybody.

SIGN TOO BIG

And Mr. E. N. McWilliams, the Furrier, Got Into Trouble

Mr. E. N. McWilliams, the George Street furrier, is in trouble. It is all over the big sign which he has had outside his premises advertising his big stock-taking sale. Mr. McWilliams had a huge canvas sign placed above the entrance to his store, but it was so large that it protruded considerably more over the sidewalk than the by-law calls for and the police have notified him that he will have to reduce his sign as well as his prices.

DEPARTMENT STORES Cressman's

ONE OF MOST POPULAR RESIDENTS OF PETERBOROUGH HAS PASSED AWAY

The Death of Mr. H. LeBrun Will be Genuinely Regretted ---One of the City's Oldest Business Men---Was a Great Lover of Lacrosse.

Mr. Honore LeBrun, head of the men's furnishing firm of H. LeBrun and Company, one of the best known business men and most highly-respected and popular citizens of Peterborough, passed away yesterday afternoon at his residence, Simcoe St., after a long illness. Mr. LeBrun had not been in the best of health for the past two years, suffering from kidney trouble. In an effort to restore his health to its usual condition he spent last winter in the Bermudas, and returned in the Spring, seemingly much benefitted by the change of climate. He was enabled to spend the summer at Belle Chaisse, his Stony Lake home, as usual, but his illness was renewed in the autumn, and he has been confined to his home for some months.

Peterborough has not had a more popular citizen than the late Mr. LeBrun, whose friends here and in the surrounding country were legion. His amiability, his sterling qualities, endeared him to everyone with whom he came in contact and his death will be sincerely regretted. Quiet, unassuming, he made friends easily, and held them with the same facility. In his earlier days he took a great interest in all legitimate sporting affairs, and his influence in this connection was always for good. Especially did he take an interest in lacrosse, and old citizens of Peterborough will remember, as if it were but yesterday, his appearance on the lacrosse field, as field captain of the famous old Peterborough team. He was a very warm admirer of Canada's national game, and never failed to encourage the pastime in any way possible. Among no one will he be more sincerely missed than by his old-time associates on the lacrosse field. At one time he was president of the Canadian Lacrosse Association. Mr. LeBrun was a great lover of the out-of-doors, being very fond of hunting and fishing, and his fellow members of the Ketchecum Lake Hunt Club will feel in his passing away the loss of a very dear comrade, whose unfailing goo nature never failed to make the trips of the club enjoyable to the greatest possible degree. Many, indeed, have been the fishing parties he has housed neath the roof of Belle Chaisse, his lodge at Stony Lake, and his hospitality will not soon be forgotten by those who were so fortunate as to partake of it.

In the death of Mr. LeBrun, Peterborough loses one of its oldest, most prosperous, best known, and most thoroughly respected business men. In this connection he was distinguished for a long and successful business career, marked by a combination of conservatism and enterprise, and fair dealing, that attracted a wide patronage, and made him known and esteemed throughout the city, county, and district.

As a citizen he was public spirited and interested in every progressive movement, and as a man he was quiet, affable and genial, thorough in his friendship and possessed of every quality of character and demeanour to make him an agreeable and cherished associate.

Mr. LeBrun will long be remembered in Peterborough as one of the highest types of a successful and honourable business man, an estimable citizen and a genial gentleman.

The late Mr. LeBrun was born in the year 1846, in the village of Ste. Eustace, County of Two Mountains, Quebec, his father being a contractor in that village. When fifteen years of age Mr. LeBrun came to Peterborough and has resided here continuously ever since. He commenced clerking in the store of H. LeMay, merchant tailor on George street, remaining with him ten years. He then became Mr. LeMay's partner for a year. Then he commenced business for himself on George street, north of Hunter street, afterwards moving to where Grafton & Co's. store now is, afterwards removing to the present location on the east side of George street, south of Hunter St.

In 1873 Mr. Jos. Picard, Sr., became associated with him and in 1889 the two formed a partnership which has continuously existed until the present time. The removal of Mr. LeBrun by the hand of death, in another loss to the coterie of old-time business men of George street, the ranks of which have been lessened recently by the retiring from his old stand of Mr. Adam Hall. He was married about eighteen years a ogto Mrs. John Hackett of Watertown, N.Y.

Mr. LeBrun was a member of the Catholic Mutual Benefit Society and of the Knights of Columbus. Until recently he had been a member of the Board of License Commissioners for West Peterborough, resigning a short time ago on account of ill-health. He was a Conservative in politics.

He is survived by his wife and a step-daughter, Miss Bernadotte Hackett; two brothers and five sisters: Mr. Carise LeBrun of Toronto, Mr. Prospere LeBrun of Montreal, and Madames LaRochelle, Clouture, Charest, Guimond and Roy, all of Montreal.

The funeral will take place to-morrow (Wednesday) morning at 10 o'clock from the family residence, 366 Simcoe street, to St. Peter's Cathedral, and thence to St. Peter's cemetery for interment.

While coming out of the armouries he slipped and fell, his head striking the pavement with considerable force, a nasty cut being inflicted. He was carried into a residence across the street and Dr. Morgan was called. Th reestitches were required to close up the cut, which bled freely.

NEW NUMBERS

Added to the Repertoire of the 57th Band

The 57th Regimental Band had one of the best rehearsals of the season last night, featured by the playing of two new numbers, which the public will doubtless have a chance of hearing at the band's next concert. One of these is a beautiful selection entitled "The Folk Songs of Russia," a gem in its way and the other is an excerpt from the works of Gounod, a number featured by the Grenadier Guards during their Canadian engagement last autumn. One of the soloists was heard to remark at the conclusion of the rehearsal that the Gounod number was the most artistic in the band's extensive repertoire.

The band has received several applications to its membership by instrumentalists who have recently come to the city and the Band committee have advised the band leader to augment the strength of the band up to forty-five members, making it one of the largest bands in the Dominion.

PROF. ANGELL

An attraction of unusual merit and interest will be a feature of the bill at the Princess Theatre for the next four days in the appearance of Prof. Emmett D. Angell, the famous American mind reader, who is known everywhere as the "Man with the X-Ray Eyes." His act is one of the cleverest mind-reading performances in vaudeville, all his work being done blindfolded. While in this condition he performs some most astonishing feats, such as the finding of coins, rings, watches, and other articles secreted by the audience. The most prominent citizens of Peterborough are asked to form a committee to test Prof. Angell's genuineness. He particularly requests that men should be selected in whom their fellow-citizens have the most implicit confidence in order that there may be no doubt in anyone's mind as to the merit of the performance.

Erratic Musician Shoots David Graham Phillips and Then Kills Himself---Fired Six Shots at the Writer, Against Whom He Had a Grievance.

New York, Jan. 24.—David Graham Phillips, editor, publicist and novelist, was shot six times yesterday as he appeared at the Princton Club. by Fitzhugh Coyle Goldsborough, a Harvard man, who immediately committed suicide. Goldsborough was well known in Toronto.

Phillips is at Bellevue Hospital in an extremely critical condition, but with a chance for life. The body of Goldsborough, whose career at Harvard was brief, lies in the morgue. Apparently insane, he had a fancied grudge against the author and sought his life. He was only 32 years old, and is a son of Dr. Edmund K. Goldsborough of Washington.

David Graham Phillips was born in Madison, Ind., on Oct. 11, 1867. His first literary work was done as a reporter for The New York Sun, which he left to become an editorial writer for The New York World. While still with The World he published, in 1901, his first novel, "The Great God Success." It brought him royalties, and he resigned from newspaper work to devote his life to fiction and the magazines.

This will Stop Your Cough in a Hurry

Save $2 by Making This Cough Syrup at Home.

This recipe makes 16 ounces of better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. A few doses usually conquer the most obstinate cough — stops even whooping cough quickly. Simple as it is, no better remedy can be had at any price.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. It has a pleasant taste and lasts a family a long time. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You can feel this take hold of a cough in a way that means business. Has a good tonic effect, braces up the appetite and is slightly laxative, too, which is helpful. A handy remedy for hoarseness, bronchitis, asthma and all throat and lung troubles.

The effect of pine on the membranes is well known. Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norwegian white pine extract, and is rich in guaiacol and all the natural healing pine elements. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This Pinex and Sugar Syrup recipe has attained great popularity throughout the United States and Canada. It has often been imitated, though never successfully.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

The Doctor helped Mrs. Stephen Roy, but there was no complete cure till she tried Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Rock Mills, Grey Co., Ont., Jan. 23. —(Special.)—"I must say Dodd's Kidney Pills worked wonders in my case," says Mrs. Stephen Roy of this place. "I suffered with Inflammatory Rheumatism in my right arm, and though I tried several medicines the swelling increased and was very painful. My hands and limbs were also badly swollen.

"I got a doctor and he helped me, but the swelling never entirely left. He said it was because my heart was weak. Then I decided to try Dodd's Kidney Pills and, as I said before, they worked wonders."

Rheumatism of any kind is caused by disordered Kidneys failing to strain the uric acid out of the blood. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure it by curing the Kidneys. They also cure the weak heart by making pure blood and lessening that organ's work of propelling the blood through the body.

Dodd's Kidney Pills only cure the Kidneys, but they always do that and with healthy Kidneys you can't have Rheumatism, Lumbago, Heart Disease, Dropsy or Bright's Disease.

Sir Wilfrid Replies in the House in Regard to Questions About the Farmers' Bank.

FOSTER BEGINS IT

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—Hon. George E. Foster started the firing in the impending battle over the Farmers' Bank collapse in the House of Commons last evening, when he moved for a return of all correspondence regarding the conduct of the bank since its organization. Mr. Foster spoke at some length, and said that many irregularities appeared to obtain in the methods pursued by the Finance Department and treasury board in not satisfying itself regarding the bona fides of the promoter, and the warning given by the superintendent of insurance of New York.

Sir Wilfrid replied that the statutory requirements having been complied with, Mr. Fielding had no option but to allow the bank to continue doing business.

J. A. Robb (Huntingdon) said that the people who lived along the canal did not agree with Mr. Monk's view. One of the direct results of this action on the part of the agreement was that last month the people of Valleyfield had been offered electric light and power at 46 per cent. below the present rates.

Mr. Pugsley said that the idea back of the granting of the lease was to develop the water power and to insure its use for the people at the lowest price. In order to get the best results it was necessary to give a lease extending over a long term of years. Every care had been taken to protect the public interest. The price charged was to be fixed by the Railway Commission in the event of a disagreement, and fixed every five years. The lesses should not amalgamate with the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Co. It was also provided that by giving one year's notice, the Government could take over the works by paying the cost of construction and five per cent.

A. C. Boyce (West Algoma) said: "I beg to give notice that to-morrow I will move the adjournment of the House for the purpose of discussing a matter of urgent public importance, to wit, the receipt by the Ministers of the crown of gifts of money in the form of testimonials, and the reported contribution to such testimonials or testimonial, of a sum of money by one W. R. Travers, late general manager of the Farmers' Bank of Canada, now in liquidation, and said Travers being convicted and being now under sentence of six years' imprisonment for having falsified returns and theft of sums of money."

Towards the middle of the evening Hon. Geo. E. Foster rose to move a motion, among other things, for an order of the House "for a copy of all correspondence between the Government or any member thereof or any official of the board of finance, and any person or association with reference to the conduct and affairs of the Farmers' Bank since the date of its organization."

"My desire," said the member for North Toronto, "is to get all the information possible in the hands of the Government that will enable the House and the people of this country to form an accurate opinion as to what, if any, responsibility lay at the door of an imperfect act, on the one hand, or of an imperfect administration of the act on the other, and to define as sharply as possible the difference between the two, or the line between the two."

The failure of the Farmers' Bank, was, to say the least, unpleasant reading, and not a pleasing comment on the Banking Act and the system founded upon it. The baneful effects of the failure of the Farmers' Bank, Mr. Foster pointed out, were found in the circumstance that it was a farmers 'bank, the canvass made for shareholders was among the farming community, and these shareholders also became depositors. But these people not only lose their share capital and the profit they expected to make out of it, but also their deposits, and are responsible for the double liability.

Continuing, Mr. Foster said there was a strong feeling of unrest in the country, and a demand was made for both an investigation and a remedy. He recited the method adopted in the formation of a bank, outlining the statutory requirements, and asked whether the treasury board, presided over by the Minister of Finance, had satisfied itself that the compliance with the statutory requirements had been bona fide. This was vital. The treasury board was not bound to take the affidavits without making some investigation. He stated that the $250,000 required by law to be deposited to the credit of the Receiver-General only represented $170,000 of actual cash paid in, and the balance had been secured by the discounting of notes given for stock subscribed, and that $41,000 had been paid out to the provisional directors.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said all the information in the hands of the Government would be brought down fully and frankly and freely. He had reason to believe that some of Mr. Foster's surmises would not be borne out by the facts. If there was any carelessness, everybody in the House was to blame, for a renewal of the charter had been granted twice without dissent. Mr. Foster had blamed the action of the treasury board in granting a certificate, but he could not see that the board was in any way blamable, in view of the fact that $250,000 had been placed to the credit of the Receiver-General, accompanied by an affidavit that all requirements of the law had been observed.

FOR SKIN DISEASES

A Treatment That Costs Nothing Unless It Provides Satisfactory Relief

We have a grayish-white ointment with a pleasant odour that is clean to use, which we believe is the best known remedy for the relief of skin diseases. It is especially efficacious for overcoming eczema in all its various forms, ring worm, acne, pimples blotches, insect bites, tetter, certain forms of ulcers, sores and wounds. It is strongly antiseptic, cleansing, soothing and healing. It stops all itching and burning caused by skin eruptions.

We are so positive this ointment is unequalled that we offer it with the distinct understanding that if after having given it a reasonable trial, you are not satisfied with the results, you have only to tell us, and we will, without quibbling, return every cent paid us for it. We exact no promises or obligations whatever.

We want you to try Rexall Eczema Ointment. The first application gives a refreshing sense of relief, and because of its germ destroying power, it eradicates the germ or parasite which causes eczema and many other eruptions. It quickly allays the inflammation, gives protection to the inflamed surfaces, and helps restore healthy tissue. It is particularly active in relieving skin ailments peculiar to children. LEGISLATURE OPENS TO-DAY

Ontario House Begins an Important Session—Some Momentous Law-Making

FORECAST OF SPEECH

Toronto, Jan. 24.—At three o'clock this afternoon the booming of cannon will announce the arrival of His Honor Lieutenant-Governor Gibson at the Parliament Buildings to open the first session of the Legislative Assembly of Ontario under the reign of His Majesty King George V.

The speech from the throne promises to be one of interest, importance and inspiration. In accordance with precedent and the unbounded loyalty of the banner province of the Dominion of Canada, it will naturally first make fitting reference to the death of his late Majesty King Edward VII.

Appropriate felicitations will then be extended to His Majesty King George V. on his accession to the throne of the British Empire, of which the Dominion of Canada and the Province of Ontario form a loyal integral part.

His honor may then be expected to congratulate the members of the Legislature upon the progress in the work of the west wing of the Parliament Buildings, and also in the preparations which are under way for the erection of a modern and suitable viceregal residence for the Lieutenant-Governor of the province, in place of the now inadequate residence on West King street.

Congratulations will be extended to the assembly upon the excellent results which have already marked the steps which have been taken for the establishment of a central prison farm at Guelph, and the success which has attended the experiment of placing prisoners at work road-making in the Porcupine district.

The great public benefits in the conservation of the natural resources of the district secured by the extension of the Algonquin National Park will be briefly enumerated.

One of the most important features of the speech from the throne will be a concise review of the mining situation, which will point to the large increase in the mining output of Northern Ontario.

Commendation will be tendered the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway Commission for the success of the Government line. The reasons for the extension of the railway to the new Porcupine gold mining camp will be given and for the extension to the junction of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway.

His honor will call attention to the completion of the transmission line for the hydro-electric system, and the benefits which have already accrued to many important Ontario municipalities as a consequence.

Devout thankfulness will be expressed to divine Providence for the bountiful crops of the past year, and for the progress and hopeful outlook for the agricultural interests of the province.

Along the lines of new legislation important announcements will be foreshadowed, especially in the matter of public education.

It is known that Hon. Dr. Pyne has in view the making of provision for technical and industrial education, although the scope of the movement is a Ministerial secret. As a Dominion Government commission is at present engaged in making a report, with a view to adopting a national policy of technical education, the definite announcement of what Ontario will do will be awaited with interest.

Plans will be referred to for an extension of the present system of agriculture, to render it more comprehensive and more generally available to the youth of the rural parts of the province.

The speech will also state that the Government will submit some amendments to the liquor license law. There appears to be good reason for the belief that a graded system of license fees, based upon the revenue of individual establishments, will be foreshadowed. It is not thought that the three-fifths requirement in local option voting will be changed, but the laws may be made more stringent in other respect.

A. C. Pratt of South Norfolk has been selected to move the address in reply to the speech from the throne. James Torrance, North Perth, will be the seconder.

A detachment of infantry, a band, and a cavalry guard, provided by the Royal Canadian Dragoons, will form the guard of honor for His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor. A salute of 15 guns will be fired by the Ninth Field Battery on the west side of the building, in the direction of the university grounds.

In the new wing on the west side are now situated the offices of the provincial police, the law clerks, the committee-rooms, cloak-rooms, and reading-rooms, on the second floor. On the south side of the first floor are the offices of Hon. Adam Beck and Hon. Col. J. S. Hendrie, the express office, the King's printer, and the dining-room.

Smuggling Aliens.

Niagara Falls, Ont., Jan. 24.—The immigration authorities believe they have unearthed a smuggling system in the arrest and conviction of Hagop Abraham, on a charge of illegal smuggling of aliens into Canada. He was fined $75.

Sam Moldstein was held in $1,500 bail, on the American side, on a charge of bringing alien women into the United States. His alleged partner, Isaac Wolpanski, was held in $500 bail.

Dropped Dead.

Guelph, Jan. 24.—Frank Dowler, for 25 years one of the best known drygoods merchants of Guelph, and only recently retired from business, dropped dead at his residence last evening. He was in his usual good health, and had just come in from a drive, when in a severe fit of coughing he ruptured a blood vessel and expired immediately. He leaves a widow and family of grown-up daughters.

THREE CHANGES IN LOCAL'S LINE-UP FOR TO-NIGHT'S GAME WITH TRENTON

Team Selected After Last Night's Practice---Trenton Will Have Regular Goalkeeper, but Otherwise Line-up Will be the Same as That Which Defeated Peterborough Last Week.

There will be three changes on the line-up of the Peterborough intermediate O.H.A. team in to-night's game against Trenton from the seven which was defeated in Trenton the week before last. The team, on paper, looks the strongest that has represented Peterborough this season, and the officers and players are confident of beating the visitors although they realize that it will be a hard fight from bell to bell. Trenton will have the same team which defeated Peterborough with the exception that McGiffin, their regular goalkeeper, will be on in place of Law, who subbed for him on that occasion. With Lawson Whitehead handling the bell, the fans are assured that it will be hockey from the drop of the hat, and it looks by long odds the best game in several seasons. That there will be a grand crowd present goes without saying. The fans have been talking about the game for weeks and there will be one of the old time crowds jamming around the doors of Brock street rink at 8 o'clock to-night. No seats have been reserved, and it will be a case of first come first served. The game will start sharp at 8.15 o'clock. Trenton are coming on a special train, which should arrive about 6 o'clock. The teams will line-up as follows:

Trenton.
Goal—McGiffin.
Point—Croft.
Cover—McGaw.
Rover—Cummings.
Centre—Fletcher.
Right wing—Powers.

Peterborough.
Goal—Derocher.
Point—Glover.
Cover—Denison.
Rover—Ray.
Centre—Park.
Spares—Giroux, McMillan.
Referee—Lawson, Whitehead, Toronto.

Peterborough's fat practically depends upon this game. A win means nothing worse than a tie up of the district—a loss may mean that the Petes are out of the race unless Cobourg spills the beans by beating Trenton on Friday night—and it is not by any means beyond the bounds of a possibility.

EXCITING TIE GAME IN THE MERCANTILE LEAGUE

Pillpounders and C. G. E. Office Staff Were Even Up When Time Was Called with Three Goals Each---Snappy Combination Featured a Well Played Game.

The best game of the series so far in the Mercantile League was played last night at the Brock street rink when the Pill-pounders and the Canadian General Electric office team played a tie game, the score at the finish being 3 to 3 and at the half 1 to 1. It was a splendid game of hockey all through and a seew-saw battle that kept the big crowd of spectators on their feet from start to finish. There was little to choose between the teams. The C. G. E. team had the weight, but the Druggists were just as fast and checked well. Both teams showed a lot of useful combination, and it was a snappy, well-played battle. The Pill-pounders were the first to score and led for the greater part of the first half by 1 goal to nothing. The Office team evened matters up just before half time and started out the second half by scoring a minute after the face. Nothing daunted the Pill-pounders came back with a tying goal. Once more the C. G.E. found the nets, but the Drug Men kept plugging away and succeeded in sewing up the contest once more and it was at evens with three goals each.

The most sensational episode of the game came a few seconds before the finish, when Clancy for the C.G.E., got clean through the Pill-pounders defence and tore in on the nets with only the goalkeeper in front of him. A score which would have won the game for the C.G.E. looked certain but MacAfee tore off a sensational stop. The puck rebounded and the C.G.E. had another chance, shooting dead on, but MacAfee was once more on the job and turned aside the shot, saving the game for the Druggists.

Fred Heaslip refereed the game to the satisfaction of both teams. There were only two penalties both on the side of the C.G.E. office.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

The Peterborough Junior O. H. A. team will practise to-morrow night at Brock Street Rink and a full turnout of the team is asked for. The Grillers have their most important game in the district on Monday night with Cobourg, and every practise should be well attended. Only Juniors will practise to-morrow night.

The Grand Forks (B.C.) hockey team with which Walter Miller, of Peterborough, and Jakes Mercer of Port Hope, are playing, were defeated in Nelson, B.C., the other night by 7 goals to 4. Lester and Frank Patrick played with the Nelson team.

The Toronto Star last night contained a good photograph of Jake Moore, the Peterborough boy, who is playing rover with the Argonaut Senior O.H.A. team.

EDWARD TERRY IN "SWEET LAVENDER"

A Delightful Character Delineation is Given by the Clever English Actor

Mr. Edward Terry who is to appear here next Friday at the Grand Opera House, has endeared himself to a generation of English theatregoers by an exhuberant humor, an extravagant fancy and withal, a dry, quaint sententious sort of philosophy underlying his most farcical impersonations. He has held up before the audience so ludicrous a speciman of humanity, some creature made up of such odd whims and weaknesses that their laughter has arisen from some sudden conception of superiority in themselves; at other times there has been a dry humor which has set the wit to work and won a more discriminating tribute, or as, in the role of Richard Phenyl in "Sweet Lavender" the play he is to present here, actor and author have created a character with more humour and pathos blended in it than have been known since Dickens died. The seat sale opens to-morrow (Wednesday) morning.

A WONDERFUL EXPERIENCE

With Newbro's Herpicide

While there are no thrills in the narration of Mrs. P. T. Nichols, 623 Broad St., Beloit, Wish., her story is nevertheless one of amazing interest. "Stricken with neuralgia and erysipelas, I lost all my hair. My doctor recommended Newbro's Herpicide. I used six or eight bottles and now have a fine head of slightly curly light brown hair. Not a gray hair in my head. This is the more remarkable as I am middle-aged."

While the results which follow the use of Newbro's Herpicide are always more or less astonishing, they are always natural. Herpicide destroys the dandruff germ, stimulates the flow of blood to the hair follicles and keeps the scalp perfectly healthy. It makes possible a natural and luxuriant growth of hair, except in cases of chronic baldness.

While remedies said to be "every bit as good" as Newbro's Herpicide are frequently offered, one should insist upon having the original germ destroyer, Herpicide. That is genuine. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly.

For sale at all drug stores. One dollar bottles are guaranteed. Applications may be obtained at good barber shops. Send 10c. in postage for sample to The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich.

Blaming the Authorities.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—Many are blaming the police for the absence of effective action against those charged with the wrecking of the Farmers' Bank. They say that an efficient police department would lay extraditable charges against the men wanted, and that, even if these charges cannot be laid, an efficient police department would have arrested these men before they had time to leave the country.

The answer made to these is that the police cannot act in the matter without warrants, and that charges cannot be laid without the consent of Crown Attorney Corley. In a recent case the crown attorney declared in court that the police had no right to lay charges without his consent, and the police clerks have said that they had orders not to issue warrants without his consent. This, the police say, relieves them of responsibility for the nature of the charges and the delay in the issuance of the existing warrants.

It is understood that the matter will be brought up at the meeting of police commissioners to be held this afternoon, when an investigation as to the inactivity of the police and the reasons for it may be made.

Carnegie Gets Three Years.

Toronto, Jan. 24.—Three years in Kingston Penitentiary was the sentence meted out to James Carnegie, aged 55, who a week ago pleaded guilty to a charge of making counterfeit money.

The money was in 25 and 50 cent pieces. He had only been in the country for a year, and it is supposed that he has been issuing the money ever since.

Hugh Carnegie, a son, was charged with disposing of the money. He pleaded not guilty, and was remanded for a week.

Flight on Wednesday.

Key West, Fla., Jan. 24.—J. A. D. McCurdy, the Canadian aviator, who will try to fly from Key West to Havana, returned yesterday afternoon from the Cuban city, where he secured a landing place. While the date originally set was to-day, it was said he would set sail about daylight Wednesday.

Platforms will be built on the decks of the destroyers, which will convoy him, to permit him to make fresh starts if he falls into the water. The boats will be stationed ten miles apart.

Her Head Was Severed.

London, Jan. 24.—(C.A.P. Cable.)—The body of Hazel Hamilton Brown, a Canadian, was found on the railway line near Brockenhurst, New Forest. It is not known how she got on the tracks.

The verdict of the jury is that Hazel, the daughter of Francis F. Brown, aged 28, suicided. She was suffering from tuberculosis and was depressed with the fear that she would never get better. She put herself under the train, and her head was severed from her body.

Want to Quash Local Option.

Brockville, Jan. 24.—The two hotelkeepers affected by the passing of the local option bylaw in the townships of Bastard and Burgess, were in Brockville yesterday, seeking legal advice, with a view to taking steps towards having the measure quashed.

Family Burned to Death.

Albert Lea, Minn., Jan. 24.—N. C. Jensen and three of his children were burned to death in a fire which destroyed their home at Richmond, 11 miles from here, but owing to the heroism of Mrs. Jensen she and the other children escaped.

Quebec will tax local automobile owners $15 on each machine. The council also decided to increase the tax on all theatres from $120 to $260.

Hon. L. P. Brodeur will introduce a bill in the Commons making wireless telegraph equipment compulsory on certain classes of passenger steamers.

A story comes from Ottawa that Hon. Colin Campbell, Attorney-General of Manitoba, will retire and be succeeded by Mr. A. J. Andrews of Winnipeg.

R. L. Reinhart, accountant in the Guelph branch of the Royal Bank, suffered a compound fracture of one of his legs in a coasting accident on Friday night.

Walter Horn, a lad not long out from England, was drowned in the River St. Clair at Courtright Sunday night, while crossing from St. Clair, Mich., on the ice.

Frank Taylor of Galt, aged 19, was sent to the Central Prison for six months for burglary. With a companion he broke into Laird's grocery store and stole $4.51.

A fire which broke out about one o'clock yesterday morning in the premises of Wilson & Monroe, wholesale stationers, Toronto, did damage estimated at about $16,000.

George Rosby, a Canadian Pacific Railway engineer, was killed yesterday morning at McLeod, Alta., when the first engine of a doubleheaded passenger train turned turtle.

While skaters were gliding over the Dartmouth Lakes, near Halifax, last night a tragic drowning took place, in which Fred Kent, a young athlete, lost his life. Kent was only 18 years of age.

Sister St. Euchere of the Congregation of Notre Dame, Montreal, met an instantaneous death yesterday in the Mother House, when she fell down the elevator shaft. Sister St. Euchere held certificates as a mechanical engineer, and devoted herself to the mechanical and electrical apparatus.

Strangled in Berth.

Thief River Falls, Minn., Jan. 24.—A mystery surrounding the death of a man identified yesterday as L. R. Lowe of Cannington, Ont., has developed here. He was apparently strangled by some one unknown last Thursday night on the Winnipeg flyer, and the body robbed. The dead man was at first supposed to be Rodney Lewis, as the return portion of a ticket in this name was found in a pocket. Then a man who had talked with him in St. Paul said he had told him his name was Theodore Hymesdorth of Winnipeg. Later, the authorities declared the dead man was Lowe of Cannington.

Brockville Boy Missing.

Brockville, Jan. 24.—J. Leslie Sheridan, aged 22, a Brockville boy, filling the position of assistant agent on the New York Central Railway at Morristown, across the river from here, has been missing since Sunday night. He spent the day in Brockville, and between nine and ten o'clock left here to skate to the other side. The channel in the river is open in several places, and the belief grows that he went into open water and was drowned. Two men on the shore heard cries for help coming from the direction of the river shortly after the hour Sheridan is said to have left Brockville.

Easy For Travelers.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—A feature of negotiations at Washington is said here to be the extension to the United States of the provisions of the French treaty (article xlv.), by which a commercial traveler may, upon entering Canada, deposit the dutiable value of his samples with the first customs house which he meets, with the understanding that when his departure from Canada, he shall, if the samples are still intact, receive a rebate of the full amount of duty deposited.

This will, if agreed upon, prove of immense value to the business houses of the United States. At present they have to pay full duty upon their samples, no matter how many times they may bring the same articles into Canada, and the practice has been for a majority of such travelers to dispose of their samples at any price they could get before returning home.

A Direct Line.

Ottawa, Jan. 24.—"We have, in view a direct line from Ottawa to Toronto," stated Vice-President Wm. Wainwright of the G.T.R., last night, "but as to just what route we will take I am not prepared to say. As a matter of fact, it has not been decided.

"There are three suggestions. One is by what is known as the Kingston, Smith's Falls and Ottawa line. We control that now. Then the Rideau Valley and Brockville people are after us, while yet another interest wants the line to go by way of Gananoque. That Ottawa needs direct connection with Toronto is obvious, and I think the matter will be determined before long."

SUFFERED THREE YEARS

Till Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills cured his Kidney Trouble

There are few diseases that cause more acute suffering than Kidney Trouble, and Mr. F. A. Thomas, of Sudbury Ont., is one of those who know it. He writes: "For over three years I suffered from kidney disease. First I thought I had sprained my back, for suddenly the pain would catch the small of my back and it would be impossible for me to straighten myself up for several minutes. A dull ache across the kidneys was always present, my urine was thick and cloudy, and passing it caused a burning, scalding pain. Tried medicines, but they failed. I was advised to try Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, as they had cured my wife years before. A few boxes effected a complete cure. I now enjoy the blessings of good health, which is due to this remedy."

Don't neglect kidney trouble—it's too dangerous as well as too painful. That old, reliable family remedy, Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, has cured thousands and will cure you. It is equally effective in curing constipation and its attendant evils, biliousness, indigestion and sick headaches, and in purifying the blood. 25c a box at your druggist's. 10

ROUND THE WORLD IN 37 DAYS

Special Wire to The Examiner.

LONDON, ENG., JAN. 25.—George Renstead, the famous globe trotter, arrived to-day, having been completely around the world in the record-breaking time of thirty-seven days, travelling via Japan and Canada, on his return.

EGGS GO DOWN IN PRICE

Examiner Special:

CHICAGO, JAN. 25.—A further cut of three cents a dozen in the price of eggs, brings it eleven cents below the price of a year ago. Many Canadian eggs are imported here.

$100,000 BLAZE IN GOWGANDA

Special wire to The Examiner:

GOWGANDA, ONT, JAN. 25.—With a loss of hundred thousand dollars, the south-east portion of the town was wiped out by fire during the worst gale of the winter yesterday. It started in Cohen's drug store. The Bank of Commerce and a half dozen hotels were destroyed. Business is being continued in tents.

MUST GIVE UP FLYING

Examiner Special.

LONDON, JAN. 25. — That count Jacques De Lesseps will forsake his flying machine forever because of its danger, is said to be one of the conditions of his marriage to-day to Grace, the daughter of Sir Wm. Mackenzie, President of the Canadian Northern. The condition was imposed by Sir William. It was a very fashionable wedding, representatives of the king being present.

THE JURY'S FINDING

Special to The Examiner:

KINGSTON, JAN. 25.—That the presence of a night operator at Collins Bay would have prevented a wreck and saved the lives of two Grand Trunk engineers, was the verdict of the jury in the case early this morning.

MISS TENNANT AT MONTREAL

MONTREAL, JAN. 25.—Miss Barbara Tennant is giving a matinee recital Saturday, Feb. 4, at the Windsor Hall, Montreal, under the direction of Messrs. Lawrence and Ruben, the great Impresarios. The Recital, which is under heavy patronage, is already well booked, and Miss Tennant will have a splendid reception on her first appearance in the commercial metropolis. A series of receptions in her honour have been arranged for next week. Immediately after her Canadian tour Miss Tennant will go to New York, where arrangements are being made for her appearance in Shakespearian repertoire.

The Montreal programme will be similar to the one Miss Tennant intends giving at Peterborough on Feb. 7th, and as the critics here consider it an ideal one—as giving a fine opportunity to the artist to show her marvellous versatility in the range of the speaking voice and histrionic capacity—no doubt the Peterborough people will look forward to the time when they will see their talented townswoman.

MISS BLODGETT AT ST. PAUL'S

Miss May A. Blodgett, speaker in St. Paul's church this afternoon, also to-morrow and Friday afternoon at 3.30. On account of the large number in attendance at the afternoon classes it has been deemed necessary to adjourn to St. Paul's church.

CHARGED WITH ROBBING AN INJURED CONDUCTOR

Examiner Special.

LONDON, ONT., JAN. 25.—"If you did this, it is the most dastardly crime I ever dealt with," said the Crown Attorney this morning to Wm. Payne, a recently arrived Englishman, charged with stealing a watch and chain from Grand Trunk Conductor Wm. Armstrong, as the latter lay pinned under wreckage. Payne was remanded.

KEG OF POWDER EXPLODED AND MANY ARE HURT

Examiner Special.

WILKESBARRIE, PA., JAN. 25.—From 7 to 10 miners were terribly injured and several killed as the result of an explosion of a keg of powder, when it was ignited by a spark from a motor in the Pennsylvania Colliery at Pittston to-day. The miner who carried the keg was blown to pieces. All the houses adjacent to the mine are improvised hospitals and the exact number of fatalities are not yet known.

OTTAWA WATER FAMINE PARALYZES INDUSTRIES AND FIRE FIGHTING

OTTAWA, JAN. 24.—An inspector of the Fire Underwriters' Association arrived in the city to-day to look into the low water situation, and resultant inadequate pressure for fire purposes. The result of his visit is that the city has the consent of the big Chaudiere power users to close down their plants in case of a serious fire, and leave all the water available for city use.

In the two Booth pulp mills to-day due to the poor water supply, not a wheel was turning, the sulphite mill is running only half capacity, and one machine in the paper mill is at a standstill. One hundred and seventy-five men are out of work. One pulp mill at Eddy's is tied up, while the Ottawa Electric Co. is getting along on auxiliary steam power. The industries expect a complete tie-up within a few days, unless conditions rapidly improve.

Note.—Ottawa is to be commiserated upon the actual fact of its water famine; but such a result is to be expected, and is the natural result of the failure to provide a water conservation system. In default of reservoirs to hold back the water, it rushes off in freshets in the sprin, and when the drouth of summer, or the freezing solid of small tributaries shuts off the open flow, there is nothing in reserve, nothing to fall back upon.

It is far different in Peterborough district, where a splendid system of conservation and regulation provides a store of water to be drawn upon in time of need.

There is no complaint, or ground for complaint in Peterborough, on the part of enterprises or industries dependent upon hydraulic energy, of lack of water. There is as steady a flow of water, sufficient for all purposes, as there was in July.

With an efficient system of reservoirs conserving our water supply at the sources, and with a judicious release and regulation of flow, Peterborough and the Trent water system generally, has an equably maintained and sufficient water flow for both navigation and power purposes the year round.

TEMPERANCE MEETING AT MARK STREET CHURCH

Quite a large and attentive audience attended the meeting of the Royal Templars of Temperance at Mark Street Church last night. The meeting opened with an address by the Pastor of the Church, the Rev. C. H. Coon, after which the principal speaker of the evening was introduced, the Rev. J. R. Webb, Pastor of Murray Street Baptist Church.

In his opening remarks the speaker emphasized the need of education both in the Chuch and Sunday School in order to prepare men and women to go out into the extensive field which lies before them and fight the liquor question from the shoulder. He said there were men engaged in this work who spend too much time on insignificant things and were more concerned about bringing heaven to men than they are about bringing men to heaven. He then drew attention to the recent grant of ten million dollars by Andrew Carnegie for the promotion of universal peace, and quoted the Steel iKng as having said that war was the foulest blot on civilisation. The speaker then produced some interesting figures to show the alarming ravages that the Liquor Traffic was making on the physical and moral conditions of the nations in general in comparison to war.

In Scotland during the 12 months of 1909 there were 89,930 convictions for drunkeness while in England and Wales there were 169,000 arrests for the same offence. Statistics showed that out of 153 charges of murder, 129 cases were attributed to drunkeness or in other words 80 per cent.

At a convention held in London, England, Lord Chief Justice Alverstone, said that for 40 years he had been a lawyer, ten of those years a judge and were it possible to banish strong drink 90 per cent. out of every hundred cases that came before him for various offences would have been eliminated.

In England and Wales there were 128,787 insane persons and a committee appointed to ascertain the chief causes of insanity laid it directly at the doors of the Liquor Traffic. In England and Wales there were over one million paupers and on investigation it was found that not one total abstainer was to be found among the ranks of paupers. In reference to the Local Option Campaign held in Peterborough a little over a year ago the speaker said that out of his church membership of 400, not one had failed to vote on the right side. He also referred to an editoral that appeared in a local paper recently in reference to McGill University, that every one of the students, twenty included had passed a resolution banishing wine or intoxicating liquor of any kind from all banquets or club socials in the future.

The question of License reduction was then taken up and the question was advanced as to whether it would be advisable to form a resolution covering the benefits of eliminating the Licenses in East City and to forward same to the License Commissioner, but the Secretary of the Royal Templars said that he had an interview with one of the Commissioners a few days previous on the subject in hand and in reply had been told that the only method of procedure they would recognise would be a mandate coming rfom the people, same to be passed upon by the City Council until that was done they would take no action in the matter. After a few more pros. and cons. of the Temperance question had been discussed the meeting was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

This meeting is one of a series which are to be held at different points throughout the city. Just where the next one will be held has not been definitely ascertained.

Whose Optical Parlors are with the Nugent Drug Co., 286 George St., has from the first day of his opening up in the Optical Business in this city (nearly 7 years ago) recognized and adhered to the principles that every pair of eyes in need of glasses is entitled to specialized optical skill and care. To do this in a perfectly satisfactory manner it is absolutely necessary to give the professional side of the problem concentrated care and study. With this fact in mind we have given the mercantile side secondary consideration, and have devoted our entire time, thought and energy, to scientific eye examination and the making of quality glasses. Our equipment and service are perfect in every detail, so as to enable us to carefully and accurately determine whether glasses are needed or not, and we rightfully claim that none are superior. In cases where medical treatment is indicated, we always refer the case to the family physician.

After La Grippe

"I had suffered several weeks with LaGrippe. Had pains in my head and eyes. It felt as though there was a heavy weight on the top of my head, until it seemed that my brain would burst. I was so nervous that I could not rest or sleep. When I dozed off I would awake with a sudden jerking of my whole body. Dr. Miles' Nervine, Heart Remedy and Nerve and Liver Pills cured me. A number of friends have since realized the same benefits."

The after effects of LaGrippe are often more serious than the disease, as it leaves the system in a weakened condition that invites more serious troubles, such as pneumonia, etc.

MR. WARDEN COBEN.

On Tuesday, Mr. Charles Coben, reeve of Galway and Cavendish, was elected Warden of the County by the unanimous vote of his colleagues. This is a well-deserved honour and a credit to the liberality of the members of the Council. Mr. Coben has represented his Township for a great many years, to the satisfaction and benefit of his constituents, and has filled his seat in the County Council with credit to himself, and to the satisfaction of the public. He is distinguished for the liberality and broad mindedness of his character, and the exercise of htis spirit has brought him respect and confidence of his constituents of all classes, which he enjoys to a very large degree. Mr. Coben will, we have no doubt, admirably discharged the duties of the importan tposition with which he has been honoured, and the Examiner joins his many friends in congratulation.

THE WAY OF THE WORLD.

The sudden death of the New York financier, Paul Morton, attributed to overstrain, should be a lesson in this age of rush and hurry in business, to restrain ourselves. But it will not be. The floor of the ocean is paved with dead bodies, yet people in millions go down to the sea in ships. Millions may die from overwork in piling up wealth, but it does not operate as a warning. In respect of all the lessons we receive of the results of their actions on the part of others, we all insist in drinking the cup for ourselves. The experience of others is of no use to us; it is only our own experience that counts, and very often we are not guided by that. We are all born gamblers—prone naturally to take chances. We take risks of injury to our health and of other kinds under the feeling that an exception may be made in our case. It is this spirit that makes the world go round. Taking risks recklessly, or sanely, as the case may be, entering upon and prosecuting enterprises, and overtaxing strength as the medium of success, is what makes the world move. Without this spirit in evidence every day of our lives, and in every department of human activity, the world would be dead and progress impossible. It may not be the best way, but it is the accepted way, and all the preaching possible will not change it.

PROVIDING FOR OLD AGE.

There is no need to invoke the truism—"The Lord helps those who help themselves," to illustrate the importance of the Dominion Government annuity system. A very large part of the destitution and poverty in the world comes from the neglect to use avaiable means to advantage. Too many persons follow the way of the grasshopper, chirping and singing all summer, with no thought of laynig up a store for the winter. Many persons, thousands and millions, waste every week on nonsensical expenditure, on things that are not only useless and unnecessary, but, in many cases, positively harmless enough to provide them, beginning at 60, a government annuity of $300 to $500 per year the rest of their lives. The Examiner has frequently impressed upon the public the advantages of adopting this form of saving. If the practice became general there would be no need for old folks' homes or houses of refuge. Let us again illustrate how simple and easy it is: For instance, the young wage-earner under this system by paying in twenty-five cents a week at any post-office will secure at sixty years of age an income of which nothing could deprive him. A young man of twenty paying in twenty-five cents a week until sixty would receive from and after that date, so long as he lives, an income of $129.91, or $29.91 more than he would derive from an investment of $2,000 at five per cent—that is to say if he happened to have $2,000 available for investment at sixty years of age. If he can afford to pay into the annuity fund a dollar a week, or, precisely fifty dollars a year, from the time he is twenty till the time he is sixty, he will receive thereafter from the government, so long as he lives, an income of five hundred dollars a year. Complete information regarding this, and about the return of his capital to his heirs supposing he should die before sixty, may be obtained from any postmaster or the superintendent of annuities at Ottawa. This is well worth very serious consideration. Most people in this country look forward with reason to very much better thnigs than this at the age of sixty. But this is a provision that faces the worst luck. The habit of using money for a provident purpose, instead of spending it on pleasure or luxuries, will probably do much more for one's fortune by the time he reaches sixty than the money itself will do when available.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

An item of importance in the speech from the Throne, delivered at the opening of the Ontario Legislature yesterday, is that referring to technical education. It is of interest to note that Sir James Whitney has ceased for applying to Ottawa for financial help for technical education. We are assured that a sum will be placed in the Ontario estimates to promote one of the most important interests of the Province or the Dominion.

SHOULD KEEP PRICES LEVEL.

(Chicago News)

So far as fundamentals go there is not much reason for rejoicing over the fact that prices of certain cold storage products have taken a tumble. It certainly means that the people who go around collecting eggs and butter when these articles are plentiful and cheap and who put the comestibles in a place where they will not apoil have overreached themselves. They have overstocked the cold storage houses. The ancient law of supply and demand now warns them that they will have to sell at much lower figures than they did in the recent past if they want to make a profit or even avoid loss.

The cold storage problem goes rather deeper than this. It is not every year that the cold storage people overstock their ice caverns. They generally know when to stop stocking up. What, then, is to be done to protect the consumer who is practically helpless when the cold storage man has guaged the market correctly?

Cold storage, theoretically, should keep prices level the year around. If it performed its proper function and only that the result should be fair prices from one year's end to another. But the fact that the market can be cornered by the cold storage interests gives them a tempting opportunity to charge at certain seasons whatever price they care to—and too commonly they yield to the temptation.

How may these interests be more closely regulated so that they will not abuse the law of supply and demand? That is a question to which lawmakers should give attention. Meanwhile intelligent management of cold storage houses should cause fair business methods to be employed. Extortion, which limits consumption and leaves stocks to grow over-ripe on the forestallers hands, is bad business policy and execrable on the side of morals.

TROLLEY WIRE BROKE

The Street Railway trolley wire broke on George street, at noon today, causing some consternation among the pedestrians, who happened to be passing at the time. There was no danger, however, as the wire was quite harmless when the connection was broken. A gang of men were quickly at work repairing the break, and this afternoon all was in running shape again. The cars made connection at Hunter street, so that passenger traffic was not stopped. The break was caused by a yoen place in the wire.

THE ROARIN' GAME IN CANADA HAS EVERGREEN POPULARITY

(Montreal Witness.)

The 'roarin' game' of curling shows no sign of decay. It is indeed more popular than ever. In a history of sport in Canada a long chapter is devoted to this game. It is an old-established game in Canada, probably the oldest organized game, as the Montreal Curling Club was founded as long ago as January, 1807, and is therefore four years past its centenary. Scotchmen, however, had curled in Canada long before that. The Montreal Curling Club had at its commencement a somewhat precarious existence by reason of lack of proper stones, but this difficulty was overcome by the substitution of irons. These were shaped something like teakettles, and weighed from forty-six to sixty-five pounds each. Irons were found to be more suitable than stones, and their use has been continued to the present time. History records that in 1821 a regular club was organized at Quebec, and that in 1835 a match was played between the two clubs at Three Rivers. The Thistle Club, of Montreal, was founded in 1842, and the Caledonia in 1850. Clubs elsewhere followed rapidly. Kingston in 1850, Ottawa in 1862, Belleville in 1867, and Arnprior in 1868. Numbers of other clubs have been established in this district since that time, and this has been repeated all over the country. The 'roarin' game' now flourishes in Canada everywhere where ice is to be obtained, even in the Yukon; and in the Northern States of the Union there are clubs of curling enthusiasts.

Because of our long reliable winter period, Eastern Canada is eminently fitted for the pursuit of curling; much more so, indeed, than Scotland, the first home of the game. It is asserted—and there are more unlikely things—that the eagerness of the Scotch to enlist for active service in Canada during the contest between France and Britain, was due to the opportunities in this country for continuous curling! It is recognized that curling is primarily a Scot's game, but it has long been "adopted" by people of diverse nationality wherever there is an icy winter. But perhaps the game does not represent so much to the latter as it does to the former; because among the Scotch the game is not only a pastime, but, as the Scotchman has expressed it, 'a bond drawing Scotchmen together in clannish 'and national relationship.' As a game pure and simple, there is this to be said about curling—it is eminently adapted to a spirit of fair-play and good-fellowship, as well as requiring the phyical qualifications of a cool head, a keen eye, and a steady hand. A mere Sassenach has complained: 'That it lends itself to considerable 'merriment, no one who has watched 'the game can doubt; that there ap'pears justification for such merri'ment is not so clear to the uninitiated, and such are apt to regard it 'in the same light as the Frenchman, 'who, on seeing a game for the first 'time, said: "I saw to-day a group of "'Scotchmen throwing big, round "'irons, like bombs, on the ice, after "'which they shouted 'Soop! soop!' "'Then they laughed like lunatics. I "'think, indeed, they are crazy!'" But give the Frenchman an opportunity and he will develop an affection for curling as deep and fervent as the Sassenach. 'Pattison Corbay 'Torbay' did, after a while, for the appearance of a Scotchman, in Gilbert's 'Bab Ballad' about 'Ellen McJones, 'Aberdeen.' Says Gilbert: 'Torbay 'had incurred a good deal of expense 'To make him a Scotchman in every 'sense; But this is a matter, you'll 'readily own, That isn't a question of 'tailors alone.'

A most pleasing feature of Canadian curling is the loyalty of our clubs to the mother club, the Royal Caledonia Curling Club in Scotland. All our Canadian curling clubs are affiliated with it, and Canadian curlers, at their annual banquets, after having honoured the King and the Governor-General, invariably hail the Royal Caledonia as 'Oor auld respectit mither.' And the 'auld respectit mither,' it may be said, is even yet more than a match for any of her children, for when they have played with her they have found her skilful and valiant and still capable of outplaying them. Where the game of curling originated is not exactly known, but it has been popular in North Britain for three hunured years at least. Burns in literature called it 'the roaring game,' and many fine songs have been written about curling descriptive of all its leading points, its implements, and in praise of the game as a promoter of mutual enjoyment, bodily health and the best of good fellowship. The 'Ettrick Shepherd' ranks among the laureates of the rink, but Henry Duncan's song is quoted as the most excellent on the subject, as he succeeds in packing into a single stanza some of its chief characteristics:

There draw a shot; there lay a guard;
And here beside him lie, man;
Now let him feel a gamester's hand;
Now in this bosom die, man!
There fill the port, and block the ice;
We sit upon the tee, man!
Now take this in-ring, sharp and neat,
And make this winner flee, man.

Wicking, or inringing, says Sir Richard Brown, in 'Memorabilia Curliana,' is the prettiest and most scientific point in the game by far. It sometimes happens that the stone nearest the tee—the winner, as it is called—is so well protected that it cannot be touched directly, and defies removal unless it be assailed by an ingenious master stroke technically termed wicking, or inringing, whereby a stone is sent in an oblique direction so as haply to hit the winner; and if it not only does that, but becomes the winner in its stead, the man who throws it is sure to be hailed by the exulting comrades as a prince among curlers, if not 'the king o' the core.' The rules of the game almost universally followed are those of the Royal Caledonian Club, and they are not difficult to learn. But to apply them well is almost as difficult as for a tailor to make a Scot.

Earning, Saving and Investing Money

It is most meritorious to earn money honestly, and doubly so to save a part of what you earn. It is easy to earn, but how can you save? Example: Three years ago a working man with family bought 8 Lots from me, paid a deposit and agreed to pay $5.00 per month, also interest and taxes. This he has done faithfully, although at times it required a supreme effort and self denial, but the road to success is not one strewn with roses. Difficulties must be encountered & surmounted. He has surmounted his, and in less than two years his Lots will be fully paid for and worth at least $1,000, which is more than double their cost. The safe and profitable investment with the most to save is the secret of success.

Your Time Is Not Yours

It Belongs to Those Depending on You. For Their Sakes Preserve Health and Strength.

You never thought of it just this way before. While not feeling well you have neglected to take active means of restoring health, thinking all the time that you were the only one to suffer by delay.

Not so. For who among us has not someone depending on him for comfort, happiness or the means of livelihood?

When you lie awake nights, worrying over little things, get nervous and irritable, have indigestion and headaches, you may be sure the nervous system is becoming exhausted.

Time is not yours to delay. You must call a halt to the wasting process. Otherwise you will have a rude awakening some day, when prostrations, paralysis or locomotor ataxia lays you low. For such is the natural and inevitable result of neglected nervous diseases.

You can restore the nervous system by using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. Being composed of Nature's most potent nerve restoratives, it cannot fail to benefit you. Each dose must of necessity bring you nearer to health, strength and vigour.

Mr. William Brandon, Victoria street, Strathroy, Ont., writes: "Before using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food my nervous system seemed all unstrung. I could not sleep, had no appetite, hands and feet were cold, my digestion was poor and I had jerking of the limbs. The first box of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food helped me, and I continued until I had taken twenty-four boxes. This treatment has made a radical change in my condition, building up the system and strengthening the nerves."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

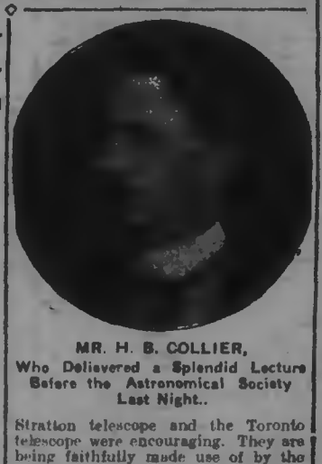
DELIGHTFUL LECTURE BY MR. HERB. B. COLLIER

President of Peterboro Astronomical Society Speaks on the "Surface of the Moon"—Was a Treat to Those Present.

MAY BE REPEATED



MR. H. B. COLLIER,
Who Delievered a Splendid Lecture Before the Astronomical Society Last Night..

The meeting of the Royal Astronomical Society last night in the Collegiate Institute building was not largely attended, but was most enjoyable and interesting. Dr. Marsh gave a description of the new equatorial telescope that Mr. H. B. Collier, the president of the Society, has set up, illustrating his remarks with slides on the screen. Mr. Collier has done himself and the society credit, by setting up this magnificent instrument. It is so arranged that it will follow the heavenly bodies in their course. It has a whole hour circle reading to one minute of time and a declination circle reading to five minutes of arc. With this instrument Mr. Collier is able to pick up the heavenly bodies in the day time.

Mr. Thos. Elliott of 112 McDonnel street, was received as a member of the Society.

The reports from the use of the Stration telescope and the Toronto telescope were encouraging. They are being faithfully made use of by the members.

Mr. Collier gave a most excellent lecture on "The Moon's Surface," dealing with the most prominent physical features of the moon, the mountain ranges, the extinct volcanoes and the sea-beds.

The lecture was so much appreciated that Mr. Collier was asked by those present to repeat it at a future meeting of the Society.

SHORT COURSE IN SEED AND STOCK JUDGING

Yesterday was the beginning of the short course in stock and seed judging, the event being attended by over three hundred people, locally, and over fifty farmers. The seed judging was done in the morning. Mr. C. B. Clink of the Agricultural College, Guelph, conducting the judging. At the close of the judging Mr. Clink gave a very interesting talk on the improvement of seeds, also improvement of crops in general.

In the afternoon the judging of the dairy cattle took place. The work of judging was conducted by Mr. T. R. Mallary of Frankford. The class of cows and heifers was supplied by Mr. J. K. Moore and Son. There were three in each class. The cattle, which were the Holstein breed, were all placed, and then the farmers gathered around and gave their opinions as to the class and quality of the animals. A great deal of discussion ensued, and many a heated conversation resulted.

Mr. Mallary then gave his decision. He also gave an interesting talk on feeding dairy cows.

Yesterday's events were very successful and to all present appearances the show will be a brilliant success.

The proceedings are under the auspices of men who know their business, and who are capable of making it a success, and so far it has displayed this to a certainty.

The short course in stock judging was continued with great success today. This morning light horses and carriage horses were shown and this afternoon the heavy draughts. A very large crowd attended, there being at least 300 people present. The horses shown were of a very high class and a great deal of discussion was being held over them. A like success is expected to-morrow.

POST CARD COLUMN!

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—A constant reader would like to know why the noble and brave act performed by Mr. A. R. Castle, in saving the life of the little boy, Harold Saunders, in August, 1910, has never been recognized by the Royal Humane Society. I feel sure, if this matter was brought before the notice of the officers of the above society they would be only too pleased to enquire into the matter, and award him that coveted medal of honour, which he so richly deserves in undoubtedly saving the life of one boy, and also making a brave attempt to save a second life at the same time.

Yours Sincerely,
C. R.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—That was a great game of hockey last night and demonstrated the fact that when opportunity arises, Peterborough can furnish the men to meet it. It also demonstrates that among the said Peterborough men there are a great many who are sadly lacking in good manners and courtesy. I refer to the smoking nuisance. At the rink last night the lovers (or slaves) of My Lady Nicotine, were industriously puffing away at cigarette, cigar or briar, in all their degrees of rankness. Not only on the men's side but during the ladies as well. A few years ago a sharp-eyed constable was turned loose in the rink during a match, and offenders in this respect were promptly squelched. If the management expect the ladies to favour them with their presence, conditions must be made fit and proper. I would suggest that the management either take down the "No Smoking" signs or live up to them.

Yours,
SPECTATOR.

PALE, ANAEMIC GIRLS

The languid, semi-invalid girl is no longer popular. Firm flesh, rounded form and a healthy glow to the complexion are the results of using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food. Mrs. Goodson, 194 Sebastopol St., Montreal, Que., writes: "My daughter's appetite was bad and she was pale and bloodless. Since using Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food there is a marked change in her condition. She is stronger and healthier in every way."

VARICOSE VEINS CURED

NO NAMES USED WITHOUT WRITTEN CONSENT.

Confined to His Home for Weeks.

"Heavy work, severe straining and evil habits in youth brought on Varicose Veins. When I worked hard the aching would become severe and I was often laid up for a week at a time. My family physician told me an operation was my only hope—but I feared it. I tried several specialists, but soon found out all they wanted was money. I commenced to look upon all doctors as fakes beyond redemption. One day my boss asked me why I was off work so much. I told him my condition. He advised me to consult Drs. Kennedy & Kennedy, as he had taken treatment from them himself and found they were square and skilful. I wrote them and got their Varicose Treatment. My progress was somewhat slow and during the first month's treatment I was somewhat disappointed. However, I continued treatment for three months longer and was discharged with a complete cure. I could only earn $18 a week in a munition shop before treatment, now I am earning $31 and never loose a day. I wish all sufferers knew of your valuable treatment.

PROF. ANGELL CREATES SENSATION AT PRINCESS

Crowded houses greeted Angell, the great American mind reader at the Princess yesterday afternoon and evening. During his phenomenal tests the audience was in an uproar of laughter and applause. Prominent citizens were on the committee to test Prof. Angell and from the opening feat where he pulled the nose of one of the audience thought of by a member of the committee to the closing experiment, that of giving flowers to the ladies in the audience directed by the will of the committee, excitement was at fever feet. Writing words on a blackboard thought of by the committee, finding lost articles and keys hidden in the theatre and returning them to their owners, placing the rings on the fingers even, from which they were taken, delighted the spectators. The excitement is one of the most unusual ever presented to the local theatre-goers. Angell varies his programme daily and as the week advances will add to the difficulty of his tests. During all of his work completely blindfolded, it is a thrilling and marvellous exhibition of psychic power. Among the new tests to be presented by Angell to-day and Friday night will be the famous [illegible] lock Holmes third hand [illegible]

THE LATE HARRY LeBRUN

This morning the funeral of the late Henry Le Brun took place and the respect and esteem expressed by the exceedingly large attendance was only a tangible evidence of the feeling of the whole community. A native of St. Eustache, Quebec, Mr. LeBrun came to Peterborough in early life and all his mature years have been spent here. There are few citizens who have won and worn so continuously and uniformly the high respect which his character commanded. In a business career of forty years, which brought him in contact with the whole community, rural and urban, he established a reputation for enterprise, square dealing and successful methods such as falls to the lot of few men to achieve. Not only in business, but in all the varied relations of citizenship, the coin of Harry LeBrun's sterling character rang true. He brought no effusiveness to his friendships; quiet in demeanour, he was genuine, through and through, and this thoroughness of character influenced all his relations; he was as thorough, dependable and fair in the field of sport, where he was a conspicuous figure in his younger days, and a supporter in later years, as he was in his business relations, in his social intercourse, and his relations to the community at large. By the possession and application of these qualities day after day for years, Mr. LeBrun won a secure and warm place in the affections and esteem of the whole community. During fifty years Mr. LeBrun exercised in Peterborough a wholesome influence, which the memory of him will perpetuate for many, many years.

THE SCHOOL INSPECTOR REPORTS TO COUNCIL

Interesting Statement From Mr. Lees at Yesterday's Meeting of the County Council.

OTHER BUSINESS

At yesterday afternoon's session of the County Council School Inspector Richard Lees presented the following report:

Gentlemen,—I beg respectfully to submit my report on the work of the schools of the inspectorate of Peterborough East, for the year 1910.

During the year there were in operation in the inspectorate, 71 rural and 3 village schools, with a total of 96 teachers during the first half year and 94 in the last half. In the performance of my duties, I made 241 visits, 184 in rural and 57 in village schools. In addition, I made 6 visits where schools were closed, meeting the trustees, where possible, and discussing the situation. There were two arbitrations during the year, one of which occupied a good deal of time.

	II.	III.	Dist.	Temp.	Total
Asphodel	2	3	1	1	7
Belmont and Methuen	2	1	2	10	15
Burleigh and Anstruther		1		5	6
Chandos			1	7	8
Douro	5	5		1	11
Dummer	1		1	6	8
N. Monaghan	3	1			4
Otonabee	9	4	1	1	15
Total, Rural Schools	22	15	6	31	74
Villages	13	3			16

The proportion for the present term is much the same, with the exception that there are at present ten schools that are not open. Of 74 teachers in the rural schools, 31 held temporary certificates, an increase of 11 over the previous year. It will be observed that with the exception of Dummer, very few of these were situated where the township grant is $300 per school. It was possible up till last year to have practically all of these schools in charge of qualified teachers, and I think would have been yet, had all the trustees been a little more vigilant and enterprising. However, on the whole, I have little to complain of on that score.

The schools in the poorer townships are at a disadvantage in two respects. First, teachers have a reluctance to going to these districts, so h tatin order to get qualified teachers, it is necessary to pay even higher salaries than prevail in the other townships. Second, these schools receive only $150 each from the township, as compared with $300 in the better townships. Of this handicap, $90 are made up in additional grants regularly provided for, which still leaves a difference of $60 against the poor school. I recently called the attention of the Minister to this disadvantage, pointing out that the fixed grant to the schools in townships where the assessment is less than an average of $30,000 per school section, should be $90 instead of $30 as at present. I was advised that in such places, where the section is paying a salary that should reasonably be expected to secure a qualified teacher, application to the Assisted Schools' Fund for the amount necessary to adjust the difference would receive favourable consideration.

In a considerable number of the schools, especially those in which qualified teachers of experience have been employed excellent work has been done, and satisfactory progress made during the year. As formerly, the most serious hindrances have been irregularity of attendance, and frequent changes of teachers. For the latter, the present difficulty in getting teachers is partly to blame, but the most serious cause is still the needless desire for change on the part of both teachers and people. The efficiency or inefficiency of the teacher seems to make little difference in some cases. On the contrary, I find trustees who are able to rise above the sectional or personal jealousies that demand a change every six months, or oftener, and are willing to make sacrifices in order to avoid changes.

New buildings have been erected during the year in section No. 2, Anstruther; No. 7, Chandos, and No 7, Belmont. All were urgently needed and are good school buildings of modern design. In addition, substantial improvements have been made in other sections. In No. 11, Dummer, an old log building was veneered with cement and otherwise improved at a cost of about $200. So far, the experiment seems to have been a success.

The legislative grants for the year to the schools of the inspectorate were as follows:

Grant on account of—
Certificates	$ 450.00
Salaries	4362.40
Fixed grant, $30 each for 28 schools	840.00
Accommodations and equipment	840.00
Rural School Libraries	122.67
Continuation and Fifth Classes	949.61
Assisted Schools	1565.00
	$10,028.18

I cannot too strongly commend the work that is being done by the Continuation Schools. There have been in attendance at these schools during the year, including Ennismore school, 157 pupils, with an average attendance of 107. In all the schools excellent work is being done, and it is safe to say that had conditions been as they were before these schools were established not a dozen of these 157 young people would ever have enjoyed the advantages of a high school education.

Besides, in my opinion, the Continuation Schools are destined to be the salvation of the situation in providing a supply of teachers, especially for the rural schools. It is to them and to the smaller high schools rather to the large collegiate institutes, that people who are best qualified to forecast conditions, are looking for the training of recruits for the teaching profession.

In view of this fact, it will be the part of wisdom to render every possible encouragement to these schools The County at present pays the equivalent of the Legislative grant. It is worth while to consider if it might not be money well invested to do more than that. What is being done in several other counties in this respect, is shown by the following statement:

County	No. of Schools	No. of Pupils	Total Grant	Extra Grant	Rate per pupil
Bruce	5	236	$4,000	$2,706	$11.50
Dufferin	2	129	$5 per pupil	1,228	11.40
Elgin	5	185	100 per cent.	2,382	12.90
Grey	3	141	50 per cent.	1,617	11.45
Huron	3	280	100 per cent.	2,465	8.80
Peel	1	33	$200	433	13.00
Wellington	2	103	150 per cent.	1,668	16.00

In addition the Counties of Dundas, Glengary, Leeds, Lennox, Ontario, and Stormount give extra assistance. The table shows that these counties are paying an average of about $12 per pupil, while Peterborough paid last year about $8.20 for each pupil in attendance. I would respectfully solicit an earnest consideration of the advisability of making an increase of 50 per cent. in these grants.

I have the honour to be

Your most obedient servant,
RICHARD LEES,
Public School Inspector.

The tickets are selling rapidly and it would be well for those who have not yet marked their seats to do so at once as a crowded house is assured for both nights. The plan is at Jas. Lynch's Drug Store. The performance will be well staged and nothing will be left undone to make this show one of the best minstrel performances ever put on in Peterborough. SLEIGH DRIVE

Last evening the choir of St. Andrew's church, accompanied by Mr. Rollins, pastor, had a very pleasant sleigh drive. They were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Long at their residence in Otonabee. The evening was very pleasantly spent, there being about thirty guests present. The time was made pleasant by music, supplied by the choir and games were also played.

The choir was very much encouraged by the fact that their services were appreciated in such a manner as shown by Mr. and Mrs. Long, and look forward to the time when they will again have the privilege of enjoying an evening with them.

SIX MONTHS IN CENTRAL FOR TORONTO VAGRANT

Automobile Driver Handed Out a $12.25 Fine for Breaking the Speed Laws---First Case of its Kind in Peterborough---Other Cases This Morning.

Six months in the Central, was handed out at Police Court this morning to George Lillie, who appeared a week ago in Court on a charge of vagrancy. Lillie and another fellow named John Newton, blew into the City a week ago, and came to the Police Station, and they were looking for work. They were remanded for a week in order that the authorities in Toronto could be communicated with to find out their past character. Some few days ago the Chief received a communication from Toronto to the effect that the two boys had been in the habit of hanging around cheap lodging houses and were professional tramps, so this information with what their present state suggested, tended to satisfy the Magistrate of their character, and what they deserved. Newton was let go with a warning, but Lillie will go to the Central Greenhouse.

Richard Shuter was found drunk in a public place and the usual fine was meted out to him. He paid the $2.

Fred Austin appeared in the Police Court on a very unusual charge (for this city.) He was charged with immoderate driving of an automobile on George street last night. He pleaded guilty, but stated that it was late at night and that there was no person nor vehicles on the street. He said it was the first time he had been charged with doing so, and that in this case he intimated that it did not make much difference whether he drove the machine fast or not, seeing it was so late and no person on the street. This explanation did not satisfy the Magistrate, however, and he imposed a fine of $10.00 and costs, the whole amount being $12.25.

The Police Department wish it thoroughly understood that no fast driving will be tolerated inside the city, especially in the business section. This is the first case of excessive speed, that has come up before His Worship, Magistrate Dumble and he took this into consideration when administering the fine. He stated that this was the lowest fine that he could impose and that if the offender came up again he would administer the heaviest fine. It is advisable for those who drive autos in the city to take warning, as the next offender will not be so leniently dealt with.

DELIGHTFUL PROGRAMME AT GEORGE ST. CHURCH

Members of Mr. Switzer's Bible Class Were Hosts at an Enjoyable Event—Those who Took Part

ORCHESTRA PLAYED

A very enjoyable evening was passed amongst the members of the Adult Bible Classes of George Street Church last night. The hosts of the evening were the members of Mr. Switzer's class. A delightful programme was followed with interest and appreciation, and refreshments were served. The George Street Orchestra rendered several selections in their usual pleasing manner. Vocal solos were rendered by Mrs. Boutley, Master Joe Zepp and Mr. F. H. Puttenham. Mr. A. W. Cowie gave a violin solo with much acceptance. Miss Lizzie Smith recited and played the accompaniments in excellent style. Mr. R. J. Soden delighted the audience with readings from the charming writings of Dr. Drummond. Mr. Soden was forced to several encores, and in one instance kept the audience convulsed whilst relating the doings of two railroad employees —Finnegan and Flannigan. One of the features of the Orchestra selection was the work of Mr. Robt. Beach at the drums. There are many drummers who can drum in a band, but very few who can play in an orchestra. Mr. Beach is one of those few. His handling of his part of the selections was enjoyed by the audience by reason of his bright, snappy playing and keeping perfect balance. The cornet work of Mr. Alf. Wilson was splendid. After votes of thanks had been passed the singing of the Doxology brought the proceedings to a close.

PROMINENT RESIDENT OF LAKEFIELD PASSES AWAY

Mr. C. D. Crawford, Well Known Business Man Died Yesterday From Pleuro-Pneumonia—Highly Respected Citizen.

WILL BE MUCH MISSED

On Tuesday morning there passed away one of Lakefield's most prominent business men, in the person of Mr. C. D. Crawford, at the age of 59 years and 6 months. Mr. Crawford was one of Lakefield's best-known citizens, having been a resident since boyhood. He commenced his business career by acting as clerk in the branch store of the late J. W. Fairweather, afterwards opening business for himself and carrying on his enterprise most successfully.

About ten days ago he was stricken with pleuro-pneumonia, but no serious results were anticipated until the last couple of days, when his condition grew more and more serious, until he passed away peacefully yesterday at 12 20 o'clock. Mr. Crawford was a member of the Sons of Scotland, the Canadian Order of Foresters and of Clementi Lodge A. F. and A. M., under whose auspices the funeral will take place on Sunday, Jan. 29, at 2.30 o'clock.

Mr. Crawford leaves a wife and one son and one daughter to mourn his loss. The son is Mr. Theodore Crawford of Lakefield, and the daughter is Mrs. G. W. Edwards of North Battleford. The funeral is delayed in order to permit of Mrs. Edwards being in attendance. She is expected to arrive on Saturday.

Mr. Crawford was a son of the late Charles Crawford of Otonabee, and is survived by four brothers and one sister, Mrs. Daubez of Peterborough.

Mr. Crawford has conducted a prosperous business for many years, and took a considerable interest in the welfare of the village. He was a Presbyterian in religion and a Liberal in politics. He will be missed by the Lakefield people in all walks of life.

Mrs. Crawford and family will have the sincere sympathy of the community in their bereavement. As before stated the funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock.

BLAMES CORLEY

Police Commissioners Say That He Was Lax in the Farmers' Bank Affair —Police Exonerated

ARE NOT TO BLAME

Toronto, Jan. 25.—If Magistrate Denison and Judge Winchester are right in their contention, the responsibility for the delay in the issue of warrants against Dr. Beattie Nesbitt, W. J. Lindsay and George Wishart, charging them with various crimes in connection with the Farmers' Bank collapse, must rest with Crown Attorney Corley and Attorney-General Foy.

These two gentlemen, sitting as the board of police commissioners yesterday afternoon, while Mayor Geary was attending the opening of the Legislature, passed a resolution declaring that no blame could rest upon any police officer either for this delay of the failure to lay charges of extraditable offences against any or all of them, if grounds for such charges exists.

Chief Grasett, secretary of the board, said after the meeting: "What the board says is that the police have no power to take out a warrant in important cases without the consent of the crown attorney, and that, such warrants being issued, under the Legislature's orders in council, transmitted to the police through the crown attorney, the police have no power to seek the extradition of any fugitive from a foreign country without the consent of the Attorney-General's Department."

This puts the whole matter and the responsibility for any action or absence of action in the matter, up to the city crown attorney and the Attorney-General's Department.

Speaking of this feature of the situation, Crown Attorney J. Seymour Corley says that he has never issued any order to the police court clerks that they must not issue warrants to the police without his consent.

When a doctor was arrested upon a second charge of performing a criminal operation a short time ago, Mr. Corley did object in the police court to the charge being laid when he had not been consulted, and shortly afterward one of the police court clerks did refuse to issue a warrant without the crown attorney's authorization.

Mr. Corley says that his position is that he should be consulted before any important charge is laid.

It is understood that information will be laid and a summons taken out charging a prominent and wealthy citizen with illegally obtaining money from the bank, and that this will be done within the next few days. The offence has to do with illegal dealings with the bank's currency. Charges against three others are also being considered.

Travers, who is awaiting his removal to Kingston at the Toronto jail, was taken from there by Inspector Duncan and Detective Guthrie on Saturday afternoon. He was taken to some place which is not known, and there gave the interview which was discussed by the police commissioners yesterday. In the evening he was taken to the Broadview Hotel, where he and the inspector and Detective Guthrie dined together.

Travers is looking well and took the opportunity to smoke a number of cigars, which are denied him at the jail. It is said that no drinks were served to the party.

TREATY FACTS WILL BE KNOWN TO-MORROW

Facts as to the Tariff Negotiations Will be Revealed Then ---No Official Statement on Georgian Bay Canal Till the Estimates Come Down.

Ottawa, Jan. 25.—"May I ask the Prime Minister," queried Mr. R. L. Borden in the Commons yesterday afternoon, "as to the present condition of the tariff negotiations which have been proceeding at Washington, and the date which he intends to communicate the result to this House and the country?"

"I am in receipt of a telegram from Mr. Fielding," was Sir Wilfrid Laurier's brief response, "in which he states that he expects to reach Ottawa to-morrow evening, and anticipates making an announcement to the House on Thursday."

The Premier delivered an admonition to be patient to some members of the Opposition yesterday.

W. M. German (Welland) had asked Hon. George P. Graham what truth there was in the report that the sum of $3,000,000 would be placed in the supplementary estimates as provision for commencing the Georgian Bay Canal. "As far as I know, no such appropriation has been discussed by council," was the evasive reply of the Minister of Railways, "and as it is not in my Department I would not have any knowledge whether the head of the Department which it would be under, has it in mind to bring in any appropriation. Personally, I would not be disappointed if both the Georgian Bay and Welland Canals were constructed."

The Premier remarked that his honorable friend would know all about it, when the estimates were brought down.

Dr. F. L. Schaffner (Souris) drew the attention of the House to an article appearing in a Toronto paper that Sir Wilfrid had received a $100 Farmers' Bank note as a souvenir, in reply to which the Premier laid the following correspondence on the table:

Toronto, Jan. 1, 1907.

To the Right Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, K.C.M.G., Ottawa:

My Dear Sir Wilfrid—I take great pleasure in enclosing you the first $25 bill ever issued by any bank in Canada.

Please do us the favor of accepting this bill as a souvenir, with the compliments of the Farmers' Bank of Canada. Yours very truly,

W. R. Travers,
General Manager.

Ottawa, January, 1907.

Dear Mr. Travers,—I have your very kind favor of the 1st instant, and I feel very much flattered by the honor which has been done me by your institution.

I accept the souvenir which you have enclosed with the greatest pleasure, and you will add to your kindness if you will present my grateful appreciation to the members of your board.

Believe me, dear Mr. Travers, yours very sincerely,

Wilfrid Laurier.

Beyond reading the correspondence, Sir Wilfrid did not add a word of explanation, and resumed his seat amid liberal applause.

Adam Beck Crosby complained of the absence of Sir Frederick Borden, who is attending a bye-election campaign in Nova Scotia.

Replying in point, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that he had no hesitation in informing his hon friend that he was aware of the fact that Sir Frederick was in Nova Scotia; that he had consulted him before going there, and intimated that an election was on.

"My colleague is not only a member of this House, but I understand he is an elector in the County of Kings, Nova Scotia, and at the present time he is exercising his duty as a citizen, and for that nobody can find fault with him."

In reply to a question by Mr. Middleboro, Sir Wilfrid Laurier said that the Government had been advised of the intention of the Japanese Government to denounce the existing trade agreement with Great Britain, and to make a new treaty. Canada had been asked whether she desired to become a party to the new treaty.

In reply to a question by R. L. Borden, the Premier said that he had received a telegram from Mr. Fielding, stating that the Finance Minister would arrive in Ottawa on Wednesday, and that the result of trade negotiations at Washington would be presented to Parliament on Thursday.

On the motion to go into committee of supply, the House of Commons was thrown into a prolonged discussion yesterday by an amendment introduced by Richard Blain (Peel), that "the action of the Government in renting certain building in the City of Ottawa at prices which net the owners from 15 to 18 per cent. on the cost of their property, is unbusinesslike, indefensible and merits the censure of this House."

The debate for the first part was a repetition of a previous year's discussion, but as the talk extended late into the evening, it became apparent that the Opposition was determined to thresh the whole matter out, and as fresh speakers were continually put forward, a decision was not reached till half an hour after midnight. The motion was voted down. The vote stood yeas 61, nays 104, Government majority 43. A. Gilbert (Drummondville and Arthabaska) voted with the Government.

OPENING OF LEGISLATURE

Ontario House is Ready for Business—A Resume of the Speech From the Throne

SOME OF THE FEATURES

Toronto, Jan. 25.—Once more the legislative mill is at work grinding out government for the greatest of British provinces. The session opened yesterday in almost the usual manner. There was a disturbing element in the air owing to the conflagration of the year before last, which still curtails the accommodation of the Government officials. It is hoped, however, to have the building ready before the next general election. There is nothing like being sanguine.

As a result of the fire there are no Speaker's apartments, and the usual entertainment and reception could not be extended to the great company of ladies assembled. There was no ice-cream and no tea and no cake—nothing, in fact, to stay the failing energies of those in attendance.

Bishop Sweeny was early on hand and Col. Sweeny came about the same time, and they had a chat while the ladies kept coming in. Women take full advantage of such chance as they do get to sit in the Legislature. At 2 o'clock the chamber was half filled.

Ex-Speaker Charlton came in and shook hands with Dr. Smellie. J. K. Brewster, G.C., established himself among the ladies in the opposition benches. The sergeant-at-arms, who has been doing it for two generations of ordinary men, and twelve of politicians, showed the way about.

It was 2.52 when the guard announced the arrival of his honor. Three minutes later Sir James Whitney entered with Mrs. Gibson on his arm, followed by her two daughters. The ladies all rose. The men had no seats to arise from. The costume display was scarcely so brilliant as usual, the absence of the reception customary to the proceedings perhaps accounting for this. Ermine was the only wear, and estimates were in circulation as to the number of defunct felines necessary to compose an ermine robe.

Promptly at three his honor entered, preceeded by the military staff. They appeared to have some indecision which side of the table to attack, but divided their forces and got into position.

After the ceremonial, the number of the elect was completed by the introduction by Sir James and Capt. Machin, of John Ransome Howitt, the new member for South Wellington. Real business will be done at three o'clock this afternoon.

Sir James Whitney met J. R. Howitt, at the Bar of the House, and escorted the new legislator to the foot of the throne, where he was welcomed by Mr. Speaker and invited to take his seat.

The Prime Minister introduced the usual statutory notices for the appointment of the statutory standing committees and the administration of acts of office to justices of the peace.

The speech from the throne was, in part:

The speech from the throne referred to the death of the late King in touching terms and paid tribute to his successor, King George.

Plans are being prepared, the speech continued, by the architect of the Department of Public Works for a new residence for the Lieutenant-Governor, which will be suitable for all state functions and have an architectural character in keeping with the importance of the province.

Prison labor has been employed in the construction of roads into the Porcupine mining district with excellent results. The work has been well done, and the effect on the prisoners has been very beneficial. Temporary premises have been erected on the Central Prison Farm near Guelph; quarries of building stone have been opened; and considerable progress has been made in the erection of permanent buildings.

"The necessity for and the advantages arising out of the adoption of a system of technical and industrial education are becoming more obvious day by day, and you will be asked to make an appropriation for this purpose.

"With the view of preserving and increasing the usefulness and beauty of the Algonquin National Park, steps have been taken to extinguish the title of certain timber limit holders of over three hundred and fifty square miles of territory within the limits of the park.

"The output of silver from the mines of Cobalt has been greater than in any previous year, and the discoveries of gold at Porcupine, and the development which has ensued, give promise of richness and permanency.

"During the past year the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway was completed to Cochrane, on the line of the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, a distance of 252 miles from North Bay, and a large sum has been expended in improving that part of the line previously constructed. There has been a substantial increase in the revenue from the railway over that of the previous year.

"An attempt by a syndicate to build an electric railway from the main line of the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario Railway to Porcupine ended in failure, and my Government has undertaken the building of a steam railway, which, it is confidently expected, will be finished not later than June 30, 1911.

"The construction, by the Hydro-Electric Commission of the line for the transmission of electric power has been completed. In working out a new problem of more or less difficulty and delicacy, such as the hydro-electric scheme, certain delays have necessarily occurred, but it is confidently expected that this great undertaking will soon be in full operation. The earnest and unselfish efforts of the members of the commission in this matter merit acknowledgment and commendation.

"Most important work in agriculture has been done by practical demonstrations carried on in live stock, dairying, fruit growing and the growing of field crops by the district representatives of the Department of Agriculture in a number of counties in the province.

"So prompt and conclusive have been the results from this work that there is now a very general demand for its extension, and you will be asked to consider an appropriation for this purpose.

HOW TO GET FREE

A 50c. BOTTLE OF PSYCHINE

(PRONOUNCED SI-KEEN)

The white corpuscles of the blood—the Phagocytes, as they are known scientifically—are the policemen or the scavengers of the body.

Not a germ of disease can invade the body anywhere but these white corpuscles set after it. And, if they are strong enough or in sufficient numbers, they devour it.

If they're not strong enough or in sufficient numbers, then the invading army of disease germs triumphs and disease holds the body.

Any preparation that strengthens these white corpuscles or that increases their number, will not only preserve health, but will build up its defences so strongly that contagion or infection are impossible.

Could Not Rest at Night.

Back Was So Weak.

Weak, lame and aching backs are the primary cause of kidney trouble. When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning from the kidneys that everything is not right with them.

If you don't do this, serious complications are very apt to arise and the first thing you know you will be troubled with Dropsy, Diabetes or Bright's Disease, the three most deadly forms of Kidney Trouble.

On the first sign of anything wrong Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go to the seat of the trouble and strengthen the kidneys, thereby strengthening the back.

Mrs. John Pugh, Parkdale, Man., writes:—"I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and find nothing to beat them. I could not rest at night my back was so weak. I tried everything, but could not get anything to do me any good until I was told by a friend to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I tried them and I am not the same weak woman I was before. I am very thankful to have found so speedy a cure."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Not Sisters

Now and again you see two women passing down the street who look like sisters. You are astonished to learn that they are mother and daughter, and you realize that a woman at forty or forty-five ought to be at her finest and fairest. Why isn't it so?

The general health of women is so intimately associated with the local health of the essentially feminine organ: that there can be no red cheeks and round form where there is female weakness.

Women who have suffered from this trouble have found prompt relief and cure in the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives vigor and vitality to the organs of womanhood. It clears the complexion, brightens the eyes and reddens the cheeks.

No alcohol, or habit-forming drugs is contained in "Favorite Prescription." Any sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, free. Every letter is held as sacredly confidential, and answered in a plain envelope. Address: World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R.V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N.Y.

PETERBORO' TURNED TABLES ON TRENTON BEAT THE VISITORS HANDILY BY 13 TO 6 AND WERE MUCH THE BETTER TEAM

The Homesters Played Magnificent Hockey and Were Never Behind---Eighteen Hundred wildly Excited Fans Saw One of the Best Games in Years.

THE HALF TIME SCORE WAS SEVEN TO TWO

Superior to the invaders individually, and as a team, the Peterborough intermediate O.H.A. team turned the tables on the Trenton team in a lightning fast game at Brock street rink last night by 13 goals to 6. At the half the Petes were in front 7 to 2. To the great surprise of the Trenton team, their two hundred supporters, and a whole lot of Peterborough fans, who had blatantly proclaimed the fact that Peterborough would be beaten, the game was comparatively easy for the home team, who, with the exception of a few minutes at the close of the game, when they eased up, outplayed the visitors with the greatest success. In all departments they had a margin on the seven from the Canal outlet. The forwards combined better, shot more accurately, outskated the visitors and checked back with more effect, while the defence kept the fast Trenton line out in grand fashion. As a result, the game was never much in doubt.

The nearest the visitors could get was to tie the score once. Peterborough started with two counters and the Trenton team responded with a brace on its own account when the homesters were shy a couple of men. After that there was nothing to the battle. The Petes were all over the visitors for the rest of the half, playing them off their feet and hammering five goals behind McGiffin before the period ended. They followed this up by scoring five more in a row after the rest and with the score 12 to 2 in their favour, slackened up from the wonderful pace they had set from the beginning, and the visitors took advantage of the lull to land four scores before Peterborough topped their win by scoring the last goal of the encounter.

Eighteen hundred people saw the game, an old-time crowd that jammed every corner of the rink, and the noisiest and most enthusiastic audience that ever witnessed a match here. There was a crowd waiting before 7 o'clock and when the doors were opened shortly after that hour a steady stream of people started to pour into the arena, which momentarily grew larger as the time for the commencement of hostilities drew nearer. At eight o'clock the two wickets were besieged by a mob of hundreds of fans who jammed the entrances tightly. The rink filled rapidly, and the later arrivals had to be taken down the ice in order to find seats. Even the rafters had their contingent of spectators and they were five deep in the balcony. For noise, nothing to equal last night's crowd, has been heard here. A large number were supplied with rattles, horns and other noise-producing devices, which they used with awe-producing effect.

The crowd was so large that the temperature of the air inside the arena became steadily warmer and the ice was soon affected. Although it was freezing outside, and there was a splendid sheet of ice to start with, it was not long before the ice began to grow sticky and slow, and before half time there was water on it in places, which increased after the rink had been cleaned off at half time. Considerable smoking was done, with the result that the atmosphere soon grew hazy, and before the game ended the rink must have felt like a Turkish bath to the weary players.

Under the circumstances the game was a remarkably fast exhibition, the pace in the first half being too fast to be attained throughout the whole of the encounter, and as might naturally be expected, the players tired badly towards the end. For three quarters of the struggle the pace never slackened for an instant, both teams going at the maximum speed. There were brilliant combination attacks, startling individual rushes, good shooting, clever goal-keeping and defence work, everything that goes to make up a grand game of hockey, and the spectators were wildly enthusiastic as the two teams battled along under a full head of steam. The game, despite the lightning pace, was clean all through, although there were nine penalties and several minor injuries. Park of the Peterborough team, received a bad cut over the eye, Kelly received a similar souvenir, and Cummings, of Trenton had his ankle hurt and was forced to retire for good at half time. Peterborough easily earned their victory, laying a grand game throughout. Not a weak spot was in evidence in the team's work from one end of the game to the other. The defence worked as if they had been together for years. They were cool and steady, refused to be drawn out and could not be beaten, either by Trenton's individual efforts or by the two men combination the visitors essayed to play. Invariably they took the man with the rubber before he could get in close, and when he shot from outside, Derocher took care of the shot. On the forward line, Peterborough had easily the better of the argument, showing the more speed and better team work. Trenton found the team a very different proposition from the team which they beat so easily the week before last, and the visitors were badly at sea before the struggle was over. They came on the ice expecting to win, and it was an awful shock to find themselves unable to penetrate the defence, while on the other hand their opponents were piling up the counters, Derocher played one of the best games of his career between the posts, blocking dozens of well meant drives with the greatest steadiness. Time after time when Fletcher or Armstrong shot, the Peterborough goaler was there with a timely stop, and he cleared quickly as well. Four of Trenton's six goals were shoved in from scrimmages, and at least two of these were going wide of the nets when they caromed in off someone's stick. In front of him, Glover and Denison were a magnificent defence, which handled the rushes of the visitors systematically and effectively, refusing to allow them to get in individually or by combination either. Both checked and blocked well, and Denison's rushing was a feature of the game. The husky young cover-point went down the ice like a meteor and straight for the goal, and the Trenton team found him a most difficult proposition to stop. He was at it all the time and keep feeding his forwards from one end of the game to the other, scoring two goals himself and figuring in a number of combinations that were responsible for other counters.

Every one of the forward line played a star game. Bud Kelly played the best hockey he has done this season, and had it all over his check, Powers. He was a veritable human dynamo, tearing up and down his wing at express speed, and shooting like a Gatling gun. His two goals at the beginning of the second half were pretty to watch, and his work all through was spectacular and effective. Park, the featherweight centre, showed a world of speed, beautiful stick handling ability and a neat, speedy shot from any old angle. Around the nets he was always dangerous, and several of his rushes were of a circus variety. Capt. Ray was in his old time form, rushing nicely, passing unselfishly and coming back with every Trenton attack like a flash, being of invaluable assistance to his defence. Sorel, at right wing, handled himself splendidly while he was in the game, but he did not get much of a chance to shine, as he was only on about fifteen minutes, going off for repairs in the middle of the first half, and then retiring with Cummings at half time. The stars for Trenton were undoubtedly Croft at point, and Armstrong, the crack wing. Croft played a marvellous game, both on the defensive and on the attack. He broke up rush after rush and his counter charges, although he was closely checked, were always dangerous. He has lots of speed and is a wizard stick-handler. Armstrong was always working and in the last fifteen minutes was the freshest and about the best man on the ice. He kept boring in with the rubber all the way, and when the Peterborough forwards failed to check back, he was especially dangerous. Fletcher, the little centre man, who did so much damage against Peterborough in Trenton, was never in the limelight last night. A couple of body checks seemed to take the ginger out of him and he was so closely watched that he never got a chance. Powers was outclassed by Kelly. McGaw, the big cover-point, worked like a hero, and in the second half came to the rescue of his tired forwards by going up on the attacking division. McGiffin, in goal, was good, making a lot of clever stops.

The teams were:—

	TRENTON.
	McGiffin.
	Croft.
	McGaw.
	Cummings.
Powers	Fletcher	Armstong
Kelly	Park	Sorel
	Ray.
	Denison.
	Glover.
	Derocher.
	PETERBOROUGH.

It was 8.40 o'clock when Referee Whitehead called the players together and started the big battle, after giving them the usual preliminary warnings. From the face Peterborough rushed, Ray, Park and Sorel combining nicely. McGaw, however, intercepted and relieved with a pretty rush, which Denison stopped, Trenton came back with a combination attack, but Glover spilled Cummings with a body check and Ray tore loose with a rush along the boards the length of the rink, only a clever check by Croft saving a score. Croft carried the rubber back to centre before he was stopped. Ray rushed but McGaw blocked nicely. Park, however, secured and wiggling around McGaw, handed the rubber to Sorel as he was bodied by Croft and the right wing notched the first goal for Peterborough in three minutes on a shot from well in. The goal was greeted with the wildest enthusiasm from the huge crowd. Peterborough 1, Trenton 0.

The ice, seemingly firm at the beginning, was already getting sticky and the skates of the players cut into it easily, while the puck began to stick. The pace was fast and furious with both teams going at top speed. Trenton were not discouraged by the first goal being registered against them and came back hard. Armstrong and Fletcher combined nicely but Derocher made a phenomenal save of Fletcher's wicked drive and then took care of a second shot in the same manner. Kelly made a pretty rush along the boards, but McGaw saved, and Armstrong came down alone and circling around the Peterborough defence in clever fashion, shot from outside Glover dead on for the corner of the nets. Derocher, however, grabbed it off with his hand and cleared quickly. The Peterborough forwards combined for a nice rush, which came to grief on the Trenton defence and then Fletcher countered with a lone dash but shot high. Peterborough were working like demons and chased the play to the other end, where McGiffin was called upon to make several sensational stops. Finally, however, Park beat him with a beautiful scoop shot with his back to the net and the score was Peterborough 2, Trenton 0.

Park followed up this pretty score by a beautiful rush in the next few moments of play, that almost resulted in another goal. A moment after he was benched for slashing and Kelly was chased for the same offence, leaving Peterborough two men short. The visitors were quick to take advantage of their superiority in numbers and forced the play. Armstrong and Powers came down nicely, but Glover stopped the rush. There was a scrimmage in the corner near Peterborough's nets for a moment, from which Powers snapped the rubber across the rink to Armstrong, who scored on a neat shot. The play is a favourite with the Trenton advance guard and worked successfully on this occasion. Peterborough 2 Trenton 1.

Park came back on the ice at this stage, but Trenton had still the advantage of one man to the good and they made use of it to score again before Kelly's penalty was served. Powers brought the puck around from behind Peterborough's nets and Fletcher was on hand to poke it through. Score, Peterborough 2, Trenton 2.

Kelly came on again and the teams were even up. The play was of the end to end variety, both teams setting an awful pace in spite of the fact that the ice was getting momentarily softer. Powers scored for Trenton on an offside but the goal was not allowed and Powers was benched for loafing. Peterborough were having the better of the argument and finally Denison broke the tie by the most sensational rush of the night. Getting the puck at his own goal the Peterborough cover-point tore down the ice like a winged thing, skating away from the Trenton forward line and winding around the defence, ending up with a beautiful shot from the side that fooled McGiffin completely. It was the feature play of the evening and the crowd went wild with delight. Peterborough 3, Trenton 2.

Peterborough were in around, and all over Trenton at this stage, the forwards checking back splendidly and hampering their checks, so that the defence had an easy task in stalling off the Trenton rushes. On the other hand the Trenton defence did not seem to know just how to meet the advances of the Petes. Sorel came near scoring after a pretty rush. Croft relieved but was stopped by Denison, and then Park got away for a nice rush which landed him through the Trenton defence. McGiffin blocked his shot nicely, but Kelly snapped the rubber in before he could clear. Peterborough 4, Trenton 2.

Sorel was hurt and had to retire for repairs, Trenton dropping Cummings to even up. Peterborough had away the best of the argument. Denison started a pretty rush, passed to Kelly, who returned at the mouth of the net and Denison slammed another past McGiffin. Peterborough 5, Trenton 2.

Just to show that Trenton hadn't given up, Armstrong tore off a pretty rush, but Derocher pulled off a beautiful save and cleared in the corner. Peterborough rushed nicely and although McGiffin made a pretty stop, Ray fooled him with a scoop shot from the side. Score, Peterborough 6, Trenton 2.

Trenton rushed from the face and Derocher was called upon to take care of a vicious drive from Armstrong's stick, which he did nicely. Peterborough retaliated with a combination rush which ended in Park snapping the rubber behind McGiffin on a neat pass from Kelly. Peterborough 7, Trenton 2.

With a minute to play Kelly was benched for hooking Fletcher. Sorel and Cummings came back at this stage, but half time was called a moment after with the score unchanged.

When the teams returned to the ice after the rest it was found that Cummings of the Trenton team was unable to continue because of an injured ankle and Sorel remained off with him. Kelly had a minute more in the penalty box to serve and the half started with Peterborough playing five men to six. The first few moments were featured by a beautiful rush by Denison. Kelly came back again, but Glover was sent away for cross checking. Even with the advantage of a man to the good Trenton could not hold the Petes. Kelly cleverly took the rubber away from Armstrong and Powers at centre and circling down the right wing, shot dead on. Croft stopped the shot, but Kelly followed it in like a flash and lifted it in behind McGiffin. Peterborough 8, Trenton 2.

Ray, who was checking back like a fiend stopped a pretty rush by Croft but Whitehead did not like the slashing method used and the Peterborough captain was benched. Kelly tore down the side and beat McGiffin with a pretty shot. Peterborough 9, Trenton 2.

The Petes were having all the better of the play and McGiffin was worked overtime. He stopped half a dozen likely heaves from Kelly, Denison and Park, but finally a pass from behind out to Park, who was camped in front of the nets, resulted in another Peterborough counter. Peterborough 10, Trenton 2.

One of the prettiest plays of the night was responsible for the next goal. Denison started a rush, passed to Park, who returned at lightning speed and Denison handed it back again as the nets were reached, Park flipping it neatly against the twine from close in, Peterborough 11, Trenton 2.

McGaw was penalized for slashing. The play was still fast, although not marked by the same tenacity in checking as featured the first half. Ray took cramps and the game was pulled up until he recovered. A few moments later Park was hurt and had to retire, Trenton dropping McGaw and leaving the teams with five men each. Peterborough still pressed. Glover started a rush, passed to Kelly, who returned. Croft succeeded in knocking Glover off his feet as he received the pass, but he hoisted one past McGiffin while on his knees. Peterborough 12, Trenton 2.

Park and McGaw came back into the game at this stage. Peterborough let up with a ten goal lead and the forwards did not bother about checking back, with the result that the defence were given a lively task in holding off the advance of the visitors. McGaw and Croft, the Trenton defence men, were especially aggressive and with Armstrong, the speedy left wing, kept tearing down on the Peterborough nets, only to have Denison or Glover block the rush or Derocher stop the shot. Finally, however, Armstrong went down by himself with a beautiful rush and a neat shot from the side gave Trenton their first goal of the half. Peterborough 12, Trenton 3.

Trenton were having the better of the play at this period with the failure of the Petes to check back and Armstrong tallied again from a scrimmage. Peterborough 12, Trenton 4.

The visitors kept plugging along, Armstrong in particular working like a fiend and in a minute had scored again, the left wing man shooting from a scrimmage, and the puck caromed into the nets off Denison's stick. Peterborough 12, Trenton 5.

The Trenton team were working desperately to pull down the lead, while the Petes had slackened up and it was Trenton who landed the next goal. Fletcher shooting from a mix-up. Peterborough 12, Trenton 6.

This was the last tally, however. There were only a few minutes left to play, long enough for Peterborough to secure another. Ray and Glover were both penalized and the Petes played four to six for two minutes. However, Trenton could not score again. When Ray returned he and Denison got away with a pretty combination rush, which resulted in a goal by the former, ending the scoring as time was called shortly afterwards. The summary follows:

DYSPEPSIA
Can Be Cured.

This disease is the all prevailing malady of civilized life, and one which oftenest baffles all ordinary treatment. It gives rise to a great variety of distressing symptoms, such as distress after eating, rising and souring of food, wind in the stomach, heartburn, etc.

Nearly everything that enters a weak dyspeptic stomach acts as an irritant; hence the great difficulty of effecting a cure.

The long train of distressing symptoms, which render life a burden to the victim of dyspepsia, may be promptly cured by the use of Burdock Blood Bitters.

B.B.B. regulates the stomach, liver and bowels, stimulates secretion of the saliva and gastric juice to facilitate digestion, purifies the blood, and tones up the entire system.

Mrs. Herman Dickens, Benton, N.B., writes: "I have used Burdock Blood Bitters and find that few medicines can give such relief in dyspepsia and stomach troubles. I was troubled for a number of years with dyspepsia, and could get no relief until I tried Burdock Blood Bitters. I took three bottles and became cured, and I can now eat anything without it hurting me. I will highly recommend it to all who are troubled with stomach trouble."

MEETING OF THE LIBRARY BOARD

A meeting of the Library Board took place in the board room this morning at 8 a.m. Those present were Messrs. E .H. D. Hall, chairman, T. F. Matthews, H. R. H. Kenner, H. Ritchie, D. Spence and A. Mowat.

The minutes of the last meeting were read and duly accepted. A letter from Mr. H. B. Collier, president of the Royal Astronomical Society, was read, asking for the use of the hall in the Library building for 10 or 12 meetings during the year.

The request was granted with a rent of $2.00 per meeting atached.

Another letter was received from E. D. Marwood, librarian, Brantford and contents adopted relative to the bining of books and magazines.

The reading room of the library will be thrown open to the public on Feb. 1st next.

The Finance committee, which met last night, also adopted a couple of reports in connection with the library. One was that the City Counciu be asked to provide $2,000 for maintenance and purchase of periodicals.

A letter was read from the Central Ontario Medical Association, requesting use of room in library during the year; also one from the Women's Art Association for the use of room in library for an art exhibit to be held in February next.

To Enquire Into G.T.R. Wreck.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—An investigation into the cause of the Collins Bay wreck on Monday will be held by the G.T.R. officials, who are determined to punish the party responsible for the disaster. They hold that either one of two employes is to blame. The Kingston despatcher may have issued a wrong order, or the rear brakesman on the first train may have neglected his duty in protecting the train when he knew the second train was following. The Dominion Railway Board may take part in the investigation.

Gladstone Denounced.

London, Jan. 25.—Great excitement and resentment have been aroused in Rhodesia and South Africa generally, according to despatches received here, on account of the new governor, Viscount Gladstone, commuting the death sentence on a native for criminal assault on a white woman.

Influential meetings of protest have been held in Bulawayo and elsewhere, at which Governor Gladstone's interference has been hotly denounced.

Sold Genuine Illegally.

Montreal, Jan. 25.—In the recorder's court yesterday morning, Achille Goyette, a druggist in this city, was ordered to pay $25 and costs or go to prison for three months for the illegal sale of cocaine. Last November Recorder Dupuys gave a similar sentence, and strongly rebuked Goyette for what he described as a cowardly act.

WILL STOP FLYING.

One of the Terms of De Lesseps-Mackenzie Wedding.

London, Jan. 25.—A real aviation romance will culminate to-day when Count Jacques de Lesseps, of France, will be married to Miss Grace Mackenzie, a Toronto girl, and daughter of Sir William Mackenzie, president of the Canadian Northern Railway.

Most of the prominent members of French, American, Canadian and English society here will attend the nuptials at St. James' Church.

Sir William Mackenzie, who was gazetted for knighthood because of his services in developing Canadian railroads, several weeks ago, arrived here yesterday accompanied by Lady Mackenzie.

Count de Lesseps met Miss Mackenzie last July when he visited Toronto and took part in the aviation meet there. She attended the international aviation tournament at Belmont Park, N.Y., and made several flights with him.

Count de Lesseps was one of the trio to make the Statue of Liberty flight over Brooklyn. He is the son of the builder of the Suez Canal, and his father was one of the starters of the Panama Canal.

After a honeymoon in Egypt the count and countess will reside in Paris.

One of the conditions of the marriage is that the aviator shall not attempt any dangerous aeroplane flights in the future.

Sleeper Tariff Approved.

Montreal, Jan. 25.—The Railway Commissioners yesterday morning gave their formal approval of the new sleeping and parlor car tariffs, which will go into effect on the 15th of February. As pointed out by Chairman Mabee, the new tariffs will make a general reduction in Pullman car rates, in spite of the fact that the rates west of Calgary will be higher by two mills per mile than in the eastern sections of Canada.

The new tariffs, Judge Mabee said, were the first effort to put the sleeping and parlor car rates on a scientific mileage basis.

East of Calgary, 6 mills per mile would be charged for sleeping car berths, with a 20 per cent. discount on the upper berths. In the case of parlor cars, 5 mills per mile will be the charge.

West of Calgary sleeping car rates will be computed on the basis of 3 mills per mile, with a 20 per cent. discount on uppers. The railway companies explained the difference by saying it costs more to haul the cars through the mountains. The parlor car rate will be two-thirds of a cent per mile.

Boat to Open Harbor.

Montreal, Jan. 25.—Edouard Duplessis has invented an ice-plow boat which he believes will solve the problem of keeping the port of Montreal open for navigation during the winter months.

This new boat is not of the same pattern as boats for breaking ice in the St. Lawrence. It does not ride upon the top of the ice and break it by sheer weight, but cuts the ice as the share of a farmer's plow turns the sod.

Mr. Duplessis is a French-Canadian and was born 60 years ago at Three Rivers, Que. He has been a mechanical engineer for thirty years, and is at present employed by the Canadian Government at Sorel as a mechanical engineer. During the life of Mr. Duplessis, including his last invention, he has patented and marketed 35 different devices.

Phillips, the Novelist, Dead.

New York, Jan. 25.—David Graham Phillips has lost his brave fight for life. He died in Bellevue Hospital late last night, a victim of Fitshugh Coyle Goldsborough, an eccentric and emotional musician, who, although of refined tastes and aristocratic southern stock, shot the novelist down Monday for a fancied grudge, then killed himself.

Fatally Injured in Explosion.

Galt, Jan. 25.—Laing Cowan, aged 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Laing Cowan of the Hespeler road, was fatally injured on Monday in an explosion while attempting to repair the acetylene gas plant in his home. He was struck on the head by a flying piece of machinery and passed away yesterday afternoon.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

IN a department store not far from here two girls, Miss S. and Miss E., work side by side at the glove counter.

The requirements of this shop as to the attractive appearance of its girls are very strict, and Miss E., the girl who stands farthest from the door on the L. street side, has several times brought down the criticism of the forewoman upon her because her clothes did not look nice enough. Considering the fact that she gets but eight dollars a week such a criticism seems rather trying, doesn't it?

But the girl who works nearest the door, Miss S., far from being criticised, is always so neatly dressed that customers frequently stop and admire her and wonder how she does it. AND she also gets but eight dollars a week.

A day or two after New Year's when some reorganising in the shop was going on and several girls were to be discharged, the forewoman who really wanted to keep Miss E. because she was a good saleswoman, despite her unsatisfactory appearance, conceived a plan.

She summoned both the girls to the office and put it up to them this way: "Both you girls are getting eight dollars a week. Now how much do you pay at home for board?"

Both paid three dollars a week.

"What do you do with the rest of your money?"

"Clothes mostly," said Miss E. despairingly.

"I save a dollar a week and most of the rest goes for clothes," said Miss S.

"Well," said the forewoman bluntly, "that means that you spend about a dollar a week less on your clothes than Miss E., and you look about fifty per cent. better Do you think you could tell her how you do it?"

"I guess it's because of that dollar less," said Miss S. "You see I have saved about that ever since I've been here and I've got over a hundred dollars in the bank, and that makes it possible for me to take advantage of every bargain I see.

"You know," addressing Miss E., "you came in just yesterday and told me about a lovely dress marked down from forty to fifteen dollars that would be just the thing to wear in the shop, but you said you hadn't the money and when you did have it the dress would be gone, and that that was always the way.

"And it would be with me too if I didn't have that money saved. I like to have it saved anyway because it would be fine if I should be sick or anything, but it does me even more good this way.

"I always keep a few dollars a week in my bureau drawer and never let a chance to get what I need at a reasonable price go by. I never buy anything at regular prices. There's not a thing I've got but would cost me from one-third to two-thirds more if I didn't buy it at just the right time. The dress that I've worn all this winter and that you girls think is so swell I bought in the last spring marked down sale, marked from thirty-eight to fifteen dollars. It came from a store that's enough ahead of the styles so that it won't look old fashioned and it's got so little trimming and such nice goods that it don't look shabby ye, and will do me for a rainy day dress nex winter."

"Do you think you could learn to save and do like Miss S. if I'd give you a chance to learn?" asked the forewoman.

"If you'll keep it up for six months I'll raise your pay to nine and yours has already been raised to that, Miss S." said the forewoman.

* * *

I wonder if she will keep it up.

I wonder too if any of the other girls whose purchasing power might be so vastly increased by such a fund will take the hint and do likewise

MORE DEVELOPMENTS IN THE BANK CASE

TORONTO, JAN 26.—It has developed that the Farmers Bank was interested to the extent of thirty thousand dollars loaned to the Welsh Mine in Gowganda district. This has come out in connection with the suit of Nellis Travers and Co., Manager Travers' son, to recover one hundred and fifty thousand dollars. This amount, according to George Wishart, should really go to the bank. There were some proceedings in this case last June, but were dropped until the future of the bank Developments here will likely be very interesting.

Route For the Welland.

St. Catharines, Jan. 27.—That the route for the new Welland canal has been definitely decided upon, and that the work of construction is going to start pretty soon seems evident from the fact that engineers are now at work at Jordan Harbor, which is to be the northern terminus of the new waterway. The engineers are making test holes to find a good bottom which looks significant

Tried to Strangle Child.

New Industry for St. Catharines.

St. Catharines, Jan. 27.—By a majority of 1,501 voter the city yesterday gave 25 acres of free land to the Steel & Radiation, Ltd. The company is to erect $50,000 buildings, and employ 250 workmen, with an annual wage roll of $125,000. The city also gives the company a fixed assessment of $5,600 for three years. $10,000 for seven.

STATESMAN IS DEAD

Sir Charles Wentworth Dilke Passed Away Yesterday—Great Liberal Had Been the Next in Line for Prime Ministership

INVOLVED IN SUIT

London, Jan. 27.—Sir Charles Wentworth Dilke, one of the foremost Liberal statesmen of England, died suddenly of heart disease yesterday, at the age of 68. His death was a direct result of the strain of the recent British election. Following the election he went to the South of France to recuperate his failing health and seemed to gain in strength. He returned to England last Saturday, telling his friends that he had been greatly benefitted by his stay on the continent. On Sunday he suffered an attack which necessitated the administrations of a physician.

Sir Charles was one of the foremost advocates of world's peace and was the supporter of an Anglo-American entente with the idea of preventing war between the powers. He was one of the leading friends of the Suffragettes in England and in 1906 introduced a bill in Parliament that every man and woman should be qualified to vote at Parliamentary and other elections and that no person should be disqualified by sex or marriage from being a member of either Houses of Parliament.

He probably would have been made Premier when Mr. Asquith was chosen had it not been for the scandal of the Crawford-Dilke divorce case in which he was involved.

Some of his Parliamentary orations are masterpieces. He was born in 1843 and was educated at Cambridge, taking up the law. Some of the important offices he has held are Under Secretary of War, President of the Local Government Board, chairman of the royal commission for negotiations with France, chairman of the royal commission for housing working people, chairman of the select committee on Income Tax.

He had written extensively on political topics, some of his works being "The Present Positions of European Politics," "The British Army," "Imperial Defence," and many others.

His recreation was fencing.

Strike May Result.

London, Jan. 27.—A conference of employers and compositors in the printing trade held Wednesday with a view of adjusting their differences and avoiding a threatened strike ended without an agreement having been reached.

The compositors demand a reduction in the hours of labor to a total of fifty hours a week, while the employers have offered to reduce the week's work to forty-two hours. Neither side is prepared to yield. Twenty thousand compositors in London alone have notified their companies of their intention to quit work on Feb. 1.

A Black Hand Case.

New York, Jan. 27.—A panic was created in the Italian quarter, on the upper east side yesterday, when a bomb was thrown into the basement of a store and residence building on East 83rd street. The explosion wrecked the lower part of the building, and shook the neighborhood. John Garlisgo, a grocer, who occupies the basement, admitted to the police that he had received several threatening letters from the "Black Hand."

TAFT'S STATEMENT IN REGARD TO TREATY

President of United States Says Countries Have Many Things in Common—Identity of Interests of Two Peoples Linked Together by Race, Language, Political Institutions and Geographical Position Are Reasons.

Washington, Jan. 27.—"Identity of interest of two peoples linked together by race, language, political institutions and geographical proximity" President Taft gives as the chief reasons for such reciprocity as he recommends in his special message yesterday.

"While equivalency should be sought in an arrangement of this character, an exact balance of financial gain is neither imparative nor attainable," he said.

"The path having been opened," he continues, "for the improvement of commercial relations, a reciprocal trade agreement is the logical sequence of all that has been accomplished in disposing of matters of a diplomatic and controversial character. The identity of interest of two peoples linked together by race, language, political institutions, and geographical proximity offers the foundation.

"A far-sighted policy requires that if we can enlarge our supply of natural resources, and especially of food products and the necessities of life, without substantial injury to any of our producing and manufacturing classes, we should do so now. We have on the north of us a country contiguous to ours for three thousand miles, with natural resources of the same character as ours, which have not been drawn upon as ours have been, and in the development of which the conditions as to wages and character of the wage earners and transportation to market differ but little from those prevailing with us."

President Taft holds that a commercial agreement with Canada is not a violation of the protective principle, as that has been authoritatively announced by those who uphold it. "Our common boundary line of three thousand miles in itself must make a radical distinction between our commercial treatment of Canada and of any other country," he says.

The President says that the Canadians "soon must decide whether they are to regard themselves as isolated permanently from our markets by a perpetual wall, or whether we are to be commercial friends. If we give them reason to take the former view," he adds, "can we complain if they adopt methods denying access to certain of their natural resources except upon conditions quite favorable to us? A notable instance of such a possibility may be seen in the conditions surrounding the supply of pulpwood and the manufacture of print paper, for which we have made a conditional provision in the agreement, believed to be equitable. Should we now, therefore, before the policy has become too crystalized and fixed for change, meet them in a spirit of real concession, facilitate commerce between the two countries and thus greatly increase the natural resources available to our people."

MAY BE AN ASSET.

Travers Has $150,000 Coming From Another Mine.

Toronto, Jan. 27.—From papers on file at Osgoode Hall it appears that former Manager W. R. Travers put considerable money of the Farmers' Bank into another mining venture as well as into the Kesley Mine. It is the Welsh Mine at Gowganda and from this may come as large a sum as $150,000, which may be added to the assets of the bank. Wishart is also interested in this deal, and it is from him that the money will come, should there be anything forthcoming. Wishart believes that anything that may be coming should go to swell the assets of the bank.

The crown was not prepared to go on with the case against the four provisional directors of the Farmers' Bank, when it was called in the Police Court yesterday morning.

A further enlargement was had until a week from yesterday, Feb. 2nd, when Crown Attorney Corley thought he would be in a position to proceed with the investigation.

Mr. Corley explained to Magistrate Denison why it was that he was unable to keep the implied promise made when the gentlemen in question appeared last Friday for the first time to answer a charge of conspiracy to obtain $10,000 unlawfully from the Farmers' Bank.

Dr. John Ferguson, Mr. Alex. Fraser and Mr. Alex. G. Lown, all of this city, and Mr. John Watson, ex-mayor of Listowel, acted as provisional directors of the defunct institution for about two years, while the work of promotion was going on.

They thought—and, had the bank proven a success, might have thought rightly—that their services should be requited in current coin of the realm. They, therefore, are said to have voted themselves $2,500 apiece, and it is because of this action that the existing charge is laid at their door.

The Police Court was again crowded when the four gentlemen against whom summonses were issued answered to the call of the magistrate; the expectation on every hand was that new and interesting developments would be the order of the day.

Sir William Mackenzie is reported to have been robbed by his car porter of $1,000 at Ottawa. The man was followed to Windsor, where he gave up the money and was let go.

Flags of fishing craft in Gloucester harbor are being flown at half-mast, union down to-day, to signal the sentiments of their owners regarding the provision of the proposed reciprocity treaty.

For the first time in the history of swimmon an aeroplane rose from the water yesterday at San Diego, sailed about and returned to the starting point, where it landed on the water. This feat was achieved by Glenn H. Curtiss.

Manitoba farmers, in convention at Brandon, cheered the announcement of the tariff agreement with the United States. They say it will make a difference of ten cents on wheat, and the free entry of cattle to Chicago will solve the freight problem.

Masked Bandits.

Los Angeles, Jan. 27.—Yelling like Indian warriors and firing promiscuously from revolvers in both hands, two masked bandits boarded an inbound Beach suburban car on the outskirts of Santa Monica on Wednesday night, robbed 23 passengers, seriously wounded one of them, and were forced to flee by a single shot fire through the doorway by a passenger.

This shot wounded one of the robbers, and later the injured bandit was captured when he attempted to board a car to come into the city for treatment. He gave the name of Roy Fox, 19 years old.

Sbaretti a Cardinal?

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—A private cable from Rome yesterday announces that Mgr. Sbaretti, formerly papal delegate to Canada, and now secretary of the congregations of religious in the United States, will be a candidate for the cardinalate at the next consistory. Recent deaths having reduced the number of cardinals in Curia to 20, it is expected the consistory will be held this year.

Turkey Purchasing Vessels.

Bremerhaven, Germany, Jan. 27.—The Turkish Commissioners who are here to pick up second hand vessels for use as transports in the navy of Turkey, yesterday purchased the Oldenburg and Darmstadt from the North German Lloyd Steamship Co. The steamers will be remodelled here and immediately after proceed for Constantinople.

Change in Montreal Schools.

Montreal, Jan. 27.—Sir Lomer Gouin has just received the report of the royal commission, composed of Senator Dandurand, Dr. Kennedy and Abbe Perrier, appointed to enquire into the state of the Roman Catholic schools in the city and district of Montreal, and, as the findings are somewhat radical, the document will no doubt cause a stir in the community.

The commission recommends the abolition of the thirty-one school commissions on the Island of Montreal, as existing nowhere else in the known world, substituting one central commission, three commissioners to be appointed by the City Council, three by the archbishop, three by the local Government and three to be elected by the Catholic taxpayers, for this report does not touch upon the Protestant schools.

This recommending of an elective system for a fourth of the commission is a victory for G. Langlois, the progressive M.P.P. for St. Louis division, and the fact of the report being signed by Abbe Perrier, the choice of Mgr. Bruchesi on the royal commission, is a sign of the times.

Then they favor an independent English-speaking Catholic commission, for it is a fact that while the Irish Catholics are but one-tenth of the population, they pay 37 per cent. of the taxes to the Catholic pannel.

License Inspector Dead.

Mount Forest, Jan. 27.—Josiah Hampton, license inspector for East Wellington, died at his home here on Wednesday night from heart trouble, following an attack of la grippe. He was 77 years old, a prominent Conservative in politics, having contested the riding of East Wellington twice for the Legislature Was mayor of the town for several terms, and represented the town at county council, being warden at one time.

Railroad Around Earth.

New York, Jan. 27.—The Tribune says: "If E. H. Harriman had lived he would have had a railroad around the world. This was one of his great ambitions. Another was to see the completion of the Panama Canal. If the Government had not taken up the task of constructing this great waterway, he would have built it himself."

These two secrets, showing the extent to which the late railroad man's ambitions were leading him at the time of his death, were revealed on Wednesday night by Otto H. Kahn, of Kahn Loeb & Co., who was closely associated with Mr. Harriman for more than ten years, in a memorial address at the Finance Forum. The statement was made after the close of Mr. Kahn's formal address and in response to a question from one of his hearers.

Quebec's Budget Under Criticism.

Quebec, Jan. 27.—In the Lower House the budget speech was under criticism at both the afternoon and evening sessions, and at midnight, when adjournment was agreed to, neither the leader of the Opposition, Mr. Tellier, nor Premier Gouin had been heard. The debate was continued yesterday. Messrs. Armand Levergne, Gault, Cousineau and Jean Prevost put the arguments of the Opposition in their best and most effective form.

The colonization methods, the distribution of school funds in a way which gave election patronage to the Government, and the way that liabilities and assets were figured up in the budget, were strongly attacked from the Opposition side.

Mr. Jean Prevost brought the day's discussion to a close at midnight. Mr. Prevost went over the colonization policy of the Government, claiming it might be made more effective, and that not enough attention was paid to the French-Canadians who were lost to the province by emigration to Ontario and the United States.

English Views.

London, Jan. 27.—Few of the London morning newspapers comment on the reciprocity agreement between the United States and Canada. The Morning Post, however, says:

"The American Government will rejoice at having forced the door a little way, thereby obtaining leverage to force it further in the future. President Taft expresses as clearly as diplomatic caution will permit, his conception of the agreement as a prelude to some kind of future political union."

The Daily Express declares that the new bargain strikes a deadly blow at the comfortable pretentions of British free traders. It hopes, however, that the treaty with one of Great Britain's trade rivals may do the Empire invaluable service, demonstrating to the Mother Country the necessity of power to negotiate.

To do this in a perfectly satisfactory manner it is absolutely necessary to give the professional side of the problem concentrated care and study. With this fact in mind we have given the mercantile side secondary consideration, and have devoted our entire time, thought and energy, to scientific eye examination and the making of quality glasses. Our equipment and service are perfect in every detail, so as to enable us to carefully and accurately determine whether glasses are needed or not, and we rightfully claim that none are superior. In cases where medical treatment is indicated, we always refer the case to the family physician.

THE BLACK BAG'S CONTENTS

CHAPTER TWO

The Black Bag's Contents.

The Hopkinses lived in a roomy old house that stood far back among the trees on the main street of Graydon. It was a methodical household. Every morning at eight o'clock Mrs. Hopkins set her husband's breakfast before him. At 8.41, every college day, he left the house.

In the afternoons, when his day's class work was done, the professor was accustomed to spend some time in his laboratory, making experiments the result of which was recorded from time to time in various scientific quarterlies of dignified and learned dulness. In the evenings, after supper, he was wont to withdraw into his study, there to ponder, far into the night, over books on chemistry, metallurgy, and mineralogy.

It was generally known that Mrs. Hopkins had little sympathy with her husband's life work. But their home life, in its way, was entirely happy. Every morning, before the professor was up, Mrs. Hopkins brushed his clothes and laid out a clean collar for him. On Sundays and Wednesdays she put the buttons in a fresh shirt. Such duties as these she considered her life's mission, and she enjoyed them fully as much as the professor did his scientific experiments. Each month when he drew his salary he gave it to her. She kept what she needed for current expenses and deposited the rest in the village bank to their joint account. They entertained nobody except other professors and other professors' wives, and went nowhere except occasionally to these friends' houses.

But a cloud had been forming in their little sky, though it was apparent to the eyes of Mrs. Hopkins alone. For a month previous to the professor's strange disappearance she had noted a peculiarity in his actions. One night, after he had remained up later than usual, he had tossed in his sleep and muttered a great deal. She ascribed it to malaria and for a few days made him take boneset tea and quinine. As these homemade remedies had no appreciable effect, she put it down to nervousness and sighed to think that he would not take a rest.

The professor's habits grew more and more irregular. He stayed up later each night; he frequently missed his meals, failing to return from college in time for his supper on three occasions. Remonstrated with, he grew petulant, and took to running to his laboratory in the evenings, sometimes remaining there as late as midnight. He told his wife that he was conducting an important series of experiments for which he could find no time in the afternoons.

A man who, in eighteen years of married life, has never been detected in a lie to his wife can tell her almost anything and have her believe it. Years of good behaviour place a husband on a pedestal from which the worst of appearances cannot displace him. Yet no pedestal is built upon a foundation firm enough to withstand the terrible force of woman's gossip!

One afternoon the wife of Professor Snyder dropped in to see Mrs. Hopkins. They ran the gamut of calling conversation. The nineteen faculty families were discussed and dissected. Still Mrs. Snyder lingered.

"Professor Hopkins has not been looking well lately," she ventured, after a pause in the conversation.

From the prolonging of her caller's stay Mrs. Hopkins was sure that she had come with some particular object. Instinctively she felt that this was about to be revealed, but she was sufficiently circumspect not to manifest any undue interest. So she replied indifferently:

"I had not noticed one way or the other. Perhaps he is working a little too hard, but he will not listen to me."

At first Mrs. Snyder made no reply. A scornful smile curled her lips. She rose and walked toward the door. Not until she stood on the threshold did she speak. Then she said decisively:

"Yes, we have been talking of that. He spends most of his evenings at his laboratory, doesn't he?"

"Yes," said the unsuspecting Mrs. Hopkins. "He is conducting some important experiments."

"So I understand," said Mrs. Snyder. "Very important! And very scientific!" She paused to watch the effect of this shot upon Mrs. Hopkins, and enjoyed seeing her wince. Then she continued:

"And I believe very interesting! In fact, I think they would interest you especially!"

"I don't think I quite understand!"

"I mean—and say it not as a trouble-maker, but as your best friend—I would make it a point to find out just what these experiments were and who spends the evenings with the professor while he is making them!"

Before the distressed wife could rally to her husband's defence, Mrs. Snyder, her deadly shot delivered, had gone, leaving her alone to face a situation absolutely novel to her. Her first thought was one of amusement at the absurdity that Josiah Hopkins could be guilty of deceit. Her next thought was one of indignation that Mrs. Snyder could dare to make such an insinuation. If Professor Hopkins had arrived at that moment he could have reassured his wife, and the third thought never would have come. But, alas! It did come.

His peculiar behaviour of the last few weeks! His absence from home every evening! His abstraction! His petulance! Scientific experiments had never before affected him thus. There must be something wrong.

The troubled woman made a brave struggle to drive these thoughts out of her mind. She prepared supper, and decided while doing this that Mrs. Snyder was a gossiping trouble-maker. As though her Josiah—poor, patient, shabby Josiah—could be guilty of—pooh!

Nevertheless, she was determined to watch him closely.

It was Saturday evening; the professor should be home early on a Saturday. But the afternoon passed, it came six o'clock, the supper hour, and he was not at home. When he finally arrived it was evident from his manner that he was greatly excited over something. He barely spoke to his wife or noticed the children during the meal, and when he had bolted it, he went directly to his study, where he remained until long after his wife had retired.

On Sunday morning Professor Hopkins accompanied his family to church; but the same abstraction he recently had observed all the time possessed him, and he hardly seemed to be aware of where he was. In the afternoon he put on his hat, saying that he must go to the laboratory, and though he returned in time for tea his actions were in no wise different from the previous day.

That night when he had gone to bed, his wife listened to her husband's laboured breathing. She made sure that he slept soundly, then she slipped quietly out of bed, picked up a candle and crept into the hall, carefully closing the door behind her. Guiding her way by the dim light, she moved softly down the stairs into the professor's study. She gave a little cry of satisfaction as her eyes fell on the black bag, in which he always kept his papers, lying on his desk. Though on six days in the week she was accustomed to put his luncheon in his bag, she had never before been sufficiently curious to examine its contents. Now, however, she upset the shabby receptacle and began a systematic inspection of what it held.

There were some sheets of foolscap carefully folded. She recognized these from their external appearance as examination papers and put them aside as not worth further scrutiny. There were many smaller bits of paper—some crumpled, covered with the letters and figures of chemical formulæ. Though familiar with the appearance, if not the meaning, of these, she went over them one by one.

We can always find that which we dread. Mrs. Hopkins' search was rewarded. Hardly believing her eyes she held one crumpled slip under the flickering rays of the candle, her hand trembling so that she could scarcely hold the paper still enough to read it. But she did read it, and it said:

"Saturday.

"Dear Professor Hopkins:

"I am ready to go whenever you wish. Have no fear that I will give a hint of your plans to anybody. You may rely on me absolutely.

"Ernesta".

Stunned by her discovery, Mrs. Hopkins reeled and fell against the desk, upsetting the candle, which rolled to the floor and was extinguished. Then, in the dark, she groped her way to the door and crept noiselessly upstairs to bed.

ENTER DETECTIVE SULLIVAN

CHAPTER THREE

Probably there were not ten persons in Graydon who could not have enlightened Mrs. Hopkins as to the identity of "Ernesta." No all-conquering football eleven or speedy crew has yet brought such fame to this ancient college as to swell its roll of students to large proportions. Even an inconspicuous freshman is easily identified by seventy-five per cent. of the villagers, and Ernesta Frost was by no means one of the least conspicuous students. That Graydon is a co-educational institution has already been inferred. That is the only modern departure it has ever made. The admission of young women to its benefits being comparatively a recent innovation, their presence in Graydon has not yet lost its novelty, and each of the feminine students stands out strongly marked and commented upon by the population.

But Mrs. Hopkins herself, thoroughly consistent in her lack of interest in matters educational, never had paid the slightest attention to the personnel of her husband's classes. As the sleepless hours wore on she mentally enumerated the people she knew in the village; but though she tabulated them all, there was none among them bearing the name of Ernesta. Thus, by the simple process of elimination, she came to the conclusion that if Ernesta were not a villager, she must be a student of the college. This point settled, her mind reverted wrathfully to the contents of the incriminating note. Though she had read it but once in the candle light, every word had burned itself into her memory.

Tightly imprisoned in the modern shoe the feet perspire and the skin is chafed and irritated until it is in anything but a healthy condition. Corns and bunions are formed and walking becomes torture. Possibly you never thought of Dr. Chase's Ointment in this connection but it brings wonderful relief and comfort almost instantly. Its soothing, healing effects are magical.

Remedies are Needed

Were we perfect, which we are not, medicines would not often be needed. But since our systems have become weakened, impaired and broken down through indiscretions which have gone on from the early ages, through countless generations, remedies are needed to aid Nature in correcting our inherited and otherwise acquired weaknesses. To reach the seat of stomach weakness and consequent digestive troubles, there is nothing so good as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, a glyceric compound, extracted from native medicinal roots—sold for over forty years with great satisfaction to all users. For Weak Stomach, Biliousness, Liver Complaint, Pain in the Stomach after eating, Heartburn, Bad Breath, Belching of food, Chronic Diarrhea and other Intestinal Derangements, the "Discovery" is a time-proven and most efficient remedy.

"PIMPLES"

Broke Out All Over Her Face.

Pimples are caused, almost entirely, by bad blood, and there is only one way to get rid of them, and that is to get at the seat of the trouble by using a good reliable blood purifying medicine.

Burdock Blood Bitters has been on the market for 35 years, and is one of the very best blood medicines procurable. After using it you will find that the pimples have disappeared, and you will have a beautiful clear complexion.

Mrs. Robert McNab, Badjeros, Ont., writes:—"I am greatly pleased to report the benefit I have derived from the use of Burdock Blood Bitters. About a year ago I became so weak and run down I could scarcely walk, and pimples broke out all over my face. I tried one thing after another, but nothing seemed to do me any good. I was advised by a lady friend to try B.B.B., and before I had used one bottle I felt it was doing me good so I used three bottles, and I am now well and strong, and the pimples have all disappeared."

In Dread Of Piles

Many Believe That Nothing Short of the Surgeon's Knife Will Effect Cure, They Do Not Know

The agony caused by the intense itching, the depressing and debilitating effect on the system, the dread lest a surgical operation might be necessary—these are the things which make piles or hemorrhoids so distressing.

The doctors have been recommending surgical operations as the only cure. But the surgical operation, with all its dangers and expense and pain, does not usually effect a lasting cure.

Many a case has been cured by Dr. Chase's Ointment after the surgical operation had failed. Here is a case which doctors gave up.

Mr. J. Mawer, Roden, Man., writes: "Dr. Chase's Ointment is a wonderful preparation. I had itching piles for over six years, and though I tried two doctors' prescriptions and used many other preparations could not obtain much benefit. The doctor told me there was no cure for me, and that I would have to undergo an operation.

"I bought a box of Dr. Chase's Ointment and was completely cured in one week. As this was six months ago and there has been no return of the old trouble, I believe that the cure is a permanent one."

One thing certain, Dr. Chase's Ointment will bring you relief from the dreadful itching and burning almost as soon as applied.

To make the cure thorough and lasting it is only necessary for you to keep up the treatment regularly and persistently. Don't be satisfied with relief. Dr. Chase's Ointment will cure completely if you will do your part. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

WARSAW, JAN. 24.—Mr. John Crowe, Saskatoon, Sask., is visiting relatives here.

Mr. H. Nicol of Norwood, was in town on business last week.

Mr. Robert Hill, Saskatoon, is spending a few days with friends here.

The 11th and 12th P.P.P. Boy Scouts did some praiseworthy work on Saturday afternoon, when they sanded the icy walks of the village, thus making walking much easier and probably preventing injuries.

In a hockey game at the rink on Monday last the local team defeated a Lakefield team in a friendly game. The return game was played this week and resulted in a reverse score.

The best match of the season will undoubtedly be that of Wednesday, when the senior teams of Norwood and Lakefield meet here in an exhibition game.

Substitutes are Dangerous

Beware of imitations unscrupulous dealers tell you are "just as good as" Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

These cheap concoctions are foisted on the people with the intent to deceive by dealers mindful of their profits only and caring nothing for the health of their patrons. Some go so far as to try to make you believe it is Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey.

When a remedy has been before the public for more than half a century, has been prescribed and used by the best doctors and in prominent hospitals, and has carried the blessings of health into as many thousands of homes as Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has, imitations are bound to arise. But they can imitate the bottle and label only—no one can imitate the contents.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is Beneficial

It is an absolutely pure distillation of malted grain. Its palatability and its freedom from injurious substances render it so that it can be retained by the most sensitive stomach. It has been used with remarkable results in the prevention and cure of consumption, pneumonia, grip, coughs, colds, asthma, malaria, low fevers, stomach troubles and all wasting and diseased conditions.

The genuine Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey is sold in SEALED BOTTLES ONLY. The "Old Chemist's Head" is on the label and over the cork is an engraved seal. Be certain this seal is unbroken. Sold by grocers and liquor dealers everywhere, or direct $1.25 a large bottle.

TO SECURE PROPER WEIGHTS

From Farm and Dairy.

Over 500 farmers who were patrons of cheese factories in 15 counties of Eastern Ontario and Western Quebec walked up in a body to Parliament in Ottawa last week and asked the Government to consider their grievances in regard to ensuring pay for their produce and to enable them to secure proper weights in Montreal. The deputation was received by Sir Richard Cartwright, Minister of Trade and Commerce, Hon. Frank Oliver, Minister of the Interior, and Secretary of State, Murchy. While before the ministers on this important business, a memorial was presented to them, which was passed unanimously the day before, urging the Government to secure as large a measure of free trade in dairy products as is possible to obtain with the United States.

The chief business of the deputation, that of asking for protection for patrons and proper weights at Montreal, concerns, for the most part, only that section east of Kingston. Owing to the great number of small factories in the district east of Kingston, it is quite impossible to have factory inspection. Cheese, on being sold, is loaded on to a car and shipped to Montreal, where it is absolutely under the control of the buyer who grades it, weighs it, and in a week or 10 days, or sometimes longer, the patrons receive their returns.

MANY FAILURES IN RECENT YEARS

During the past 25 years, there have been, on the average, failures amongst cheese buyers averaging over one a year. These failures have been for amounts varying all the way up to one half a million dollars. The patrons who sold cheese to these men who failed had to stand the loss since they could not obtain pay for the cheese entrusted to the buyers, save in some cases where they got a settlement ranging from four to 24 cents on the dollar.

The deputation presented the Government with a memorial in this connection asking that buyers be required to furnish bonds covering the value of the cheese they purchased in order that patrons may be effectually protected, even as the western wheat growers are now protected, buyers there having to furnish bonds covering the amount of their purchases.

WISH TO RETAIN COMPETITION

This request as made to the Government would seem on the face of it to be something that the patrons could grant themselves, or in other words, remedy the evil, by selling only to buyers of high standing. In this connection, however, it was pointed out that should such a remedy be sought, it would place the whole industry in the hands of a very few buyers and would thus unduly do away with competition. The protection asked for was to enable the small buyer to do business and still give the farmer protection and assurance that he would receive pay for his cheese.

The memorial covering the matter of weights of cheese and the weighing in Montreal recounted the rules governing the weighing of cheese and butter as are now in force, and asked that the Government appoint an official weigher, who will weigh all cheese and butter shipped into Montreal, instead of the present weigher, who is an appointee of the Montreal Produce Merchants' Association. The memorial covering this request was a lengthy one and analysed in detail the whole question and pointed out the estimated loss to numerous factories in the matter of short weights.

AN INJUSTICE BEING DONE

Much dissatisfaction exists in connection with the present method of striking an average weight from the few boxes of cheese upon which the calculation is based. The facts presented showed that injustice was being done right along to the patrons in this connection. The memorial suggested that legislation be enacted whereby five cheese or 10 per cent of each shipment of cheese be weighed in one lot, instead of each box of cheese separately, and that the actual weight be given instead of the up beam, with one quarter or one half pound, as is the custom. It was believed that by this method an honest average would be obtained, and that the dairymen would receive their just returns.

Sir Richard Cartwright in reply to the requests of the deputation promised in the usual manner the consideration of the Government and assured his hearers that the Government was anxious to pay particular attention to the dairy interests and to further dairying in every reasonable way because of the effect of the industry in conserving the resources of the Dominion.

AMENDMENTS PROPOSED

From Farm and Dairy.

Amendments to the present Dominion Inspection and Sale Act were proposed by J. A. Ruddick, Chief of the Dairy Division, Ottawa, at the recent W.O.D.A. convention and met with the approval of the dairymen there assembled. At the present time there is no legislation governing the sale of various kinds of butter. Consequently the practice of mixing various grades of butter and the selling of whey butter as creamery butter is apt to do injury to the reputation of our creameries.

The legislation proposed by Mr. Ruddick would make it an indictable offence to sell whey butter not plainly marked as whey butter; the selling of a mixture of whey butter and creamery butter, or whey butter and dairy butter, or whey butter and milled butter, unless the package which contains such butter is branded as whey butter, the selling of milled butter not so marked; to offer for sale dairy butter in a package containing more than 20 pounds, not branded as dairy butter; and the marking of any butter as "Creamery" unless the package consists wholly of creamery butter.

While provincial laws provide for the prosecution of patrons adulterating milk to be sent to skimming stations or casein factories, the Dominion law has no such provisions. Mr. Ruddick suggested that the words, "or to any skimming station, milk shipping station or casein factory," should be added in all places where necessary in the present act to place the same responsibility on patrons of these plants as on cheese and creamery patrons.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

Not One Woman In Twenty Has a Stong Back.

The kidneys are to blame nine times out of ten.

When the blood isn't properly filtered the poisons that ought to be carried off by the kidneys are sent back through the system, and it's hardly to be wondered that backaches and lame backs come to make life miserable.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a specific for all kidney troubles. They begin by expelling all the poisonous matter from the kidneys, and then heal the delicate membranes and make their action regular and natural.

Mrs. A. H. Hutton, Jr., McCreary, Man., writes:—"Two years ago last spring I had a very severe pain in the small of my back. When I would rise it seemed as if my back would break. My kidneys were very badly out of order, and I would have to get up three or four times during the night. I took one box of Doan's Kidney Pills and they effected a cure."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50 cents per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by the T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

PLAN FOR CHEAP ICE HOUSE

From Farm and Dairy.

Please give me a plan for a cheap ice house and directions for storing the ice.—H. S., Pontiac Co., Que.

A store house that will house ice satisfactorily does not necessarily call for an extensive outlay of cash. Any kind of a shed or cheaply constructed building if properly filled and the ice carefully packed in sawdust answers every purpose. The main thing in putting up ice is to pack the cakes solidly, not allowing large cracks and crevices. A space on all sides of 12 to 18 inches should be left for sawdust. Cover the whole mass of ice a couple of feet thick.

Some system of drainage underneath to carry off the water created by melting must be provided. A very cheap method of providing this drainage is to put in a floor of round poles. The water will readily find its way out under these poles. Ventilation, which can be provided by open windows at opposite ends of the building, is necessary to prevent warm air from standing over the ice causing it to melt. As fast as the blocks are removed the saw dust should be replaced and thoroughly tramped down.

Flooding the layers of blocks of ice with water and allowing it to freeze in the crevices is a common practice but does not result in much benefit. Solid packing of sawdust around the sides and over the top and bottom, and free circulation of air overhead are sufficient precautions to keep ice.

With the record of every enlisted man there is sent to Washington from the recruiting office a series of ink daubs that fill the whole inside of a page and appear at first glance fit only for the waste basket.

To a layman or a man trained in business affairs such a seeming lack of neatness would merit the instant discharge of the subordinate who had forwarded the document. But to the officials of the War Department these imprints have a vastly different meaning. They represent the surest, safest and most convenient method of keeping track of the enlisted men in the service.

The legible part of the record includes a physical examination of the soldier, with all his measurements and two photographs—front and profile views. He signs his name on the cover, and underneath that is "his mark"—a thumb print made with black ink specially manufactured for the purpose. This thumb print may be called the enlisted man's index number On the inside of the page are the whorls of all the finger tips of the right and left hands and the impression of both hands taken at the same time.

To a visitor at the War Department all the befingered records look very much alike at first glance, and because there are 150,000 of them on file one begins to suspect that it is all a fad rather than an infallible means of identification. But on closer inspection it will be found impossible to pick out any two finger print records that are exactly alike. The lines of the finger tips, as fine as threads of cobweb, form such curious patterns that for purposes of comparison they must be accepted as absolute and final.

Major General F. C. Ainsworth, who established the finger print system in the army, is authority for the statement that it has made identification possible where every other method had failed. He says it has enabled the officials to identify bodies of soldiers which otherwise never would have been claimed, has prevented deserters from re-enlisting, has put a stop to fraud in enlistments, has been the means of capturing thieves and other criminals and, incidentally, protected innocent men who otherwise might have suffered injustice.

Naturally the visitor is astonished to learn that a million and a half finger prints (the number of individual records multiplied by the ten fingers of each man) could be so classified as to be of any practical value in tracing a soldier's identity and history, but he is still more amazed when he is told that it is just as simple as the work of a librarian.

The study of astronomy is infinite, but by dividing the heavens into sections and sub-sections on their maps astronomers know just about where to look for any star they wish to observe through the telescope.

The men in charge of the records of enlistment at the War Department have them so classified as to be able to find what they want at a moment's notice. Suppose, for example, the finger prints of an unknown dead soldier are brought to the War Department for identification. An expert looks at them, studies the thumb perhaps a little more closely than the rest, and, recognising the general type or modification of the type, sends an attendant for File 1,004, Division BB. The search is thus narrowed down to a comparatively few records, and within a few minutes the expert completes his comparison.

"Ah! here it is," he says; "the dead man is Corporal Roberts, of Company D, Sixteenth Infantry."

Methods of Classifying.

One of the simplest illustrations of the work of classifying the finger print records, intricate as they are, may be observed in the way that hats are classified in many of the large hotels throughout the country.

A transient visitor, who has never been, say, in Louisville, Ky., before this, arrives and is registered at the Galt House. On entering the dining room, where there are several hundred other men, he hands his hat to a servant at the door. He receives no check or numbered slip. When he has finished the meal and calls for his hat he is not a little surprised to note that the right one is handed to him at a moment's notice. This is not an extraordinary gift of memory, but a knack of classification. It is afterward learned that the hat racks are divided into compartments for the hats of smooth faced men, of men with mustaches, men with beards and bald headed men. These in turn are subdivided by other characteristics of the man himself, so that the task of finding his hat for him is a very simple matter. A well trained doorman seldom makes a mistake.

The work of identifying finger prints of course requires education and skill, but, like everything else, it is easy when you know how. The finger print system has proved such a remarkable success in the army that it has been taken up in the navy and in the Marine Corps with equally good results.

Some of the cases that have come to the attention of the Adjutant General's office since the method has been in operation are unique. The following is related of two men who enlisted at the same time and at the same army post:—

As already stated, the photograph of every soldier must accompany his record. When the records of two different recruits with different names, but photographs that were apparently the same, reached the War Department a short time ago the official who examined them assumed that the recruiting post had inadvertently sent the same record twice, making a mistake in one or the other names. The photographs were absolutely alike as to features and differed only in the manner of dress. The ages, the histories, the measurements, the physical conditions made the two men out to be identical.

The officials of the War Department were about to confiscate or lay aside one of the copies when a comparison of the finger prints was made. Strange as it may seem, the finger prints were totally different. The lines of the hands and the whorls of the finger tips each told their own story in their own way and made it look as though the two recruiting papers were indeed of different men.

The army officers were puzzled but deeply interested. Here they had two records exactly alike, and yet the finger prints of one indicated an entirely different identity from that of the other.

After giving the papers a thorough examination, it occurred to General Ainsworth that perhaps the wrong photograph had been attached to one of the records by mistake. He communicated with the post authorities where the men had enlisted and asked to have the matter straightened out. It was then explained that the two men were twins, who had enlisted on the same day. When photographed one of them wore a collar and the other had none. That was the only way the recruiting officer could tell them apart, and as they were to appear in the ranks in uniform there seemed to be no way of telling them apart in the future. One might be promoted for the other's heroism; one might be sent to the guardhouse for the other's failure to obey orders. In the absence of either, the commanding officer must ask, "Is this you or your brother?" and failing to get a satisfactory reply, demand to see the soldier's hand.

Trap for Deserters.

No fewer than 222 cases of fraudulent enlistment by former deserters, military convicts and others were discovered through the operation of the finger print system of personal identification during the year ending June 30, 1910. In the previous year 340 cases of fraudulent enlistment were detected by the same method.

General Ainsworth, in his annual report, says that at the close of the last fiscal year identification records had been received in 150,382 cases. Of these 34,383 were cases of re-enlistment in which those records made during the previous service were on file. On June 30, 1910, the Adjutant General's office had on file identification records of 116,019 individuals who were then or had been previously enlisted men in the army.

Fugitives from justice have generally regarded the army as a safe refuge from the civil authorities. Soldiers are seldom arrested by the police, except for drunkenness and disorderly conduct, and enlistment under an assumed name at some out of the way post has offered allurements and comforts that could not be found in cities or in continued flight. The police generally look for a criminal in the haunts of his old occupation, and the change from either legitimate or crooked trades to army life brings with it a considerable change in appearance. But if the civil authorities happen to have the finger prints of the fugitive his capture is certain when he joins the army. All the detectives need to do by way of closing this avenue of escape is to go to Washington and compare their records with those of the War Department. Consequently it will seem that enlistment in the army is a fatal thing for a man who has ever once been convicted of a crime in cities that have adopted the finger print system of identification.

Re-enlistment is just as bad for a deserter as it would be for him to surrender. Yet those who do not understand the workings of the system frequently make the mistake of beginning their soldier career all over again under a new name. One case in point was that of Private Adams, who had deserted from a Western post and remained away from the army for a year or more. Some sort of ill luck, when he had to hustle for himself, made the idea of re-enlisting seem very attractive to him. He wandered East, far from his former post, and decided to enlist under the name of John Smith. He stated to the recruiting officer that he had never been in the army before and his behavior would in no way have excited the slightest suspicion. He had previously served but a short time in the army, and since deserting had grown a mustache and was otherwise changed in appearance. The fear of being detected was furthest from his thoughts. He was accepted as a raw recruit. But two days after his assignment to one of the Eastern forts he was astonished when a superior officer touched him on the shoulder and said:—

"Well, Adams, what made you come back?"

Doubtless to Private Adams his discovery seemed nothing short of a miracle, but as a matter of fact it was as certain to come as the call to mess or drill. This is what had happened:—The record of "John Smith" was sent to the War Department to be filed. His finger prints were checked up in the ordinary way to be catalogued, and it was then of course found that they corresponded to a series that had been checked up and catalogued some time before. Comparison was quickly and easily made. It was then seen that the impressions made by the tips of Adams' fingers were exactly the same as those made by the finger tips of Smith. There was no possibility of a mistake. The natural deduction was that Adams and Smith, notwithstanding the discrepancies in the written record and the changes noted in the photographs, must be one and the same man. Such proved to be the case.

Identity Never Lost.

The incident goes to show that once a man enters the army his identity is never lost. The key to his history, dead or alive, is always to be found in the archives of the War Department. Not even mutilation of the epidermis can avail against identification. The ball of the thumb may be nicked and disfigured in many ways, even by the frequent sharpening of a lead pencil with a pocket knife; the ends of the fingers may be blunted and hardened by vocations other than that of a soldier, but the lines are never obliterated so long as the dermis, or true skin, remains. When the cuticle has healed the lines are there as plain as ever. Even in a mutilated condition of the fingers the prints are easily read by experts.

Just as a handwriting expert can tell what sort of a pen was used in the forging of a will, how the hand was held in the sweep and style of the imitation, just so the finger print experts can detect the efforts of a man to blot out those lines which nature has written on his fingers with such a delicate and fantastic touch. When after a microscopic study of the prints they say, "Yes, that is our man," he might just as well acknowledge the truth.

General Ainsworth believes that the finger print test will be of great advantage in times of war for the identification of soldiers killed in battle or who die in the enemy's camp. In cases where hurried burial is necessary an impression of the finger tips could be made and buried with the body. In after years, when the graves are opened and the bodies are to be interred with military honors there would be no difficulty in distinguishing one from another. The finger prints would remain intact as a true and permanent sign of identity, which need only be compared with the set on file at the War Department.

It is recalled that during the civil war hundreds of bodies were sometimes buried together. When disinterred, after the war, for special burial at their old homes, identification was impossible, and the parents or relatives had not the satisfaction of taking their own back to his native heath.

The apparatus for taking finger prints consists of a form holder and ink plate and a roller for spreading the ink upon the plate in the proper consistency. A small quantity of black ink is squeezed from the tube and carefully worked by use of the roller into a thin, even film. The subject relaxes the muscles of his hand and the tips of the fingers are pressed first against the inked plate and then against the paper.

When the impressions have dried the whorls or lines are plainly distinguishable. There are two kinds of impressions, "plain" and "rolled," each showing characteristic lines of positive identification.

One of the most remarkable identifications of a dead person was made last summer through the efforts of the Hackensack (N. J.) police authorities in conjunction with the War Department. The unidentified body of a man was found floating in the Hudson River opposite Fort Lee on August 18. It was apparent that the body had been in the water for several days, as it was badly swollen. The features were almost beyond recognition and there was a bullet hole in the forehead.

There was nothing about the clothing of the man to indicate who or what he had been or where he had come from. His pockets had been rifled. There was not a trinket by which he might have been identified. It seemed very evident that the murderers had taken particular pains to prevent identification, for they had even cut the buttons from the clothing and torn off the maker's tag.

A Case in Hackensack.

Detective Blauvelt, of Hackensack, who was assigned to the case, went about his job in the usual manner and with little hope of success. He took photographs of the body and pieces of clothing, which he exhibited for many days to every person who might throw any possible light on the mystery. The police records of missing men were carefully gone over, but without adding a single clew to the meagre evidence at hand. Suddenly it struck Blauvelt that the man might have been a soldier. He took the photographs and bits of clothing to Washington, but these did not interest Major General Ainsworth. There was just a possibility that the body was not so badly decomposed as to make impossible the finger print clew

General Ainsworth telegraphed Coroner Tracey, in charge of the body, to hold it until the arrival of a government expert to take the impressions. The first prints were so badly blurred by the swelling of the hands that they were of little use for purposes of comparison, but they were forwarded to Washington for the inspection of the War Department. Nothing could be discovered from the distorted lines. Then General Ainsworth sent a surgeon from Fort Jay, who injected in each finger and thumb an embalming fluid which reduced the hands to normal size. A very good record was then obtained and forwarded to Washington. Once more the search was made, this time with immediate results.

"We find that the drowned man is Corporal Richard J. Farrell, of the Sixth company of unassigned recruits at Fort Slocum, New York," was the verdict of the War Department.

The Hackensack detectives were naturally dumfounded at this conclusion, reached with so little difficulty, but could not doubt the proofs, which they were permitted to examine.

Corporal Farrell had re-enlisted on August 3. He had received three months' pay and allowances and then suddenly disappeared without leave of absence. The only tenable theory was that he was murdered and robbed and his body thrown into the river. Probably the body drifted from New Rochelle, where Fort Slocum is situated, down the East River into the bay and was washed by the flood tide up the Hudson River as far as Fort Lee, where it was found near the New Jersey shore.

A similar identification was effected not very long ago when the body of a man believed to be a soldier was found near Cincinnati. It was removed to the military post at Fort Thomas, Kentucky, and finger prints were taken and forwarded to the Adjutant General's office. Identification was prompt and complete. The dead man was a private of the Tenth infantry and information concerning him was at once transmitted to his company commander.

Thus in the various ways described the finger print system of identification in the War Department has contributed not only to the efficiency of the army and navy, but has frequently been of assistance to the civil authorities and a means of insuring decent burial for those who have served the government.

THE BUZZ THAT PUZZLED ANIMALS.

WHEN telegraph poles were first set up they had a most disquieting effect upon various species of animals. In Norway, for instance, at the time of the introduction of these useful articles, the bears were much perplexed to determine their purpose.

The Norwegian bear, hearing the moaning of the wind in the wires, such a buzzing as he had somewhere heard before, proceeded in the ursine fashion to "put two and two together." Such a buzzing must mean the presence of a sweet morsel; the poles must be gigantic hives; so the bear set to work to root the poles out of the ground.

The strange humming also attracted the attention of the woodpeckers, which concluded that innumerable insects were concealed in these tall poles. Therefore the birds went to work to find the treasure, boring holes to extract the insects.

In time, however, they all became wiser, and the telegraph pole or wire came to be used by more than one species of bird as a safe place for its nest. There is a small bird of Natal that used to build its cradle shaped nest in the branches of trees, but as soon as the telegraph wires were set up it changed the location of its housekeeping and built on the wires, so that snakes could not molest its treasures.

The new position was found so secure that the bird added a second door to the nest, which had hitherto possessed only a small opening on the side furthest from the overhanging branch.

For many years the buffaloes of our Western plains utilized the telegraph poles to "scratch their backs," and so delightedly would a group of them attack the poles for this purpose that many of the big sticks were put out of commission.

EASTERN ONTARIO DAIRYMEN'S CONVENTION HELD IN PERTH

From Farm and Dairy.

Incidents of more than usual interest that occurred last week at the thirty-fourth annual convention of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, held in the town of Perth included the following: First, the passing of a resolution urging that the Dominion government be asked to provide for complete reciprocal trade in dairy products with the United States; Second, an intimation by Hon. James Duff, Minister of Agriculture for Ontario that farmers should not seek such trade and that they would be making a mistake to work for such objects through the farmers' clubs; Third, the passing of a resolution seeking legislation by the Dominion government that will necessitate whey butter being branded as such; Fourth, the passing of a resolution urging the Dominion Government to require the exporters of dairy products to furnish bonds to guarantee payment of the goods they purchased as is done by the grain dealers in western Canada; and, Fifth, the passing of a resolution urging the Dominion Dairy Commissioner to appoint a commission of experts to investigate the different methods of paying for milk delivered at cheese factories in both Canada and the United States, with the view, if possible, of recommending some method that will be acceptable to our Canadian dairy authorities.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The following officers were elected: Hon. Presidents, Senator D. Derbyshire, Brockville; John R. Dargavel, Elgin, Ont; president, Henry Glendinning, Manilla, Ont.; 1st vice-pres., J. H. Singleton, Smiths Falls, Ont.; 2nd vice-pres., G. A. Gillespie, Peterboro, Ont.; sec., T. A. Thompson, Almonte, Ont.; treas., Jas. R. Anderson, Mountain View.

Auditors, John Hyatt, West Lake; J. Kerr, Belleville. Representative Canadian National Exhibition, Edward Kidd, M.P., North Gower.

Executive Committee, Edward Kidd, M.P., North Gower, Ont.; J. H. Singleton, Smiths Falls, Ont.; G. A. Gillespie, Peterboro, Ont.; James Sanderson, Kemptville, Ont.; Jos. McGrath, Mount Chesney, Ont.; J. T. Payne, Brinston; Nelson Stone, Norham.

Directors, the members of the executive committee and Messrs. Thos. Thompson, Madoc; Willett Farley, Canifton; Charles Anderson, Overton; J. B. Wilson, Gananoque; John F. McGregor, Alexandria; Neil Fraser, Vankleek Hill; W. J. Johnston, Eamers Corners; W. H. Olmstead, Bearbrook; Albert Scott, Pakenham.

THE RECIPROCITY QUESTION

Possibly the most interest centered around the resolution seeking for free trade in dairy products with the United States. The wide discussion that has taken place on the tariff question since the great deputation of Canadian farmers waited on the Dominion government in Ottawa recently as well as the apparently concerted effort that has been made since in different quarters to create the impression that Ontario farmers are not as anxious for better trade relations with the United States as are the farmers of the West had prepared the way for the consideration of this subject. Considerable interest was felt concerning the stand the convention was likely to take on it.

The motion favoring better trade relations was carried unanimously. Not a voice was raised against it. This goes to prove what has been claimed by the representatives of the farmers that those farmers who have given the matter any consideration at all are practically unanimously in favor of the establishment of better trade relations with the States. A report of the discussion that took place is published elsewhere in this issue as well as of the remarks made later by Hon. Mr. Matheson and Hon. Mr. Duff, both of whom are opposed to Canada's entering into a discussion of the tariff question with the United States.

THE WHEY BUTTER QUESTION

One of the best discussions took place over the question of the branding of whey butter. Chief Dairy Instructor G. G. Publow reported that last year 133 cheese factories engaged in the manufacture of whey butter. These factories, from May 1st to November 1st, made 422,022 lbs. of whey butter. A considerable proportion of the butter was inferior in quality and dealers complained about it. Creamery men were beginning to fear that it would injure the reputation as well as the sale of good creamery butter. A considerable number took part in the discussion which finally resulted in the convention declaring itself practically unanimously, only two voted against the proposal—in favor of all whey butter being branded and sold as such.

GUARANTEE OF PAYMENT

For many years there has been an average of one failure a year among the produce firms handling cheese and butter. Hundreds of thousands of dollars have been lost by dairy farmers whose products have been handled by these firms. A deputation was present from the Ottawa Cheese Board who asked that the Association should join in presenting a memorial to the Dominion government asking that the produce firms shall be required to furnish satisfactory bonds to the government to guarantee the payment to the farmers of all goods they purchase from them.

In the west, grain dealers handling the farmers' grain are required by the Dominion government to furnish bonds to guarantee payment. The grain dealers are required, also, to furnish the government with statements showing the volume of the business they transact so that the government may be able to require them to increase their bonds should necessity for such action seem desirable. The matter was referred first to the resolutions' committee which later reported favorably on the proposal. The convention later endorsed it and subsequently the directors appointed Mr. Edward Kidd, M.P., of North Gower to represent the association on any deputation that may wait on the government in connection with this matter. A meeting of dairymen will be held in Ottawa the latter part of this month to discuss this matter. Cheese factories are being invited to send delegates.

PAYING BY THE TEST

Evidence of the increased interest that is being taken in the matter of determining the most equitable method of paying for milk by cheese factories was furnished by the animated and protracted debate that took place on this subject. All the leading dairy authorities present were agreed that the pooling system of paying for milk was most unfair to the patron supplying milk testing high in butter fat. Chief Instructor Publow stated that both tests, that of paying for milk by the straight test as well as by the test plus two, were more fair than the pooling system.

George H. Barr, Chief of the Dairy Division, Ottawa, pointed out that there was a division among the leading Canadian dairy authorities as to the system of test which should be followed. He claimed that as long as this division existed it was useless to expect the farmers to be agreed upon the subject. This ultimately led to the resolution previously mentioned being carried unanimously. A more complete report of this discussion is given elsewhere in this issue.

THE ADDRESSES.

Aside from the general discussion, the addresses delivered were unusually interesting and instructive. Those on the "Benefits of Cow Testing," by C. F. Whitley, of the Dairy Division, Department of Agriculture, Ottawa; on "Common Sense in the Cattle Stable," by Prof. Geo. E. Day, of the Agricultural College, Guelph; On "Butter Making," by L. A. Zufelt, of the Kingston Dairy School; on Scientific Reasons for Taking Care of and for Cooling Milk," by Dr. M. T. Connell, of Queens College, Kingston; and on "Suitable Crops for the Dairy Farmer," by Mr. J. H. Grisdale, of the Experimental Farm, Ottawa, are either published in whole or in part in this issue of Farm and Dairy, or will be in early issues. An outline of the address of the president, Mr. Henry Glendinning, of Manilla, is published elsewhere in this issue. The annual report of Chief Dairy Instructor, G. G. Publow will be published in full.

IMPROVED QUALITY

A sign of progress was the fact that whereas three years ago, complaints of the poor quality of much of the cheese manufactured in Eastern Ontario, as well as of the condition in which it was marketed, used to be general at the conventions, it was reported last week that 90 per cent. of the cheese manufactured last year had been high grade. Chief Instructor Publow as well as the well known cheese exporters, A. A. Ayer, and A. H. Hodgson, of Montreal, all bore testimony to this effect. The improvement was attributed largely to the work of the dairy instructors and sanitary inspectors.

Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, Toronto, gave a scholarly address which will be mentioned more fully later. An interesting address but one which dealt largely with generalities was given by Mr. N. P. Hull of Michigan, president of the American Dairy Farmers' Association.

Neither Dairy Commissioner J. A. Ruddick or Live Stock Commissioner J. G. Rutherford, of Ottawa, were able to be present owing to sickness. In the absence of Dairy Commissioner Ruddick, Mr. W. W. Moore, of the Cold Storage Division, gave a full explanation of the work that is being done by the Dominion Government in the matter of furnishing cold storage facilities for dairy products from the railway stations in Canada to the docks in Great Britain. The opinion was expressed that the Government should endeavor to extend the icing privileges on the cars in Ontario so that dairymen will be able to take advantage of them for smaller shipments.

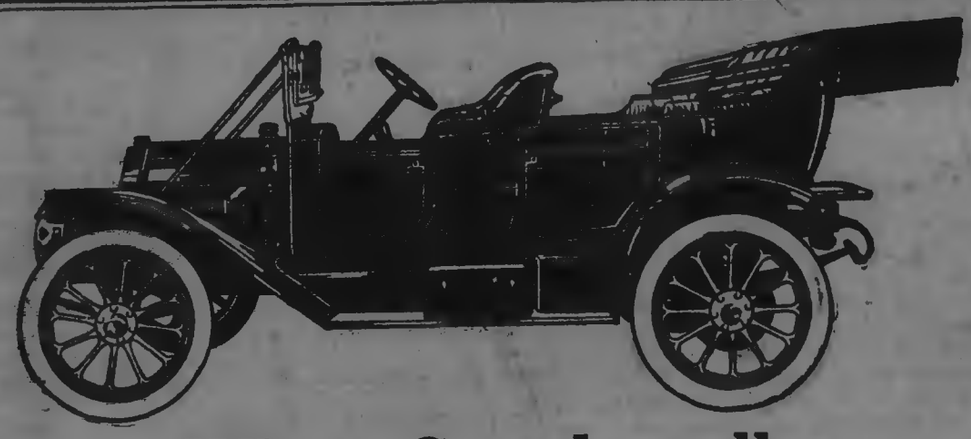
Senator D. Derbyshire of Brockville presided in his own inimitable way at the evening meeting on Wednesday. Mr. J. R. Dargavel, M.L.A., presided at the evening meeting on Thursday. At this meeting, Col. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, presented a special prize to Mr. Victor Begg of Moose Creek, who won sixth place in the Dairy Farms Competition conducted throughout Ontario during the past two years by Farm and Dairy. Mr. Begg made a reply which proved very interesting as did the description that was given of how Mr. Begg had transformed his farm from a wood lot and swamp into one of the finest farms in the province.

WHERE MONEY IS LOST

Dr. Chas. A. Publow, gave an instructive address entitled "Where we are Losing Money in Cheese Making." This address was illustrated by means of charts which drew attention to the little leaks that occur all along the line from the breeding and feeding of the cattle on the farm to the sale of the finished product by the factories. Special attention was devoted to losses that occur through the neglect to pasteurize whey. Figures were given which indicated that were factories to exercise more care in preventing an over run of fat into the whey, they could save more than they do now by being somewhat careless in this respect and endeavoring to regain their loss by manufacturing whey butter.

Mr. Geo. H. Barr, of Ottawa, gave his illustrated address on "The Care of Milk on the farm." Addresses were also given by Mr. H. A. Hodgson, A. A. Ayer of Montreal, G. A. Putnam, Director of Dairy Instruction, Toronto, and by Dr. G. C. Creelman of the Guelph Agricultural College. Hon. Sydney Fisher, as he has on several previous occasions, failed to attend although he had been advertised as one of the speakers.

The attendance at the session was good. On Thursday evening the Opera House was not large enough to accommodate the crowd. The hospitality that was extended to the leading dairymen by prominent residents of Perth, including Capt. Matheson, who kept open house for three evenings in succession, was an outstanding feature of the convention.



When Canada calls McLaughlins respond

CANADA'S CALL

IT is just about three years since the Canadian public first showed a real inclination to use Motor Cars—just about three years since it began to be evident that there was a need for some responsible Canadian firm to produce a line of cars suitable for Canadian conditions. "The Car," said those most capable of judging the needs of Canadian Motorists, "must be simple, durable, economical, powerful—and, above all, reasonable as to price."

McLaughlin s Responded

It is well within the mark to say, that the McLaughlin-Buick has proved the car that fully answers the above requirements. We were pioneers in eliminating for Canadians, the large overhead expenses entailed in experimenting—for we adopted a tested and proved product. We selected the "Buick" as our pattern, because it, more than any other car made, seemed to satisfy the needs of this country.

We Were Right in Selecting the Buick

Three years of success has proven the correctness of our choice. To-day the aggregate value of McLaughlin-Buick Cars in use in Canada exceeds any other. Everywhere you go you see McLaughlin-Buicks—and giving complete satisfaction to their owners.

Why This Big Success?

Here's the answer—under the four important heads that govern Motor Car value:

The Plant

We have the largest and most complete automobile factory in the Dominion—few even in the United States excel it in size or completeness. Only in a plant like ours can cars of real value and real merit be produced. A plant like this behind a car is a better guarantee of satisfaction to the motorist than any mere printed guarantee we have ever seen.

The Car

By adhering to the time-honored McLaughlin Motto—"One grade only and that the best," we have so maintained the Standard that every car we turn out—every representative of every one of our twenty and more models—is a credit to us, and the land that made our enterprise possible. Flawless, Powerful, Reliable, Record-winning, Economical—the McLaughlin-Buick is recognized from coast to coast as the car that best exemplifies the ideals of Canadian motorists.

The Price

Elimination of all unnecessary ornamentation and gaudy frippery—careful buying of materials—large plant and production—these are the features that enable us to produce the cars we do at the prices we ask—prices that are enabling Canadian Motorists to own cars at a minimum expenditure, and, equally important, cars that are economical of operation.

The Firm

The name McLaughlin has become significant of "A square deal to all." It is known wherever carriages or motor cars are known, that we spare neither pains nor rational expense to attain our high ideals of a worthy Canadian product. By establishing branches in the most important centres we are in a position to readily, quickly supply all necessary parts.

In brief, it is no exaggeration to state that

This Firm Has Met The Call

We're filling the needs of Canadian Motordom as no other manufacturer is attempting to do—and—

We want you, if you are an intending purchaser, to go to the nearest McLaughlin Garage—and make us prove it.

SURPLUS FEED

From Farm and Dairy.

More surplus feed than usual is this season available on the farms of Ontario. In order to dispose of it satisfactorily many have purchased steers, which they are now feeding. Probably not in years have there been so many steers feeding in Ontario as there are this winter. These cattle, mostly from the west, were bought last fall at unusually long prices. The markets next spring, or when these cattle are to be disposed of, will need to be abnormally high if the feeder is to realize a fair price on the feed consumed.

Almost without exception, the most profitable way to dispose of fodder and coarse grains as raised upon the farm is to convert it into the finished products of live stock. Feeding steers is one way, and often a good way of disposing of this feed, but the business at its best is one fraught with much uncertainty. Under ordinary good management, the feeder-buyer is sure of what profit is represented in the manure, which is essential for maintaining the fertility of his farm. This item of profit—if so we choose to term it—however, is equally certain, be the fodder given to dairy cows on a farm where all-year-round dairying is practised. And a dairy cow, particularly where special emphasis is laid upon winter production, will yield handsome returns over and above the fertilising value of her manure.

He who is practising winter dairying, as against feeding store cattle, is in an enviable position this year. He need not worry about a profitable market for his surplus feed. He is sure of it. His good dairy cows will consume the home-grown feeds and return good wages for labor in addition to the market price for feed consumed.

And then, we should not over-look the fact that good dairy cows, even in seasons of short crops, can be kept at a profit. Such cattle will give profitable returns even if of necessity we must give them high priced mill stuffs. Furthermore, as is the case with any stock, those purchasing feed to be fed at home will add to the fertility of their farms.

The fact that dairy cows are capable of giving a good return for feed appreciated. The keen demand and consumed is becoming more and more the high prices now ruling for all kinds of milch cows prove this. Hundreds of farmers throughout the country are coming to see the full force of the arguments in favor of winter dairying and are taking steps to have more of their heifers and older cows freshen in the fall in order that they may reap the full advantage of the sure and profitable market before them for their feed marketed as dairy products.

DAIRY INDUSTRY IN CANADA

From Farm and Dairy.

Hy. Glendinning, Ontario Co., Ont.

We frequently hear of the decline of the dairy industry in Canada and our lessened exports are cited as proof of the fact that dairying is on the decline. Such statements should not be accepted without investigation. The exports of cheese from Montreal for the present year during the season of navigation are 17,000 boxes of cheese ahead of last year. The export of cream to the United States to the end of November last was equivalent to 150,000 boxes of cheese. This latter should properly be added to our exports for the year. The home consumption of milk butter, cheese and ice cream is increasing at the rate of over $2,000,000 a year.

There is unfortunately a tendency to measure the progress of the dairy industry by the export trade. The export trade represents only about 25 per cent. of our total production of milk. There is now a very large quantity of both butter and cheese going to the western provinces. Only a few years ago the western dairymen were shipping both butter and cheese to foreign markets. They have trebled and quadrupled their output in the meantime, but home consumption has increased even more rapidly. The home consumption in the east is growing very rapidly. Such cities as Montreal and Toronto alone require an enormously increased supply of dairy products every year to satisfy their needs.

ECONOMICAL GOODS

The high price of meats have caused our people to turn their attention more to butter and cheese, which they have found to be cheaper and of more value as a food than meat. Butter and cheese also possess the advantage of being always ready for the table as they require no cooking.

Reference to the decline in the Canadian cheese trade by Old Country merchants are often being given a wrong interpretation. The impression is given that Canadian trade is declining because of the increase in the New Zealand imports. The reverse is true. The decline in the exports of Canadian cheese is the thing that encouraged the shipments from New Zealand, and the shipments from that country to Great Britain are just about equal to the decline in the exports of Canadian cheese.

Carried Five Passengers.

Paris, Jan. 26.—A new aeroplane record was set here yesterday when Roger Sommer carried five passengers from Douzy to Remilly and returned with them successfully. The total distance covered was about fifteen miles.

This is the first time in the history of aviation that six persons have been carried in an aeroplane. Two of them were compelled to stride the skids.

The flight was made at an average height of 150 feet from the ground, the aviator never rising over 200 feet.

A FACTOR OFTEN OVERLOOKED

From Farm and Dairy.

A factor that is often lost sight of in purchasing concentrated feeding stuffs is their manurial value and the fertility that they bring to the farm. Many of us buy commercial fertilisers when we could enrich our farms at much less expense by purchasing our fertilisers in the form of feed and feeding to stock. If the stock is of the right sort, it will pay for the feed in the milk or beef produced and the farmer has a lot of valuable fertiliser practically free.

It should be borne in mind that the manurial value and feeding value of concentrates do not always correspond. For instance, valuing nitrogen at 20 cents a pound, phosphoric acid at seven cents and potash at four cents, corn meal has a manurial value of $8.58 a ton. Bran, which costs less, has a manurial value of $16.02 a ton. On farms in need of fertiliser, the manurial value should be considered in purchasing feed as well as the feeding value.

Many of us who do not consider that we can afford to buy feed for our cows from the standpoint of increased milk production alone, will find it a paying proposition when the manurial value of the feed is also taken into consideration. It is a cheaper and better method of enriching our farms than is the purchase of commercial fertilisers.

Most of us have but little knowledge of just what our produce should realise when marketed. We are too apt to decide what prices should be by local conditions. To do so is incorrect. The price of any line of farm produce is not controlled by local conditions, but by the average condition of that crop over the whole province and in some cases, wheat for instance, in the entire world. In seasons of large crops in our own localities, we are apt to accept prices, which in view of the condition of the average crop of the province, are too small and on the other hand, in seasons of short crop, we refuse prices which are small in view of the size of our own crop, but which are really high and better than we are able to realise later on.

We expend time, labor, and expense to procure good crops. Is it not worth while then to spend time also in studying the matter of marketing these crops in order to do so to the best advantage. On the marketing of crops depends the returns which we get on our labor and capital. How are we to find out the general condition of crops outside of our own localities?

At intervals through the season, Farm and Dairy publishes reports of the condition of crops received from correspondents in all parts of the province. In our market review and forecasts, prices prevailing in the larger market centres are given. These prices are a good indication of what the price of farm produce should be as determined by the condition of crops over the entire country. A few minutes devoted to following the crop reports and the market review and forecast as given in Farm and Dairy will enable one to form a fairly correct idea of what he should ask for his products.

TEACHER'S NERVES

Teachers often have the reputation of being cross when the trouble is with the nerves rather than the disposition. Mr. A. Sutherland, Principal South Bar School, Sydney, N.S., writes: "I was nervous and worried, had indigestion and headache and other ills. Doctors failed me. You can depend on me to recommend Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food for I believe it has entirely cured me." Tired brains and feeble nerves are soon restored by this celebrated food cure.

FEEDING STOCK

From Farm and Dairy.

I am short of turnips for my stock this winter and have bought about 15 tons of sugar beet meal. Have begun feeding it and the cows seem to like it and the flow of milk has increased. I have high grade and pure bred Ayrshires. Most of the farms around here have hilly and not extremely fertile pastures. I have good middlings and bran, cottonseed meal and perhaps 1,500 bushels of turnips and lots of hay, a great deal of it clover hay. Will the sugar beet meal do just as well fed dry? I want a ration compounded to produce the largest supply of milk from the foregoing feeds. We are feeding at the present time about four quarts of middlings and bran mixed in equal parts, a heaping pint of cottonseed meal, about three quarts of sugar beet meal and a peck of turnips with all the hay they will eat up clean. This is fed twice per day to our heaviest milkers. A feed of hay at noon is also given. Our best cows are going 40 to 45 pounds of milk a day.—J.T.P., East Co., N.B.

The breed of cattle you are using is undoubtedly the one best suited for conditions such as you describe. Holsteins are not likely to do nearly so well as Ayrshires on such hilly pastures as you mention.

The feeds you mention are in every case such as are calculated to give the best results for milk production. I would however suggest making somewhat of a change in your plan of feeding. Since your supply of roots is somewhat limited, I would suggest that you decrease the amount of sugar beet meal you are feeding and slightly increase the amount of bran, reserving the sugar beet meal to replace the roots when your supply is exhausted.

A FEEDING RATION

As a ration for your cows at present, I would suggest the same amount of roots as you are now feeding, whatever hay you can give them and about one pound of meal for each four and a half or five lbs. of milk produced in the day, that is, a cow giving 45 lbs. milk should be getting from eight and a half to nine lbs. of meal. As the mixture of meals likely to give the best results I would suggest bran 400 lbs., shorts 200 lbs., oats 100 lbs., and cottonseed meal 200 lbs. You do not mention oats in your list of feeds, but I have no doubt that they are available, although possibly a little dear. I believe however that the addition of about 100 lbs. to each, 800 lbs. of the other feeds would prove very profitable. Oats have a most beneficial effect upon a meal ration, making it much more acceptable to animals and therefore more effective in milk production.

FEEDING SUGAR BEET MEAL

The sugar beet meal, you will notice, has been left out entirely in the above ration. If you are desirous of feeding a certain amount of it right through, then I would suggest a pound or so scattered on the turnips night and morning. But the great bulk of your sugar beet meal I would advise reserving for feeding after the turnip supply is exhausted. When feeding to take the place of the turnips in the spring, you will find it advantageous to moisten this sugar beet meal over night, that is, if you can prepare a box or vat that will hold water, you should place the amount of sugar beet meal you are likely to use the next day and add about three times as much water by weight, and let it soak over night. In this way you will get a most succulent, palatable and valuable feed for cows not getting any other form of succulent forage.—J.H.G.

FEEDING OF FOODS HIGH IN PROTEIN

From Farm and Dairy.

In the Dec. 1st issue of Farm and Dairy the feeding of foods high in protein, such as cotton seed meal, is advised. At one time several farmers in this neighborhood clubbed together and got a carload of this feed for our cows, but found that it was decidedly injurious. How should it be fed to avoid injurious effects? Can it be fed with safety to other kinds of farm animals? How is cotton seed meal made?—W. K., Oxford Co., Ont

Cotton seed meal testing 37.9 per cent. digestible protein and 13.2 per cent. fat is a heavy food and must be fed in limited quantities and in combination with other meals to get best results. The mistake most commonly made in feeding this meal is to feed too much of it alone. A combination of bran and cotton seed is the ideal ration; at least two or three pounds of bran to one pound of cotton seed. If the milk from the cow fed cotton seed is to be made into butter, the cotton seed should be fed in limited quantities as the butter resulting from heavy feeding of cotton seed has a tallowy consistency, poor flavor and has the appearance of being overworked. Where fed in reasonable amounts and in proper combination, however, cotton seed is one of the best feeds available for dairy cows.

On no account should cotton seed meal be fed to either calves or pigs. Calves getting as little as six ounces of cotton seed per day will quickly sicken and die. In an experiment carried on at the Texas Experimental station it was found that the mortality among pigs receiving cotton seed was 87 per cent. Good results have been reported from the feeding of one or two pounds of cotton seed per day to heavy horses when working hard. As a general rule, however, cotton seed must be regarded as a feed for mature cattle only.

Cotton seed meal is the residue left when the oil has been extracted from the cotton seed. At the oil mills, the envelope of the cotton seed is taken off and the oily kernels are crushed, heated and placed between clothes or sacks and then subjected to hydraulic pressure to remove the oil. The residue is a yellowish board-like cake about one inch thick, one foot wide and two feet in length. This cake is reduced to meal by grinding and in that form we receive it.

LITTLE DIFFERENCE

From Farm and Dairy.

There is little difference between the feeding value of the flint and dent types of corn or between white and yellow corn. The corn grain is very rich in starch and low in protein and ash or bone forming constituents, while the corn plant itself contains a large amount of crude fibre. These facts should be kept in mind by the farmer who is feeding corn. Many of the bad results in feeding corn are due to improper methods of feeding it.

Gluten feed and gluten meal are both valuable by-products in the manufacture of starch from corn. They contain from 20 to 30 per cent. protein, and can be fed with corn to balance the ration. Alfalfa or clover hay is also a good feed to go with corn. Corn fodder is similar to timothy hay in feeding value, and corn stover to oat straw.

ENSILAGE THE BEST

Experiments have shown that there is just as large a waste in corn cut and cured dry as where it is ensiled. The great value of ensilage lies in its succulence and in the fact that it provides a large amount of cheap bulky food. Feeding experiments carried on in Vermont show that corn in the form of silage produced 11 per cent. more milk than the same quantity cured dry. At the Wisconsin Experimental Station the increase in milk flow was five per cent. The largest milk condensing concern in the United States will not allow its patrons to use silage, claiming that undesirable flavors are imparted to the milk. Other concerns, however, encourage farmers to ensile their corn.

Ensilage is especially valuable for dairy cows and fattening cattle. For sheep, hogs and horses roots are preferable if they can be had. Ensilage must be carefully fed to growing stock. The farmer must use his brains in feeding ensilage, as the nutrients are not well balanced. It is a feed very high in carbo-hydrates and low in protein and ash.—T.

ARTISTS' EMBLEMS.

In Whistler's Butterfly Could Be Found the Monogram J. W.

The mystic emblem or device of a sort of Whistlerised butterfly was adopted in the sixties by the eccentric genius James Abbott Whistler, who changed his name later to James McNeill Whistler.

Close study will reveal that this peculiar scroll is really a monogram of J. W. The earliest of the etchings to bear the butterfly is "Chalsea Wharf" (1863), but many paintings and etchings after that date are signed "Whistler."

Artists have sometimes signed their pictures in some distinct form instead of their names. It generally was done when the name might suggest some emblem or symbol.

Thus Hieronymus Cock demarked two fighting cocks on his panels; Mariotto Albertinelli signed a cross with two interlaced rings, referring to the sacerdotal duties to which at one time of his life he devoted himself; Martin Rota, a wheel; Pieter de Ryng, a ring with a diamond; Giovanni Dossi, a bone; Del Maso Martines, a hammer; Lionello Spada, a sword.

Sometimes caprice dictated the selection, as when Jacopo de Barberi used the caduceus, or Mercury rod; Hendrik de Bles an owl, Lucas Cranach a crowned serpent, Cornelius Engelbrechtsen a peculiar device resembling a weather vane and Hans Holbein a skull.

Breaking Iron.

A simple way of breaking a mass of iron two feet square and four feet long is to bore a perpendicular hole one inch in diameter and between three and four inches deep. If this is filled with water and closed with an accurately fitting iron bolt one heavy blow on the bolt will break the mass into two pieces.

Spring Tea.

Tea gathered in spring is the best. The leaves gathered later in the year are not nearly of such a fine flavor, as the sap has already been diverted from them to produce new shoots for the coming year.

White as a Color.

Speaking scientifically, white is a combination of all colors—that is, the pure light of the sun when decomposed by the spectrum analysis shows that it is made up of all the colors. Speaking popularly, white is a color, as a paint, and is not a color, as when we say that a person was "perfectly colorless."

Stage Clouds.

Clouds that are very true to life are produced in theatrical scenery by the use of mirrors, which reflect painted scenes representing clouds, movements of the mirrors making the clouds seem to move.

Magnetized Watches.

To test a watch to ascertain whether it is magnetized hold a compass near the escapement wheel. If the points move with the wheel the watch is magnetized.

Aigrets.

The easiest and best way to clean aigrets is to lay them on a towel, take a soft complexion brush, wet with warm water and white soap, rub tightly the way of the feathers until they are clean, rinse in warm water and hang in a cool breeze. It will take from two to four hours for them to thoroughly dry.

THE DETAILS OF THE TARIFF AGREEMENT BETWEEN UNITED STATES AND CANADA

Hon. Mr. Fielding in the House of Commons Shows What the Terms of the Proposed Agreement Are and What They Mean to Canada---The Statement That the People of Canada Have Been Waiting So Anxiously For Is Issued At Last.

THE IMPORTANT FEATURES OF THE SPEECH

In the House of Commons yesterday afternoon, Hon. W. S. Fielding, Finance Minister, announced to the House the details of a sweeping trade arrangement effected in the recent reciprocity negotiations at Washington, between representatives of Canada and the United States. Mr. Fielding's telling speech was delivered to a crowded house tense with interest, which was maintained to the end of the address. After referring to the history of the late negotiations and of previous reciprocity relations and negotiations in the past Mr. Fielding said:

Let me proceed to tell you first in a summary way and afterwards in detail exactly what the arrangement is. In the first place I am glad to be able to tell the House that at a very early stage in our negotiations, several months ago indeed, we informed the representatives of the United States Government that while we desired to make a friendly reciprocal arrangement, while we were most anxious to broaden our trade relations and to establish and continue friendly relations with them, we believed that could be now brought about as well by mutual legislation as by the more definite form of a treaty; and therefore we informed them that while we were prepared to proceed with the negotiations and to make the arrangement as broad and generous as we could, it must be understood that we preferred the form of concurrent legislation, and that it was not our purpose to bind the Dominion of Canada or the United States in the way of a treaty.

Mr. Foster Wants Dates.

Mr. Foster—Can the Minister give about the date at which that information was sent to Washington?

Mr. Fielding—It was never sent to Washington by any communication. It occurred in the personal communications between the representatives of the Government and those of the United States.

Mr. Foster—The date of that?

Mr. Fielding—It occurred in the city of Ottawa at the time the delegates were here. I cannot give my hon. friend the exact date. Intimation was given that while we were anxious to have an arrangement, we preferred that there should be no treaty, and we thought we could show that the arrangement could be made as useful and effective without the formal binding of a treaty.

May be Changed at Will.

It will therefore be found in the document which I shall read presently that we have made no binding arrangement, that if this arrangement which I shall present to you commends itself to your judgment, is found to be advantageous, it will continue, but if on reasonable trial it is found in any way to be unfavourable to the Dominion of Canada, the Government and the Parliament of the day are absolutely free at any time to change the arrangement, and nobody will have any right to complain.

A Large Free List.

The next point is that we have arranged that there shall be a large free list. We have agreed upon a schedule containing a large number of articles which are to be reciprocally free. These are chiefly what are called natural products, though there are some things in them which would hardly be classified in that way. Some of these things are already free in Canada, but have been subject to duty in the United States. We have been able to arrange that the United States shall take off the duty, and, therefore, instead of having what some of our honourable friends have sometimes called a lop-sided free trade, there will be real free trade in this matter, and the things that are free in Canada shall also be free in the United States.

A Common Rate of Duty.

In another schedule we have provided a rather numerous list of items. They have not only come down to our rate, but in some cases they have made some reductions.

U. S. Came Down Farther.

In order to reach that common rate we have had in some cases to make reductions. But as our tariff is a more moderate one, while their in the main is a high tariff, the result was that in order to arrive at a common rate we have had to make only moderate reductions, while they, in many cases, have had to make quite large reductions. There are a few exceptions to this general rule. We have found a few cases with which we desired to deal, but with respect to which we were not able to agree upon a common rate. In some instances it was not so much the rate itself as the classification and the phraseology. Dealing with these cases as exceptions, we have provided one schedule of articles on which the United States may impose the rates of duty therein mentioned on the products of Canada, and another schedule of articles on which Canada may impose the rates of duties therein mentioned on the products of the United States. The idea of reciprocity is in the arrangement, but it does not require both countries to adopt the same rate or the same classification. These two schedules, however, will be found to contain not many items.

Rests on Mutual Good Faith.

Mr. R. L. Borden—If there is nothing in the nature of a treaty, how is this arrangement to be carried out?

Mr. Fielding—My hon. friend will see as I proceed. It is not a binding treaty in any shape or form. The arrangement rests on mutual faith, mutual good will, mutual conviction that the thing is for the benefit of the two countries.

Wheat is Free.

Before dealing with the schedules in detail I want to give an illustration of how we have been able to reach a common ground. For example, take the article of wheat. At present wheat is dutiable in the United States at twenty-five cents a bushel and in Canada at twelve cents a bushel. We make wheat freein both countries. The reduction in Canada is twelve cents a bushel, whereas the United States reduction is twenty-five cents a bushel. I give that as an illustration of the fact that the tariff of the United States being much higher than ours, in order to meet a common rate they have had to make very much larger reductions than we have.

Mr. Owen—What will be the duty on our wheat going into the United States?

Mr. Fielding—The duty on our wheat going into the United States will be nothing.

As another illustration, take the article of barley. It was a large crop in Ontario some years ago, and when the American tariff increased the duty on barley it was regarded by Canadian farmers as a rather severe piece of legislation.

Barley is now made free. Canada's reduction is 15 cents per bushel, and the United States' reduction is 30 cents per bushel.

Take another illustration, an item of importance to many districts in this country, the item of potatoes. Potatoes are now made free. Canada's reduction is 20 cents per bushel and the United States 25 cents.

Oats are made free. Canada's reduction is 10 cents per bushel; the United States 15 cents per bushel.

Flour is now to be dutiable at the common rate of 50 cents per barrel. Canad's reduction is 10 cents a barrel, the United States' reduction is about equal to 70 cents per barrel.

Rough sawn lumber is made free. It was already freein Canada, but in the United States, even under the Payne-Aldrich tariff there was a duty of $1.25 per thousand feet. The duty is removed and rough sawn lumber may be exported free into the United States by the manufacturers of the Dominion.

Coal and Flour.

In the discussion of tariff items in the House in bygone years there were two item which were commonly bracketed together, strange as it may appear. I refer to coal and flour. In the early days of the duties on these articles it was argued with much force that the coal duty was rather a burden on the people of Ontario, and that the flour duty imposed a burden on the people of the lower provinces, and that, on the principle of give and take the people of the two sections should be willing to have these two duties imposed, each section profiting by the policy. I shall not now go into the discussion which took place at the time. We are now proposing to protect them together. We are making a small reduction in the duty on flour of 10 cents a barrel, and a small reduction in the duty on coal of eight cents a ton. The present duty on coal is 53 cents and we propose to make it 45 cents. The duty in the United States to-day is 45 cents, and our duty under this arrangement will be 45 cents, but that is not hardly placing the matter fairly before the House for this reason: that in the United States the duty of 45 cents is on the long ton of 2,240 pounds, whereas ours is on the short ton, so that, while nominally there is a similarity of duty, there is not actually an equalization of the rate. However that may be, our coal people, who were alarmed over this reciprocity matter, will have to bear a cut of 8 cents per ton on their duty, and I hope, as one who has a warm sympathy for the coal trade, that they will be able to stand it and continue to do business at the old stand.

Duty on Slack Coal.

Mr. Currie (Simcoe)—Is there any change in the duty on slack coal?

Mr. Fielding—I am just coming to that. There is no change in the duty on slack coal mining into Canada, but there is a very important change in the duty on slack coal going into the United States. Slack coal is dutiable at 75 cents per ton in the United States. Recently in the last amendment to the tariff law words were used in the definition of slack coal which led to considerable trouble. The words used, if I remember correctly, were that all slack coal shall be deemed coal produced in the ordinary way. And the United States authorities ruled that coal which was washed for the purpose of preparing it is not prepared in the ordinary way, and therefore one of our coal concerns which has large contracts in the United States and desires to build a large trade in that country in slack coal found itself subject to this condition: that what it regarded as slack coal was regarded by the United States as coal screened, and held dutiable at the rate of 45 cents per ton. We protested against that, and we asked that the duty of 15 cents per ton on slacked coal be applied to slacked coal of all kinds, including washed coal.

Coke is Free.

Another item is that of Coke. Coke is free in Canada, but dutiable in the United States. We asked that it be made free in the United States as well as free in Canada, and our American friends have agreed. I think that the gentlemen interested in the coal fields in British Columbia will be very glad to hear that news, because coke is an important item, and have every reason to believe that large quantities of coke will go from British Columbia into the United States under this arrangement.

Reductions in Manufactures.

With regard to some of the items made free, I have said before that they are largely natural products, but in some cases there are manufactured articles, and in some other cases it will be shown that we have made some reductions to a moderate extent on manufactured articles. I have already indicated that our reductions are not very large, while those of the United States are considerable. Our manufacturers are rather alarmed at the competition of the Americans. No doubt with their magnificent organization and great accumulation of capital Americans are in advance of us in most of the lines of manufacture. And I do not suppose that in manufacturing generally can we hope at present to send many things across the line. But I do hope that the reduced rates of duty will open up new facilities for our manufacturers, and that we shall be able to enter the United States' markets. Our manufacturers, whose products are shut out to-day by a prohibitory duty, may be encouarged to send some of their goods into the United States under a bounty on them here which will expire shortly. We have thought it desirable that our manufacturers in that line should have a chance in the American market, and therefore we claimed that wire rods, which are now free in Canada, should be free in the United States, and I think we will have a fair chance of making wire rods for Uncle Sam and sending them over from our steel plants.

THE MORE IMPORTANT CHANGES.

The chief feature of the proposed tariff agreement with the United States is the removal of all duties on both sides of the border on the bulk of what is known as natural products. Among the items on which the tariff duties are to be swept away entirely are cattle, horses and mules, swine, sheep and lambs, poultry dead and alive, wheat, rice, oats, barley, buckwheat, beans, dried peas, potatoes, butter, cheese, milk, cream, eggs, honey, fresh and salted fish, vegetables, fresh fruit and several varieties of dried fruits. This means in effect, if Congress accepts the view of President Taft and his advisers, that the United States definitely abandons the policy of protecting the food producers of that country, leaving the doors open to Canada, the only country from which foods of the sort mentioned can be obtained to supplement the home supply. In meats of various sorts, although the duties are not entirely removed, there are very material reductions, while flour will bear a duty of 50 cents per barrel on both sides of the line, and oatmeal 50 cents per 100 pounds.

Among the miscellaneous articles of importance other than foodstuffs on which duties are entirely removed by both countries are hay, lumber, coke, certain classes of steel rods, typesetting and typecasting machines, cottonseed oil, railroad ties, telegraph poles, wooden staves, pickets and palings.

Considerable reductions are made in the agricultural implement schedule, a uniform scale of duties on both sides having been arranged. Among the more important reductions in the Canadian duties are farm waggons, harvesters and mowers, 22 per cent; plows, harrows, drills, horse rakes, cultivators, thrashing machines, hay-loaders, patent augers, feed-cutters, grain crushers, fanning mills, hay-ladders and farm or field rollers, 5 per cent reduction.

There is a lengthy list of reductions on various products of the mine, the most important being a decrease of the Canadian duty on bituminous coal from 53 to 45 cents per ton. The revenue loss from this will be large, over eight million tons of bituminous coal having been imported last year. This would mean about $640,000 in reduced duties on coal. The people of Ontario now pay most of the soft coal duties.

HOW THE AGREEMENT IS VIEWED BY CANADA AND THE UNITED STATES

TORONTO, JAN. 27.—WHAT THE UNITED STATES DOES FOR CANADA:—MAKES FREE SEVENTY-SIX PER CENT OF OUR EXPORTS TO HER. REDUCES DUTIES ON FOURTEEN PER CENT. OF OUR EXPORTS TO HER. WHAT CANADA DOES FOR THE UNITED STATES:—MAKES FREE SIXTEEN PER CENT. OF HER EXPORTS TO US. LOWERS DUTY ON NINETEEN PER CENT. OF HER EXPORTS TO US.

WILL KNOW ABOUT GORHAM'S FATE TO-DAY

When the Examiner went to press this afternoon no definite word had been received in regard to the commutation of the sentence of James Gorham who was sentenced to be hanged on Tuesday next, Jan. 31st. The authorities are therefore forced to make preparations for the carrying out of the sentence and the Examiner learns that the work of erecting the gallows will be commenced to-morrow. Mr. Gordon, of the firm of O'Connell and Gordon, the prisoner's counsel, when called up by the Examiner at 3 o'clock this afternoon, stated that he had heard fro mthe Department to-day, but had nothing definite to give out. However, he intimated that he might have a full statement in regard to the action of the Department in the case at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

CLUNG TO RELICS OF THE DAYS GONE BY

To keep her husband's overcoat hanging on the same nail in the hall of her home, nineteen years after his death, characterized the life of Mrs. Wm. Westcott, whose death occurred a few days ago. When her friends and neighbours were disposing of her effects the other day at her home on Burnham street, Ashburnham, relics of long past years were found. The overcoat was still hanging where the late Mr. Westcott had last left it and from where Mrs. Westcott would never permit of it being removed. It is said that a friend once attempted to take it down, when the deceased became very wrathy and so it remained where it had been left.

The deceased was for over forty years a resident of Ashburnham, but previous to that time had lived in the city of New York, and among her things were found, in an excellent state of preservation editions of the New York Herald, one of the year 1863 and the other of 1867. In the latter appears an extended account of the coronation of King Joseph of France and also of the visit of President Johnson of the United States to New York. These papers would have been valuable and interesting contributions to the local museum. The late Mrs. Westcott apparently had a peculiar fondness for clinging to past memories and in this way carefully keeping anything that reminded her of the early days and her earlier life. Her wedding dress was found as good as the day it was made and strange to say, the flowers she carried on that occasion, although long since faded and withered had been kept in their dead state. Her wedding gloves, too, lay folded beside the flowers.

The late Mrs. Westcott's death removes one of the earliest residents of Ashburnham. She was a woman who although very reticent, was always helpful and kind in her own quiet way. She was highly respected and esteemed and her passing away is regretted by many who were associates with her in her life time.

DEVOURED BY WOLVES

Examiner Special:

COBALT, JAN. 27.—From the district forty-five miles north of Gowganda comes the true story of a trapper named Homer Wilson being devoured by wolves, and his wife who had insisted on accompanying him, was found so badly frost bitten that she may die.

CANADIAN GENERAL ELECTRIC COMPANY'S APPLICATION FOR SIDING WAS CONSIDERED

WOULD HURT HIS BUSINESS

The request of the Canadian General Electric Company that the Canadian Pacific Railway should be permitted to run a siding across Park street immediately north of Albert street to their new building was brought before the council at its special meeting last night in a letter from Mr. Patterson who was present and gave further explanations. Mr. R. C. Braund, the Park street Merchant and Mr. F. D. Kerr, who appeared in his behalf opposed the application. The matter was finally left to the Board of Works to investigate and report. The Board is visiting the locality to-day to look into the matter.

Mr. Patterson said that it was understood two years ago between Mr. Nicholls and the city authorities that there would be no objection to the siding. The extension in the company's plant made it absolutely necessary that more siding accommodation should be secured. He submitted to the council a plan showing the location of the new siding which it is intended to cross Park street.

Mr. F. D. Kerr addressed the council on behalf of Mr. R. C. Braund. He said that Mr. Braund's store at the corner of Park and Albert street within 130 feet of the C.P.R. track. There were already three tracks crossing there and the probabilities were that there would be four or five in a few years. The effect of this upon the people in that section could be easily seen. The new siding proposed by the C.G.E. would close Mr. Braund's store in between two tracks. Mr. Braund's business would as a result be thing. Mr. Braund had been a progress, when the little fellow had to be sacrificed for the big fellow, still there should be a limit to that kind of thing. Mr. Braund had been a progressive citizen of Peterborough who had helped to build up the city, and he asked the council to seriously consider and investigate the matter before granting the Canadian General Electric Company's request. The fact that Mr. Patterson had said the new siding was needed to get the company's output out was evidence that it would be greatly used. Mr. Braund would be left in a cul-de-sac of shunting engines. Mr. Kerr asked if there was not some method by which the C. G.E. could attain their siding without sacrificing Mr. Braund.

Mr. Braund said, in opposing the Canadian General Co's application that he did not want to be considered as having ill-will or opposition to the C.G.E. He was afraid that if the siding were constructed half of his business would be sacrificed. He felt that if the Council felt that they had to give permission for the siding, he should receive damages from the party responsible for putting it there.

Mr. Patterson explained that with the double track there would not be more than two or three shuntings of twenty minutes' duration a day.

Ald. Bradburn said that if the siding meant that the siding was going to make the C. G. E. business two or three times as large, it would mean a big thing for the city. He was sorry for Mr. Braund, sorry that his business would be interfered with but the city at large should be considered.

Ald. Morgan thought there was no need of haste in the matter. He did not want to see Mr. Braund's business interfered with, nor did he want to oppose the C.G.E.'s extension being blocked. He moved that the matter be left in the hands of the Board of Works to investigate and report back.

Ald. Metheral thought the whole Council should visit the locality. Every one knew the effect that a siding would have upon Mr. Braund's business.

Ald. Duncan's motion to have the Board of Work report on the matter was carried.

Ald. Duncan asked for permission to accept the tender of W. J. Johnston at $80 for the construction of shed at the Isolation Hospital for the shelter of doctors' horses and also for the approval of the Council in regard to a tender of $145 for the construction of an ice-house there.

An account of $14.60 from Miss Mowry was ordered to be paid on motion of Ald. Duncan. Miss Mowry had been sent to Montreal to study the care of infectious diseases and had been taken ill, compelling her to return home to recuperate. The account was for her expenses on this extra journey.

The treasurer was authorized on the certificate of the engineer to pay the man who had been engaged temporarily to look after the Isolation Hospital.

The chairman of the Property committee and the chairman of the Library Board were authorized to open tenders for the further supply of furniture for the Library.

THREW BURNING BOX OUT OF THE WINDOW

At 8.10 p.m. last night the Fire Department had a call to the Band room, in the city buildings, where a fire, caused by spontaneous combustion was in progress. Fortunately for those who are opposed to the building of a new city hall, (if there are any who are opposed), a number of the bandsmen were in the building at the time, and they promptly threw the case in which the fire had originated, out of the windaw, where it was extinguished by the Fire Brigade.

THE RESULT OF THE TREATY

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, JAN. 27. — Taft proposes but Congress disposes. That is about the feeling here this morning in reference to the sweeping tariff changes announced yesterday. Nobody was satisfied but Taft and his advisors. Every senator and representative in Washington is receiving telegrams from his constituents telling him to have this or that item changed or certain pet industries or producers of his own people will have to go out of business. The general opinion is that before the treaty with Canada goes through congress it will be amended almost beyond recognition. Hardly any industry affected is united in opinion either.

The lumbermen in some districts like it, others say it is disastrous. The fishermen on one coast are wailing their distress, on others they are gleeful.

MAY GO TO ENGLAND

MADRID, SPAIN, JAN. 27. — That Queen Victoria, of Spain will go to England to live permanently is the story told here. It is stated that she has grown tired of Alfonso's attention to other women and his repeated insults.

PRESENTATION

To Mr. A. C. Yokome, of the Review, Who is Leaving for Medicine Hat

Mr. A. C. Yokome, who has been connected with the staff of the Review for a number of years, the last year as City Editor of that paper, and who is leaving on Tuesday for Medicine Hat, where he has accepted a position as city editor of the Medicine Hat News, was yesterday presented with a beautiful fountain pen, suitably inscribed with his initials, by the editorial and mechanical staffs of the Review, with whom he is most popular. Mr. Yokome will be greatly missed in Peterborough. He is a clever newspaperman, a most capable writer and with a keen scent for news, and his path to success seems to be a rosy one. His many friends here will wish him every success in the West.

MRS. DUNN'S DRAMATIC READINGS

It is to be regretted that a comparatively small audience enjoyed Mrs. Dunn's dramatic readings on Tuesday evening. The rare excellence of this artist's work; shown in the vivid and natural portrayal of character after character, was a revelation to the delighted gathering. A charming ease of manner, and a delightful personality, also characterize this interesting interpretative reader. The members of the W. A. A. have been urged to bring Mrs. Dunn to Peterborough later on in the season, when a larger audience is assured her.

THE PRIVATE BILL

At last night's meeting of the committee of the Whole Council the city's private bill to be submitted to the Legislature was read to the members of the Council. The provisions of the petition have been published several times before. A by-law embodying the petition was passed at the meeting of the Council afterwards.

WIDE-AWAKE EASTERN CANADA.

We are every day getting evidence that tends to dispel the illusion, pretty generally entertained, that enterprise, push, go and "hustle" are exclusive characteristics of the West, and also of Ontario, and that the eastern provinces are slow and behind the age. The announcement by the Treasurer of Quebec that that province has a surplus of receipts over expenditure of nearly a million dollars, with a large reduction of the debt, testifies to the life, energy, and good government of that much-abused province. Now we find New Brunswick giving further evidence of the stir and life of the eastern provinces. St. John, the capital, especially declines to be regarded as the effete east of Canada. The movement in favour of the adoption of the commission plan of city government is progressing with almost the speed of a prairie fire. Within a couple of weeks after a committee of the Board of Trade had submitted a carefully prepared report on the Commission plan, with a recommendation that it be adopted, the Board of Trade had endorsed the report, a mass meeting of citizens had declared its approval, the City Council had decided to ask the Legislature for authority to take a plebiscite, and a committee of fifty citizens, representative of all classes and interests, had been formed to prepare a rough draft of a new city charter, and carry on an educative campaign from this date until the plebiscite is taken at the civic elections in April. This is a popular movement, founded on a desire to apply business principles to city government. Can Peterborough afford to crow over its superior enterprise and interest in progressive city government? Are we not living on our laurels, trusting to our reputation without proper and live attempt to justify our reputation by present action in keeping with it?

QUEBEC'S GOOD GOVERNMENT.

High tariff organs and the enemies of Great Britain are given to painting that country as on the verge of collapse through the evil effects of free trade, and many journals and opportunist politicians of Ontario are given to abusing Quebec and pointing to this province as an unprogressive and rebellious member of the sisterhood of Canadian provinces—as all that is bad in aim and influence. It will surprise these people that in the matter of self government, under Liberal auspices, Quebec sets an example to even the 'banner' province of Ontario. So conspicuous is this success that the Montreal Gazette, uncompromisingly Conservative and a natural political enemy of the Liberal Governments of Sir Lomer Gouin, and his Liberal predecessors, clearly deals generously with his splendid record of administration. The Gazette, says the Ottawa Free Press, in its editorial review of the magnificent financial statement made in the Legislative Assembly at Quebec on Tuesday night last by Hon. P. S. G. Mackenzie, the Provincial Treasurer, pays tribute to the business policy which has marked the administration of the Government of Quebec since the Liberal party secured power in 1897, and expresses the hope that the Government will continue its policy of reducing the debt of the province, and thus "maintain Quebec in its practically unique position in the federation of a province which maintains and mproves its services, lives within its means and reduces its liabilities."

When it is remembered that at the time of Hon. F. G. Marchand assumed office he was confronted with an annual deficit of $1,585,230 and with a heavy burden of debt, the circumstance that Liberal rule under Marchand, Parent and Gouin has resulted in the conversion of that deficit into a surplus this year of nearly a million dollars, and in a substantial reduction of the debt, (so much so indeed that the reduction of interest charges will add $100,000 to the provincial revenue), must be convincing proof that Liberal rule is good rule, especially when, as in this case, the surpluses and the debt reduction are coincident with greater expenditure for education, for better roads and for all that makes for the uplifting of the life of the country people.

Quebec can give pointers to some of the other provinces in many things. One is in tolerance; the other is in finance. And the critics of that province, whether they be in the Orange camp in Toronto, or in the Nationalist camp in Montreal, will find it hard indeed to convince the people of that province that Liberal rule is not good rule, and that Quebec deserves better treatment than it has recorded at the hands of some interests in the Province of Ontario.

TWO COUNTRY BOYS.

From (Hawkes') British News of Canada.

In 1870 an awkward, overgrown boy from the country went to Toronto University. His fellow-students, noticing his uncouth appearance, and the marks of the farm which still clung to him, christened him "cowheels." This country boy recently succeeded in winning the Newfoundland fisheries dispute case against the United States before The Hague tribunal. He is Hon. A. B. Aylesworth, Minister of Justice for Canada, and King George has knighted him.

Another country boy who arrived in Toronto about the same time found employment in a wholesale house. He walked a mile and a half each morning, working for twelve hours and then walking the same distance back at night—all for two dollars a week. His salary did not remain at two dollars very long, for his employers soon discovered the stuff of which he was made, and rapidly advanced him.

He became head of one of the largest stores in Canada. Then began, under his direction, the development of a mail order business, which covers the Dominion from the Atlantic to the Pacific, from the Great Lakes to Hudson's Bay.

INSPECTION OF BANKS.

(Toronto Star.)

At the annual meeting of the Traders Bank references were made to the movement for independent inspection. The President, Mr. C. D. Warren, said that a conscientious and competent auditor would be of immense advantage to banks, but that care should be taken that his work be done efficiently, otherwise a false confidence might be created. Hon. J. R. Stratton, vice-president, expressed his entire agreement with these views, and said that the bank would have no objection to the closest scrutiny of its securities, investments and methods. A resolution was moved by Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K. C., seconded by J. S. Williamson, and carried, in these terms:

> Resolved, that the shareholders and directors of the Traders Bank of Canada place on record their hearty approval of any legislation of the Dominion Parliament whereby an independent examination and audit, under the direction of the Government, of all Canadian banks should be made from time to time. Resolved, also, that whilst the system of auditing should be determined by the Government, it is hoped that, in the public interest, the method to be devised will be thorough and efficient, and of a practical character, as the result of a defective system would create injustice and tend to injure those who might be induced to rely on reports having the sanction of a Government or other official auditor.

Objection to inspection, where it exists, would probably take this form: "We do not fear scrutiny, but we dislike to have an outsider examining our affairs." But this dislike must give way to the public interest. There would be no need to interere with the methods of doing business; each bank has a right to carry out its own ideas, so long as these do not encroach upon the safeguards erected to protect the shareholders, depositors and creditors. At the same time, so far as these safeguards are concerned, the inspection should be thorough enough to prevent any drifting into lax methods.

GOOD ROADS AGAIN.

(Brockville Recorder)

Mr. A. W. Campbell, the Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals for Canada, the first and greatest apostle of improved highways for Ontario, has been addressing the Empire Club, Toronto, on his favourite topic, more particularly to urge co-operation between cities and towns and the country for the purpose of securing good roads. Mr. Campbell stated that in the twenty years which he had devoted to the study of Ontario roads, $21,000,000 had been spent in labour and $19,000,000 cash had been paid for alleged improvements on the highways of the Province, and during that time very little real headway had been made with the $40,000,000 that had been expended; he said he could have macadamized every rod of road in Ontario, and in the next ten years such a transformation would take place, entailing the expense of not a dollar more than had been wasted so foolishly in past years.

Mr. Campbell outlined a typical plan, whereby the 500-mile road between Montreal and Windsor could be macadamized at a total cost of $1,500,000, to be met by ten thousand automobilists in Ontario, who would be willing to pay the required levy of $160 per year. After the roads had been built then the important feature of the whole movement was to adopt an efficient system of maintenance, and this could be done by dividing a road into districts and providing each district with a staff of caretakers. Under such reform Mr. Campbell said that he had pictured a highway leading northward from Toronto to Muskoka on to Northern Ontario through the Temiskaming Valley, up to the sixteen-million-acre clay belt, and along to Winnipeg, joining the two Provinces.

One obstacle in the way of the improvement of our highways is that the residents of the rural parts are of opinion that the demand for reform comes chiefly from the owners of machines which are usually regarded as being destructive of good highways. A tax on automobiles such as Mr. Campbell proposes would remove this feeling to a large extent, and might be an inducement to the Provincial Government to contribute one half, rather than one-third the cost of making country roads. It would be more desirable to do this, we think, than to concentrate our efforts on one or two trunk systems such as Mr. Campbell proposes.

Another way in which the Provincial Government might help would be to build two or three miles of approved highway in every county which has not yet adopted the county system, and to maintain the same for, say, three years. Object lessons of this character would certainly do very much to better the condition of all the highways in the province, by giving the agriculturists a chance to see what the benefit of good roads would be to themselves, who are, after all, the chief users.

DETAILS OF THE TARIFF AGREEMENT BETWEEN UNITED STATES AND CANADA

Agricultural Implements.

With regard to agricultural implements, the House need not be reminded of the strong desire on the part of our western farmers to have better terms on these articles. They will be glad to have them free of duty; but, anxious as I am to meet their views, I must frankly say to them that we do not think that it is fair. Like all others, they must be prepared to give and take; they must be prepared to bear their share in the burdens of the country, and I believe that when the matter is fairly put to the farmers they will recognize that principle. We do not propose to make agricultural implements free, but to make some reductions; and we trust that while these may not be all the farmers want, they will be evidence of the desire of the government to meet their views as far as possible without doing any injustice to the industries of Canada.

Reduced to Fifteen Per Cent.

We have a list of agricultural implements, including mowers, reapers and harvesters. These were 17 1-2 per cent., and we now propose to reduce them to 15 per cent.

Mr. Broder (Dundas)—Is there any change to be made in the valuation for duty?

Mr. Fielding—Our negotiations have not touched the question of valuation. That must be left to the operation of The Customs authorities of the two countries. Then there is a list of implements: cultivators, plows, harrows, horse-rakes, seed drills, thrashing machines, including wind-stackers, baggers and weighers; there are reduced from 20 per cent to 15 per cent. Then hay-loaders, potato-diggers, fodder or feed cutters, grain-crushers, fanning-mills, hay-tedders, farm or field mowers; on these the Canadian reduction is from 25 per cent to 20 per cent. These are the reductions which are being made in our tariff. On the other side of the question, the United States tariff in some of these things is 15 per cent., and we have provided that parts of machines should be introduced at the same rate as the machine itself. In the United States, where they had a nominal rate of 15 per cent., upon agricultural implements of a certain class, it was provided that repair parts for these machines should be dutiable at the rate of 45 per cent. We have provided that the machines and the parts should bear the same rate of duty. Then portable engines, horse-powers and traction engines for farm purposes, hay-loaders, potato-diggers, fodder or feed-cutters, grain-crushers, fanning-mills, manure-spreaders, wind-mills and parts thereof for repairs: these are now dutiable in the United States at from 35 to 45 per cent., and we have arranged that the American duty should be reduced to 20 per cent.

Paper and Pulp.

Before I proceed to take up the schedules in detail there are one or two interesting features which I am sure the House would wish me to explain at the earliest moment. We have had very interesting discussions from time to time over the question of duty on paper and pulp of various kinds. Our American friends were anxious for some tariff changes in relation to these articles. We ourselves were anxious for some tariff changes. We thought as respects certain grades of pulp and paper, mechanically ground pulp, chemical pulp, common printing paper, known as news print, and common pasteboard and cheaper articles of paper other than news print or common paper, to a limited value of four cents per pound, we believed that we could compete with our American friends on these particular articles, and that it was desirable we should have free trade on them. As to the paper of a more advanced quality, I doubt if we would be able to compete with them, and we did not take that class of paper into our negotiations. But as respects pulp of its various kinds and common news print paper and common pasteboard and common paper of all kinds running to the value of four cents per pound, we would have been quite willing to have reciprocity with them.

Provincial Regulation.

They said: "We are quite willing to do that if you provide that the regulations should be removed." Of course there could be but one answer to that; we have nothing to do with the Provincial regulations. These regulations have been made by the Provincial Governments, in accordance with what they believed to be the best interests of their respective Provinces, and whether they are good or bad regulations is not for us to debate with our friends of the United States. And we had to say to them: "If you propose to put any such limitations upon the arrangements, we cannot object to your doing for yourselves what you think best respecting the terms and conditions upon which you will admit our paper into your country; you have the right to impose these conditions, and if they do not suit Canada no harm is done; but we on our side will not agree to make paper and pulp and these articles free in Canada until you have made them free from every Province and part of the Dominion of Canada." So the matter stands in this way, that they will put in their tariff as set forth in their correspondence with us an item that these various grades of pulp and paper should be made free if there be no regulations either in the form of an export duty or in the form of the Provincial regulations interfering with the shipments of pulpwood. Whenever that condition arises they will make paper free.

We said: "All right; but that is no good to us, and we will not make your paper free in Canada until you remove the restriction."

As to Regulations.

Now there was one other question. It has always been a matter of complaint against the United States, and I may say it has sometimes been a matter of complaint against my good friend the Minister of Customs, that the pious intentions of tariff makers are sadly interfered with by the administrators who make the regulations, and so we thought it necessary to bring that question to the notice of our American friends. As these regulations may arise from time to time it was impossible to deal with them in detail, but what we thought we ought to do was to obtain on both sides a declaration that there should be no interference by means of vexatious regulations with the good intentions of this reciprocal arrangement, but that both parties would sincerely and earnestly endeavour to facilitate trade along the lines contemplated.

A Mutual Pledge.

It is provided that if any regulation is found to work adversely either party would have the right to make representatives concerning it and each party pledged itself to the other that it would endeavour to remove any regulation as to which there was found just cause of complaint. We have that set forth in our correspondence.

The Fish Question.

There is one other question before I come to deal with the correspondence and the schedules. I refer to a very important branch of our national industry, the fish question. Canada has never enjoyed the advantage of free fish in the United States

Example: Three years ago a working man with family bought 4 Lots from me, paid a deposit and agreed to pay $5.00 per month, also interest and taxes. This he has done faithfully, although at times it required a supreme effort and self denial, but the road to success is not one strewn with roses. Difficulties must be encountered & surmounted. DETAILS OF TARIFF AGREEMENT except upon the condition that she should grant the United States not only similar privilege, but the right to fish in the national waters of Canada. That was a condition of the old reciprocity treaty, and under that condition very satisfactory progress in our fisheries was made. There are some people in our country to-day who attach so much importance to the item of free fish that they would be willing, in order to obtain it, to give to our American friends the right to fish in our waters. We do not think that this represents the national sentiment. We said to our American friends that we were willing to meet them in the exchange of commodities, that we were willing to show our good-will, but that we could not discuss the question at all of giving them free fishing, and practically at an early stage in the negotiations that feature was eliminated. One thing further we have done—we have secured, I may say unconditionally, for the first time what is regarded as the very substantial advantage of the free admission of fish of all kinds into the United States markets.

• • •

Mr. Maclean (York)—In case the Congress of the United States or the Parliament of this country should alter in any way the tariff as fixed by these negotiations what would happen? Would it be as you were in regard to everything?

Each Party is Free.

Mr. Fielding—Each party is absolutely free to make its tariff in accordance with whatever it believes to be the interest of the United States on one side or the interest of Canada on the other.

Mr. Maclean—What would happen then? Would everything then go back to the old condition?

Mr. Fielding—If the United States should change one item in its tariff in a way to prejudice the trade in that particular item, the Parliament of Canada must change its tariff in such a way as to prejudice the trade in a particular article, and if, by-and-bye, one item after another were changed and all the advantages of the arrangement were wiped away, I suppose we would come back to our old condition, and it would be a case of as you were.

The Only Documents.

Mr. Currie (Simcoe)—I would like to ask the Minister if any articles have been signed, or is this just simply a convention and not a treaty?

Mr. Fielding—It is neither a treaty nor a convention in the technical sense. The agreement is to be found in the letter addressed by my colleague and myself to Mr P. C. Knox, Secretary of State for the United States, and in Mr. Knox's reply these two documents being those which I have just read. Those are the only documents that express the arrangement in any shape.

Mr. Currie (Simcoe)—Then I understand this is not a treaty at all?

Mr. Fielding—My honorable friend is quite correct.

Britain to Share.

Mr. Borden—I would like to ask whether the proposed arrangement covers any articles which are imported to any extent from Britain or any of the British possessions, and if so, whether the lowering of duties which have been granted to the United States is to be extended to Great Britain and British possessions?

Mr. Fielding—Of course, as a general principle, whether Great Britain be interested or not, any duty that may be lowered to any foreign country, according to our well-established policy, would be at the same time lowered to Great Britain and a clause will be inserted in the resolutions which I shall have the honour to propose, providing that where in any case the duties are lowered the benefit shall be extended to Great Britain. As a matter of fact they are only lower on a few items of foodstuffs than the preferential rate, and they are articles which Great Britain does not send us at all. Notwithstanding, I think that if this arrangement be confirmed it would probably lead to some adjustment of our tariff here and there in order that we may maintain, as we fully intend to do, the principle of the British preference, and that the concession under the tariff now existing may be maintained under the condition of affairs when this arrangement is made.

After pointing out that the proposed regulations would apply not only to the United States, but to every country with which Canada has a favoured-nation treaty, Mr. Fielding continued.

The Financial Effects.

It is too soon to make any very close examination into the financial results, but yet I thought we ought to make an approximate statement, and it would interest the House to know what that statement is. So far as we can see, on a hurried examination, on the basis of last year's business—assuming that for the first year under the operation of this arrangement the volume of trade to be the same as last year—it would result in a reduction of taxation amounting to $1,200,000. Therefore, even from the point of view of the reduction of the burden on the taxpeyer, the matter is well worthy of attention. It would be too much to expect that an arrangement of this character should be adopted without careful criticism, and perhaps it is too much to expect that it should be passed without adverse opinion. The experience of all public bodies is that all grave and important movements are calculated sometimes to alarm people and that we are amazed afterwards, as the years roll on, to find out how our anticipations have not been realized.

Every Interest Considered.

I trust it will be found by those who have been somewhat anxious, perhaps nervous, possibly alarmed, for the outcome of these negotiations, I trust as they look into the matter carefully they will find, as I believe they will find, that their anxiety, which, very naturally, was hardly necessary. In this arrangement they will find that every interest in the Dominion of Canada has received our careful consideration. We have indeed desired to broaden the trade between our neighbours and ourselves; we have desired to find larger markets for our products. We are doing that all the time; we are sending our commercial agents to the uttermost parts of the earth to seek for business; why not seek it from the 92 millions of people who live side by side with us? At present this arrangement is one which we feel we can sincerely commend to the judgment of this House and of the people of Canada.

Commendable Spirit Shown.

We do not present it to the House as something in which we have won a victory over our American friends. That, sir, would be a small return for the good spirit in which they have met us. I desire to say that throughout these negotiations the President of the United States has given us abundant reason to appreciate a sincere desire to carry out a friendly arrangement. He will carry into his completion of this transaction the authority of his great office and his great talents; he will carry into it, sir, all the energy and ability he possess to bring it to a successful issue, and I know he will make it a labour of love. And no less commendable has been the line of conduct of the distinguished Secretary of State of the United States, Mr. P. C. Knox. As this is an international matter it came under the direction of the Secretary of State. Mr. Knox gave it close personal attention for many days, day after day, and I know he is not less anxious than the President of the United States to bring about a friendly arrangement. From these two distinguished gentlemen, from every officer of the State Department and the Treasury Department, and from all with whom we were brought in contact, we found abundant evidence of an honest and sincere desire to make a friendly arrangement with us.

We present the arrangement to you to-day, sir, not as a triumph of one country over the other, but as the result of an effort to do justice to both. We present the arrangement, sir, to the judgment of this Parliament as the President of the United States will present it to the judgment of Congress. The one fear I have is that there may be people who will say that we have made so good a bargain that Congress should not approve of it. In the past friendly arrangements have been made with the United States Government which have failed to receive the approval of Congress, but we think the time is favourable now. We think we have found the psychological moment for dealing with this question; we think we are within reach of some of the commercial advantages for which our people have struggled now for half a century. We commit this matter to the care of the Canadian Parliament with the firm conviction that it is going to be a good thing for Canada, a good thing for the United States, and that we will continue to have it and obtain it, not because there is any binding obligation to do so, but because the intelligence of the people of the two countries will decide that it is a good thing for the promotion of friendly relations and for the development of the commerce of the two countries.

Mr. Fielding concluded amid resounding cheers by submitting the tariff resolutions providing for the changes enunciated.

"JUST LOVE"

A Short Story

(By Johanna Single.)

From the first it had been foolish, an explosive combination of youth, summer, moonlight, and the propinquities of a vacation house party. Jack and Angie met in June, loved in July, confessed in September, and by Christmas had coaxed her parents to consent to a February wedding. The Allens were reluctant, for Angie was ridiculously young, but they had no objection to Jack.

The course of true love ran, for a time, most smoothly. Holland, Sr., gave his son an adorable little cottage; the Allens produced a cheque to cover furnishings. There was much shopping, much trousseau making, merry parties and vows, and kisses hardly as surreptitious as they should have been. There was peace—a treacherous peace.

Jack had made one blunder—he had not "told her all." The experience of his elders seems never to make a young man see that when he puts his heart for life into a girl's soft hand, he is thereafter in a tight place. She will be supreme; she wants to be not merely first, but all. She is jealous of his mother and sisters, his friends, his bull dog, his pipe, anything whatever that before her time loved him or gave him aid or comfort. No occasion had so far arisen for jealousy, and Jack forgot the weak place in his armor. He was off guard.

Angie had come upon his consciousness like oblivion of all that had gone before. Like all lovers, he said he had never loved anyone else—and thought he spoke the truth. It was a secret, unconscious disappointment to the girl that Jack had no "past" whatever. She would have liked to forgive him, to have consoled him for sorrows—deep wounds of a cruel fate from which her love would henceforth protect him. She would have liked details of past unhappiness offered up to her like incense.

"Tell her before somebody else does," is the first commandment to an engaged man. Jack disobeyed—and suffered. At first, to do him justice, he had really forgotten to tell Angie about Tessie Burton. He had been engaged to Tessie at college. The affair was brief, ending in trouble as the sparks fly upward. Tessie broke it because she saw another man. Her methods were prompt, at least. He had told Tessie he would always be true to her, and wait for her until he died, and other familiar quotations.

When he did remember this, he knew that if he told Angie now, she would ask why he had not told her before? It would have seemed serious, worth having bidden until he was more sure of her. No; it was too late. Jack trusted to luck, and to the fact that Tessie was in the East and lived in another town. He thought himself safe.

Early in January that fatuous young man took his bride-to-be on one of their many shopping tours, which always ended with a tea or chocolate and a lovers' tete-atete before going back to the family circle, where everything was a bustle, despite the fact that the wedding was to be strictly a family and intimate friends affair. The gift season, just past, had broken into preparations, and dressmakers possessed the house. Now, Jack and Angie were choosing the last of the furniture—a sewing chair and table for Angie, who was hesitating between mahogany, Circassian walnut, or a perfectly cunning arrangement in wicker.

Enamoured of the wicker, Tessie stood wit ha dainty gloved finger to her lip and considered. Jack was loving every look of her, the brown hair and eyes, the demure, bird-like plumage of brown cloth and fur. Abject adoraton shone from his eyes. Then a light laugh beside him made him jump—it was a laugh he knew.

A cold wave scurried down his spine, as he turned and knew that his sin had found him out. He lifted his hat and took Tessie's offered hand and with what grace he might, while she swept Angie from head to foot with a glance of her wide blue eyes. She took in the situation, but waited for her cue—to do her justice she gave Jack his chance.

Jac kfumbled shamefully. Had he immediately and delightedly presented Angie to his "old college friend, Miss Burton," it would have been all right. Instead, he presented "Miss Burton" to Angie as he might have any mere acquaintance. Angie's perfectly courteous but indifferent manner showed she had never heard Tessie Burton's name before.

Tessie, hardly believing her own senses, took characteristically prompt revenge—she never waited. Chatting lightly, she said she had come for a week with Cora Chandler, and was out shopping. Her manner to Jack was artlessly familiar. She called him by his first name, and several times by a college nickname, as if unconsciously. Also she let her hand rest a moment on his sleeve.

"Cora told me of your good fortune," she remarked, settling her veil over her shining fair curls. "It makes me very happy for you. Miss Allen, I am delighted Jack has fallen into such charming hands! Now I shall never reproach myself about him again—he was so young and tragic, you know!" Here she laughed. "I forgive the creature for having forgotten me. It's fortunate men can forget so soon, isn't it? So comfortable for them! So pleased to have met you, and wish you all happiness! Good-bye!"

She flitted out, and Jack stood dazed. He wished dully that Tessie were not so confoundedly pretty. Would explanations help him? He tried careless nonchalance, and returned to the matter of the chair.

Angie did not look at him, but in a cool little voice spoke to the salesman. She was somehow dignified and remote—out of reach.

"I think I will not decide about the chair today," she said. Then she turned to the door, which Jack opened, and turned homeward.

Jack saw that there could be no tea together, no cosy tete-atete. He floundered about for words, and did the clumsiest thing possible.

"Tessie Burton—I knew her at college——"

"One would—judge as much," she replied. "Don't you think it's getting colder?" Her polite tone was down to about zero. Jack agreed with her. Nothing else was left him. He knew he would have to explain pretty quickly and convincingly. Tessie had been hopelessly ill-bred, and of course it was embarrassing for Angie—he knew that. He would make a clean breast of things.

"Angie, dear, let me explain."

Angie lifted her pretty brows.

"Explain—what?"

"About Tessie—Miss Burton—she—I——"

"Anything that needs explanation should have been explained before."

"It was only a foolish college engagement——"

"And you said you had never loved anybody but me——"

"Angie—I haven't. That wasn't love, it was a silly—it didn't last long, and——"

She interrupted. Being spotless, too young to have been in love before herself, she was merciless.

"If it wasn't love it was wicker to be engaged to her—a horrid girl like that, too. I knew happiness—like—mine could not last! Your engagements don't seem to last long—doubtless you will be as easily consoled this tie as you were the first—or have there been still others?"

"Angie," he said sternly, "do you know what you are saying? You can't mean to——" She had drawn off her left glove, and was taking off her ring, hwich she handed him. She had not, in fact, meant at first to do anything, but being angry, hurt, nervous from overwork and waiting, she was hardly herself. But she would not relent. She would punish him—at any cost to herself.

"Angie—you knew I love you truly—this has gone too far——"

"Altogether too far!" she assented, turning in at the gate. "You can come in and tell mother it is all over. Tell her I would like to go to Florida for a month—if some one can go with me. As for you—perhaps 'Tessie' will have you back!"

They were in the hall by this time, and she fled upstairs. She had taken him at a disadvantage—on the street, where he could not forcibly take her into his arms and make her listen to him.

As for the Allens, they listened to Jack; then they went up and talked with Angie. She simply said it was all over and she didn't want to hear about it, and would not see Jack. Thinking him too young, anyhow, they did the easiest things—postponed the wedding indefinitely because of their daughter's health, and called the family doctor, who obediently prescribed the southern trip. Then they waited to see what would happen, Jack called every day in order to disarm gossip.

This happened. Angie sorr yfor what she did, even while she was doing it, worked herself into a fever and was really ill. Gloom settled over Jack who sent flowers and letters. He persisted, but she would not give him a chance, she brooded over his "untrustworthiness" until it became a crime to her and very real. Folly surely was with her, but she denied her own heart.

Jack suddenly did the unexpected. She had grown used to his persistence when it ceased without warning. He closed the little cottage, returned what goods would be taken back, settledall his bills himself, and sent the house key to Angie by her father. He himself went on a hunting trip, a fact that the papers chronicled, and which Angie saw. He accepted her decision.

This came to the girl like a shock. She dressed, and in a few days came downstairs to sew by the fire. Suddenly she refused to go South at all, and kept the family in hot water with her moods. She knew she had been a fool, and wished she were dead. Her young, terrified soul saw a long, unloved, unloving life before her. He had gone and she had sent him—and for nothing—absolutely nothing! She saw that. Now he was probably glad to be free from so unreasonable a love—perhaps he had not really loved her at all? In a few days she became convinced that he would be shot while hunting and imagined herself into positive fear. Perhaps he had really cared after all, and had gone just to court an accident!

It all ended in a way as simple as it began. One raw February twilight, Angie chanced to be alone at the fire. She heard the bell ring. A queer terror seized her—was it a telegram? She actually was expecting any calamity at any moment. She hid her face in her hands.

The door opened, and Jack walked in. He had meant to be impersonal, to hope she was feeling better, to make no allustion to the past. But when she lifted a pale, tear-stained face and gave a little cry of joy at seeing him, he took two long steps and gathered her into his arms. It was as foolish as any of the rest of it. She had her face against his and implored him not to explain—she did not care, anyway. Nevertheless, he made a clean breast of everything.

It seemed about three minutes later when the family arrived to interrupt thing. The family had been having a hard time through no fault of its own, and was glad to have an end of the trouble.

OTHER "OSBORNES."

Giant Legal Cases That Have Set the Judges Thinking.

Every now and again the judges of Britain are called upon to decide matters fraught with tremendous importance to the nation at large. But when, in December of last year, the House of Lords gave its decision in the now historic "Osborne case," probably few people, beyond those intimately concerned, realized its far-reaching effects.

The results is, of course, that members of trade unions cannot be compelled to pay for the support of Labor M.P.'s, which now brings about the wholly surprising proposal that Labor M.P.'s shall not be obliged to sign the Labor "ticket."

Recently, too, there was the "Crown and Shuttle Case." The result of this is to reduce the rateable value of licensed property throughout the land, and, consequently, local authorities have had to increase their demands for rates to make up the deficiency. The contention in this case was that the imposition of the heavy licensing duties under the last Finance Act reduces the rental value of licensed houses—a contention which the courts upheld.

Throughout ecclesiastical circles, the final decision, last December, in the great "Bannister case" caused consternation and surprise. It is the most momentous decision affecting the Church of England for many a long day. The case arose out of the refusal by a clergyman to permit a gentleman and his wife to receive Holy Communion, on the ground that the husband had married his deceased wife's sister.

Ingenious and interesting were the arguments, the main point being that, although marriage with a deceased's wife sister is undoubtedly legal now, the act legalizing them says expressly that no clergyman shall be punished for refusing to perform "the duties of his office." The answer to this is that "duties of his office" apply only to the actual marriage service; that, although a clergyman may properly refuse to marry a man to his deceased's wife's sister, the clergyman's immunity from punishment extends solely to the marriage ceremony. Which was emphatically an interpretation which clergymen had never anticipated.

Another vastly important religious case was that of the Scotch "Free Church," decided in 1904. The case lasted seventeen days in the House of Lords alone. All the funds, property, and buildings of the Free Church of Scotland—several million pounds' worth—were affected.

The point here arose out of the establishment in 1843 of the Free Church, all the funds of which were invested upon certain trusts. In 1900 the majority of the Free Church members amalgamated with the Presbyterian Church, and included all these trust funds in the amalgamation. But the minority said: "No; you can't do away with our old trust deed in that cavalier fashion. You are not entitled to alter the Free Church doctrines."

All Scotland was agitated. It was the great topic among Highlanders and Lowlanders. And it was held—in what is considered to be one of the most important decisions ever given by the House of Lords—that the minority were right. A special Act of Parliament was needed the following year to adjust matters.

Every tobacconist remembers the "Ogden" litigation, in 1906—an echo of the tobacco war. Something like a million sterling was affected. Ogdens, the tobacco merchants, offered to divide each year, for four years, $1,000,000, and all the profits on their trade in the United Kingdom, on certain conditions, one being that the tradespeople were to agree to deal exclusively with Ogdens.

For three months things went on merrily. Then Ogdens went into voluntary liquidation, and considered that there was no obligation to pay the bonus. But the House of Lords decided that the agreement to distribute the huge bonus existed.—London Answers.

Waterproofing Woollen.

A simple way to make woollen garments waterproof is given in La Terre Vaudoise. It was told to the editor by an old forester:

Have two small tubs. In each put eight or nine quarts of rainwater. In one dissolve 150 grains of alum and in the other the same weight of acetate of lead. When dissolved pour one into the other. A white precipitate will fall. Then pour off the clear liquid into the other tub. In this dip the garments to be treated. Do not wring them out, but hang them up to drip. When they are dry a gray power will appear, which may be brushed off. The colors will not be affected, and the cloth will shed water for a year, when it may be treated again.

The Word "Gent."

At one time the word "gent" was a reputable term for general use. A respectable writer in 1864 tells of "a supper to divers gentleman of the Gray's Inne for the great amitie between them and the Middle Temple gents." The diarist Evelyn speaks of the "noise and tumult occasioned by three or four wild gents in drink." Soon after Queen Victoria's accession "gents" became vulgar. Thackeray speaks of it in 1863 as an "affectionate diminutive at present much in use among commercial persons."

Fish and Their Food.

Fish swallow their food whole because they are obliged to keep continually opening and closing the mouth for the purpose of respiration.

Corroding Metals.

Almost all metals corrode when left in contact with air for any length of time. This is due to the fact that they combine with the oxygen to form new substances, known to the chemist as oxides.

A Strange Pond.

Hicks pond, in Palmyra, Me., is a strange body of water. It is only twelve acres in area, but it is more than 100 feet in depth. It has no visible inlet, although a fair sized stream flows from it into Lake Sebasticook. The volume of its water is not materially affected by either drought or freshet, and the water is always cold.

Alaskan Waterways.

Alaska has 4,000 miles of waterways navigable for steamers, of which about 2,700 miles are included in the Yukon river and its tributaries.

Crystallized Nitrogen.

Crystallized nitrogen is one of the greatest chemical curiosities. By cooling nitrogen gas down to 267 degrees below the freezing point and then allowing it to expand solid, snowlike crystals are formed.

An Old Norman Tradition.

There is a tradition in Normandy that before burying a body all the ground around a dwelling should be searched in order to make sure that the soul her not hidden itself somewhere. At one time every family in Normandy faithfully observed this tradition, but now only a few pay heed to it.

The Mason Bee.

The mason bee makes its nest of mud or mortar, something after the manner of the mud wasp. The female bee does all the work, sticking grains of sand and bits of clay together with her glue.

Iron and Copper.

The world could not get along today without iron and copper. The entire loss of all the gold and silver in the world would not be nearly so serious as would be a sudden exhaustion of all the iron and copper, since iron is used for all purposes of construction and copper is an absolute requisite in the use of electricity.

Gladstone and Peel.

Gladstone's literary aims never failed to annoy Sir Robert Peel. That literature would seduce Gladstone from politics was his fear.

The Battle of Barnet.

One of the greatest battles that ever took place in England was fought on an Easter Sunday—the great battle of Barnet, waged during the Wars of the Roses. The exact day was April 14, 1471.

THE T. A. S. MINSTRELS SCORED GREAT SUCCESS

Catchy Music, Funny Jokes, Good Vocalists and Clever Comedians Made the Production Last Night One of the Most Enjoyable Events of the Season.

The T. A. S. Minstrels, under the general direction of Mr. Geo. Lynch, and under the musical direction of Mr. John Armstrong, scored a complete triumph in their production in St. Peter's School Lecture Hall last night. They were received by a most enthusiastic crowd, who showed their enthusiasm in no uncertain manner. The hall was filled to its capacity, not even standing room being left unoccupied. Numerous witty and up-to-date jokes were cracked, which kept the audience in almost a continuous peal of laughter. Numerous new song hits were sung with a very pleasing effect by different soloists of the company, and the capable chorus. And these were sung in such a snappy and pleasing manner that the audience was almost contsantly applauding. The whole programme went along at a brisk pace without any tiresome delays or slow moments. These are a few reasons why the audience were loud in ther praises of the programme and found it exactly to their liking.

The company wass attired in gorgeous costumes and the first setting was decidedly striking. Only the end men were in "Black-face" and these were partially attired in the quaint ancient English costume, which gave the necessary comic appearance to that part, while the others were dressed in white with black ties. The indespensable feature of a Minstrel show in the form of the tambos and bones was not missing.

The first part opened with an appropriate chorus, with a lively swinging air, and was rendered in such a perfect and pleasing manner that it proved to be a very fitting introduction to the numerous good numbers which followed. Mr. Geo. Daly sang, "Back at Dear Old Home, Sweet Home," in his usual acceptable manner, and was greeted with loud applause from the audience. "Pickaninny Mine," sung by Mr. Frank Hickey, was well received and much appreciated. Mr. Geo. Henry sang "Liza" in a very appropriate tone, with its quick, snappy chorus. Mr. Jos. Minicolo, contributed "Honey, I Will Long For You," a tuneful number with a haunting refrain, which won marked applause from the audience. The company whistled the chorus. "Much Obliged to You," sung by Mr. Wm. O'Brien, was splendidly rendered and won loud expressions ooff apreciation from the audience. "Take Me Back to Dear Old Dixie," a sentimental ballad was Mr. Jos. Mercier's soffering, and he sang it splendidly. "If They Only Let Old Adam's Rib Alone," a very comic song was splendidly sung with a most desirable effect by Mr. Herb Callaghan. "I'm Longing For My Old Kentucky Home" was another number which won loud applause. It was sung by Mr. Harry Quinlan. Mr. Geo. Lynch sang the very funny song "Never." He had the verses composed to suit some of the local current events, and made such a splendid hit, that he was encored until he sang a verse, to the effect that if he sang another, he would 'Never' be able to sing any more. He introduced his verses by asking a question, and then answered it by singing the verse with a most entertaining effect. He asked, "Will Jack McCann's street cars ever run to Stoney Lake?" also, "Will Chief Thompson ever get four officerss added to his stafff?" and answered them by singing "Never," and the whole company joined in the chorus, while the audience showered their applause.

Mr. James Doris was Interlocutor, and acted his part in a very pleasing and worthy manner. The comedians were the following: Geo. Lynch, Sam. Houlihan, Gerald McFadden, Geo. Henry, Wm. O'Brien, Herb. Callaghan and Dave Quinlan. These young men are deserving of much credit for the splendid way in which they acted their parts, and the applause with which they were greeted by the audience, was no uncertain evidence that their efforts were not in vain.

The first part was brought to a climax by Mr. Geo. Lynch's humorous selection.

The olio kept up the reputation of the first part of the programme, and the fact that it was immensely appreciated, was indicated in no doubtful manner, by the audience.

The second part opened up with a pleasing selection by the Mandolin Club—Messrs. McNichool and Cranfield. They won hearty applause for their clever playing.

The number entitled, "During Recess," was then rendered by two little boys, Master Frank Galvin and Joe Galvin, and the immense appreciation of the audience was very conspiciously indicated.

The "Twenty Minutes for Refreshments" number was an extremely humorous one, taken part in by Messrs. Will O'Brien and J. O'Brien and convulsed the audience.

Mr. Dave Quinlan's buck and wing dancing was very cleverly performed and won loud applause from the audience, as well as several encores.

"The First Rehearsal," was the last number on the programme and was performed in a most gratifying manner by those who took part. The rehearsal was led by Prof. John Philip Sousa Lynch, (Mr. George Lynch), who is deserving of much credit for the splendid way in which he performed the part.

The whole production was staged in an excellent and perfect manner, and those who have had charge of the training of these young men, also the young men themselves, are to be congratulated on the success they attained. To-night is the last night of the production, and those who have not had the privilege of seeing this splendid display of local talent, should not miss the last opportunity of seeing what has, so far, proved to be a most gratifying success in the line of a Minstrel Show.

The overtures by the T. A. S. Orchestra were a feature of the evening, and were greatly applauded.

The least that can be said of this show is that it has proved to be a complete success from start to finish, full of fun and catchy music from the time the curtain rises until it is lowered. No doubt it will score a like success to-night, as the news of its excellent quality will have circulated.

POLICE COURT IF SIGN OWNERS DO NOT PAY

City Engineer Instructed by the Board of Works to Take Necessary Steps to Collect Fees for Signs---Other Features of Last Night's Session.

The first meeting of the Board of Works this year was held last night with Ald. Metheral in the char and the Mayor, Ald. Buller, Graham, Anderson, Graham Morgan and Duncan present. An amount of routine business was transacted, in addition to the report from the City Engineer as to the work to be done this year a reference to which is made elsewhere in to-day's issue.

A letter from the City Engineer stating that some of the owners of illuminated signs who had been notified that they must pay a fee for the same had refused to do so. The Engineer wanted to know if the council wished to press the matter.

Evidently the Board wanted to do so, as a motion moved by Ald. Grahain and seconded by the Mayor was carried, authorizing the Engineer to take the necessary steps to collect the fees. Police court cases will probably be the result of this motion if the owners refuse to pay.

The Auburn Power Company wrote, stating that the eastern boundary of Water street at the north end was not definite and offering to pay half the costs of searching the records and making the necessary estimates so as to avoid any trouble.

Ald. Buller moved, seconded by Ald. Graham, that the matter be left in the hands of the City Engineer.—Carried.

Ald. Duncan stated that Mr. J. H. McClellan, superintendent of the Trent Canal, was very anxious to have the city remove the tool house at the foot of Mark street and to build a sidewalk part of the way down to the new wharf built by the Dominion Government at this point. The Department would complete the walk if this was done.

On motion of Ald. Buller and Duncan, the matter was left to the chairman of the Board of Works.

The City Engineer reported in regard to the old drain emptying into the river at Harvey street about which there had been complaints. He had found that Mr. T. F. Matthews' house at the corner of Water and London streets and probably one or two others were connected with this drain which was such an old one that Mr. Matthews knew nothing about it and was under the impression that his house was connected with the sewer. Mr. Matthews was quite willing to connect with the sewer on Water street as early as the work could possibly be effected.

The Engineer was instructed to see that the houses connected with the drain should be prevented from making use of it.

Street Commissioner Evans reported the particulars of a runaway of a horse attached to the delivery rig of W. A. Oke on Sophia street. The horse was frightened at the excavated earth from the Sophia street sewer and bolted, striking a tree and smashing the rig. The workmen had barricaded the sewer and protected it with a red lantern with a danger signal before leaving the work that night.

Ald. Anderson said that Mr. Head complained that the G.T.R. was allowing the water from its standpoint to run into his property on Bethune street.

It was explained that a sewer had been laid along that street late last autumn and that there would be no further difficulty.

It was moved by Ald. Buller seconded by Ald. Duncan, that part of the work of filling in the ditch on Sherbrooke street on the south side be done this year.—Carried.

'ROUND THE STORES

The absence of the "slow business" complaint, when talking with the business men along the street, may safely be taken as evidence of a fairly brisk trade being kept up from day to day. The offerings that are given most prominence as might be expected, are always seasonable.

Our reporter dropped into Elliott's store the other day and, seated in their cosy new office, had quite an interesting chat with the Manager.

Their business is steadily increasing in volume, last year they opened their new millinery parlours, under the management of Miss Noble, and in about two weeks after opening their millinery business had so greatly increased that the staff had to be enlarged. Miss Noble has just left for New York, where she will stay for about four weeks, arranging for her spring stock. Mr. Elliott has a great enlargement in view for the Spring season. He has made arrangements with five of the most up-to-date ready-to-wear factories in America to handle their goods exclusively in Peterborough; in no other store in Peterborough will you be able to see these beautiful garments. At their spring opening, the date of which will be announced later, they will show ready-to-wear goods on a scale that has never before been attempted in Peterborough. Tens of thousands of dollars worth of suits, waists, coats, etc., in silk, cloth, etc., will be shown in a profusion of variety, embracing all New York's latest thoughts. To give an idea of the extent of their coming display—in suits alone they will show them from $2.75 each up to $100 apiece, and all the way between.

They will have on exhibit thousands of waists and an unusually large selection of Spring Suits.

A full announcement, with more detailed particulars will be made later in the Examiner.

Window dressing is being made more and more a feature with Peterborough merchants, and as you turn away from the bootee exhibit and pass along the line of attractively designed window displays, perhaps you stop at those of C. B. Routley, where prominence is given to a number of opening bargains for 1911. Mr. Routley is an original advertiser, and his business has grown with the town, as one of its established fixtures. His first offerings in fancy china for 1911 are unusual for the evident value they embody. The January Whit Wear Sales are now the predominant leaders in the big dry goods stores, and their windows about this time have a light, airy effect in marked contrast to those of the Furriers, where the two opposites in clothing are brought into comparison. This is very noticeable when a study of the windows of J. C. Turnbull & Co. is immediately followed by a good look at the comfortable looking garments shown in the window case of Barrie's, Limited. Already the harbingers of spring, like the first robin, are being talked of, and curtains and other house furnishings begin to be the theme of the ad. writer, and R. Hall & Son offer Nottingham Lace Curtains on their Wednesday bargain day as low as 79c per pair.

The needs of the men are forseen and an opportunity made for them in Creasman's "Lonely Sale," and an item in their ad. appeals to the small man, whom a small price will clothe in a $15.00 suit for only $4.90.

This is the social season and Coleman Bros. report a busy time attending to the catering end of their business, and also a growing patronage for their grill room.

The approach of spring entails a careful investigation of one's wardrobe, and that the people are already doing so is very evident when a look is taken into the workrooms of the cleaning establishments of Mr. Geo. Record on Charlotte and Simcoe streets. Every assistant appears to be going at the limit of his capacity.

Another place that has for months been preparing for a big spring trade is the Tent and Awning line, in the J. J. Turner & Sons' factory. All is bustle and rapid execution of systematic ways of construction, and the season could hardly catch this firm napping. That work must be fairly plentiful, and the people in a prosperous condition, is shown by the consumption of fresh meat keeping up to a phenomenal degree.

Alex. Gordon, in the Market Arcade, finds it less difficult to sell his prime meats than to buy sufficient of the quality he handles to supply his trade.

TWO ASSESSORS WILL BE APPOINTED BY COUNCIL

The City Council last night in committee of the Whole decided to appoint two assessors for the year, the same as last year and to advertise for applicants for the position, the applications to be in the hands of the clerk before Feb. 4th. The Council will consider the applications on Monday, Feb. 6th.

The matter came up last night and Ald. Duncan moved, seconded by Ald. Morgan, that the city advertise for applicants for the position.

Ald. Graham though there would be enough applications in without advertising and he moved, seconded by Ald. Edgar that the Council do not advertise.

The amendment was lost and the original motion carried.

A communication from the Toronto Council was read enclosing a copy of a resolution passed by the Toronto Council aproving of the buying out of the Bell Telephone Company and the carrying on of its business by the Ontario Government.

On motion of Ald. Graham, seconded by Ald. Edgar, the Mayor and Clerk were instructed to sign and seal the resolution and forward it to the Provincial Secretary as requested.

Mrs. Clementi was a member of one of the first—in priority of residence and position—in Peterborough. ADDRESSED THE COUNCIL

At the meeting of the County Council yesterday afternoon, there was an address on the building up of roads, by Mr. G. W. Bennett, the Government Road Inspector.

"You have at the present time three methods by which you can build up your roads. You have taken advantage of two of these methods, but the best has not as yet been reached. I refer to the County Road System. These roads have been built and they were well built, considering the circumstances. The Counties may be criticised for not opening roads, and we are satisfied to take their criticism as there are lots of these roads never used. There is occasion for more permanent work on the roads, however. There is, also, the by-law scheme, which those who have undertaken it can tell you more about than I can, how it works, etc.

The substance of the scheme is to make your own estimates, to appoint your own officials and such like; the fact is this plan is so good, that I am afraid it will not last. The County Roads System, is the only one I think is successful. You people can construct bridges, for I have inspected some of your bridges, and they are well built. If you can reach a point of excellence in bridge construction, why not try and make roads under the same scheme. It may not be advisable to do it everywhere, as there are many miles of short roads, but take the majority. I also think that the Government grant will soon be made one-half instead of one-third. I would advise that you take up the question of employing some expert auditor, and get him to lay before you a statement and plan which you can alter as circumstances might suit.

Numerous questions were plied to Mr. Bennett, and a general discussion of his remarks took place. He was asked to explain a plan which would make the taxes of the different counties alike. He estimated that this would be impossible under the present system of taxation, as the assessment is made on a mileage basis and as each one has not the same mileage the taxes are bound to be different. He also stated that these counties which do not come into the County Roads scheme, are not assessed.

FIRST AID CLASSES

Since there have been organized in this city the classes in First Aid to the Injured, and the Home Nursing Classes, all under the auspices and direction of the St. John's Ambulance Association of St. John's Gate, London, England, it may interest those in Peterborough who have attended these classes to know that a Canadian Branch of the St. John Ambulance Association has been organized. Thee meetings were held at Ottawa, in the office of Dr. Montizambert, Director General of Public Health, Ottawa. A constitution was adopted which provides for the establishment of provincial, local and railway centres. Local centres will be subject to the central or provincial bodies, but unorganized districts will be under the jurisdiction of the central body at Ottawa. Already the Canadian Pacific Railway has shown its interest in the work by starting a first aid branch in connection with its Angus shops, and it is the intention of the company to extend the work over its entire system. The Grand Trunk Railway and Canadian Northern are also interested and the Minister of Railways has undertaken to interest th Intercolonial.

Officers of the central council were elected as follows: Patron, the Governor-General; Patroness, Lady Grey; Vice-Patrons, the Lieutenant Governors of the Provinces and the Commissioner of the Yukon; Hon. President, Rt. Hon. Sir Wilfrid Laurier; President of the Council. Dr. Montizambert, Director-General of Public Health; Vice-Presidents. Messrs. W. K. George, Toronto, and Geo. E. Drummond, Montreal; Hon. Treasurer, Mr. Geo. Burn, General Manager of the Bank of Ottawa

The next annual meeting will be held in Ottawa in February, 1911. It is hoped in the near future to establish a factory in Ottawa for the production of the supplies needed.

LOCAL NEWS HAD TO BE SACRIFICED

Owing to the desire of the Examiner to give as fully as possible in to-day's issue a report of Hon. Mr. Fielding's statement in the House of Commons yesterday in regard to the reciprocity treaty it has been found impossible to publish to-day a large amount of local news owing to the impossibility of getting it set and finding room for it. The Examiner believes that the importance of the Tariff report is sufficient reason for sacrificing in this instance an amount of local news.

BILLY BREEN'S REPLY TO ARTIE EDMUNDS

Sporting Editor of the Examiner.

Sir,—An item appeared in last night's edition of the Examiner, in which Artie Edmunds refers to me as a four-flusher, and used other names "unprintable". The first time Artie came before the Canadian Public, after becoming a professional was through the matchmaking and hard work of the said four-flusher, and in trying to make a match for his appearance in Peterborough, it was in no way to belittle one of the greatest little wrestlers in Canada at his weight. The challenge that I sent in was not one of prejudice, but of business to me and also to him. If in making the challenge I used any words that hurt his feelings I retract them. Having been interested in all manner of sports this last 15 years, this is the first time I was ever credited with being a four-flusher, also the challenge I sent in was not of my suggestion, but of the manager of the man who would like to undertake the job, and he does not belong to Peterborough. As there is no chance for my getting and staging the bout I will look elsewhere for talent, of which there is plenty, and all those who ever had anything to do with me here in Peterborough, let's hear your opinion of

BILLIE BREEN.

EDWARD TERRY IN "SWEET LAVENDER"

Delightful Character Acting in Pinero Play Charmed Audience at Russell

(From the Ottawa Citizen.)

The presentation of Sweet Lavender in the Russell Theatre last night with Edward Terry, the eminent English actor, as the star, was most delightful and was heartily enjoyed by a large audience. The play is decidedly interesting and the work of Mr. Terry and his supporting company of high class.

As for Mr. Terry, his playing was a treat in itself, and his characterization of Dick Phenyl, the eccentric barrister with a liking for drink was not only most realistic, but unique of its kind.

Mr. Terry is 66 years old but age does not by any means diminish his ability, his work being thorough and effective. He has appeared more than 6,000 times in Sweet Lavender, a 3-act production of Sir Arthur Pinero. He puts into his efforts a most intensely human touch that grips the heart firmly, and in the part of Phenyl he clothes a most kindly heart under his dissipated appearance. Easily among the best of the character actors, he is in all scenes true to life.

A domestic drama, Sweet Lavender, gives scope for much effective work and sometimes a great fund of laughter and tears, with a love story a predominant feature. Miss Christine Rayner as Sweet Lavender is a delightfully effective ingenue actress and in fact the whole company are decidedly capable.

OPINIONS ON THE TARIFF

TORONTO, JAN. 27.—After a night's sleep on the wide reaching tariff changes, announced by Fielding in the Commons yesterday, Canada from the Atlantic to the Pacific seems to be taking things more calmly this morning. oFr one thing, there comes a realization that it's merely a proposition anyway and that nothing is really settled. While there is little likelihood of any effective blocking at Ottawa, the situation in Washington is altogether different. Nevertheless, the members of both houses of parliament here received many communications by wire from interested people this morning protesting that certain changes announced would result disastrously for them, and suggesting that protests be made to proper quarters. It is not likely that Laurier and the Cabinet will entertain a proposition of changes from this end, as they have carefully canvassed the situation from all sides.

"MEANS ANNEXATION."

MONTREAL, JAN. 27.—Perhaps the most startling opinion as to the effect of the tariff was given by R. W. Redford, of the Redford Steamship Lines this morning. He said: "If the new treaty doesn't prove satisfactory it will be made over again in ten years, and if it does, it will lead to annexation. The treaty means ruination to the farmers of Ontario."

"JUMBLE OF CONTRADICTIONS."

TORONTO, JAN. 27.—Interviews obtained from all over Canada to-day on the effect of the tariff changes are just as jumble of contradictions and variety of opinions. Each manufacturer looks at the matter from his own standpoint. Each city, town, village and farming district talks from the standpoint of how its own interests are effected. Generally speaking, the agricultural interests, except that of the fruit growers, are fairly well satisfied. While the manufacturers in most lines see loss of business. Summarizing everything, this indicated that nobody will know the general effect until it has been tried out, if it is ever tried out. Later despatches from Washington to-day, makes things look doubtful.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

The Peterborough Intermediates and Junior teams will practise at Brock Street Rink to-night at seven o'clock. A full attendance of players is expected, juniors especially, as the Grillers have a game on Monday night with Cobourg here.

The game in Cobourg to-night between Trenton and Cobourg Intermediates is attracting a lot of interest, locally. The opinion is freely offered here that Cobourg will turn the trick on the 'self-called Speed Boys.

The string of victories of the Royal-Commerce team in the Bank League was rudely broken yesterday, when the Ottawa-Dominion team took the League leaders into camp by a score of 5 to 4, after an interesting game. The Ottawa-Dominion, reinforced by Cook, who played the night before for the Milton Junior O. H. A. team against the West Toronto Victorias, and who has been transferred here, got an early lead and for three-quarters of the game, had it all over the Royal-Commerce. The score at half-time was 3 to 0 in their favour, and they added two more after half-time, before the Royals found the nets at all. The losers came strong at the finish, however, and for the last quarter out-played the O-D combination, landing the last four goals. It was a good game all the way, Ross Corkery and Cook were the best for the winners, and Cole and Shields, for the losers. Hague Sawers was a satisfactory referee.

OLD COUNTRY TRAVEL

Good advice for those intending to take a trip to the British Isles and Europe, or who desire to bring their families or sweet hearts out to Canada. Travel on all Atlantic steamship lines promises to be very heavy this year. Now is the proper time to book passages or to forward a prepaid ticket. All information, tickets, rates, etc., obtainable from W. McIlroy, General Steamship Agent, 343 George St., Canadian Pacific Agent. 3d20

"THE FOURTH ESTATE"

The newspaper play, "The Fourth Estate," was produced for the first time in Toronto last night at the Royal Alexandra before a large audience. Much has been written about this play ,partly because it professes to enlighten the public as to the ethics and practical working of a newspaper. It has a strong story, illustrated with such realistic accessories as linotypes, etc., and the machinery of the composing room. The story treats of the mental struggels of Wheeler Brand, managing editor of "The Advance," who, in the interests of the people, is determined to expose the corruption of Donald Bartelmy, a Judge of a U. S. court, but who happens to be father of the woman he loves. He resists all her pleadings to spare her father, although he has a terrific struggle with his feelings. Ultimately te proprietor of te paper, influenced by social reasons, orders that the article that Brand has prepared convicting the Judge of bribery shall not be published. Brand disobeys the order and prints the article, thereby probably wrecking his career as journalist, but is reconciled to his sweetheart. The drama is occasionally melo-dramatic, but, as said, evolves some powerful situations. Charles Balsar, as Brand, gave an impersonation that though restrained, suggested intensity of feeling and tenacity of purpose. Austin Webb offered a plausible portrait of the Judge, well-controlled in his revelation of consumptness. George Thompson son was natural as Noah, the proprietor of the paper, who lets expediency get the better of him. Hildegarde Benson as Phyllis, the Judge's daughter, was attractive and sweet in the early scenes and more emotional in the last act, where she loses faith in her father. Harriet Rap as Mrs. Nolan created much amusement by her exaggerated anxiety to get into society. The curtain was called up several times after the third act. The play should have a good run.

REGULAR MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of Court Chemong No. 330 I. O. F. was held last night in the Sons of England Hall. The chair was occupied by Bro. F. C. Rooke, C. R., assisted by Bro. Jos. Lee as vice-chairman. Bro. F. Mullet, D. H. C. R. was present and outlined his plans for work in Eastern Ontario.

Bro. W. Price and Bro. C. Clarke were appointed auditors.

The Court decided to hold a concert and entertainment, with refreshments on the evening of Thursday, February 9th, and also decided to issue tickets so that the public might avail itself of the opportunity of being present.

A strong committee was appointed to make arrangements. It was announced that the brethren of the Court at Fowlers' Corners were to hold an oyster super on Tuesday evening next, and Bro. Geo. McKee, 163 Murray street would be glad to receive the names of any of the members who are willing to go in with him in forming a bus-load to visit the Court.

IMPORTANT TO MOTHERS

Mothers should know just why Zam-Buk is so effective in cases of rashes, scalp sores, pimples and eruptions on babies and young children.

Most ordinary salves contain animal oil and fat. Every housewife knows that if animal oil or fat be left exposed to the air for any length of time putrefactive changes must occur. These changes occur none the less even if they are hidden by some scent."

Now, any salve which sinks into the pores enters the blood. You would not feed your child impure food? Why put into its blood imperfect salve products?

Zam-Buk contains no trace of animal fat or oil, or any mineral poison. It is purely herbal, being compounded of healing juices and essences.

Applied to cuts, burns, bruises and skin injuries it allays pain, kills disease germs and heals. Sold everywhere at 50c per box, or post free from Zam-Buk Co. Toronto, for price

Dorset Village Still Stays Wet

Owing to the fact that there were no local option campaigns in any of the municipalities adjacent to Peterborough, the people in this district were relieved of the excitement that accompanies such contests. Throughout the province many hotly contested campaigns were waged and feeling ran pretty high. Apparently, the Township of Sherborne in Haliburton County, in which is situated the Village of Dorset, proved to be a good battle ground and the issue was fought with great vigour by both the local and anti-local optionists. The village of Dorset remains wet, however, and the supporters of the liquor interests appear to be extremely happy.

A glance over the columns of the Minden Echo, "one of the nearest points of newspaper publications to Dorset, gives one an idea of the feeling that appeared to prevail in that village. One correspondent writing to the Echo from Dorset, says:

"Mr. D. McIlroy, proprietor of the Iroquois hotel, gave that promised dance in the town hall on Friday to his loyal friends and supporters A large number from Hollow Lake, with their wives and children, arrived in the afternoon, and about half past eight repaired to the hall and doffing their coats started to celebrate in most approved style their Local Option victory. Some of the quieter townspeople were conspicuous by their absence, but they seemed even happier as they had the hall to themselves. The reeve, Mr. Western, and his wife, also graced the occasion with their presence. The next morning our quiet slumbers were disturbed by the sound of cheering. We thought it was another 12th of July, but the snow was still on the ground and it was just the Hollow Lake contingent giving a last hurrah for their friends."

This correspondent is evidently a supporter of the local optionists. He points out that Mr. Western and his wife "also graced the occasion with their presence". Further on he adds:

"It is too bad that the Local Option debate has aroused so much hard feeling in our usually quiet town. One result was a very heated quarrel between D. McIlroy, the village hotel keeper, and N. Langford last week. McIlroy stumped Langford out into the road, used some very abusive language and assumed a threatening attitude. Mr. Langford has been an ardent temperance worker. Geo. Cuddy and some of his friends used some very insulting language to our constable, Mr. McKay, in the hotel. It speaks well for Mr. McKay that he was able to hold his temper in spite of so much bullying."

So much for the local optionists' side of the contest. There are, of course, two sides to every question, and another correspondent from Dorset, unquestionably a supporter of the liquor interests, who apparently surmises that a one-sided report of the campaign may be given to the public through the columns of the Echo, sends in his version of the battle. He says:

"Monday, January 2nd, will long be remembered as the time that the largest vote ever polled was recorded. Out of a possible 60 votes 54 were registered. On the Local Option question feeling ran very high. Both parties started out to win and no effort was spared to bring out every voter. On the part of the anti-Local Optionists, a good clean fight was carried on and also on the part of the other party." (He apparently wants to be honest).

"But the good sound common-sense of the majority of the voters carried the day and Local Option was defeated by a majority of nearly 52 per cent. of the total vote polled: the necessary 30 per cent. required to carry the By-law not being forthcoming."

"We are glad to see that our genial host and hostess, of the Iroquois hotel are happy in the result."

And Dorset will accordingly remain wet for three years longer at least. The summer tourists on the Lake-of-Bays, when refreshing himself with a good, long boot-leg of beer, next summer, will no doubt say as he raises the foaming liquid to his parched throat "well here's to the majority of nearly 52 per cent." The lumber jack on his way out from Hollow Lake, with his pocket bulging out with his season's earnings, will thank "the majority of nearly 52 per cent." that civilization has not received a set back; the sportsmen in the fall, after spending a week roughing it in the back country, will stop for a meal at the Iroquois Hotel at Dorset, and with chilled bones and an appetite like a horse, will likely introduce his stomach to a little whiskey of a majority of nearly 52 per cent. brand. But the local optionists will not be put down and out in any engagement, and three years hence the two forces will likely lock horns again.

A Company That Pays Dividends

The Apsley telephone line is a great success and the Apsley Telephone Company, Limited, is in a prosperous condition. This Company, which was organized a little over two years ago for the purpose of giving the village of Apsley telephone communication with the outside world, has experienced greater success than was ever anticipated by the promoters of the project. A substantially built line connects with the Bell Telephone Company at Mount Julian, and running north to Apsley, affords telephone communication to the many people who reside on the Burleigh road. The Company has no debts, and besides paying a dividend to the shareholders of 5 per cent., is able to carry a handsome sum over to its reserve fund account.

The annual meeting of the Apsley Telephone Company was held in the Town Hall at Apsley on Wednesday night, there being about 50 shareholders present, including several from Peterborough. Mr. Duncan Brown, the President, occupied the chair, and submitted most satisfactory reports of the past season's business.

President—Duncan Brown.
Secretary—T. G. Eastland.
Directors — Messrs. Wm. James, Benjamin Coons, A. Bullied, Z. Tucker, A. McColl and W. S. Davidson.
Auditor—L. Bullied.

The matter of extending the line further north to Clanricard, and east to Purdy's Mill, was discussed It was decided to leave the matter in the hands of the directors to deal with. If sufficient capital is subscribed along the proposed new routes the extensions will be made. The Peterborough Lumber Company have offered substantial assistance towards the extension of the line to Clanicard and it is most likely that this work will be undertaken at an early date.

STOMACH DISTRESS AND DYSPEPSIA GO

Makes Your Out-of-order Stomach Feel Fine in Five Minutes

As there if often some one in your family who suffers an attack of Indigestion or some form of Stomach trouble, why don't you keep some Diapepsin in the house handy?

This harmless blessing will digest anything you can eat without the slightest discomfort, and overcome a sour, gassy Stomach five minutes after.

Tell your pharmacist to let you read the formula plainly printed on these 50-cent cases of Pape's Diapepsin, then you will readily see why it makes Indigestion, Sour Stomach, Heartburn and other distress go in five minutes, and relieve at once sahe miseries as Belching of Gas, Eructations of sour, undigested food, Nausea, Headaches, Dizziness, Constipation and other Stomach disorders.

Some folks have tried so long to find relief from Indigestion and Dyspepsia or an out-of-order stomach with the common, ever-day cures advertised that they have about made up their minds that they have something else wrong, or believe theirs is a case of Nervousness, Gastritis, Catarrh of the Stomach or Cancer.

This, no doubt, is a serious mistake. Your real trouble is, what you eat does not digest: instead, it ferments and sours, turns to acid, Gas and Stomach poison, which putrefy in the digestive tract and intestines, and, besides, poison the breath with nauseous odours.

A hearty appetite, with thorough digestion, and without the slightest discomfort or misery of the Stomach, is waiting for you as soon as you decide to try Pape's Diapepsin.

THE OIL CHEAPER

City Engineer Estimates that Oiling the Streets Will Mean a Net Saving to the City of Over $1000 a Year

THE WORK FOR THE YEAR

At Thursday night's meeting of the Board of Works, a report from the City Engineer was presented giving a statement of the estimates of the work that would have to be done during the present year. The total amount estimated was $19,650.00, an advance of $3,650 over last year's appropriation. The extra work set forth in the report included $1085 for the removal of large culverts and amounts for a new deck on the Jackson Park bridge, the diversion of Downie street creek, grading Benson avenue, and other works of that kind.

The Engineer also submitted a report showing the comparative cost of water sprinkling and the application of oil to the streets. The cost of watering the streets last year cost the city $4641.88. The engineer estimated that even by using oil at 6c per gallon instead of 4½c, the price paid last year, the streets could be attended to by using oil at a total cost of $3475, a net saving of $1166 88 per annum.

ONE LAST CHANCE

A correspondent writes: I would like to ask if the City Council is making any effort with a view to securing the power privileges at Lakefield, at the present time owned by the Dickson Company of Peterborough? It is a well known fact that this dam is on the market. It is a further well known fact that the Electric Power Company of Belleville, which controls 80 per cent. of the electrical power along the Trent Canal between Trenton and Burleigh Falls, is negotiating for the purchase of this power privilege.

It must seem reasonable to suppose that the Dickson Company of Peterborough would deal as considerately towards the City as they would towards the Electric Power Co. in this matter. Why, then, should not the City of Peterborough get busy on the matter? If this power is worth anything to the Electric Power Co., why should it not be worth something to the City of Peterborough?

The Dickson Company's power at Lakefield is about the only available power on the Trent Canal. All the other dams have been snatched up. This is Peterborough's last chance to secure a municipally owned plant. What does our Industrial Commissioner say in regard to the matter?

BAND ORDERS NEW EQUIPMENT OF TRAPS FOR THEIR DRUMMER

At a business meeting of the 57th Regt. Band held Thursday night, on conclusion of a splendid rehearsal, it was decided to purchase a complete and modern line of drummer's accessories—commonly known to the profession as "traps." The order, which goes forward to-day, will include a xylophone, which although really a solo instrument, is also used in many ways for the embellishment of character sketches. One of the most popular "novelettes" presented by the Imperial Grenadier Guards' Band at the Toronto Industrial Exhibition last year was a xylophone solo, and Bandmaster Gladden expects to have one or more of these up his sleeve for the edification of next summer's concert goers. The magnificent set of chimes purchased last year will also be more in evidence at next season's concerts, the management having decided to place a capable musician in charge of this costly addition to the band's equipment. Speaking of equipment—the quality of which means so much to any musical organization—the Examiner is informed that out of the 60 instruments owned by the band, 55 are the product of the leading manufacturers in the world. That quality means increased cost, can be best illustrated by the statement that two of the 57th instruments cost as much as a whole set purchased for use in this city a few years ago. Two recruits, both experienced cornet players, were added to the band's strength at Thursday night's meeting.

DISPUTE OVER CHAIRS FOR THE NEW LIBRARY

There is a dispute between the Library Bureau of Canada and the Property Comittee of the City Council in regard to the chairs supplied by the company for the library. The committee members are not satisfied with the chairs, stating that they are not oak as called for, and have other defects. On the other hand, Mr. Cruikshanks, the representative of the company, claims that the chairs were as represented, and were the best chair that could be procured at the price.

The matter came up at Thursday's meeting of the Committee of the Whole, and was referred to the chairman of the Property Comittee to settle.

MR. A. A. FOWLER
Phm. B. Eyesight Specialist
Whose Optical Parlors are with the Nugent Drug Co., 300 George St., has from the first day of his opening up in the Optical Business in this city (nearly 7 years ago) recognized and adhered to the principles that every pair of eyes in need of glasses is entitled to specialized optical skill and care. To do this in a perfectly satisfactory manner it is absolutely necessary to give the professional side of the problem concentrated care and study. With this fact in mind we have given the mercantile side secondary consideration, and have devoted our entire time, thought and energy, to scientific eye examination and the making of quality glasses. Our equipment and service are perfect in every detail, so as to enable us to carefully and accurately determine whether glasses are needed or not, and we rightfully claim that none are superior. In cases where medical treatment is indicated, we always refer the case to the family physician.
We hold your eyes & our profession above selfish interests

A FORBIDDEN PATHWAY.

Its Name Was Changed After a Certain Event Happened.

By IZOLA FORRESTER.

"It's a perfect shame! Look at that lawn! Cut right straight across from the lilacs to the sidewalk, as if we kept a little chain gang of elephants tretting over it. I won't have it, Neil! I'll turn the hose on those boys!"

"Don't jabber over it, Kit. You'll only get all red and warm and fussy, and some one may hear you."

Kit scowled defiantly at the broad bay window of the house next door. The shades were lowered and the blinds half closed. On one window sill a plump tortoise shell cat dozed comfortably. Peace evidently reigned within, and it was the habitation of the enemy.

"I don't care who hears me. Whoever hears"— Kit raised her voice ever so little, just enough to carry over the tortoise shell cat. "They must know all about it anyway. How would they like it if we trampled paths all over their lawn day and night?"

Kit sat immovable in the dandelion starred grass and watched the coming boy with disapproving, menacing eyes. He was rather a nice boy to look at, too, somewhere around fifteen, and he whistled as he came along the sidewalk in front of the Norton cottage. There was a break in the low box hedge, made by vandals, but this vandal disdained it and added insult to injury by jumping over the hedge and boldly starting across the path.

"How do, Miss Norton?" he called cheerily. "Pretty hot today, isn't it?"

"Say, Dick McLean, we don't want you three boys tramping over our lawn." Kit spoke with dignity and severity. "It makes a regular beaten path all the way to your lilacs, and I think you could use your own lawn if you want to make a checkerboard on the grass."

Dick halted midway on the forbidden way and looked at its undeviating course of barrenness with interest.

"It does look queer,' he said. "I'm awfully sorry we did it. When old Mrs. Tisdale lived here she didn't give a rap about it. It wasn't a lawn then She just hung up her wash here, and she kept chickens too."

"Well, we don't," retorted Kit most ungraciously. "Ever since we moved here I've been trying to coax a real croquet lawn out of a wilderness of chickweed and plantain. We only had the hedge put in as a gentle hint to our neighbors"—

"You mean us, don't you?" Dick smiled down on her good naturedly.

"Yes, I do," granted Kit, "because it really was all the fault of you boys, and you don't care. You even jump right over the hedge."

Dick got over on his own side hastily. "Well, I'm sorry I jumped, Miss Norton," he said contritely. "And I'll tell the other boys to keep off too. Goodby."

Kit's curly head nodded an unwilling response as she bent over the pansy bed again.

"He heard every word." Neil sat down on the top step and laughed.

"How do you know?"

"The cat went indoors, and she never does unless he is at his desk."

There was a pause, and the pansies suffered from too vigorous treatment.

"Well, I don't care if he did," said Kit finally, but her tone was lower. "If they don't stop it I'll put up barbed wire."

It was not an idle threat, though it needed provocation to carry it out. Two days later, just at noon, a happy, leisurely procession passed over the lawn. Even Dick, the traitor, was leading and whistling in sweet forgetfulness, with a baseball bat over his shoulder. Kit said nothing. The point had arrived where mere wrath was futile. Early on Saturday morning she superintended the placing of her outposts of defense, and by the time that the boys appeared a neat array of barbed wire strands was stretched along beside the hedge.

"It's all right for the boys," said Neil critically. "But what if Mr. McLean"—

"If he can't make his little brothers behave then we will. It's bad enough living next door to a perfect old crank, on your summer vacation anyway, without being on intimate terms with him. Even mother says he's eccentric, and that means crank."

"He doesn't look like one."

"Well, he is, all the same. All writers are cranks, and the more successful they get the crankier they are, so Mr. Kirke Ross McLean must be a terror. And he doesn't write books either—not real books. He only travels and writes; doesn't make up a thing out of his own head."

Neil did not answer. She was looking over at the cool, darkened bay window and thinking of the figure beyond the tortoise shell cat, a figure that, sitting at the broad, flat top desk near the window, sometimes turned to gaze over the hedge where the pansies grew and the croquet balls clicked.

"Just you wait," said Kit, following her glance. "Some day those boys will forget and take a run over that path and tumble in the wire, and we'll see a double twister turned."

Sunday evening supper was a matter of individual vagary and caprice so far as the Norton family was concerned. Molly went home after dinner, Mrs. Norton went upstairs for a cosy nap about twilight, and the girls usually took iced tea and salad sandwiches out on the porch, where they could lie in the hammocks, a book in one hand and a sandwich in the other, safely screened from prying eyes by the wisteria vines. The Sunday following the putting up of the wire the hammocks were occupied, when some one came along the sidewalk with a quick, firm tread and deliberately walked through the broken place in the hedge and across the path.

Kit gave a smothered exclamation and sat up, but before she could speak there was the sound of a fall at the barbed wire guard, and the girls rose with frightened yet half laughing faces.

"Hello!" called Kit gently. "Are you hurt?"

There was no response for a minute; then some one answered in a strange voice:

"I beg your pardon, but would you mind ringing our bell and calling the boys? My foot is twisted, and I cannot stand up."

An hour later Kit stood guiltily at the head of the steps as her mother and Neil came slowly from the house next door.

"Will he be sick long?"

"About a month before he can walk," said Mrs. Norton. "It is too bad. And he is a very delightful person to meet; not at all eccentric. He takes the blame entirely and says he is worse than the boys and that we were perfectly right in putting up the wire."

"That's what he said to you, motherie, darling," interposed Neil disconsolately. "He probably thinks that Kit and I are heathens."

"Barbarous heathens!" Kit smiled wickedly.

"This is far from being a joke, Katherine," said Mrs. Norton. "I am afraid you must both do penance by being as kind as possible. Of course he is a—a"—

"Crank?"

"A celebrity," corrected her mother. "We may find him odd, but after this misfortune we must do our best to make him comfortable. I told him you would take turns in bringing him flowers."

"Well, I won't, motherie," said Kit flatly. "I'm sorry he hurt himself, but I'm not a bit sorry I put up the fence, and I don't want to be forgiven."

In the days that followed they could see the strong, patient figure sitting in the shady corner of the veranda next door. Neil carried the first propitiatory bunch of roses over to the enemy's country. She brought back a good report, and after a week of disinterested indifference Kit suddenly announced her intention of being flower bearer to his majesty. She found him a totally disabled, rather sarcastic majesty.

"So you're the young woman who set the trap, are you, Miss Kit? And you're not a bit sorry?"

"I'm sorry I came over to see you." Kit stood erect, very haughty, very sweet and very young. "I only brought the flowers."

"And you didn't expect to be scolded?" She knew he was laughing at her. "Please sit down. Don't you know I've been hoping every day to have you visit me and beg my pardon?"

"I won't do any such thing." She met his eyes defiantly. "You hadn't the least right to cross there, only—only I meant it for the boys, of course." Her glance fell to his swathed foot. "I'm sorry you were hurt."

"That will do very well." He was laughing openly now. "It covers the personal side for me, you see. You're not sorry you hurt me, but you're sorry I'm hurt. Please sit down and talk to a fellow, won't you?"

Kit hesitated, flushed warmly under his teasing gaze and took a seat on the hickory settee.

Four weeks later McLean took his first walk. It was a slow, tedious one from the veranda to the hedge.

"I came halfway for my roses today," he said to the figure in white beside the rosebushes. "May I come over the hedge?"

Kit did not even turn her head.

"Are you angry?" His voice was low and eager. "After last evening I was afraid you might not come again, Kit."

She turned and walked toward him slowly, the bunch of roses held close to her face. At the hedge she looked up at him, and the merriment had died from her eyes.

"I was just coming," she said softly. His hands closed over those that held the roses.

"To say 'Yes,' sweetheart?"

"Look out for the barbed wire, Mr. McLean," called Neil from the sitting room window. "Kit still guards her forbidden path."

"All wires down!" called McLean. "It's the path of roses now. I claim the right of way."

A Mean Trick.

"That's the meanest man I ever ran across," said the book agent.

"What has he done?"

"Kept me calling day after day and finally said he didn't care anything about reading, but he enjoyed hearing me talk."

There are more ZUTOO tablets for headache sold in this country than all other remedies combined. Think how good these tablets must be to have such an immense sale.

Dealers could not sell them nor would people buy ZUTOO tablets in such large quantities, were they not what all users say they are, that is, a perfectly harmless and reliable cure for headache.

Do YOU use these tablets which so many people have chosen as best? If you do not, it is your next move. 25c at dealers

AFTER SUFFERING YEARS

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Fox Creek, N.B.—"I have always had pains in the loins and a weakness there, and often after my meals my food would distress me and cause soreness. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done me much good. I am stronger, digestion is better, and I can walk with ambition. I have encouraged many mothers of families to take it, as it is the best remedy in the world. You can publish this in the papers." — Mrs. WILLIAM BOURQUE, Fox Creek, N.B., Canada.

The above is only one of the thousands of grateful letters which are constantly being received by the Pinkham Medicine Company of Lynn, Mass., which prove beyond a doubt that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, actually does cure these obstinate diseases of women after all other means have failed, and that every such suffering woman owes it to herself to at least give Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a trial before submitting to an operation, or giving up hope of recovery.

Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health and her advice is free.

XII.—Home Care of the Eyes

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

We credit most our sight; one eye doth please
Our trust far more than ten ear witnesses.
—Herrick.

IF we agree with the hard headed, "grossly materialistic" philosopher who contended that "the brain secretes thought just as the liver secretes bile," then indeed the eye is the "window of the soul." However, the eye is at least the window of the brain and in most intimate relation with that organ as well as with the general nervous system. In the sense that the eye reflects the emotions of the individual it is not so much the "window of the soul" as some people imagine. If the muscular tissue surrounding the eye were paralyzed the eye itself would have little power of expression.

Proper Illumination.

The human eye was originally adapted to daylight, and until the invention of printing the demands upon the eyes of the average man were mostly for distant vision in the sunlight and seldom for reading, especially by artificial light.

Under modern conditions both light and literature are at the command of the humblest citizen, although the literature, like the light, is not always of the best.

Probably the best quality of light for the eye is that of the coal oil lamp, provided a proper burner and shade are employed. The only objection to this light is the inconvenience of looking after it and the heat from its proximity.

The worst form of light is the flickering gas flame, which contains many yellow, irritating rays and is very objectionable on account of its unsteadiness. The Welsbach attachment overcomes these objections, but unless the eyes are shielded from this light its dazzling whiteness will prove irritating.

The incandescent electric light is also trying to the eye, although it gives an excellent quality of illumination. If the bulbs are shaded from the eye and made of ground glass, as they should be in stairways, even the electric light is an ideal method of illumination, as it does not consume or vitiate the air, as is the case with the gas flame or oil lamp.

Correct Reading Position.

The position of the body while reading is almost as important as the quality of the light. The habit that some people have of reading in bed is usually injurious, not simply because physicians "do not believe in it," but for very definite reasons. The body is often held in a strained position, with the head bent forward, causing congestion of the eyes. If the book be placed upon a pillow or rest and the head fixed in a natural position little injury will result. Probably adult bookworms will continue to read in bed and "scrooch" themselves up in all kinds of strained positions in their library chairs, notwithstanding all warnings, and eye strain, with its train of ills, will continue to distress them.

But with children a correct position and light supply while writing or reading is really of vital importance. Curvature of the spine may result from constant malposition at the school desk or while reading at home. Eye strain in the child may retard mental development and leave a lasting impression on both mind and physique.

The child should be trained to sit erect, with the shoulders squared. A desk that is too low or too high will compel an awkward position, especially when writing. Desks should never be placed so that the light shines in the pupils' faces.

Structure of the Eye.

Without entering into the minute details of the anatomy or physics of the eye, a word regarding its structure and refractive elements will assist in a proper understanding of the injury that may result from neglect or abuse of this delicate yet long suffering and resistant organ.

The eyeball is imbedded in a bony socket with an overhanging ridge, which well protects it from external injury.

The eye communicates with the brain through the optic nerve, which passes through a hole in the back of the bony eye socket and spreads out on the inner surface of the cavity of the eyeball to form the retina. The crystalline lens and its ligaments divide the eye into two chambers, the anterior and the posterior. The anterior chamber is very small and lies between the cornea, or outer surface of the eye, and the lens. It is filled with a fluid similar to tears, the aqueous humor. The posterior chamber is large and constitutes the cavity of the eyeball behind the crystalline lens. It is filled with a transparent, jellylike substance, the vitreous humor. The iris is a circular, muscular curtain, an extension of one of the coats of the eyeball, which by dilating or contracting controls the amount of light admitted to the interior of the eye. The shape of the crystalline lens is also controlled by the little ciliary muscles.

Varieties of Defective Sight.

Astigmatism is caused by an inequality in the curvature of the cornea. This may occur in any meridian of the eye and requires glasses that will so bend the rays as to correct the deflection caused by the irregular surface.

Nearsightedness.—This is caused by an unduly long eyeball from before backward. The rays of light meet before they reach the retina. The cornea in such cases is usually abnormally convex.

Farsightedness.—This is caused by a short eyeball from before backward. The rays of light fall to meet before they reach the retina.

In both of the above conditions a distorted image is formed, and glasses are required either for near or distant vision.

The River Nile.

The fertilizing matter which the river Nile distributes in Egypt in time of flood is estimated at 100,000,000 tons, or enough to cover a road from the earth to the moon sixteen feet wide by two and a half inches deep.

A Little Temperance Tragedy.

"Don't drink any more, John. You've got too much already."

"No, I haven't."

"Yes, you have, and you'll be drunk again."

"Aw, what do you want to worry about that for? It's me that has the headache next morning."

"I know, John, but it's me that has the heartache all the time."—New York Times.

THE LONELY ROSEBERY

BRITISH STATESMAN HAS PUBLISHED A NEW BOOK.

His Book on Pitt Brings Brilliant Englishman Back Into the Limelight—Had a Career of Wonderful Promise, But His Breadth of View Interfered With His Personal Success—His Position as a Litterateur.

On all national occasions, as distinct from the mere parochial crisis of party politics, the responsible and literate sections of the British people turn instinctively to Lord Rosebery, whose new book on the great Lord Chatham was published recently, writes Randal Charlton in a London review. He is our unbiased witness; the statesman who speaks only for the State. He stands high above the ordinary clouds of political suspicion, isolated above the needs of expediency or emoluments, and with no possible thought to appease the hunger of personal ambition or antipathies. He has achieved much, been much, and is only reasonable to suppose that those early ambitions that spring naturally, even inevitably, from the fervor of youth and the knowledge of capacity have long ere this been fully satisfied.

Some thirteen years ago he bade farewell to active participation in political strife with a memorable speech delivered at Edinburgh. Since that time he might well have enjoyed uninterrupted privacy and quietude, but for that passionate love of country which has from time to time drawn him out into the vortex of controversy and public turmoil.

Lord Rosebery has never yet entered into controversy without leaving some tangible and lasting impression of his individuality upon its final disposition. And on such occasions he has never failed to solidify in some measure the fluid matter of public thought.

One knows of no life that opened with more brilliant promise than did Lord Rosebery's, of no life that expanded so rapidly to a prospect of wide achievement and noble purpose. He made his first speech in the House of Lords at the opening of Parliament in 1871. The occasion was considered memorable, as the Queen opened Parliament in person. Lord Rosebery seconded the address in a speech that won him many warm opinions. From the very first he was recognised as a young man marked down for unusual distinction. As at school, where he was "the wisest boy that ever lived" and at Oxford, where he left so enviable a legacy of admiration and regard, his precocity during his early political years was considered remarkable.

His reputation grew rapidly and solidly, assisted as much, perhaps, by work executed outside the immediate sphere of "political activity" as by purely Parliamentary labors. His love for Scotland, her traditions, and literature was early apparent, while his interest in all matters pertaining to questions of foreign policy became gradually made evident. He was a young man of unlimited interests—perhaps of rather dangerous versatility—and the great game of states and territories, with its shifting fortunes and ever-changing conditions, must have made an irresistible appeal to his intellect and emotions.

He began his Ministerial career very humbly, taking office in Mr. Gladstone's second Administration as Under Secretary for State in the Home Department. Two years later he accepted the Privy Seal, afterwards migrating to the Office of Works. Finally he came to anchorage at his appointed harbor as Secretary of State for Foreign Affairs.

When he returned to the Foreign Office in 1886, at a time when Mr. Gladstone's Ministry was suffering from internal harass and damaging defections consequent upon the Liberal leader's Irish policy, Lord Rosebery's accession was generally received with feelings of satisfaction. He was recognised by all parties as a Minister of strength and resolution, as one who was intellectually capable of resolving all the heterogeneous factors of European politics into just and proper perspective. His exceptional breadth of outlook, enabling him, as it has always done, to understand various and antithetical points of view, and to enter into atmospheres and conditions peculiar to this or that locality, social class or country, rendered him particularly fitted for the tasks of the Foreign Office, although it may be surmised that such a versatility of sympathies and so complex a power of observation, seeing all things in every relative light and changing shades, must have retarded rather than assisted his personal advancement to political supremacy. The knowledge that the foreign affairs of the nation were entrusted to a patriot, who could be relied upon to meet any emergency that might arise with a patriotism as fearless as it would be equitable and just, tended to promote a feeling of security in the England of 1886. Lord Rosebery's stewardship of his difficult office in after years demonstrated that such a feeling was not misplaced.

Of his work in literature one can say little here. For purity and distinction of style, I do not know where you are to find his superior in modern letters. His studies of "Pitt" and "Napoleon" have already passed into classics. In reading them we are reminded that it takes a great man to appraise a great man generously, to understand him, and to compass a large and simple enthusiasm. The little book on "Lord Randolph Churchill" remains one of the most vivid and intimate character sketches in the language. Now we are to have "Chatham," of which all we can say at present is that the work is bound to be one of the great events—if not the event—of the literary year.

Lord Rosebery's administrative labors have been always somewhat overshadowed by his eminence as a public speaker. He is our one great diving orator. In this matter he stands so supremely alone that many of us have grown to think of him only as a maker of wonderful speeches.

STUART STRATHY, General Manager.

General Manager's Address.

After reading the above Report, the General Manager reviewed it as follows: The statement just read, exhibiting the condition of the affairs of the Bank, will, I am sure, meet with your approval, as it shows a steady growth in all departments. You will see by it our deposits now aggregate over $36,000,000, which, by comparison with the deposits of a year ago, show an increase of $6,200,000, an amount almost equal to the total deposits of the Bank ten years ago. You will see that we have employed these additional funds to the extent of $5,500,000 in commercial credits. Naturally the earning powers of the Bank have increased, and this is reflected in the net profits, which amount to $534,351, as against $457,082 last year.

During the year we have opened eleven new offices, the expenses in connection with which have been taken out of this year's profits. The points are: Belleker, Alberta; Erskine, Alberta; Haileybury, Ontario; Matheson, Ontario; Munson, Alberta; Porcupine, Ontario; Rosetown, Saskatchewan; South Fort George, B.C.; Steelton, Ontario; Stewart, B.C.; Wroxeter, Ontario.

The sum of $348,360 has been distributed to Shareholders in dividends; $100,000 added to Reserve Fund, which now amounts to $2,300,000; the usual appropriation of $10,000 has been made to officers' guarantee and pension funds, and $15,000 written off furniture account, and the sum of $153,434.79 carried forward to the credit of Profit and Loss new account.

Referring to circulation account, this now stands at $3,790,000, as against $3,060,666 last year. Indeed, in all departments of the Bank, the general growth of the country has been satisfactorily reflected. To show this we will make a comparison with the figures of the Bank ten years ago:

Capital paid up	$1,000,000	$ 4,354,500
Rest Account	150,000	2,300,000
Deposits	6,538,199	36,077,834
Circulation	927,000	3,790,000
Total Assets	9,177,385	47,152,736

Referring to Bank Premises account, we now own 32 properties including Toronto office, all standing in the name of the Bank, the value of which is shown in the statement before you.

Our Shareholders are constantly increasing, and now number 1,813.

It is not needful for me to refer to the wonderful progress the country at large is making. This prosperity is manifest to all. Suffice it to say, our Branches extend fairly well throughout the Dominion, and we are in an excellent position to take advantage of the growth of the country, and confidently look forward to a steady increase in the earnings of the Bank. We have paid a conservative rate of interest to our Shareholders since 1885, and in the meantime have built up a reserve, to protect your capital, to the extent of $2,300,000. Our foundations are well and truly laid, and with the natural growth and prospects of this country, perhaps the equal of which does not elsewhere exist, we have every reason to look forward to the future with the greatest confidence, feeling that the property committed to our care will continue to make a reasonable return to its shareholders.

All of the Branches of the Bank, including the Head Office, have been inspected during the year. I am conscious that the result of the Bank's operations for the past year, as shown to you by the statement now before you, could not have been accomplished except for the loyalty and efficiency of the staff of the Bank. It affords me greatest pleasure to bear testimony to their devotion to the interests of your institution.

President's Address.

Gentlemen,—I have much pleasure in moving the adoption of the report for the year 1910.

Much of the general prosperity of our Canadian Banks is doubtless due to the great advancement this country has made within the past few years. A large increase in our population and the continued development of the Northwest have added very materially to the wealth of Canada. The extensions of our great railway systems and our rapidly growing trade with other countries have placed this Dominion on a very high level of commercial importance. Banks are becoming every day a more important factor in meeting the increased demands made upon capital and credit for aid in the inauguration of substantial industries and the enlargement of general business. The result is that our banking institutions have become in a material sense the moving power in all national works as well as the necessary adjunct of private enterprise. A wide field is thus opened up with satisfactory results. Securities are improving in character and value. Investments are found to be amply protected. Payments are being more promptly met than formerly. Everything of a financial and commercial character is becoming more substantial. Money is now utilized in larger and more profitable enterprises than at any time in the history of banking. The outlook for the future is most favorable. Add to these facts the rapid strides which our rich north and western Canada is making and the prosperous condition of the older Provinces, and it is reasonably safe to say that with careful management and prudent investments, banks occupy a stronger position to-day than they have ever done.

The fact that the failure of one or two smaller banks has not affected the standing of the existing institutions shows that our banks are on a solid basis. With anything like careful and conservative management, failure cannot happen. If the interests of the shareholders and depositors are safeguarded by watchfulness and business methods on the part of the management and directors, the assets of a bank must always be greater than its liabilities, and whilst this is the state of affairs, the public are safe. Your Directors have always adhered to this principle, and have spared neither time nor consideration in watching all the outgoings of your money. The securities have been closely scrutinised, investments in the slightest degree of speculative character have been avoided. As a result, we believe that our present record will appeal to the shareholders in a convincing manner, and afford them good ground for the confidence they have in the management. It should be remembered that this Bank has only been in existence about half the lifetime of others of about the same volume of business. As a reward to the management and all concerned in the welfare of the Traders Bank, it is pleasing to note that our deposits have increased over last year by six millions, a condition which could not have been created except by thoroughly good management on the part of the Bank officials and the confidence which such management always brings about.

There have been eleven new branches opened during the year. This was rendered necessary by reason of the expansion of the Bank, as well as of the business requirement of the country at large. For a short time, several of these branches cannot be expected to pay, except indirectly, but our experience is that if branches are opened in proper localities they soon begin to yield a profitable return on their own account, and increase the earning power of the bank as a whole by affording commercial connection, and adding to our facilities to do business.

Our premises still continue to give us a good return for the investment.

For instance, the Head Office building gave 5½ per cent. net for the year. Every room is occupied by desirable tenants. Owing to the increase in the business, it has been found necessary to utilize the large room at the entrance on the ground floor for Savings Department purposes. Already the convenience of this to depositors is felt, and we are beginning to reap the advantages accordingly. You will observe that your Directors have not this year written off any sum on premises account. The reason is very simple. The property is worth much more than it was a couple of years ago owing to the large increase in the value of real estate in a central location like this. The frontage is about 94 feet. The land alone has, on a very moderate estimate, increased in value $2,500 per foot over what was paid for it a few years ago, so that the property is really worth $235,000 more than it stands on the books to-day. To write off any amount under these conditions would not be justifiable, when the sole object is to present a true account of the Bank's affairs to its shareholders.

The policy of the management looks to the making of valuable connection in various parts of Canada, as shown by the character and extent of our new branches, and also to do everything reasonably possible towards making our Reserves and Rest strong and substantial. The amount carried to Rest account this year is very gratifying. After payment of all necessary obligations and providing for bad and doubtful debts and contingencies, we are able to place $100,000 to Rest account and we have increased our profit and loss account by $50,991.39 over last year, this account now standing at $153,434.79. And you will bear in mind that these objects have been accomplished notwithstanding the fact that we paid an increased dividend, now amounting to 8 per cent. and involving an extra yearly payment out of profits of about $44,000.

The office of auditor to the board has been found to be of the greatest value. By means of the industry and care of this official, we are continually kept in close touch with all that concerns the welfare of the bank. Details and complicated matters with which directors could not ordinarily be thoroughly conversant are placed before the board from week to week, and the board is thereby enabled to judge intelligently of all that goes on from the head office down to the smallest branch. The auditor, as I explained on a former occasion, is an entirely independent officer, not in any way under the control of the head office management, but appointed and subject to dismissal only by your Directors, who fix his remuneration and define his duties. Our experience is such that not only in our own personal interest, but in the interest of all banks a thorough and efficient audit by an independent officer is of the greatest value, and we heartily concur in the suggestion of the appointment of such auditors. I need only add that the Directors feel convinced that a competent and conscientious auditor performing his work thoroughly would be of immense advantage to banks and the public, but his work must be efficiently done, otherwise false confidence may be created and grave injustice done to those who may depend too much on his results. We shall be glad to see a searching and practical system of bank auditing adopted in this country, and hope that some measure having this object in view may become law at the earliest moment.

I do not intend to deal with the condition or prospects of business in any detail. The annual statement and returns of our various banks show the progressive strides Canada is making far more than mere words could do. Our own share in the forward movement is very gratifying. Without further comment, therefore, I move the adoption of this report presented for your consideration.

Vice-President's Address.

Hon. J. R. Stratton, the Vice-President, in seconding the motion for the adoption of the report, said:—

In seconding the motion I feel that no very extended remarks are called for. The President has covered the ground so completely that little that has not been said is left for me to say in commendation of the statement, whose favorable features so amply justify the motion. I may say that I fully and freely endorse what has been said. It is very gratifying to me, as it must be to all concerned, that the Traders Bank signalises the first year of its entrance upon the second quarter century of its existence with a statement so eminently satisfactory, and under auspices which promise a continuous growth and advance. The commercial, industrial and prospectively continuous development of our great and widely distributed and diversified resources will tend to create an active demand and profitable employment of capital. In this regard the Traders Bank is well equipped to have its share; its assets, very considerably increased during the past year, are strong, while a very important increase of deposits evidences the growing confidence and favor of the public—two of the prime elements in justifying anticipation of a progressively improving and profitable business. We can, I feel sure, regard the future with confidence. If the next decade shows the splendid ratio of advance of the past ten years, with their five-fold increase in assets, their six-fold growth in deposits, and their thirty-three-fold increase in reserve, we who may live to see 1921 will be very agreeably astonished. The generally satisfactory character of the statement is gratifying, not only on account of the creditable accomplishment shown, but it is further to be regarded as the result of shrewd, careful and aggressive management, a circumstance not only of importance to the Shareholders, but to the public as well, as additionally conducing to that confidence both in skill and efficiency of administration, and in stability, which is the foundation of financial success. If there is an indication of necessity in these regards in respect of the banking business generally, for an improvement in assurance in the returns suggestive of amendment of the Banking Act, there will be little ground to objection. As far as the Bank is concerned, there is no objection to the closest scrutiny of its securities, investments, and methods. In this connection, I again quote the remarks of the President, in regard to any inspection that may be considered desirable to verify the several statements of the general statement and monthly returns of Canadian banks. The one now before us would not be affected either as to its completeness, or otherwise obtaining by the rigorous scrutiny of securities and the most thorough independent audit: it must be satisfactory—as it is a credit—to the management, to the Shareholders, to the Bank's clientele, and I have great pleasure in seconding the motion for the adoption of the Report.

The motion for the adoption of the report was carried unanimously.

It was moved by E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., Director, seconded by Rev. J. S. Williamson, Shareholder, and resolved:

That the Shareholders and Directors of the Traders Bank of Canada place on record their hearty approval of any legislation of the Dominion Parliament whereby an independent examination and audit under the direction of the Government of all Canadian banks shall be made from time to time;

Resolved also, that whilst the system of auditing should be determined by the Government, it is hoped that in the public interest the method to be devised will be thorough and efficient, and of a practical character, as the result of a defective system would create injustice and tend to injure those who might be induced to rely on reports having the sanction of a Government or other official auditor.

That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Honorable the Minister of Finance.

In speaking to the motion, Mr. E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., strongly advocated the principle of independent inspection and audit. He pointed out the great benefit which the Directors receive from our present system of auditing in this Bank, and, although not claiming it to be perfect, he pointed out that it was a long step in the right direction. The Traders Bank is undoubtedly the pioneer in seeking to work out some method whereby the Directors and Shareholders may receive information and details apart from the general management. Under the proposed legislation the duties of Directors are found to be much more onerous than heretofore, and the penalties attached to want of care or lack of thoroughness will be severe. It is, therefore, most important that the Directors, who are endeavoring to be honest and watchful in their management, should be protected, as well as the public, by some practical method of auditing. He emphasised the fact that whatever system may be adopted would have to be efficient, otherwise there might be a tendency to do more harm than good. The greatest care will have to be taken in devising a scheme which will ensure safety to the public, on the one hand, and avoid danger, on the other hand, from too much reliance upon the results obtained from any official examining the affairs of a bank. He read the resolution appointing the present Auditor to the Board, and showed how very wide and comprehensive are his duties, as defined by the resolution, and how satisfactorily they are carried into actual practice. This official is outside the general management, and responsible to the Board only. His duties involve continuous work, and there is perhaps no officer who works harder than he does. A more extended and comprehensive system, applicable to all Banks, would protect Shareholders and Directors alike, and would be of the greatest value to the public.

It was moved by Mr. Geo. Watson and seconded by Mr. C. D. McLeod that the thanks of the Shareholders are due and are hereby tendered to the President, Vice-President, and Directors of the Bank for their attention to the interests of the Bank during the past year. Carried.

It was moved by Dr. J. F. Overholt and seconded by Rev. Wm. Cooper that the thanks of the Directors and Shareholders are due, and are hereby tendered to the General Manager, the Assistant General Manager, and the staff of the Bank for their diligent attention to the interest of the Bank during the past year. Carried.

It was moved by J. Parker, seconded by Mr. Skinner, that a sum not exceeding $20,000 be set apart each year out of the earnings of the Bank for the purpose of paying for all the services, fees, and expenses of the President, Vice-President, and such Directors as now receive remuneration; said sum, or such portion thereof as may be required, to be apportioned as the Board may think proper. Carried.

It was moved by Mr. Jos. E. Baillie and seconded by Mr. Gideon Grant that the ballot be now open for the election of Directors, and to be kept open until three o'clock, unless five minutes elapse without a vote being cast, when it shall be closed, and until that time, and for that purpose only, this meeting be continued. Carried.

The Scrutineers reported the following gentlemen duly elected to act as Directors for the ensuing year, viz., C. D. Warren, Hon. J. R. Stratton, C. Kloepfer (Guelph), W. J. Sheppard (Waubaushene), C. S. Wilcox (Hamilton), E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., H. S. Strathy.

The meeting then adjourned.

At a subsequent meeting of the newly-elected Directors, Mr. C. D. Warren was re-elected President, and Hon. J. R. Stratton, Vice-President, by a unanimous vote.

A HISTORIC MANOR.

Ancient Seigniory Home Now the Property of E. A. Robert.

The old Seigniory houses, relics of a bygone epoch of Canadian history, are now the country homes of men prominent in the social or commercial life of the Dominion.

The Manor House of Beauharnois, Que., is the country residence of Mr. E. A. Robert, vice-president of the Canadian Power Co. and newly-elected president of the Montreal Street Railway. Mr. Robert is well known in the commercial world as the head of the Robert Syndicate that won out in the great legal fight between that organization and the Montreal Light, Heat & Power Co., and that once again has carried the day in the struggle for supremacy in street railway affairs.

Although Mr. Robert is the type of man who is indefatigable in his attention to business interests, yet no one enjoys more than he does the delights of country life. The rural acres of the seigniory adjoining his home, and he shows as keen a relish for the pursuits of the poultry-fancier and the floriculturist as he does for facing the thunder of commercial enterprise. Mr. Robert has shown his zest for competition in matters other than commerce. It has frequently been stated that the celebrated maidens of Montreal cannot be grown off the island. Every summer for the last few years the Manor House garden has produced a patch of melons, many of which weigh from sixteen to twenty pounds, and which have all the flavor and lusciousness of the savoured canteloups of Montreal.

The Seigniory of Beauharnois boasts the distinction of being one of the remaining five in Canada that are not yet redeemed and that still pays its bills as under the old regime of Seigneurial tenure. The Seigniory was ceded by the French King, Louis XV., to Charles Marquis de Beauharnois, April 13, 1729. On January 14, 1780, the King signed a new deed ceding the Seigniory to Lieutenant de Vaisneau, Marquis de Beauharnois. In 1763, the latter transferred his rights to the Marquis de Lobiniere for $4,000; and he in his turn sold it, in 1795, to Alexander Ellice, a member of a large commercial house in London, England, for 36,000 Spanish dollars.

The present Manor House was built over a century ago; and figured in the events of the war of 1812. Edward Ellice, a young descendant of the first English Seigneur being taken prisoner in the cellar whither he had fled for safety.

It is fitting that the Seigniory should have fallen into the hands of Mr. Robert, who is himself a native of Beauharnois. He has the town's interests at heart, and has done much for its advancement, not only by preserving and respecting its traditional territory, but by promoting its industrial welfare.

BUCKWHEAT CAKES IN STOCK

The winter days are comin'—
They'll git here by an' by—
An' then we'll all be wishin'
'Twas 'long about July.
But they's a silver linin'
To help us stand the check—
When frost is on the shingles
The buckwheats are in stock.

It's hard to git up mornin's
When ev'rything is bleak,
Jack Frost is in the bedroom
To give our toes a tweak.
We blame the winter weather
An' want to smash the clock,
But frost is on the shingles,
An' buckwheats are in stock.

We know that in the kitchen
Behind the stove'rin' range
There is a pan of cakes a-risin'
That make the griddle shake.

An' so we flop the mantle
An' hustle down below,
An' git the fire a-roarin',
An' do a head an' toe.
Oh, 'tain't so bad in Winter
When mother is her freak
Is round the kitchen stirrin'
The buckwheat cakes so sweet!

Silencing Complaints.

The town complains at noisy carts
And milkmen rattling far and near,
At all night locomotive shrieks
That rend the peaceful atmosphere.

It threatens fiercely and protests
Whene'er the huckster's voice ascends
And hastens to demand relief
When rags with apples loudly blends.

But when the heavens rumbered are
And thunders in their anger speak,
Behold, the people bear up well!
Behold, how patient and how meek!

BRITON'S PICTURE OF AMERICANS ✻ PRINCE OF WALES FORO XFORD

WAR SHIP TO BEAR NAME OF THE KING

The King George V. Is Selected for Great Fighter Instead of the Royal George.

NEW IDEA FOR CRUISERS

System Patterned Somewhat on American Lines Is To Be Used in the British Navy.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

OUR naval correspondent writes:—"The decision of the naval authorities in the matter of the name of the first battle ship to be laid down in the present fight like Bach the cause of some discussion on naval nomenclature. It had been thought likely that this ship would be called the Royal George, although that name is in the minds of most people only connected with the disaster commemorated in Cowper's dirge:—

'Toll for the brave!
The brave that are no more!
All sunk beneath the wave,
Fast by their native shore!'

"However, the precedent of the last reign, when the first battle ship was named the King Edward VII., is to be followed, and the next ship will be christened the King George V.

"It is an open secret that King George himself has selected this name, and there is a consensus of opinion that in this matter the choice is judicious. When Queen Victoria was on the throne it does not appear to have been her practice to worry much about the names of ships, but with King Edward this was changed, and although the Controller sent a suggested list to the First Lord his late Majesty took a decided interest in the matter.

"Seeing the close relationship in which Lord Fisher stood to the throne, doubtless his advice was taken. This was certainly so in the case of the Dreadnought. Considering his close association with the navy, it would have been surprising if King George had not followed his father's example. His interest in naval traditions is also shown by the further selection of names like the Centurion, the Ajax and the Audacious for the three sister ships to the King George V., all these names having been borne by ships of mark in the service.

"In regard to cruisers a new system was instituted some little time back approximating to that which is a law in the United States. A territorial connection was set up, first with the counties and then with the principal towns. This has in late years been extended also to the colonies and overseas dominions. As in America, so here the localities honored have responded to the invitation, and have in nearly every case presented their namesakes afloat with some souvenir of the connection.

"Two of the cruisers now building for the colonies are to be named the Sydney and the Melbourne, and those about to be laid down for the imperial navy will be named after Chatham, Dublin and Southampton. Many of these territorial names are not new to the navy, but they were first introduced to commemorate people of distinction and title.

"It is, however, in regard to small craft that greater diversity of opinion prevails. Objections and protests are constantly made to the use of such names as Dove, Violet, Sheg, Zephyr and Grasshopper for fighting ships, especially as they have no connection with maritime affairs or the navy. The suggestion has been made more than once to substitute for these botanical, zoological and entomological names those of naval officers who have distinguished themselves by gallantry in action.

"This would again be to follow the American rule, which gives to destroyers the names of naval officers, a practice, moreover, which obtains in several of the European fleets. The American plan, however, appears to be open to this objection, that no distinction is made between officers of different grades, no baptismal names are given in the usual lists, and the principle of discrimination is not clear. Thus there are, among the names of small craft, Farragut and Decatur, of a rank and distinction which in the British navy have been honored by a battle ship or big cruiser; Cushing and Flusser, whose exploits are well known, and Shubrick and Smith, names which must be puzzling, because of their frequency, to any one not intimately acquainted with American naval history.

"The English proposal is to commemorate the names of officers below those of flag rank who have lost their lives in face of the enemy. King George has been said to favor this idea, but upon what authority the statement is made is not known. In a navy like that of Great Britain custom and tradition stand for a great deal, and there is no sign at present that this change will be made."

POLITICAL BREWERY WORRIES BEER MEN

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

Ostensibly to obtain a supply of pure beer, but in reality to deal a blow at the brewing interests, which were solidly unionist in the late election, the liberals and radicals of Leeds have subscribed £20,000 to establish a brewery. Although this enterprise is small in its way, there is no doubt that the brewers are worried by it, as many liberal clubs throughout the country have expressed their intention of following the example set by the men of Leeds. The temperance element in the liberal party is bitterly opposed to the new departure, and this move to punish the brewers may cost the liberals thousands of temperance votes.

King George Will Follow in His Father's Footsteps and Take Up Horse Racing, the Sport of Monarchs

R. MARSH, THE KING'S TRAINER

THE KING'S 5YR. OLD ROYAL ESCORT

A. JONES, IN THE KING'S COLORS

His Colors To Be Seen on the Turf When the Year of Mourning Is Ended.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

ALL doubts as to King George's intentions as regards horse racing are now set at rest, and it is very gratifying to turfmen to note that the new monarch will follow in the footsteps of his father and take a prominent part in the sport of kings as soon as the year of official mourning is over.

To American racegoers over here the publication of the engagements in which His Majesty's horses will compete is regarded as a good omen for horse racing in the United States and they think it will do much toward reviving the sport in the vicinity of New York State.

In deciding to adopt the late King Edward's famous "purple, gold braid, scarlet sleeves, black velvet cap with gold crown," His Majesty has greatly pleased his subjects, who are also delighted to learn that "Dick" Marsh will continue to train the royal horses and Herbert Jones to ride them, that is, of course, in the latter case, when the weight permits.

In the last year in which England was bereft of her King the turf was robbed of its finest sportsman. In the history of racing relating to the latter part of the nineteenth century, when it is written, his late Majesty must figure largely because he was a great owner, but more particularly because he was the first reigning King of England to win the Derby. And who can adequately describe the scene when Minoru then achieved his memorable triumph?

But no story of King Edward's connection with racing can be written without intimate reference to Richard Marsh, Herbert Jones and Egerton House. As a matter of fact, it was Jones, rather than Minoru, who won the Derby for the first time for the King. It was his daring jockeyship rounding Tattenham corner, his nicely judged pull at Minoru opposite to the number board and the desperate strength of the finish he rode that brought about the victory.

Marsh will start the season with twenty-four horses—two five-year-olds, one four-year-old, eleven three-year-olds, and ten two-year-olds. Half of the latter were bred at Sandringham, and they include two colts and a filly by Florizel II., a filly by Flying Fox and a bay colt by Thrush. The remaining youngsters are a bay son of Lord Rosb, a bay colt by Volodyovski, a horse which the late Mr. W. C. Whitney leased from Lady Meux and succeeded in winning the Derby with; colts by Thrush and Musselthrush, and a filly by Martagon.

As regards the three-year-olds, the unnamed colt by Florizel II.—Meadowsbat, who is now unfortunately disqualified for the Derby, is most esteemed in the stable, and this to the extent that he has been entered for the Ascot Gold Cup, among other events. Devil's Dyke is another second season horse of which something is expected, while Petschau was also useful as a two-year-old. Owing to an accident Dorando was unable to race last season, but he is bred well enough for anything. The older horses are Damia, Marie Lograve, and Royal Escort. The last mentioned trio are not of much merit, judging by their 1910 performances, for they were only successful twice in twenty attempts.

In winning the Wellington Handicap at Sandown Park last June, however, Royal Escort distinguished himself, for, after throwing his jockey, F. Wootton, and galloping all round the track riderless, he was caught in the paddock, taken to the post again, and won in a canter, amid scenes of great enthusiasm.

"Dick" Marsh Will Continue to Train the Racers and Herbert Jones Is Jockey.

BOGUS BARONETS' DAYS ARE DOOMED

Real Ones, Weary of Impositions, Are to Publish a Roll of Authentic Title Holders.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

THE bogus baronet is about to be killed. He has filed a big place in the annals of imposture for a good many years. He has lived on the fat of the land, worn fine raiment, shiny boots and diamond pins on cheaply won credit, and generally swindled everybody who has had the misfortune to make his acquaintance.

Henceforth his very existence should be impossible. An authentic list of the baronets of Britain has been compiled, and as soon as this roll has been finally approved it will be published, and only those whose names are recorded on the special roll will be entitled to respond to the ancient and honorable degree of "baronet."

Only they will be invited to Court, for in this bustling year of the coronation there will be so many dignified personages entitled by rank and office to share in the State junketings that care will be taken to exclude the bogus variety from all chance of participation.

The baronets are to meet and appoint a deputation of their degree, six in number, to represent them officially at the coronation of King George and Queen Mary.

EMPIRE FESTIVAL WILL BE BRILLIANT

All the Splendors of the British Dominions To Be Shown on Magnificent Scale.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

THE Festival of Empire, Imperial Exhibition and Pageant of London, which is to be held at the Crystal Palace between May and October, promises to add a memorable and historic chapter to the story of coronation year. The reconstructed programme far exceeds anything that was contemplated when the original scheme came into being.

There are, first of all, to be vivid representations of the scenery of the British possessions over sea, while the daily life of the settlers will be portrayed in a way that will be both lifelike and picturesque. An Overseas Club also will be established in the grounds, of which visitors from the dominions will be made honorary members.

In connection with the Pageant of London, there will be enacted historic scenes of the empire's history, for which Mr. Frank Lascelles has prepared twenty-four episodes, eight of which will be represented daily in the open air amphitheatre designed by Sir Aston Webb, R. A.

The festival is, of course, having royal and government support, while Her Royal Highness Princess Louise is an active member of the council.

NEW MOTIVE POWER FOUND IN NITROGEN

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

According to a story which is current in Stock Exchange circles here, a Scotchman named Stevenson has discovered a new motive power derived from nitrogen, and some London financiers are so deeply impressed with the results of his experiments that they have contributed $250,000 for the development of the scheme.

Mr. Stevenson, the discoverer of this new manageable force, says it is extracted from the smoke of coal, which consists of nitrogen and carbon. By his invention the smoke is caught, the gas is refined and the carbonic acid removed in liquid form, leaving a pure nitrogen gas, which, the discoverer says, is non-explosive and more powerful than steam.

KING MANUEL TO BE AN OXFORD STUDENT

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

One who has been brought into contact with the dethroned King Manuel during the last few weeks tells how the King now speaks English far more fluently than before. He admits, with some little pride, that he understands the language well enough to read a morning paper with interest.

It is highly probable that he will go to Oxford University in due course, though he will have to make considerable advance in his studies before he is able to matriculate.

Two tutors are to be provided for him, and he expects to be able to give up most of the morning to his books. Mathematics, he frankly confesses, is his weak spot at the present time, and he hopes to show speedy improvement in this once he has settled down amid his new surroundings at Richmond.

ANGLO-AMERICANS RETURN TO LONDON

Many Well Known Persons and Their Plans Now That the Christmastide Is Over.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

THE many Anglo-Americans who had deserted London for the Christmas and New Year holidays are now beginning to drift back. Dorchester House is, of course, practically closed for the next few weeks, but Mr. and Mrs. William Phillips have returned from Beaconsfield, as in the Ambassador's absence the First Secretary is carrying on the business of the embassy. Now Captain and Mrs. Cloman have left their house, in Great Stanhope street, Mr. and Mrs. Phillips become its tenants and give up their present house close by.

Mrs. George Cavendish Bentinck has returned to her house, in Richmond Terrace, after a long absence, and will stay on there for the present. Her younger daughter, Mrs. Burns, is settled at her house, in Grosvenor street. Mrs Chauncey has also returned to town, as her younger daughter, a pretty fair haired girl of about fifteen, is going back to her school at Ascot.

Another arrival in London is Mrs. Newhouse, who has returned from Coombe Abbey, where she has been the guest of Lord and Lady Craven. Lady Hesketh is stopping on at Kineton, in Warwickshire, indefinitely, and will not be back at her house in Montagu square for some time, except for an occasional flying visit.

Mrs. George Cornwallis-West, who has been stopping with the Duke of Marlborough, at Blenheim, has now returned to London, and for a time will be very busy with the arrangements for the big Shakespeare costume ball, postponed from last year on account of the court mourning, and which, if all goes well, will be given some time in June. It now promises to be one of the big events of the season, for the King has given it his patronage and most of the prettiest women and girls in society have promised their support.

Among others who are over here from America on visits are Mr and Mrs Reginald Vanderbilt, with their daughter, and Mr. and Mrs Frederick Vanderbilt are expected later on, for Mrs. Vanderbilt may take a house for part of the season and do some entertaining. She is very fond of London life and was said to be one of the aspirants a short time ago for the house belonging to Mrs. George Keppel. The tenancy of Mrs. Leeds of that much coveted house just covers the season proper, but during that time she will do a great deal of entertaining. She is reckoned one of the prettiest women of that set of Anglo-Americans who do not make London their permanent home.

Wrong.

Exchange:—"I trust," continued the maternal parent, "that when it came to the extra helpings you had manners enough to say, 'No.'"

"Yes, ma," whispered Tommy. "Mrs Smart said, 'Have one if I'd had enough.'"

WHOLE MEAL BREAD BARONET'S SCHEME

Sir Oswald Mosely Becomes the Village Baker and Seeks to Rejuvenate Britons.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday

SIR OSWALD MOSELY, who is described as "a country gentleman of the old school," has just become the village baker at Rollaston, near Burton-on-Trent.

Sir Oswald, it seems, attributes the decline in national physique, present day indigestion and loss of the teeth to the use of fancy white bread, and to encourage villagers to use the old fashioned brown whole meal bread he has arranged to sell them this article at a very low price. The meal is ground in the stone mill which Sir Oswald has installed at Rollaston Hall.

"I may be out of pocket over the experiment," says this baronet baker, "but if I check indigestion and teach my people to revert to simple, healthful food I will not count the cost. I have been deluged with letters of congratulation from all parts—from Englishmen, Scotchmen, Irishmen, Dutchmen, Frenchmen and Germans—while one big firm of millers has written emphasizing the importance of the proposals. I am astonished, but gratified, by the tremendous interest my venture has aroused."

Physicians and experts in dietetics are watching this brown bread campaign with interest. Sir Oswald, who is a great patron of farming and is known familiarly as "John Bull," is also a breeder of shorthorns, a gardener, a keen automobilist, a lover of horseflesh and possesses a fine museum of British birds. His estate of nearly four thousand acres is in the beautiful country where the Dove joins the Trent.

JAPANESE WOMAN A DENTIST IN LONDON

"To Pull the Teeth of England," She Tells an Interviewer, Is Her Life's Work.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

LONDON has a Japanese woman dentist who, after hanging out her shingle, is doing a thriving business. When a reporter called upon her the other day, with true Oriental courtesy and perhaps a diplomatic knowledge of an Englishman's ruling passion she offered him some "honorable tea."

"Why have you come here?" she was asked.

"To pull the teeth of England," she replied. "But I pull only very bad teeth. I cure teeth and I never cause pain. Europe is clever here," and the dainty little lady tapped her head; "the Japanese is clever here," displaying a small, well shaped, strong hand. "The Englishmen are strong and produce pain, but the Japanese woman is clever and there is no pain." Then she offered more tea and a cigarette.

AMERICA ASKS THE PRICE FOR CORONATION

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

Inquiries are already arriving on this side about seats for the coronation procession from both the United States and Canada, while West End house agents say that they cannot remember so many demands for furnished apartments.

Of course, they said the same the year King Edward was crowned. Anyway it seems perfectly true that they cannot find enough, so far, to meet the demand.

While ordinary seats on the street stands may not cost more than $10 to $30, some of the best windows on the route may fetch from $2,500 to $3,000. A lot depends on the demand yet to come, but in any case an average price for a good window will be from $750 to $1,000.

GOLD, NOT A CHECK, MR. CARNEGIE'S FAD

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

The Langham is the hotel Mr. Andrew Carnegie favors when he is in London. Mr. Arthur Bickford, who has frequently stopped at the Langham when Mr. Carnegie was also there, tells me that the great iron master has a peculiar way of paying his hotel bill.

"He never settles with the hotel management by giving a check to liquidate his indebtedness," said Mr. Bickford, "but goes to the bank and brings back a bag of sovereigns. These he counts out on the cashier's desk, one at a time, to the full amount of the bill, which is always a large one. No bank notes or checks, but always ringing gold.

"Of course this picking of gold pieces always attracts considerable attention and the day I was there I observed that it was Mr. Carnegie paying his bill."

LITIGATION STARTED OVER PEDLARS ACRE

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

It develops that the Pedlars Acre, which is really an acre and a third, and which was left to the Church in Lambeth more than four hundred years ago, has become the subject of litigation in the Court of Chancery.

In 1485 this acre yielded a revenue of only sixteen shillings and eight pence, but it was bought a short time ago for £31,342 by the London County Council, which is to utilise it as a part of the site of the new County Hall. It appears that the Borough Council of Lambeth entered a claim for part of this award, but the rector and the church wardens of St. Mary's insist that that church is entitled to the full amount. In a small window on the south side of St. Mary's Church, which stands near Lambeth Palace, there is a picture of a pedlar with a pack, a long stick and a dog, and it is the wrong herself to maintain

PRINCE OF WALES NEARS GRADUATION

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

AT the conclusion of the Easter term, in April next, the Prince of Wales will have completed his studies at the Royal Naval College, at Dartmouth. He entered the college in May, 1909, and thus will have gone through a fairly exacting course, extending over nearly two years. The plans for his future education were outlined by the late King Edward, and have received the indorsement of King George. The discipline he has had to undergo has been exactly the same as the other cadets, no favor in the least respect being shown the heir to the British throne.

How determined his father has been in this respect is illustrated by an amusing incident. One day the Prince asked his tutor to be allowed off duty to attend a cricket match, a sport of which the lad is very fond. The tutor pointed out the work he had to perform just like his fellow cadets. It was not his turn to be off. The Prince tried to remonstrate. The tutor was firm. The Prince wrote to his father complaining. In reply the tutor received a letter from the King telling him he was quite right and the Prince a firm but fatherly letter letting him know he had no right to remonstrate against the orders of his masters. The Prince was sensible, and, like a young gentleman, apologised to his tutor.

Immediately after leaving Dartmouth His Royal Highness will commence studies prior to a short university career at Oxford, and then, some time in 1913, he will embark with his brother, Prince Albert, on one of the big war ships of the Dreadnought cruiser type for a tour round the empire. On their return the Prince of Wales, according to precedent, will be [illegible] while Prince Albert will become a midshipman, probably on the flagship of the Home Fleet.

QUEEN ALEXANDRA RENEWS RECREATIONS

[SPECIAL DISPATCH.]
LONDON, Saturday.

Queen Alexandra, it is stated in court circles, is now finding distraction in her old favorite recreations—photography, water color painting and needlework. Her Majesty is rarely seen abroad without her camera. Among her subjects are hundreds of European celebrities. Her collection fills a score of big albums, while numbers of the photographs have been trans-

"Alien Types in London" An Injustice to Americans

AMERICANS IN LEICESTER SQUARE.
WHAT BRITONS THINK AMERICANS LOOK LIKE.

Picture Supposed to Represent Persons from United States "Doing" London Has Them Wearing a "Silly Season" Suit in the Middle of the English Winter.

(Special Dispatch.)
LONDON, Saturday.

UNDER the heading "Alien Types in London" the Bystander publishes a picture of "Americans in Leicester Square" that isn't exactly what one would call flattering.

A glance at the picture should convince Americans here that not even any one who had the good fortune to escape from Wichita or Painted Post in years gone by ever looked like these "two Americans in Leicester Square."

It is possible, of course, that some of Senator Timothy D. Sullivan's constituents, suddenly loaded with money, are [illegible] but the average American, even where they still wear the great, gaudy earrings that were discarded in Assistant [illegible] know enough "to go in out of the rain."

Therefore it seems barely possible that one of them would don a light summer suit in midwinter and add to this offense by wearing square toed, solidly built English "gunboat" instead of well shaped American shoes.

A glance at the second figure gives rise to the belief that the artist, in clothing this "American" in ill fitting hand-me-well known New York visitor points out, the overcoat fits the figure as if it were downs, was inspired by a wish to do a service for English tailors, although, as a really made here.

Of course, the young woman in the picture can't be an American, but is apparently from the East End of London, carriage that were discarded in Assistant [illegible] was a slat."

TEACHING DOGS TO BE SINGERS

A Chat With a Well-Known Animal Trainer on His Interesting Work

A good many pet-owners may be startled to learn that animals can distinguish between musical notes, and that those of any degree of intelligence may be trained as musical performers. Animals that play musical instruments are by no means uncommon, and a number of seals have before now been equipped with drums, cymbals, horns and bells, and have made music when instructed by their trainer to do so. If the melody has not been perfect, it has been sufficient to prove that the seals have at least some music in their composition.

Circus Horses and Tunes

The majority of wild animals are influenced by music, and everyone knows that bears can be taught to dance on their hind legs while holding a pole to sounds of music, even if that music is ground out of a common street organ by means of a handle.

Once a circus horse has been taught to do a trick to a certain tune he will do it whenever she hears that tune, and, in consequence, he is the cause of some funny incidents now and again. Once I took a horse into the street for exercise, and as we turned a corner a barrel-organ commenced to grind out its music. The tune was the very one the animal was accustomed to in the circus-ring, and he concluded that I was expecting him to go through his usual performance. He broke away from me and gave a free performance in the middle of the road, and I could only call him to order by appealing to the "musician" to stop the organ.

When the ordinary dog howls at music it does not always do so because the notes get on its "nerves," but often because it is striving to imitate them as well as its untrained vocal powers will permit.

I heard a wonderful story of a singing dog the other day. A handsome collie, named Sammy, the property of Mr. Carlson, is a tenor-soloist. Every morning, when a bell on a church near his master's home rings, Sammy takes up a position close by and begins an accompaniment, which blends remarkably well with the deep notes of the bell. A musician has declared that the dog is exactly in tune with the metallic sounds that come from the church belfry. Later in the day—a noon—Sammy goes off to a lumber plant operated by his master. Here the animal accompanies the whistle, achieving perfect harmony, it is said.

The Talking Dog!

It might be remembered that some years ago a singing dog created a furore amongst scientific men in Paris. This animal, which belonged to a Dr Bennati, could sing the scale perfectly without any assistance from the human voice or a musical instrument. Moreover, it could imitate a new tune with extraordinary accuracy after hearing it played two or three times.

The philosopher Leibnitz declared that he knew a dog which was not only a remarkably fine singer, but could actually talk. All the letters of the alphabet, with the exception of "m," "n," and "h," it could articulate quite clearly, and could give its master, when spoken to, a suitable answer.

Lions, elephants, and monkeys are fond of music. I have seen an elephant play a whole band of music at once, using its trunk and fore feet to play the various instruments. Lions will often forsake their meals to listen to a tune, and this applies also to tigers and others of the fierce cat tribe.

GIRLS' HAIR CUT OFF

A Despicable Act in a Cinematograph Theatre in England

Several young girls at Brighton, England, have just been the victims of a most despicable form of practical joking, and are now sorrowing over the loss of luxuriant hair upon the beauty and possession of which they had naturally prided themselves. With their hair in plaits they have visited one or other of the cinematograph theatres that abound, and upon unfastening their locks afterwards they have been astounded to find quantities fall to the ground, a big proportion of the plait having been cut by scissors or some other sharp instrument. The act has undoubtedly been committed in the darkness of the theatre. All attempts to detect the miscreant have failed.

"Bronchitis"

This is an acute inflammation of the mucous membrane lining the air tubes in the lungs.

The disease begins with a tightness across the chest, difficulty of breathing, hoarseness, and there is a dry, harsh, croupy cough.

After a few days mucous begins to be raised. This is at first white, but later of a greenish or yellowish color and is occasionally streaked with blood.

Cure the first symptoms of Bronchitis by the use of Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup and thus prevent it becoming chronic and perhaps turning to Consumption.

Mrs. D. J. McCormack, Cleveland, N.S., writes: "My little boy, two years old, caught a bad cold which developed into Bronchitis. He was so choked up he could hardly breathe. Reading about your wonderful medicine, Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, I decided to try a bottle, and with such good result I got another which completely cured him, without having a doctor. I cannot say too much in its praise and would not be without it in the house as I consider it a sure cure for Colds and Bronchitis.

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents.

FREE FIGHTS IN PARLIAMENT

Some of the Memorable Combats that Have Taken Place in the British House of Commons

Vigorous hand-to-hand struggles are not common at St. Stephen's, but they are not by any means unknown. As a matter of fact, fights have taken place at the House of Commons ever since the time of Cromwell, when his soldiers had to clear the House at the point of the bayonet to prevent bloodshed and wholesale destruction.

"Judas"

Perhaps the most remarkable scene of this description within modern times happened on July 27th, 1893. Mr. Chamberlain was speaking against the late Mr. Gladstone, and at ten o'clock, when the closure fell, someone shouted out "Judas," and this very unparliamentary epithet was reported to the Chairman, who, however, declared that the offensive expression had not been heard by him. He ordered the division to be proceeded with, whereupon several members of the Tory party refused to leave their seats. A few seconds later war was declared by a Conservative seizing an Irish member by the coat-collar, and within a short time there was a regular free fight in the House, in which Colonel Saunderson was rendered hors de combat after he had scientifically "floored" one or two of the "enemy." John Burns, it is said, helped to pull the combatants asunder until the arrival of the Speaker put an end to the unseemly proceedings.

Colonel Saunderson took part in many disputes at Westminster. He fell out with Mr. William Redmond one day, and it looked as if the pair would settle their differences with blows. The Colonel, it appears, had commented very strongly on Irish violence, and Mr. Redmond took each and several of the comments as a personal insult, suggesting that the redoubtable Colonel should meet him in the Lobby after the sitting. The Speaker, becoming aware of this sent a note to the chief of police at St. Stephen's, asking him to take up a position in the Lobby and prevent a fight between the hon. members. The expected, however, did not happen, for when Mr. Redmond and the Colonel met in the Lobby they calmly talked matters over, and finally wished each other a cheery "Good day."

"It is a Lie"

Some years back, when the House happened to be in Committee, the Irish members refused to go into the lobbies for division. The Chairman sent for the Speaker, and that gentleman promptly "named" the offenders, and their suspension was moved and carried. The Irishmen refused to budge an inch until a body of police walked into the House. Even then it was as much as the constables could do to "move them on." As a matter of fact, the police and the Irish members had a regular fight before the former conquered and carried the latter bodily out of the House.

During the debate on emancipation in the Commons Mr. Brougham, afterwards Lord Brougham, turned towards Mr. George Canning and bitterly exclaimed, "You have exhibited the most incredible specimen of monstrous truckling for the purpose of obtaining office that the whole history of political tergiversation could furnish." Canning replied, very quietly, "It is a lie!" A deathly quiet reigned in the House for some minutes, and one could have heard a pin drop. Presently, however, a lively debate took place between the members present, some of whom advised Mr. Brougham to withdraw his remark and apologise, while others requested Mr. Canning to do the same. Finally it was suggested that the couple should be committed to the Serjeant-at-Arms. The necessity for this gentleman's intervention happily did not arise, for the two disputants settled the matter between themselves and peace was once more restored.

A terrible scene occurred in the Austrian Parliament some years ago. A member made a twelve hours' speech with the object of obstructing a Bill that it was proposed to pass into law. A member who had had enough of the "talk" made a grab for the President's bell, and was promptly seized by other members. A fierce struggle ensued, members being guilty of the most outrageous violence. One man had half of his hair torn out by the roots, while another was nearly throttled. Chairs were flung all over the place, and one member drew an evil-looking knife and, brandishing it aloft, shouted, "I will stab all who approach me!" The knife was wrenched from his hand before he could use it.

Off With His Head

In earlier times it was the custom to commit a British political prisoner to the Tower of London, where he was often shortened by a head by means of the ill-famed axe and block. More recently he was transported to the memorable Botany Bay, or one of the other British penal colonies, but now that transportaiton is a thing of the past he is either shut up in the House of Commons itself or in the ordinary jails of the Kingdom. There is room for two prisoners only in St. Stephen's, and any beyond that number would probably be boarded out at Holloway or Pentonville.

The Parliamentary "cells" are situated 30 feet up in the Clock Tower of the Commons, and they are replete with every modern convenience and command an admirable view of the Thames, the Embankment, and New Palace Yard. Each "cell" consists of a comfortably - furnished sitting - room, measuring about 19 feet by 14 feet, and a couple of bedrooms, one for the prisoner and the other for his jailer. All food is supplied by the refreshment department of the Commons, but the prisoners are obliged to pay for their meals.

KEEPING HER QUIET

When a separation order was granted against Joseph Clark, a miner, at Gateshead, it was stated that he had admitted standing on his wife's neck "to keep her quiet."

Try a 50c. Bottle FREE

From Your Druggist: Psychine, the great Vitality-Builder

(PRONOUNCED SI-KEEN)

You know what it would mean to us were Psychine a preparation without a definite, beneficial action.

After the first bottle which we would buy, no more would be purchased.

And we would go out of business. But we're not going out of business, and our confidence that we're not is based upon our third of a century's experience with Psychine.

Ten years after Confederation we commenced compounding Psychine.

Since that time, we have sold many millions of bottles.

We have cured many hundreds of thousands of virulent and oftentimes fatal cases of diseases.

We have in our files many hundreds of thousands of unsolicited testimonials.

And we have grown from a small beginning to be one of the largest proprietary manufacturers in this country.

Here then is proof that we have in Psychine a preparation with abundant and demonstrated effectiveness, more so than any other preparation we, or anyone else, ever heard of.

Here then is the reason of our unalterable confidence in Psychine, that it is in fact the greatest preparation of its kind in the world.

Here then is why we have inaugurated a policy of actually buying hundreds of thousands of bottles of Psychine to give to those who should use.

To those who are blindly groping in the dark for relief from their misery, who may perhaps be using wrong methods to recover their health and their strength.

* * *

The greatest and most effective agents for the bodily health are the white corpuscles, phagocytes.

These white corpuscles eat any germ of disease that gains an entrance to the body, when they're in large enough numbers and sufficiently strong.

When they're not sufficiently strong, the disease germs devour them and disease holds the body.

* * *

For centuries almost, herbs, nature's own remedies, have been the most efficient foe to disease.

We have not known very definitely just how.

But now science tells us that certain of these herbs increase the number of the white corpuscles and their strength.

These certain herbs are incorporated in Psychine.

We go to the ends of the earth for these herbs—to Arabia, to South America, to China and to Japan.

They are compounded in the most costly chemical appliances in this country.

And the result is Psychine—for a third of a century the most effective vitality-builder the world has known.

The one preparation that has cured many thousands of the following diseases:

La Grippe	Bronchial Coughs
Bronchitis	Weak Lungs
Hemorrhages	Weak Voice
Sore Throat	Spring Weakness
Anaemia	Early Decline
Female Weakness	Catarrhal Affections
Indigestion	Catarrh of Stomach
Poor Appetite	Night Sweats
Chills and Fevers	Obstinate Coughs
Sleeplessness and Nervous Troubles	Laryngitis and Dyspepsia
After-effects of Pleurisy, Pneumonia and La Grippe

Now we don't ask you to take our word for the tremendously beneficial effect of Psychine. Fill out the coupon below, mail it to us and we'll give your druggist an order (for which we pay him the regular retail price) for a 50-cent bottle of Psychine to be given you free of cost.

We will undoubtedly buy and distribute in this manner hundreds of thousands of these 50-cent bottles of Psychine.

And we do that to show our entire confidence in this wonderful preparation.

A confidence that has been based on our 30 years' experience with this splendid preparation, with a full knowledge of the hundreds of thousands of cures it has made.

LUMBERING SCENES

Graphic Description of the Felling of a Great Tree in British Columbia

British Columbia is Canada's great timber preserve. In no other province do the chief varieties of commercial timber arrive at greater perfection. The exports of timber form the main staple of British Columbia's maritime trade, and the whole of the North-west depends for its timber supply on the forests of that province. A writer in the "Daily Province" of Vancouver contributes the following pen pictures of a typical lumbering scene in a valley of the Cascade Range leading down to Howe Sound:—

"All around is the deep forest, broken by slashings thick with giant stumps standing amidst a green ruin of tops, limbs and young hemlocks and cedar swept down by the colossi when they crashed to earth. Two big fellers stalk down a brown-shadowed aisle chewing tobacco. They carry double-bitt axes with straight handles like the battle tools of the knightly days, a 15 foot cross-cut saw, and two spring boards. The mighty bulk of the rough-barked tower of fir into which their flashing axes dart like serpents' fangs, cutting stepping notches for the chopping boards, make these two beamy, hairy-armed loggers, 15 stone apiece and a good fathom each in their old 'cork' boots, look like pygmies. The butt of the monster looks like 20 feet in circumference and 8 feet through, and its broken-ridged bark looks a foot thick. A tangle of alder grows man-high around the rugged bole. The massive obelisk of its shaft towers over 200 feet in the air. But Yukon Pete and Tacoma Jack, the careless axemen, are not awed by this. They merely bite off fresh chews of black plug and mount their chopping boards, spit on their big palms (Tacoma, the bunk house says, can hold a pound of loose tea in one open hand), and Pete, the one with the slits in his hat with matches shoved through them, takes a nick from the red-brown bark. Then with a steady rhythm they swing their bright blades for half-an-hour, making their undercut, and the knocking of their axes travels far through the forest. Skilfully they chop the great notch 3 feet deep, so that the tree will fall where they want it to, for it is the undercut that governs the fall of the tree. Then they lay aside their axes, shifting their chopping boards to the other side of the tree, and take up the long, lean saw. With a snarl it bites into the corrugated bark, and swaying and rocking their slouching shoulders, Tacoma and Pete pull the long blade back and forth, pausing only to throw a few drops of coal oil on the steel to free it from pitch. Now the axemen, yellow with sawdust, have rasped their way through 4 feet of solid white wood, and they withdraw the hot saw. The mighty column still stands solid on its great base and gives no sign of yielding. The fallers place wedges in the saw-slit and drive them in with furious strokes of a sledge. Just as the last sledge-blows ring through the woods we jump with surprise and back away, and the fallers leap from their chopping boards, shouting their long, hoarse, warning yell as a sharp snapping, like rifle explosions, startles the nerves. A shiver thrills through the colossus. Then there resounds through the woods a storm of grinding, rending, tearing, splintering noises. The titan sways slowly and with stately majesty at first. His kingly head, far up in the lofty roof of the forest, rocks as if in a hurricane, letting in great beams of sunlight through the green ceiling. Now he falls, fast sweeping through the air, smashing down other trees in a snarl of wreckage, snapping off his own branches, striking the earth with a great jarring, appalling thunder of sound which roars in hoarse reverberations through the valley. Earth and woods tremble as with an earthquake, and the enormous fir lies prone, like a bridge across the forest. The buckers, with their saws, are already on the ground to cut the giant into 20 and 30 feet logs, which may yield 10,000 feet of timber."

PARIS NIGHT DANGERS

"It is humiliating to admit," says M. Achille, a member of the Paris Municipal Estimates for 1911, "that in the twentieth century the security of Parisians is scarcely better assured than it was in the days when the watch was given a drubbing every night. Respectable citizens shut themselves up closely in their houses, leaving the purse-snatchers and brigands masters of the streets. Do not accuse me of exaggerating; rather read over the columns of the press devoted to the numerous robberies committed daily in the heart of Paris, to the burglaries of unheard-of audacity, and to the frequent murders—many of them unpunished—as well as to the innumerable strikes, the mysterious sabotages, and anarchy everywhere."

ADVERTISE IN THE EXAMINER

THE NEAREST STAR

Is Alpha Centauri, but It Is Quite a Distance Away

Alpha Centauri, a conspicuously bright point of light in the constellation of the Centaur, is the nearest to our own world of all the stars. Not only so, but it is the nearest by a colossal span. The next in distance from the earth, a faint star known as 61 Olygai, is almost twice as remote. So in the great company of the stars we must regard Alpha Centauri as, comparatively speaking, close at home. Yet, neighbor as it is, its distance is such that it is very difficult to convey to the mind any really adequate idea.

Light, everyone realizes, travels at some incredibly fast pace. It can be accurately measured, and it is found to traverse a distance of 184,300 miles in a single second of time. Even at such a speed, the light leaving Alpha Centauri takes three years to reach the earth. If the star were suddenly blotted out from its place in the sky, three whole years would pass before we became aware of the loss. The star is 275,000 times more distant from our solar system than is the sun from the earth. In other words, to reach Alpha Centauri, the nearest star, would require a measuring rod twenty-five million millions of miles in length.

Professor Todd has suggested an ingenious method for realizing such vast distances. Imagine the solar system—the sun, and all the planets circling round it—as represented by the dot over this letter I. Even the sun itself, on this exceedingly reduced scale, could not be detected with the most powerful microscope ever made, or dreamed of. But on the same scale, the vast circle having the sun as its centre and reaching to Alpha Centuri would be represented by the longest circle that could be drawn on the floor of a room ten feet square.

WHOLESOME FUN

Those Who Try to Do Without Recreation Have a Sorry Time of It

Those who try to do without recreation pay the penalty in arrested development. They dry up; their lives become humdrum and uninteresting. They do not get rid of the brain-ash from one day to another, and the monotony of using the same faculties a great many hours each day, without change or diversion, will soon so deteriorate the mind that it will lose its elasticity, its power to rebound, and the brain will operate in a perfunctory manner, instead of with strong, vigorous action, and will produce nothing original or great.

A multitude of people, however, lose the very good they are seeking in their recreation by indulging in pleasures which demoralize, weaken, and which, instead of making them fresher and stronger for their next day's work, leave a demoralizing reaction and exhaust their vitality.

Those people confuse fun with dissipation. Anything which lessens your self-respect, which makes you think a little less of yourself, is dissipation—not good, wholesome fun.

SCHOOLBOY "HOWLERS"

Here are some fresh schoolboy "howlers," culled from the "University Correspondent":—

"Herrings go about in shawls."

"The German Emperor is called the Geysir."

"The strength of the British Constitution lies in the fact that the Lords and Commons give each other mutual cheek."

"Queen Elizabeth rode a white horze from Kenilworth through Coventry with nothing on, and Raleigh offered her his cloak."

"Ben Johnson is one of the 'three highest mountains in Scotland.'"

A Mother's Sacrifice

Made in Kindness Is Often an Injustice to Herself and to Her Family.

It is a common thing for mothers to sacrifice comfort, strength and sometimes life itself, for her family. So common, indeed, that little notice is taken of it.

If anyone else is tired or weak or sick, mother waits on them. But there is no time for mother to be sick or to get the much-needed rest. So she neglects her ailments until she gets beyond the reach of human aid.

This is an injustice to herself and to her family. Health must be preserved. It is a mother's duty to herself and to those about her.

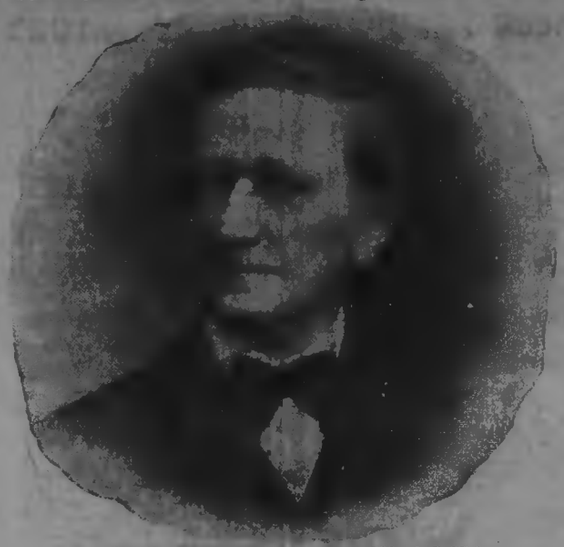
If you have tried most everything else, come to me. Where others fail is where I have my greatest success. Send attached coupon today and I will send you free my illustrated book on Rupture and its cure, showing my Appliance and giving you prices and names of many people who have tried it and were cured. It is instant relief when all others fail. Remember, I use no salves, no harness, no lies.

I send on trial to prove what I say is true. You are the judge and once having seen my illustrated book and read it you will be as enthusiastic as my hundreds of patients whose letters you can also read. Fill out free coupon below and mail today. It's well worth your time whether you try my Appliance or not.



The above is C. E. Brooks, the inventor, of Marshall, Mich., who has been curing rupture for over 30 years. If ruptured write him today.

Ten Reasons Why

You Should Send For Brooks Rupture Appliance.

1. It is absolutely the only Appliance of the kind on the market today, and in it are embodied the principles that inventors have sought after for years.
2. The Appliance for retaining the rupture cannot be thrown out of position.
3. Being an air cushion of soft rubber it clings closely to the body, yet never blisters or causes irritation.
4. Unlike the ordinary so-called pads, used in other trusses, it is not cumbersome or unsightly.
5. It is small, soft and pliable, and positively cannot be detected through the clothing.
6. The soft, pliable bands holding the Appliance do not give one the unpleasant sensation of wearing a harness.
7. There is nothing about it to get foul, and when it becomes soiled it can be washed without injuring it in the least.
8. There are no metal springs in the Appliance to torture one by cutting and bruising the flesh.
9. All of the material of which the Appliances are made is of the very best that money can buy, making it a durable and safe Appliance to wear.
10. My reputation for honesty and fair dealing is so thoroughly established by an experience of over thirty years of dealing with the public, and my prices are so reasonable, my terms so fair, that there certainly should be no hesitancy in sending free coupon today.

Pennsylvania Man Thankful

Mr. C. E. Brooks,
Marshall, Mich.

Dear Sir:—

Perhaps it will interest you to know that I have been ruptured six years and have always had trouble with it till I got your Appliance. It is very easy to wear, fits neat and snug, and is not in the way at any time, day or night. In fact, at times I did not know I had it on; it just adapted itself to the shape of the body and seemed to be a part of the body, as it clung to the spot, no matter what position I was in. It would be a veritable God-send to the unfortunate who suffer from rupture if all could procure the Brooks Rupture Appliance and wear it. They would certainly never regret it.

My rupture is now all healed up and nothing ever did it but your Appliance. Whenever the opportunity presents itself I will say a good word for your Appliance, and also the honorable way in which you deal with ruptured people. It is a pleasure to recommend a good thing among your friends or strangers. I am,

Yours very sincerely,
JAMES A. BRITTON.

Recommend From Texas Farmer

Brooks Rupture Appliance Co.,
Marshall, Mich.

Gentlemen:—

I feel it my duty to let you, and also all people afflicted as I was, know what your Appliance has done for me. I have been ruptured for many years and have worn many different trusses, but never got any relief until I got your Appliance. I put it on last November, but had very little faith in it, but must say I am now cured. I have laid it away—have had it off for two weeks and doing all kinds of farm work with ease. While I was wearing it, I had la grippe and coughed a great deal but it held all right. Words cannot express my gratitude towards you and your Appliance. Will recommend it to all ruptured people.

Yours sincerely,
Bald Prairie, Texas. J. E. LONG.

Others Failed But the Appliance Cured

C. E. Brooks,
Marshall, Mich.

Dear Sir:—

Your Appliance did all you claim for the little boy and more, for it cured him sound and well. We let him wear it for about a year in all, although it cured him 3 months after he had begun to wear it. We had tried several other remedies and got no relief, and I shall certainly recommend it to friends, for we surely owe it to you. Yours respectfully,
WM. PATTERSON.

Cured At the Age of 76.

Mr. C. E. Brooks, Marshall, Mich.

Dear Sir:—

I began using your Appliance for the cure of rupture (I had a pretty bad case) I think in May, 1905. On November 9th, 1905, I quit using it. Since that time I have not needed or used it. I am well of rupture and rank myself among those cured by the Brooks Discovery, which, considering my age, 76 years, I regard as remarkable.

Very sincerely yours,
Jamestown, N. C. SAM A. HOOVER

Child Cured In Four Months.

21 Jansen St., Dubuque, Iowa

Brooks Rupture Appliance Co.

Gentlemen:— The baby's rupture is altogether cured, thanks to your appliance, and we are so thankful to you. If we could only have known of it sooner our little boy would not have had to suffer near as much as he did. He wore your brace a little over four months and has not worn it now for six weeks.

Yours very truly,
Andrew Eggenberger.

PIT WORKERS ARE CARELESS

Many Mining Disasters are Caused by Neglect Which Is Simply Astounding

In spite of the fact that it was fitted with every modern contrivance for ensuring safe and efficient working, the Pretoria Pit, near Bolton, Lancashire, proved the grave of 340 miners. "I should have thought," said the managing-director, after the terrible catastrophe, "that this was one of the safest collieries in the country, and one of the last for an explosion to take place in. There seems no explanation," he continued, "beyond the suggestion that it arose from a defective lamp or the striking of a match."

The latter may or may not have been the cause of the explosion which sent these 340 men to an untimely death, but it is a fact, fully recognised by mining experts, that, although coal-miners carry their lives in their hands, they sometimes act, in spite of the strict rules and regulations which govern the working of big mines, with carelessness which is astounding.

Error of Judgment

The president of the Staffordshire, Warwickshire, and Worcestershire Colliery Managers Association stated recently, for instance, that "a little more carefulness on the part of the miners and closer supervision and stricter discipline on the part of the management would do incalculably more good than all the rescue apparatus yet invented."

It is generally admitted that the terrible calamity at Hamstead, near Birmingham, in 1908, when twenty-five men lost their lives, and the Maypole disaster in the same year, resulting in seventy-six men being killed, were due almost entirely to some form of carelessness. The Maypole disaster was due to an ignition of fire-damp and coal dust caused by the firing of too heavy a charge of explosive. This was, to say the least, a grave error of judgment, but experts describe it as carelessness.

These twin evils of carelessness and slack officials are shown up in all their ugliness by comments made by the Chief Inspector of Mines—Professor Redmayne—when, in reporting on the Hampstead disaster, he clearly stated that it was primarily caused by workmen separating bundles of candles by burning the wicks or string instead of cutting them.

From personal experience in the Welsh and Midland coal-fields the writer has found that much of the carelessness is due to an excess of self-confidence. A veteran miner described it as "the working out of the old adage, 'Familiarity breeds contempt.'"

Fatal December

With the exception of the explosion at Oaks Colliery, near Barnsley, in December, 1866, when over 380 persons were killed, the disaster at Pretoria Pit is the heaviest in the mining history of the kingdom, and certainly the worst in Lancashire. The nearest approach to these disasters in the last fifty years were the Ebbw Vale disaster in 1878, when 268 lives were lost, and the disaster at the Albion Colliery in Glamorganshire in 1894, which resulted in the death of 286 persons. Over 200 lives were lost in the Hartley Colliery disaster of 1862, as well as in the High Blantyre disaster of 1877. We have had no disaster in this country, however, which has had such appalling results as that which occurred at Lens, in France, in 1906, when no fewer than 1,230 miners perished. It is a curious fact that December is a very bad month for pit disasters. Within the last forty years six disasters have occurred in Lancashire, and altogether since 1860 there have been twenty colliery disasters in different parts of the country in the month of December, resulting in a total death-roll of 1,500 miners.

DOUKHOBOUR SETTLERS

Ten Thousand Acres From Them in British Columbia

Some two thousand Doukhobour settlers belonging to the Russian collectivist community residing at present in the province of Saskatchewan are proceeding to Southern British Columbia, where ten thousand acres of fruit lands have been purchased for their accommodation at a point about 30 miles from Nelson in the Kootenay district. These people, who originally came from the Caucasus, are expert horticulturists, and their experience renders them suitable for the conditions that obtain in the valleys of the province in question. A thousand acres are already under cultivation and planted with extensive orchards of apples and pears, cherries and plums, peaches and apricots. A system of irrigation canals to utilize the water from the mountain streams will be carried out, which, when completed, will permit the whole area to be brought under cultivation. Fruit preserving and canning factories will be built. Unlimited markets for both fresh and preserved fruits are available in the prairie district.

FOR THE CURATE

Thirty-seven young ladies of the congregation had in mind 37 pairs of slippers for the curate for Christmas. But one young lady made known her intention, and when the day arrived the curate received one pair of slippers and 36 dressing-gowns.

SOME CURIOUS WATCHES

Not as Complex Nowadays as Formerly—Queer Old Ones

With all our modern improvements we rarely hear nowadays of watches so fancifully complex as used to be made for great folks in the times when all watches were expensive and comparatively novel.

King George III., in the year 1760, received a present of a watch that was a kind of mechanical almanac. It pointed out the date, and also had a device to show the varying lengths of the days, according to the season. It was not bigger than other watches of the time, but then they were all what we should call turnips now.

The Emperor Napoleon I. had a watch which wound itself by means of a weighted lever, which, at every step His Majesty took, rose and fell, and having a gathering click to it wound up a ratchet attached to the barrel. Pedometers were afterwards made on the same principle. The Duke of Wellington had a watch which was given to him by the King of Spain, from which the time could be told by the touch, the hours being marked by studs. In the back of the case was placed an index which, when moved forward, would stop at the portion of the hour indicated by the watch, and then by means of the studs the time could be approximately computed in the dark.

Catharine of Russia had a watch constructed by an ingenious peasant which played a chant, and had within it tiny mechanical figures which, moving about, were supposed to represent the scene of the resurrection of the Saviour; the chant was then heard all over Russia at Eastertime. But this watch was bigger than a hen's egg.

INN NAMES IN GERMANY

Scattered throughout England are some curious inn names, but Germany probably keeps the record for out-of-the-way signs and fantastic names. The most absurd results are usually obtained by the name of some animal with a more or less unsuitable object. The Comfortable Chicken and the Cold Frog, both of them in Berlin, are certainly left in the shade by the Angry Ant (Ort, in Westphalia) and the Stiff Dog (Berlin). The Lame Louse is an inn in a suburb of Berlin, and not far from it is the Thirsty Pelican. The Dirty Parlor, the Bloody Bones, the Musical Cats, the Four-hundredweight Man, and the Boxers' Den are all in Berlin or the neighborhood, and the Old Straw Bag in Leipsic. The Open Bunghole is in Stadtohen, in the Palatinate, and the Shoulder-blade in Jericho. The Last Tear is a landlord's notion for the name of his inn, situated near a graveyard, visited by returning mourners, and is of frequent occurrence throughout the Fatherland.

WORKHOUSE REVOLT

Among the articles broken in the Surrey workhouse revolt against porridge a week ago were two panes of glass, four forms, 11 salt cellars, 26 spoons, 90 plates, and the heads of several officials.

WHEN HE'S AT WORK

A medical correspondent writes to the editor of the "Sporting Times":—

Possibly the following anecdote, which actually happened at my medical inspection of school children last week may be worth repeating. I may mention that the first question we put to the children is "What is your father's occupation?"

Enter bright looking boy.

"What's your father's work, laddie?"

"Please, sir, 'e's not workin' now."

"But what does he do when he is working?"

"Please, sir, 'e goes out an' supes all day long."

A DOUBLE CURE FOR DOUBLE TROUBLE

Father Morrisey's No. 26 Cures Catarrh by a Combined Treatment.

The sudden weather variations in our climate result in a great many cases of catarrh—a troublesome disease usually considered hard to cure, and one which often leads to serious pulmonary and intestinal troubles

A neglected cold in the head weakens the nasal membranes, so that at every future exposure the trouble returns. At length these conditions are fastened onto the system, and the sufferer undergoes the annoyance and danger of chronic catarrh.

Some doctors confine themselves to prescribing external applications, and thus do not reach the seat of the trouble. Others give internal treatment exclusively, and thus do not promptly relieve the affected parts.

Father Morrisey, the skilled priest-physician, rightly regarded catarrh as a double trouble, consisting of unpleasant local effects and their fundamental causes, the latter having to do with impaired general vitality.

His famous remedy, No. 26, is a combined cure for catarrh. It consists of tablets to be taken three times a day, and an especially compounded salve.

The salve is antiseptic, and quickly heals the inflamed membranes of the nasal passages. The tablets go to the seat of the trouble and restore the system to its usual tone. Together, they cure.

Instead of neglecting a disease that is unpleasant to yourself and to others, and one which often leads to pneumonia and consumption, it is surely the part of wisdom to take timely steps to do away with the effects and at the same time remove the cause. No. 26 does just that.

50c. for the combined treatment. At your druggist's, or from Father Morrisey Medicine Co., Ltd., Chatham, N.B.

XIV.—Disease Prevention In the Home

By EUGENE L. FISK, M. D.

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

"WHO would not give a trifle to prevent what he would give a thousand worlds to cure?" Dr. Young, who wrote these words, had a habit of "seeing things at night," but not in the popular sense of this expression. He wrote "Night Thoughts," but saw very clearly the principle which the medical profession is now carrying out well expressed in the homely old phrase, "An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Scourges of the Past.

The horrors of pestilence and unnecessary disease that afflicted our forefathers are almost unbelievable in these days, and yet during the dark ages they were accepted as a matter of course and variously ascribed to "acts of God" or "the evil one," according to the point of view.

PROPER WINDOW VENTILATION.
[Have plenty of window space and so arrange your rooms that they are thoroughly ventilated and well lighted.]

We do not read in the sprightly romances of Dumas and others who have thrown a glamour over history that "itch" was a common, not to say general, affliction at the court of France and that the great Napoleon suffered from this trouble because no one knew its cause or simple treatment. It seems difficult to realize that in the old days a person who was not pockmarked from smallpox was conspicuous in the streets of London.

The custom of sleeping in bunks in the wall, of using rushes or straw for floor covering, in the meshes of which refuse scraps from the table and other filth were allowed to accumulate, was regarded in the old days as a natural and healthful mode of existence. The custom of dipping germ infected fingers into large dishes of food containing the general supply for the family was followed by the Four Hundred during the middle ages, when the "black death" and other scourges spread a desolation of which it is difficult to form any conception in these days of comparative "sweetness and light."

But we must not lay too much flattering unction to our souls. Taking into account the advances in science and knowledge of the causation of disease, we are today relatively just as neglectful as our forefathers. Reckless and careless habits in defiance of disease risks are still common enough and are responsible for a tremendous waste of life.

The Fall in the Death Rate.

In the registration area of the United States the death rate has fallen from 19.6 per 1,000 in 1890 to 15.4 in 1908. In Massachusetts the death rate has fallen from 19.4 in 1890 to 17.5 in 1907. In England and Wales it has fallen from 19.5 in 1890 to 14.7 in 1908; in Sweden from 17.1 in 1890 to 14.9 in 1908, and in France from 22.8 in 1890 to 14.9 in 1908.

This is a splendid showing, but when we analyse the material from which these figures are derived we find that the death rate among young people has fallen more than 30 per cent, while the death rate among the middle aged and elderly has either been slightly affected or markedly increased, according to the locality investigated.

In Massachusetts the increase in the death rate at advanced ages is really startling and doubtless reflects a condition general throughout the country.

We know that the degenerative diseases affecting middle life and old age—apoplexy, heart disease, Bright's disease, arterial diseases, etc.—have increased 105 per cent during the past thirty years in the registration area, and an increase in the mortality at the ages affected would naturally follow, such as is exhibited in the Massachusetts statistics.

But the limit of prevention and improvement among the infectious diseases that affect young lives has not yet been reached. These diseases, such as typhoid, cholera infantum, tuberculosis, etc., should be absolutely eradicated.

Proper sanitation, especially in the rural districts, is greatly needed and a more thorough observance of the precautionary measures against tuberculosis and other infectious maladies.

Prevention of Degenerative Diseases.

Diseases of the heart, kidneys and blood vessels (apoplexy, paralysis) are caused by high pressure living, overeating, intemperance—any condition involving undue nerve strain. What may be done to guard against these troubles? The most rational protective measure is to treat your body just as you would treat your business or your automobile or your yacht. Have it overhauled and examined periodically. What would you think of a man who put out to sea in a vessel that had been used for years and never overhauled or inspected for leaky boilers, pipes or seams? Is it not obvious that he invites shipwreck? But the average mechanic, farmer or business man will embark on a life voyage and wait until something goes wrong before he consents to an overhauling, and then too often in his conceit and foolish egotism he derides the physician who warns him and boasts that he will outlive the doctor or the insurance company that refuses to carry his risk.

Value of Periodical Examinations.

It must be apparent that this human machine should be periodically examined for evidence of commencing strain and impairment. Many a valuable life could be saved for years of happy and useful existence if the early symptoms of disease were detected and the manner of living changed. A downward course may readily be checked if the disease has not gone too far. The wise man, therefore, will consult his doctor at least once a year and listen patiently to advice regarding the habits of eating, drinking and housing. The periodical inspection of the whole family is also desirable. Give the children a chance to be molded and guided to health and strength instead of permitting them to grow up like weeds or untrained vines. The correction of eye troubles, removal of adenoids, tonsils, etc., proper habits of bathing, eating, etc., may completely change the destiny of your children.

These principles are coming to be recognized as of such extreme importance that one large life insurance company has arranged to give to its policy holders the privilege of free medical examinations once a year, believing that the saving of lives will more than offset the expense involved.

Care In Choice of a Home.

In choosing a habitation remember that sunlight, fresh air and dry soil are money savers. By properly choosing your location you may save the interest on the mortgage in doctors' bills. See that your home is on firm, well drained ground. Made ground, however carefully packed and graded, is very likely to cause a dampness in the cellar and around the foundations. Do not settle near a marshy pond or sluggish stream if you can help it. A southern exposure is desirable.

Have plenty of window space, and so arrange your rooms that those most constantly occupied—bedrooms, living rooms, etc.—are thoroughly ventilated and well lighted. The best room in the house should be used by the family, not by an occasional guest.

If the soil is damp the subsoil must be drained below the foundation and the cellar floors and walls thoroughly cemented. Absolute dryness may be attained by having hollow walls. Bricks are undesirable for cellar walls, as they absorb moisture. Stone is likewise porous and retains moisture. Slate or cement coatings will obviate the danger.

Heating.

If you have a hot air furnace be sure it is of good quality, gas proof and that the air supply is drawn from outside and not from the cellar or any damp or dusty location. See that a water reservoir is attached to the furnace and kept filled.

If other methods of heating by direct radiation are employed some provision should be made for changing the air of the room. Many special ventilating systems have been invented, and if means permit these should be investigated and a desirable one installed when the house is built. Stagnant, vitiated, overheated, dusty or damp air is a menace to health. Exclude these conditions from your home. It can be done.

Water Supply.

If there is no general water supply system in your locality, beware of shallow wells, surface springs or water from any doubtful source. A deep driven well far removed from any possible source of contamination, should be secured. If possible; otherwise cistern water, held in a slate or cemented cistern, is safer. Suspected water should always be boiled.

I have elsewhere dwelt upon the importance of proper sewage disposal, but it cannot be too often stated that the old fashioned methods employed in the country are barbarous and unworthy of a civilized nation. Study this question carefully and adopt a system, whether surface irrigation or portable dry earth closet, etc., that will protect your family and your neighbors from disease. If greater care is not exercised in this regard the state must step in and act vigorously to protect the community from typhoid, hookworm and other maladies due to soil pollution.

The Home Atmosphere.

It is not sufficient to keep physical germs out of the home atmosphere. The germs of discord, strife and confusion are also prejudicial to health. A household where nothing ever happened and everything always worked smoothly would be a great bore, but there is a "golden mean," characterized by patience, forbearance, system and order in the household relations and government.

Baby Nearly Died with Itching Rash

Mrs. M. C. Maitland, of Jasper, Ont., tells in the following letter of her child's remarkable cure by the Cuticura Remedies:

"When my boy was about three months old his head broke out with a rash which was very itchy and ran a watery fluid. We tried everything we could but he got worse all the time, till it spread to his arms, legs and then to his entire body. He got so bad that he came near dying. The rash would itch so that he would scratch till the blood ran and a thin yellowish stuff would be all over his pillow in the morning. I had to put mittens on his hands to prevent him tearing his skin. He was almost a skeleton and his little hands were thin like claws.

"He was bad about eight months when we tried Cuticura Remedies. I had not laid him down in his cradle in the daytime for a long while. I washed him with Cuticura Soap and put on one application of Cuticura Ointment and he was so soothed that he could sleep. You don't know how glad I was he felt better. It took one box of Cuticura Ointment and pretty near one cake of Cuticura Soap to cure him. I think our boy would have died but for the Cuticura Remedies and I shall always remain a firm friend of them. He was cured more than twenty years ago and there has been no return of the trouble."

(Signed) Mrs. M. C. Maitland, Jasper, Ont.

No more convincing proof of the efficacy and economy of the Cuticura Remedies could be given. As in this instance, a single cake of Cuticura Soap and box of Cuticura Ointment are often sufficient. Suffered Greatly From Heart Trouble.

NERVES WERE VERY WEAK.

Mrs. John Farrell, Ross Hill, P.E.I., writes:—"It is with the greatest of pleasure I write you stating the benefit I have received by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

"About five years ago I suffered greatly from heart trouble, and my nerves were very weak. After seeing several doctors and using their medicines, I got no relief until a friend told me of your Heart and Nerve Pills. I took two boxes and they effected a complete cure. I can recommend them highly to all nervous and run down women.

"I have advised many others to try them and they have all been cured of the same trouble."

The proper action of the nerves, so important to the well-being of the heart, depends entirely upon the general condition of the nervous system. If there be nerve derangement of any kind, it is bound to produce heart derangement.

In Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills is combined a treatment that will cure all forms of nervous disorders, as well as act on the heart itself, and in this is the secret of their success in curing so many cases of heart and nerve trouble.

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c per box, or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

Do your baking with flour made exclusively of the HIGH-GRADE constituents of the HARD-WHEAT berry

Have you ever baked with flour made exclusively of the high-grade constituents of the hard wheat berry? If you haven't, now is the time to try PURITY Flour.

Only the cream of the Manitoba hard wheat—the best wheat in the world—is used for PURITY Flour. More than that, only a portion of the flour milled from this wheat goes into the sacks and barrels branded PURITY.

PURITY Flour consists exclusively of the high-grade constituents or portions of the Manitoba hard wheat berry.

Every wheat berry has both low-grade and high-grade constituents which are separated during our process of milling. So exact is our process that it entirely eliminates all the low-grade portions from the flour which is finally branded PURITY.

The greater strength of PURITY Flour makes it go farther in the baking. With it you can make more loaves to the sack or barrel than you have ever succeeded in doing before. The loaves will be more nutritious, too, because they contain the high-quality gluten, starch, phosphates and other muscle-building and blood-enriching elements of the hard wheat berry.

Naturally flour that consists exclusively of the high-grade constituents of the best hard wheat has greater strength and nutriment, superior color, more delicate flavor.

If you'll just try to realize fully what it means to your cooking-reputation you'll soon be using PURITY Flour.

Of course, PURITY Flour will cost you a few cents more than lower-grade hard wheat flour or soft wheat flour.

But PURITY is very economical because it makes "More bread and better bread." The cost per loaf is no more than when using weaker flour, and the food value is much greater.

Tell your grocer you are in a hurry to try PURITY Flour. He will supply you promptly.

When you see the batch of beautiful snow-white loaves, with their soft, evenly-textured crumb and dainty golden-brown crust, you'll be proud of your success with PURITY Flour. When you taste and enjoy the superb flavor of such high-class bread you'll be prouder still.

If you don't want to buy a large sack or barrel, you can get a small bag. PURITY is packed in 7, 14, 24, 49 and 98 pound sacks. Also in barrels and half-barrels.

Make certain the PURITY trademark is on the sack or barrel you buy, for that is your guide to the strong, reliable, high-quality flour that makes

It was moved by Mr. R. J. Christie, seconded by Mr. H. W. Wilcox, that Mr. W. D Matthews do take the chair, and that C A. Bogert do act as Secretary.

Messrs. W. Gibson Cassels and A. H. Campbell were appointed scrutineers.

The Secretary read the reoprt of the Directors to the Shareholders, and submitted the Annual Statement of the affairs of the Bank, which is as follows :

To the Shareholders:

The Directors beg to present the following Statement of the results of the business of the Bank for the year ending 31st December, 1910:—

Balance of Profit and Loss Account, 31st December, 1909		$295,768.98
Profit for the year ending 31st December, 1910, after deducting charges of management, etc., and making provision for bad and doubtful debts		659,300.58
Making a total of		$955,067.56
Which has been disposed of as follows:
Dividend 3 per cent., paid 1st April 1910	$120,000.00
Dividend 3 per cent., paid 2nd July, 1910	120,000.00
Dividend 3 per cent., paid 1st October, 1910	120,000.00
Dividend 3 per cent., payable 3rd January, 1911	120,000.00
		480,000.00
		$475,067.56
Written off Bank Premises		170,000.00
Balance of Profit and Loss carried forward		$305,067.56

Your Directors, in submitting the Annual Statement of the affairs of the Bank as on the 31st December, 1910, with the result of the year's business, beg to report that there has been a general substantial growth in every direction. A considerable increase in the net profits will be noted, owing to the satisfactory conditions which have prevailed throughout Canada and the steady demand for bank accommodation from all districts where we are established.

For some time past the Board has had under serious consideration the necessity for the enlargement of our Head Office premises, which have become quite inadequate to meet the present needs of the Bank, without having regard to the ordinary expansion of our business which may be expected in the future. Endeavours were made to secure adjoining lots, but without success. In 1910 an opportunity arose for the acquisition of the land and buildings at the northeast corner of King and Yonge streets — 81 feet on King street by 112 feet on Yonge street—and after due consideration the purchase was completed. It is not the purpose to hold both properties any longer than is necessary, and when a policy for building is decided on, your Directors have every reason to believe that our present premises can be disposed of for an amount which will practically offset the recent outlay.

In addition, suitable buildings were erected last year for Edmonton, Moose Jaw, and Notre Dame avenue, Winnipeg, branches.

These various disbursements have caused a considerable increase in Bank Premises Account, but, following the usual policy, a substantial amount has been written off.

A lot was purchased at Saskatoon, and it is proposed to erect a building at this point and at Calgary during the current year. With the completion of these buildings your Directors are of the opinion that no further immediate expenditures for our Western branches will be necessary.

It is the intention to erect offices this year in Toronto: At the corner of Dovercourt road and Bloor street, corner of Lee avenue and Queen street, corner of St. Clair avenue and Vaughan road, and the corner of Sherbourne and Bloor streets, where we are already established in temporary premises.

A Branch of the Bank was opened in February last at the corner of St. Lawrence boulevard and Prince Arthur street, Montreal.

The offices opened in 1909 are making satisfactory progress, and already justify their establishment.

In accordance with the By-law passed by the Shareholders at our Annual Meeting in January last, the par value of the shares of the Bank was on September the 1st changed from $50 to $100.

The Directors, following their usual custom, have examined and verified the General Balance Sheet of the Bank as on the 31st of December, 1910, and have checked and found to be correct the cash assets, securities, and investments shown therein. They have, in addition, given careful scrutiny to all borrowing accounts.

E. B. OSLER,
President.

"THE INNOCENT MURDERERS"

By Wm. Johnston and Paul West

"Dear Professor Hopkins"—even the simple and customary "dear" stirred her anger. Not that she herself often used the word, for ordinarily she spoke to and about her husband by his academic title. The "dear Josiah" of her courtship was so long as to be almost forgotten. Perhaps its very disuse by herself made the fact of its being employed by another seem like an infringement of her martial rights.

As to the body of the note, what could it mean except that the girl and Professor Hopkins were preparing to elope! As Mrs. Hopkins came to this conclusion she could scarcely restrain herself from awakening her husband and shouting into his astonished ear that she had just discovered his guilty secret.

The note was dated Saturday. This was Sunday night. Evidently it would not be long before the guilty pair would try to get away—if unmolested. She must see to it that her husband was deprived of every opportunity to escape from Graydon.

Mrs. Hopkins could not repress a feeling of grim satisfaction as she thought of what she would do to Ernesta as soon as she could find and expose her. With savage joy she mentally created an Ernesta, the sort of Ernesta she would have the most pleasure in destroying—an Ernesta of the clinging variety, with blue eyes and golden hair. Jealous women always invent a blond villainess, and in this case Mrs. Hopkins was correct in her surmise that Ernesta was fair-haired and blue of eye. With the determination of seeking out this skirted usurper of her matrimonial throne, Mrs. Hopkins dropped off to sleep shortly before rising time, with a plan already formed of bringing her husband to book.

If the professor's mind had not been absorbed with other thoughts, he might have noticed that his wife was strangely silent at breakfast, that Monday morning. He would have observed, also, that she watched him with an unusual interest. She, in her turn, wondered at his apparent calmness. He must be a scoundrel of even deeper dye than she had imagined, to betray not even the slightest sign of his perfidy. She endeavoured to trap him into exposing himself.

"Professor," she said, with a herculean effort against exhibiting her excitement, "college is nearly over, and I've been thinking if we couldn't have your sister down here for Commencement; that is, if——"

Her husband noticed the pause, as she hoped he would, and asked:

"If what?"

"If—if you want to," finished Mrs. Hopkins weakly. What she meant to imply was, "If you are going to be with us," but her husband's air of innocence proved that he had not caught her meaning.

"Very well," he replied, "suppose you invite her."

His words and tone were innocent enough, yet at the same time she inferred that it was an assumed innocence.

Professor Hopkins left the house as usual, carrying his black bag, in which his wife had placed his luncheon. Almost tearfully she wondered, as she put it in the bag, wrapped in a napkin, whether she would have many more opportunities to do this little kindness for her recreant spouse! The note from Ernesta and all the other papers belonging in the bag she had replaced with care; she would give him no hint that she had learned of his treachery. Then, when she saw him go down the path and disappear from view up the street, she wondered if he could really be as bad as appearances indicated. She gazed at the receding figure, with its slow, almost plaintive shuffle, its bent head and studious air, and almost doubted the evidence she had already accumulated.

But she turned from the window resolutely, and ran into the dining-room. On the shelves of the cupboard were newspapers, carefully preserved for this purpose. In an old Boston newspaper on the second shelf she had noted weeks before (and merely by accident, with no thought of ever having occasion to remember it), an advertisement which read:

Watch your Husband!—Allen Detective Agencies furnish Proof. Skilled detectives at your instant disposal. Confidences strictly preserved. Prompt response to letters and telegrams.

To transcribe to paper the telegram which Mrs. Hopkins had already mentally composed was a minute's work. Then she threw her hat upon her head and hurried to the telegraph office. On the telegraph operator she enjoined strict silence and left him wondering at the strange message which she left with him. The receipt of this message in Boston, a few minutes later, resulted in Detective Philip Sullivan's jamming a few necessaries into a valise and hastening to catch the first train connecting with Graydon.

The telegram sent, Mrs. Hopkins mechanically turned her steps toward the college, bent on the annihilation of Ernesta. Soon, however, discretion overtook her, and she decided to postpone her rival's destruction until later; perhaps until the detective should have arrived from Boston and secured facts for her that she considered were necessary to make the chain of evidence complete.

All day the unhappy wife attended to her household duties, and the professor's supper was ready on time. But he was late, and a dreadful foreboding came over her. He was not coming home at all. This was the night selected for his departure with Ernesta.

At half past seven she could stand the suspense no longer. She put the children to bed, and, as soon as she made herself sure that they were asleep, she slipped a shawl over her head and hurried out toward the college. The building was in darkness. The light she had half hoped to find in the laboratory window was not there. She tried the front door of the buildnig. It was locked. She stood there for a moment debating what she ought to do next. Should she arouse the village and tell everyone that her husband had deserted her? The distracted woman had no longer any doubt that she was too late, and that Professor Hopkins had fled.

In her terror and loneliness she suddenly thought of her children. Her poor, fatherless, deserted little children! She turned and fled blindly home, trembling in every limb.

Moaning with the sense of desolation, she entered the little house, now so changed in a few hours, and threw herself on the sofa in the parlour, where she burst into sobs. She was aroused by the sound of steps on the gravel path. Through force of habit she went to open the door, believing that it was her husband. Ordinarily she would have greeted him at such an hour with a frown for his lateness; now she was ready to welcome him with an embrace, for, after all, the fear that he had gone away would be allayed.

There was a knock at the door. It was not the professor, then. Who could it be? Another knock. Why did not the person ring the bell? A third knock, and she mustered up courage enough to ask who was there.

"Is this where Mrs. Margaret Hopkins lives?" a strange voice called from without. This was the name she had signed to the telegram. It must be the detective. She opened the door to find a tall man, square-jawed, heavy moustached, standing on the porch. With a woman's intuition she knew him for what he was, and asked him to step in.

He handed her his card, and said: "I have come in response to your telegram."

"Yes," faltered Mrs. Hopkins, "I telegraphed you. Won't you be seated?" She showed Mr. Sullivan into the parlour, noting, as she did so, how eagerly he scanned every detail of the room.

"Mr. Hopkins?" he asked quietly.

"Professor Hopkins," she corrected him. "Please sit down."

Detective Sullivan, however, remained standing, and his gaze wandered continually about the room. Mrs. Hopkins began to grow nervous. What if the professor should, return and find him here!

"You—you came promptly," she ventured.

"Yes," said Detective Sullivan, standing by the mantel and examining a group picture of Professor Hopkins and his chemistry classes, which stood beside the clock. As Mrs. Hopkins watched him he took the photograph in his hand and turned it over to look at the back of it, which he seemed to be studying. Suddenly he looked up and said:

"You said the case was urgent. May I ask what it is?"

"My husband," said Mrs. Hopkins dashing into the hideous business precipitately, "my husband has eloped!" Detective Sullivan looked at the photograph of the professor on the wall, and started. A look of incredulity seemed to mark his face. Mrs. Hopkins, observing this, continued:

"Yes, eloped with a girl named Ernesta!" And then, the gate being opened, the bitter flood of words gushed forth. All the harsh things she had been imagining about Ernesta now found expression. She was beginning a tirade against her supposed rival when the detective interposed.

"Don't get excited, madam," he said, calmly. "When did they go?"

"To-night!" she sobbed.

"To-night? And you sent the telegram this morning! Then you knew they were going?"

"I thought so—I didn't know. I found the note the woman wrote to my husband, last night."

"What did the note say?"

"I—I haven't it," cried Mrs. Hopkins, bitterly, as she blamed herself for her stupidity in returning the piece of damning evidence to her husband's bag. "I put it back in my husband's satchel for fear he'd find out I knew about it."

"Humph! Where's the bag now?"

"With him, wherever he is. He goes nowhere without it."

"What did the note say?"

Mrs. Hopkins repeated it word for word.

"Who is Ernesta?" the detective asked, as she finished, with a sob.

"Who is Ernesta?" snapped Mrs. Hopkins. "If I knew, if I knew anything about the whole case, do you supose I'd have sent for a detective? I want you to find out who she is, how long this has been going on, where they've gone—everything."

"Calm yourself, madam," said the detective. "I imagine I can locate them. But before I go any further I—ahem! It is customary with us, with clients whom we don't know, to insist on a fee in advance."

"How much do you want" asked Mrs. Hopkins.

"In view of the few clues we have to work upon," said the detective in his most impressive professional manner, "we shall have to ask a preliminary fee of one hundred dollars."

Mrs. Hopkins gasped. A hundred dollars is no mean amount to be deducted from the exchequer of a small college professor. But she hardly hesitated. She had determined on her course, regardless of expense.

"I haven't that amount in the house," she said, "but I'll get it from the bank the first thing in the morning."

"That will be quite satisfactory," said Sullivan. "Now, I shall have to get a few points to help me." So he set about catechising Mrs. Hopkins till she had told him how long ago she and the professor were married, his habits, the circumstances of the late nights in the laboratory—everything.

"And this is the professor," he said, pointing at the group photograph which he was studying carefully. The picture showed a middle-aged, scholarly looking man in a torn coat—his classroom uniform—a pair of spectacles resting on a high, bold forehead, a black beard plentifully sprinkled with grey. It was hardly the type of a Lothario, and Sullivan could not refrain from suggesting the fact.

"Are you quite sure your husband has eloped?" he again asked Mrs. Hopkins.

"What else?" she asked. "Everything points that way. The note signed Trnesta--"

"Ernesta? Was that all the name signed to the note?" He was turning the photograph over again and examining the back, which seemed to interest him greatly.

"That was all," said Mrs. Hopkins shaking her head. "I hope you will be able to find out who she is."

"I have already done so," said the detective quietly, as he replaced the photograph on the mantelpiece. "Her name is Ernesta Frost. She is one of your husband's pupils, a tall, slight girl—"

"Blonde!" sobbed Mrs. Hopkins.

"You knew her?"

"No; but I knew I was right. Go on."

TOOK THE ADVICE OF HER FRIENDS

And Dodd's Kidney Pills Made Mrs. Painchaud Well

She inherited ill-health from her parents, and for seven years was a sufferer from Kidney and Heart Trouble.

Whitworth, Temiscouta Co., Que. Jan. 27.—(Special)—That she took the advice of her friends and used Dodd's Kidney Pills is the reason Mrs. Julien Painchaud of this place gives for the perfect health that shows in her every movement.

"I inherited ill-health from my parents," Mrs. Painchaud says in an interview. "For seven years my Heart and Kidneys bothered me. I was always tired and nervous. I could not sleep. My eyes had dark circles round them, and were puffed and swollen.

"I could hardly do my housework when I was advised to try Dodd's Kidney Pills. One box relieved me of pain, and six boxes made me perfectly well."

Every woman who is feeling fagged, tired and worn out, should use Dodd's Kidney Pills. They cure the Kidneys and every woman's health depends on her Kidneys. Healthy Kidneys mean pure blood, and pure blood carries new life to run down organs which supply the body with energy.

If you're a suffering woman ask your friends. They'll tell you out of their own experience to use Dodd's Kidney Pills.

REMOVAL OF SNOW BY THE RADIAL RAILWAY COMPANY

At the meeting of the Board of Works Thursday, Ald. Duncan asked that the clause in the agreement between the city and the Radial Railway Company, in regard to be removal of snow from the streets be read at that or some meeting of the committee. He was not conversant with the terms of the agreement. There had been complaint that the Radial Railway Company in sweeping the snow from their tracks left it in ridges.

The clause was read, showing that the company is required to leave the snow spread smoothly over the street and not in piles such as complained of. The cost for the first five years was to be borne by the city, for the next five years, a fourth by the company and three-fourths by the city, and for the balance of the agreement, each interest pays half.

12 Tumors Removed Without An Operation

Silver Lake, Ont., Sept. 30, 1909.

Dear Mrs. Currah.—I am enjoying better health than I have for eight years, and I think I am entirely cured. I have none of the old symptoms. I am very satisfied for my present health, and think Orange Lily is the greatest treatment for women the world knows. Its use in my case caused 12 tumors or growths of some sort to be expelled. Some were as large as a hen's egg, and others smaller, down to the size of a walnut. You may use my case in your advertisement, for it is the solid truth, and pen cannot describe all the good it has done for me. Mrs. Louise B. Bolteridge.

This letter gives an indication of the positive benefits that always follow the use of Orange Lily. It is an applied treatment and comes in direct contact with the suffering organs. It produces results from the start in all cases of woman's disorders, including painful periods, falling of womb, irregularities, leucorrhoea, etc.

I will send a sample box containing 10 days' treatment absolutely free to any suffering woman who has not yet tried it if she will send me her address. Enclose 3 stamps and address MRS. FRANCES E. CURRAN, Windsor, Ont.

LIFE IMPRISONMENT FOR JAMES GORHAM HIS SENTENCE HAS BEEN COMMUTED

Says a Despatch From Ottawa to the Toronto Globe To-day—Strong Recommendation From Both Judge and Jury Was Responsible for the Action of Executive.

NO OFFICIAL WORD

The Toronto Globe to-day contained a despatch from Ottawa to the effect that James Gorham's death sentence has been commuted to life imprisonment. The despatch is given below.

Mr. Gordon, of the firm of O'Connell and Gordon, the prisoner's counsel, when called up by the Examiner this afternoon, said that he was satisfied that the outcome would be satisfactory. He had not, however, had any official announcement from Ottawa in regard to the case, and did not know how the Globe's Ottawa correspondent had learned his information. Up to 3 o'clock to-day no official announcement covering the case, had been made.

The despatch in question says:

Ottawa, Jan. 27.—At the eleventh hour James Gorham, the Peterborough youth, under sentence to be hanged Tuesday morning for the murder of his mother last summer, has escaped the gallows. This afternoon his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment. Gorham, while shooting at a policeman, who was endeavouring to arrest him, missed his mark and killed his mother. The verdict of murder was coupled with a strong recommendation by both Judge and jury that executive clemency be granted.

WHAT ARE YOU DOING

For the Old People?

It may be your father, your mother, your grandfather or your grandmother who is very dear to you, but it is sad to see them lose their interest in life because their strength is fast ebbing away and they seem doomed to the weak, feeble and decrepit condition of the aged.

Now is the time for you to come to their assistance.

Call at our store and get a bottle of Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, and see what a change it will make in your dear ones.

A case is recorded in Litchfield, Ill., of a man 72 years of age who seemed to be getting old and feeble, suffered from indigestion and a nervous trouble. His druggist asked him to try Vinol at his risk. He did and says he is better and feels younger than he has for fifteen years.

We wish every feeble aged person would try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not give perfect satisfaction. McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte streets; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

THE TUBERCULOSIS EXHIBIT CAR WILL BE HERE WEDNESDAY

Dr. A. W. McPherson, Medical Health Officer, has received word from Dr. John W. McCullough, the Chief Medical Health Officer for Ontario, that the Tuberculosis Exhibit car of the Provincial Board of Health, will arrive in Peterborough on the noon (C.P.R.) train, on Wednesday, and will remain here until Friday, when it will be taken to Norwood. The car will be left on a siding at the station, and the public is cordially invited to visit the exhibit. Arrangements are also being made for a lecture on Wednesday evening by Dr. C. A. Hodgetts, Medical Adviser of the Commission of Conservation, Ottawa. Dr. McPherson has arranged to have this lecture given in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute.

READING ROOM OF LIBRARY WILL OPEN ON FEB. 1st

Arrangements Are Being Made to Have This Carried Out ---Some Rules in Regard to the Library Which the Citizens Are Requested to Observe.

The Public Library will be open to the public so far as the reading room is concerned on Wednesday February 1st. The stack-room will be closed for a few days on account of the delay occasioned by the non-arrival of the borrowers' cards and other necessary equipment in connection with that department of the library.

It may not be out of place to recapitulate that a cheerful acquiescence in such rules as the Board in the interests of the whole community has thought fit to make is essential to the proper and harmonious working of the library. It cannot be too strongly emphasized therefore that such an institution is not the place to meet in for the discussion of business or for a quiet chat. It is the wish of the Board that the public shall find therein an atmosphere of refinement and recreation where anyone can enjoy an hour or two in perfect quiet and contentment. Conversation and disturbance are apt to detract from such a desirable condition and will not be allowed.

Reference has more than once been made in the local papers to the fact that very many books were taken out months ago by readers that have not yet found their way back to the library. The librarian wishes to thank those who have kindly responded to his request for the return of such volumes as may have been in their possession, for their promptitude in doing so. So far close on three hundred volumes have been returned, but there are many still returnable. As a declaration will have to be signed by all who have books marked against them in the old register before they can be allowed to have any volumes from the new library, it would be well that attention should be given to the matter of returning books.

Magnificent New Home Of Bank Of Nova Scotia Will Be Open Monday

Mr. E. C. McLeod, manager of the Peterborough Branch of the Bank of Nova Scotia and staff, will be able and ready on Monday morning, Jan. 30, to receive, and do business with, the clients of the bank in their handsome new premises, on George St., opposite the Market Buildings. The new premises, which will be occupied for the first time on Monday, can be described as among the most commodious, most convenient, and well arranged banking offices in the city. The elegant front exterior is of coursed Nova Scotia sandstone, carrying out in its substantial character both in appearance and fact, the idea of solidity and stability expressed in the figures of the Bank's capital—$5,600,000—blazoned on the plate glass windows of the front.

Access to the bank premises is gained by doors on the extreme right of the facade, through a roomy vestibule, tiled, and with a rubber mat, bearing the name of the Bank, inset. From this, swinging double doors of oak admit to a spacious corridor, with a specially fine floor of encaustic tiling, giving on the manager's private office and the several offices which are ranged in order from the front to the rear—Accountant, Ledger, Teller, Savings, Discount and Collections.

A noticeable feature of the new offices is the abundance of room both for the public and the employees. The furnishings and fittings are of dark oak, with bronze grill work and frosted glass, where necessary, the whole being of a rich, quiet, solid style, suggestive of good taste. The metallic ceilings are of an unusually tasteful and effective design. The walls are treated with a dado in dark green burlap, separated by a heavy horizontal line of oak moulding, from the canary-coloured frieze surmounting it. The public corridor also contains wall desks and a settle of oak for public use.

The most conspicuous feature is the excellent lighting by large plate glass windows in both front and rear. The manager's large and elegant, and elegantly-furnished private office is separated from the clerical offices by a screen, the upper part of which is glass. Every part of the interior has abundance of day light, the effect mellowed by the green dado that confronts the eye at every point. Artificial light is provided by hooded electric desk lamps for the offices, and the corridor is lighted by rigid pendants in groups of two for tungsten lamps.

Two roomy and solid vaults are available, one on the main floor, and one in the basement. The basement also contains the lavatories and the furnace for the hot water heating employed.

Altogether the new premises of the Bank of Nova Scotia are of the completest character, and the Manager, Mr. McLeod, is greatly pleased with them, and the Toronto Savings and Loan Company, which did the building, and the Canadian School and Office Furniture Co., Preston, Ont., which put in the oak fittings and furnishings.

The Laymen's Movement Banquet A Great Success

Messrs. J. A. Aylmer and Geo. A. Smith attended the banquet held in Toronto on Thursday night by the Laymen's Missionary Movement of the Anglican church, representing St. John's church. Mr. Aylmer is the local chairman and Mr. Smith the local secretary of the movement here, as far as it regards the Anglican church. They were introduced to the large audience of three hundred and seventy men who sat down to dinner at McConkey's and were given a warm reception. Most stirring addresses were given by the Bishop of Toronto, Mr. R. W. Allin, the secretary of the movement, and Rev. A. P. Shatford of Montreal, and the banquet was marked by the utmost enthusiasm. The Peterborough delegates have returned very much pleased at being able to have a share in such a successful event. Only two other outside representatives were present.

BOTH COUNTRIES ARE RESTING EASIER NOW AFTER ATTACK OF TREATY FEVER

United States and Canada are Inclined to Wait for Developments---No Rest Yet However for the Members of Parliament and Congress.

Special Wire to The Examiner.

TORONTO, JAN. 28.—Canada and United States are both resting easier to-day, after their severe attack of tariff fever. The despatches to-day indicate that both nations have sobered down and are inclined to await developments. That is outwardly speaking, but there is no rest yet for the members of Parliament at Ottawa, and the members of Congress at Washington, whose constituents feel themselves directly interested, and are ready to secure amendments in their own favour at all costs. Deputations to this effect are already thronging Ottawa, and there will be more next week. In the meantime Taft in Washington, and Laurier in Ottawa, are expressing strong opinions that the changes will go into effect without amendment.

SPRINGVILLE PRESBYTERIANS HAVE ANNUAL MEETING

The annual meeting of the Springville Presbyterian church was held on Wednesday evening, Jan. 25th, when owing to considerable illness among the congregation the attendance was not as large as usual. The reports received from the different branches of the church work were very favourable, showing that progress has been made along all lines. The financial statement submitted showed a balance on the right side of the ledger. After the business portion of the meeting had been concluded Mr. Wainwright manager of the Bank of Ottawa, Peterborough, gave a very interesting address upon "The Islands of the Carribean Sea." The remarks of the speaker were followed with much interest and at the conclusion of the lecture a hearty vote of thanks was accorded Mr. Wainwright.

"An Unanswerable Question" At Crystal To-morrow Night

The subject for the address at the Crystal Theatre to-morrow evening will be "An Unanswerable Question." This will be one of the best meetings of the season. There will be a new song, and one in which everybody will join. "He Will Hold Me Fast" will be distributed in typewritten form and everybody who was present at last Sunday night's meeting will want to join in singing this good new hymn. The special vocal number will be a duet by two of the members of the staff, entitled "Brightly Beam." It is expected that the orchestra will be well represented. There ought to be a good crowd at the Crystal to-morrow night.

Next Tuesday night there will be a social gathering at the Y.M.C.A. The ladies are putting this on, and it looks as though it would be one of the biggest events of the season. There will be a good musical programme and refreshments will be served.

The usual Bible classes will be held on Sunday at the building. There will be the Sunday Morning Bible Study Club at 9.30 in the parlour and the Boys' Class in the boys' rooms at 10 o'clock. Then the Gymnasium Men's Class will be held at 4.15. This class is taught by Mr. Thompson and is a good one.

THE TELEPHONE BANQUET WAS A GREAT SUCCESS

Thursday evening the office staff of the Bell Telephone Co. gathered at Hooper's parlours to hold their annual banquet. In addition to the local men, representatives from many of the district exchanges were bidden to the feast, and came. It was, they said, good to be there.

The meeting had its educational feature as well as social, for Mr. N. Lash, of Montreal, one of the most capable of the city administrative staff, was present, and gave an instructive address on the building in and manipulation of the Private Branch Exchange, as that form of installation is termed. Mr. Lash illustrated his paper and address with diagrams, adding very much to the interest and gaining the whole attention of his audience.

The dinner was served in Hooper's best style, and called for favourable comment from those present on the excellence of the viands and the good service. The dining room was handsomely decorated, and the whole thing was well done. The remarks of approval of Mr. Hooper were well deserved.

Mr. G. O. Cameron, the local organizer, was chairman, and made a most efficient presiding officer, and he was very happy in his introduction of the several speakers.

Mr. F. W. Doan, district superintendent, gave a brief history of the Telephone Club, described its objects and said it was organized as a means of imparting instruction and information to employees. It had, to a considerable extent, filled the purpose for which formed, and had proved a success as a social organization as well. It helped to maintain a spirit of emulation in the staff and force and cultivated a loyalty to the company and its projects. He moved a vote of thanks to Mr. Lash for his [illegible] paper and address, which Mr. Lash acknowledged.

Mr. A. A. Smith, chief of the local plant department, and late manager at Peterborough, spoke on the duties of the position and in appreciation of the club.

Chief Howard, of the fire brigade, who is an honourary member of the club, presented his congratulations, and gave some interesting details of the efficient service supplied by the local system.

Mr. Choquette of the head office plant department, Montreal, said that it was proposed to instal over 600 miles of new wire in Peterborough in the spring to meet the growing needs of the city. He gave some account of the difficulties of building lines in the mining districts and how the work was accomplished.

Brief remarks were made by Mr. E. A. Tanner, local manager at Lakefield; Mr. Simpson, of Campbellford; Mr. E. Hall, Port Hope and Cobourg; Mr. Fennell, of Havelock; Mr. Leslie, division foreman; Mr. Tilly, of Lindsay; Mr. J. L. Knapman, of Peterborough; Mr W. J. Stubbs, contract agent, and Mr. F. H. Dobbin, of the Review.

Mr. Cuningham, of the Deseronto exchange, gave an account of the doings in his neighbourhood, and the chairman explained that a new club would be organized to be called the "5,000 Club" to work for the end that presently there would be 5,000 telephones installed in the district.

Among the local men present, and identified with the company's operations were, Mr. H. A. Trainer, contract agent; W. Bell, chief clerk to district agent and Mr. F. K. Spriggs.

The gathering broke up about 12 o'clock, after a most successful and enjoyable evening.

CRITICISM OF BARBARA TENNANT

Criticism of Barbara Tennant.

A well known critic, in writing of Barbara Tennant and her work said in part: "She was a revelation. Her beautiful personality certainly gripped her audience, but her histrionic genius enthralled it from beginning to the end of the recital. Whether she portrayed the dramatic or the lighter side of life, she was the same, superb. Barbara Tennant is not an elocutionist as the word is commonly understood; she is a born actress, gifted with a true intuitive conception of the characters and types she assumes and make them alive again. With votes that is rich, deep and full; with a personality sweet and beautiful, with a great mimic and creative capacity, this girl, for she is only twenty-three, compels one to see Shakespeare and Kipling and the others with a new love that could never be gotten by all the analytical reading in the world. It really takes an instinctively soulful mind to know the master and interpret him as he would have it if he were here, and Barbara Tennant was the one to do it. She felt her Shakespeare and her Kipling and made us feel them; she was heralded as a great actress; she is.

THE TRADE AGREEMENT.

The trade agreement between Canada and the United States, announced in Parliament on Thursday by Hon. Mr. Fielding, Finance Minister, is so wide and far reaching, that an offhand estimate of its character and effect cannot be arrived at. Next week the matter will be thoroughly threshed out in Parliament, and the agreement will be presented from every point of view by the members who will make it a study.

It was to be expected that opinions regarding the nature of the agreement would be coloured by political considerations. We have had a section of the Conservative press, during the whole of the negotiations keying themselves up to the condemnation of any agreement whatever that might be arrived at. We have been told, as we are now told, that the agreement is a menace to British connection. This has been the cry in connection with every important change in policy for a long time, as we have had in Great Britain every great reform denounced as a blow to the Empire. The United States view is as almost as much divided; but if the most pessimistic views from a Canadian standpoint should prove to be justified, there is the feature that the agreement is not one that cannot be abrogated, and there on this further feature that in the agreement Canada has not surrendered one iota of her fiscal independence—her right to deal with her tariff as her best interests dictate. It is generally suggested that in this agreement Canada has got more than she has given in the way of tariff concession, though Canada does not need to drive a sharp bargain, but will be contented with fair play, and even justice, in the matter of international arrangements.

If trade is a good thing for a country—if an easily accessible market is desirable, then in the main, the agreement in question is a good one. If the promotion of the great basic industry of the country—farming, on whose prosperity all other prosperity depends—is desirable, then the agreement is desirable. It provides for placing practically all farm products on the free list, and consequent access to a higher market than the home market. In this respect the agreement is an answer to the demand of the great farmers' delegation. The western farmers will have a new outlet for their wheat, which in course of time will reach a production beyond the absorptive power of the British market. Free fish will be a great boon to an industry that at present is worth twenty-five millions a year, and free lumber will be an advantage to the lumbermen.

Here comes a suggestion of some features of the agreement that perhaps need watching, lest improved freedom of access to the United States market may have injurious results. We must not ignore cooperation with the Conservation Commission in looking after the preservation of our pulpwood resources. In this we now hold the whip hand and we must retain it and not imperil our standing by anxiety for realizing a more accessible market.

Then we must safeguard the British Preference and increase it to the point of compensation for any possible inquiry to its principle a wider measure of reciprocal trade with the United States under the agreement, may represent. But in this regard we may be content, for as Mr. Fielding said, the British Preference may be safely left in the hands of those who created it. However with fuller and wider discussion the agreement will reveal itself more fully, even if it should come to practical application, even if it is ratified by the United States, of which there seems to be some doubt. With the principle of reciprocity accepted as desirable, the agreement is a most favourable one to Canada; so much so, that its acceptance by the United States Congress, will be something, in the nature of a surprise.

WASTED MONEY.

The Examiner has been somewhat criticised in respect of its contentions that an immense amount of money has been wasted by the employment of makeshift and temporary methods of street construction and road building. But its position is sustained, and by the best possible authority.

Mr. A. W. Campbell, Deputy Minister of Railways and Canals with the Dominion government, formerly Good Roads Commissioner, of Ontario, and the great apostle of the good roads movement, recently addressed the Empire Club, Toronto. Mr. Campbell has studied his subject, not as a mere student, but as a firm believer in the necessity and advantage of good roads. In the course of twenty years devoted to the study of good roads and practical experience, he makes the statement that in these twenty years the immense sum of forty million dollars has been spent on "alleged improvement" of the highways of Ontario; and we know the results. Mr. Campbell says that he could have macadamized every rod of road in Ontario, and the expense would not have been a dollar more than had been wasted in the past twenty years.

If this is true of the highways of the province generally, it is true of the streets of Peterborough. In the past twenty years we have spent on an average—to make a moderate estimate—$10,000 a year upon our streets and with the exception of a mile or two, we have not a hundred yards of good permanent roads to show for the, say, $200,000 expenditure or rather, waste. And of our best streets, there is not one mile that has been built according to the principles of sound road-making—good permanent foundation and proper drainage. Money in the shape of improper material — largely unscreened gravel, mixed with earth—has been dumped on our streets and that has been regarded as road making. Necessarily such streets did not and do not last. They have to receive perpetual tinkering, and to a large extent the expense has to be repeated every ear or two, and at the end of ten or twenty years streets are little better as to conditions of comfortable use than they were at the beginning. It is not to be denied that money thus used is wasted, at least a very large proportion of it. Otherwise, if the money had been spent skilfully, on the principles of sound street making, we should have had miles and miles of permanent streets, that could be used with pleasure and profit—and the expense of maintenance would not be one tenth of the cost of the annual tinkering of improperly constructed streets.

According to Mr. Campbell's figures, the twenty miles of streets in Peterborough could be permanently and properly constructed for $60,000 — at $3,000 per mile. At the rate of $10,000 per year, the estimated average expenditure upon Peterborough streets—we would spend in make shift, unmade, temporary streets, $60,000 in six years, the price of thoroughly macadamising every foot of the twenty miles of Peterborough streets. At the rate of $10,000 er year, in the past twenty years we have spent, say, $200,000 on our streets and have not more than a mile or two of decently permanent streets. When will municipal bodies rise to a sense of their responsibility in respect of the proper administration of our streets? The City Council of Peterborough has done a splendid work in providing a system of permanent pavements and substantial bridges. But why do they stop at that? Why not apply the principle to permanence to street work? Why do they not build our streets as they build our sidewalks—to last. Perhaps no city in Ontario has better permanent sidewalks and bridges than Peterborough can boast of. The money sent in their erection is money well invested, and gives big returns in their comfortable use by the citizens. The money has not been wasted as it has been done in the expenditure on temporary, improper work on our streets, that has practically to be done over each year to secure even passable conditions.

DOMINION BANK HAS PROSPEROUS YEAR.

The general statement of the Dominion Bank for the year ended 31st December, 1910, shows a most satisfactory condition of affairs. During the year the profits, after deducting usual charges of management and making provision for Bad and Doubtful debts amounted to $695,300. With a balance of profit and loss carried forward of $285,706, there was a total of $955,087 available for distribution. Four quarterly dividends at the rate of 12 per cent. per annum were paid, $170,000 written off Bank Premises, and $305,000 carried forward to profit and loss account.

An analysis of the statement shows the Bank to be in a very strong position. Its reserve fund amounts to $5,000,000, being $1,000,000 in excess of its paid-up capital. The Bank is particularly strong in specie, Dominion Government notes, and other quickly available assets, these amounting to over $11,000,000, while Government securities and Railway Bonds and debentures, &c., show a total of another $11,000,000 or $22,000,000 in all. The total assets of the Bank amount to $62,677,000, showing that this financial institution is one of the strongest of our Canadian Banks.

Mr. E. B. Osler, M. P., is President, W. D. Matthews, Vice-President, and Clarence A. Bogert, General Manager, of the Bank.

External Inspection Of Bank In Its Relation To Bank Collapses

In 1895 Roeliff M. Breckenridge, an authority on Canadian banking, in a chapter dealing with the causes leading to bank disasters, draws the conclusion that they have been due to faults of practice rather than to defects in the system. Failures occurring since that time, particulars of which have reached the public through the medium of the courts, have provided data making it quite obvious that the causes of disasters continue to be unchanged. The story of collusion between directors and managers which the failure of the Farmers' Bank has furnished is not unlike that which brought misfortune to others, as far back as and previous to Federation.

In all recent bank failures the cause has been traced to the head office. One or two directors, important customers and leading officials, generally speaking, have been aware of and parties ot transactions contrary to law either of the country or of good banking. This collusion was made possible by the present lack of external inspection.

Public knowledge as to the internal affairs of banking is only obtained in the wake of disaster. No longer can the monthly statement issued by the Government be taken as reliably setting out the condition of each of the chartered banks of Canada. For months Travers was able to make misleading statements and before his time there were others equally misleading.

Travers' success in fraud has brought home to the Canadian public the fact that its chartered banks, upon which the commercial well-being of the Dominion so much depends, are subject to less regulation and control than in any of the more modern commercial nations. Their statements are accepted, with the exception of the banks of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick, without having appended to them the certificate of an auditor. In Britain, British Columbia and other parts of the Empire joint stock companies are required to submit their affairs to examination by an auditor. This is a practice universal almost with the exception of Manitoba and some other provinces behind the times in this respect. But in Canada it has become startlingly evident that its chartered banks handling $825,000,000 of the deposits of the public are not subject to examination by qualified accountants or government officials. The only scrutiny they are subject to is in the wake of disaster after the money of depositors and shareholders has been squandered, as in the instance now engaging so much of the attention of the public.

As already stated, the revelations in the case of the Farmers' Bank are of the same kind as those disclosed subsequent to the failure of other banks, and each instance places the guilt, fraud, theft, collusion or other cause of failure at the door of a clique usually composed of the leading officials, one or two directors, and customers. It is not at the branches but at the headquarters that trouble fraught with disaster originates. Branches are kept well in hand and subjected to rigid audits by inspectors, but the head office is exempt, and if not exempt the word of the general manager is final in respect to values of securities and credit. Here lies the danger point, as indicated by successive failures, all of which would have been either prevented or greatly minimized as to unfortunate results if the affairs of the head office were subjected to the same audit as well conducted joint stock companies are.

Whether this should be done by the Government or by chartered accountants is a moot question, but that inspection of an external character is essential there can now be no doubt. In addition to external inspection, the responsibility of the directors for the statements issued by the bank should be more specifically determined. It is obvious that many of them are in reality merely dummies who disclaim responsibility when disaster comes. The public should have some guarantee that the men in whom they have placed confidence are directors in reality. It is because of their being known as reputable and able business men that depositors and shareholders risk with banks and banking enterprise their savings. Unfortunately, that confidence has in too many cases been misplaced. It is urged that discrimination should be used by individuals in the selection of banks, and that will always be necessary, no matter what regulations or inspections the banks are subject to, but the Government should make it possible for the average citizen to discriminate intelligently. At the present time he has no other guide than statements made by the banks about themselves, and these have been shown, in some cases, to be unreliable. The signed statement of the general managers, or statements signed by a stipulated number of directors will not in future be regarded as sufficient by the general public. That statement will require to be verified by some external authority as is done by the banks of Nova Scotia and New Brunswick.

The proposal that inspection of banks should be undertaken by the Bankers' Association will be unpopular and would be regarded, with some measure of justice, as adding to a body that to all intent and purposes, in the public estimation, is a banking combine, the power to keep from public knowledge just such facts as have come to light through prosecutions following past bank failures. This may appear to be an unfair attitude to assume in regard to the banks which have adopted every measure to faithfully carry out their obligations to shareholders and depositors alike. But on the other hand what bank is there whose affairs are in proper condition that would not welcome endorsement at the hands of either a reputable firm of chartered accountants, of which there are many in Canada, or a competent inspector or inspectors appointed by the Government? A properly conducted bank has everything to gain and nothing to lose by external inspection. That such is practical, needs not to be argued in the face of its general practice elsewhere than in Canada, and partially in the latter country.

But the most important results that would follow a better system of bank inspection would be greater confidence in our banking system, which is a good one; the disasters experienced have not been the result of the system, but of practice. The latter, therefore, should be subject to such restrictions as would minimize the loss both to depositor and shareholder.

A PROSPEROUS COMPANY.

The annual meeting of the Toronto Loan and Savings Company was held at the head office, 437 George street, yesterday. The report of the Directors showed very satisfactory operations, of the first year of the Company's quarter century of existence. The gross earnings of $224,657.77, after paying interest charges and management expenses, left net profits of $128,048.41. Adding last year's balance, $36,429.30 produced, available for distribution, $164,477.71. After paying therefrom, $80,000 in dividends, at the rate of 8 per cent., there remained $40,000 to be added to the reserve fund, making its total $680,000, and leaving $44,477.11 to be carried forward to Profit and Loss account. The report, as a whole, shows the Company's interests and standing to be in a very satisfactory condition. Hon. Geo. A. Cox was re-elected president and Messrs. W. G. Morrow and Richard Hall vice-presidents.

Earning, Saving and Investing Money

It is most meritorious to earn money honestly, and doubly so to save a part of what you earn. It is easy to earn, but how can you save? Example: Three years ago a working man with family bought 8 Lots from me, paid a deposit and agreed to pay $5.00 per month, also interest and taxes. This he has done faithfully, although at times it required a supreme effort and self denial, but the road to success is not one strewn with roses. Difficulties must be encountered & surmounted. He has surmounted his, and in less than two years his Lots will be fully paid for and worth at least $1,000, which is more than double their cost. The saving and profitable investment with the means to save is the secret of success.

My Lots will double your money in less than five years, for a certainty.

CANADA PROFITS.

British Budget and N. Y. Succession Duties Send Money Here.

Montreal, Jan. 28.—An enquiry at the leading banks elicited the fact that not only have large sums of money come over to Canada since the last general election in Great Britain, when Lloyd-George and his fiscal policy were sustained by the people of the United Kingdom as a whole, but that the recent succession tax of the State of New York has also been the means of switching a good deal of American capital to the Canadian side as a result of the imposition of a tax amounting to a quarter of a man's fortune, supposing he is worth over a million dollars. The New York act gives to the state five per cent. on the first $25,000, ten per cent. on the next $75,000, fifteen per cent. on the next $400,000, and last, but not least, twenty per cent. on the following $500,000, out of a man's or woman's earthly possessions supposing the deceased's securities belong to the State of New York.

In other words, if a man dies worth a million dollars the sum of $200,000 goes to the State Exchequer.

There is no way of avoiding the payment of the succession taxes unless they are stocks of corporations created by the law of a state which does not impose succession taxes like, for instance, the State of Pennsylvania.

It is not at all surprising, therefore, as announced at the money centres Thursday, that the New York succession tax and the latest creations of the Imperial Chancellor, have both contributed to bring a great amount of money into Canada during the last two months.

It is stated, however, that the greater the amount of money being sent to Canada from Great Britain, the more cautious has become the British investor. Some months ago the bankers say a good deal of capital found its way to the Dominion without the merit of the cases being too closely enquired into, but that is not the case at the present time, and such a change will be all the better in the long run for the credit of the country at large.

A great many interesting enquiries, for instance, are daily reaching this city, and the story is the same at all the important banking institutions of the Dominion, for first-class bond issues of assured industrial concerns.

It looks, therefore, as if this inflow will be continued during the present year, and probably more money will flow into the different provinces before the end of the present year than during any twelve months since Confederation. This is, in fact, the opinion of people who have given a great deal of study to the financial situation on both sides of the Atlantic.

A Good Year.

Brockville, Jan. 28.—At yesterday afternoon's meeting of the County Council the good roads commission presented a report covering the past year's operations. Roads and bridges rebuilt entailed an outlay of $29,386. The commissioners suggested that the council petition the Minister of Public Works for Ontario for $9,798, being one-third of the total expenditure which is due the counties under the highway improvement act.

Raised the Rates.

Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—Following a million-dollar loss in Winnipeg last year and $400,000 this month, the Western Canada Underwriters' Association decided yesterday to raise the rates by 10 to 50 cents on the $100. This will be partially offset by the increased reduction where signal services and automatic alarms are installed.

Robbed Thirteen Houses.

Toronto, Jan. 28.—Thirteen was an unlucky number for Thomas Bredin and Edward Shields, who appeared in the Police Court yesterday morning, charged with stripping that many houses of brass taps and lead pipe. Bredin will be away three months, while Shields will not be seen outside the Central Prison for three times that period.

ONTARIO WON'T HELP.

Pulpwood Policy Will Stand Despite Tariff.

Toronto, Jan. 28.—No doubt need be entertained in regard to the attitude of the Ontario Government with respect to their pulp wood policy. The following is an authoritative statement of the Government's position:

The proposed free interchange of pulpwood, pulp and the coarser grades of paper, which is subject to the consent of the several Canadian provinces interested, is not likely to find favor with the Government of the Province of Ontario.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane, Minister of Lands, Forests and Mines, left for Sarnia with Hon. Mr. Hanna at noon yesterday to address a meeting last night. Mr. Cochrane was asked as he was leaving if he could say what the position of the Government of Ontario would be on the matter:

"It has not yet been considered or discussed by the Government," said Mr. Cochrane, "but I may say personally that I would be strongly opposed to any change in our existing policy. For three years past, in all pulp concessions advertised by the crown, we have imposed the condition that the pulp should be manufactured into paper in Canada. My own view is that this is the proper course to pursue if we are to develop the natural resources of our back districts as we hope to see them develop. In justice to the industrial possibilities of our great north country, and in the interests of the settler, for whom we desire to provide local markets, I could not recommend any other course."

It will be remembered that previous to three years ago the conditions governing the disposal of pulp concessions permitted the manufacture into pulp only or pulp or paper. As a result paper mills could be taken across the line and finished into paper in American factories.

According to corridor reports the time the Provincial Secretary will introduce his bills amending the liquor license act, will depend on the attitude of Government supporters at the coming caucus.

Hon. W. J. Hanna's proposal of last session to wipe out the local boards of license commissioners and create a central license board in their stead will be put before them. It is thought no action will be taken by the Government on this matter till next session, just before the general election. The amendments of the liquor act this session will be for better enforcement of the regulations that now exist, particularly in regard to local option.

Typhoid Epidemic.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—There are nearly 200 cases of typhoid in Ottawa. All the city hospitals are full. An emergency hospital has been established in the old museum building, the militia department furnishing beds for patients.

There have been eight deaths from the disease to date.

A Stabbing Affray.

Porcupine City, Jan. 28.—Two Syrians engaged in a stabbing affray at Kelso Mines last Tuesday, and one man known as Motta Sweva lies in a hospital down the country with a broken leg and many bad wounds on the body, which may yet prove fatal, while the other one, bleeding and badly wounded, took to the woods to avoid arrest.

Dispute arose over dice matters, and a quarrel ensued. Knives were drawn and fierce slashes made, Sweva being stabbed several times about the head and shoulders, while his antagonist was struck on the arms.

Sweva slipped on the result of unsound footing, and his foe took advantage of the fall and jumped on him with heavily booted feet. His right leg was broken.

Only occasionally does a fight of this character mar the peace and happiness of the district.

MARKET REPORTS.

Liverpool and Chicago Wheat Futures Close Lower—Live Stock—Latest Quotations.

CHICAGO, Jan. 27.—President Taft's message, recommending that Canadian wheat be put on the free list, led to serious slumpings to-day on the part of operators here. At Liverpool wheat futures closed today ⅝d to ¾d lower than yesterday; corn futures ½d higher to ½d lower. Antwerp closed unchanged. Berlin, ¾c lower for wheat. Buda Pest, ¾c lower for wheat.

Admiral Forced to Resign.

Washington, Jan. 28.—By direction of the President, Rear Admiral R. B. Berry, the former commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, yesterday submitted his resignation "for the good of the service." It was immediately accepted. The forced resignation is the outgrowth of charges which have been in circulation in regard to his moral character while on naval service.

Goderich, Jan. 28.—Dr. J. M. Field, principal of the Goderich Collegiate Institute, has been appointed by the Huron County Council to the position of inspector of public schools in East Huron. He is to succeed David Robb, who retires owing to ill-health.

Ireland England's Pantry.

A recent report of the Department of Agriculture and Technical Instruction of Ireland make a significant showing of the increasing material importance of that country to the British Empire.

It appears that Ireland rapidly is becoming the granary of the United Kingdom. During 1909 Ireland shipped more cattle into the mainland than all other countries combined. Irish farmers sold their customers across the United Kingdom $17,941,608 worth of butter and $12,969,040 worth of eggs. Poultry to the value of $4,171,963 and bacon and hams to the aggregate of $16,670,720 went to swell the trade account.

When England discovers that her people must depend on Ireland for the bread they eat, the grievances of the island will acquire more than political importance.

A Pioneer Huntsman.

Mr. Hesketh Prichard, the novelist, whose articles on exploration in Labrador, published in Fry's Magazine, are arousing so much interest, has from earliest manhood been a great wanderer. He has been a pioneer huntsman in many remote corners of the world, notably Patagonia, whose unexplored wilds he traversed at the beginning of his career. He has also distinguished himself as a cricketer, and bowled so well for Hampshire that he played for the Gentlemen against the Players at Lord's in 1904, when he captured eight wickets and made a big stand with F. S. Jackson. The Gentlemen had nine wickets down for 112, against a score of 327 by the Players. Hesketh Prichard does not profess to be a batsman, but by keeping a straight bat in front of his pads he helped Jackson to put on 59.

Mississippi Boat Crews.

"If it were not for the gambling habit some of the big boats in the Mississippi river trade would be minus their crews at the end of a trip," said a New Orleans man. "The negro deck hand is an inveterate gambler. He will shoot craps for any amount of money he has. Some of the captains begin paying off when the boat is half a day away from the last stop. As soon as the hands get their pay most of them begin to 'roll the bones.' Little groups will be formed, and pretty soon one man in each group has all the money. Then the big winners get together for a game with higher stakes. As a result of this process, by the time the boat reaches the wharf a few men have almost all the payroll. They don't want to work, but the others, who are 'cleaned out,' are obliged to. Consequently the boat has a crew for the return trip."—Washington Post.

The Wisest Diplomatic.

On the morning after the Drummond-Arthabaska election, Sir Wilfrid Laurier was asked what he thought of the situation. His reply was characteristic.

"The Government has received a blow, of course, but it should not be exaggerated.

"I feel very much like Abraham Lincoln did on the occasion of just such a reverse. He was asked by a friend what he thought of it, just as you ask now. Lincoln replied, 'I feel like the little boy who hurt his toe—too sore to laugh and too big to cry.'

"The charge that Laurier has been 'hoist by his own petard' is untrue. Laurier has never used his influence with French-Canadians against Englishmen or Canadians or ever come anywhere but try to prevent racial prejudice in Canada."

He Was Eligible.

"Some men bear sombreness well," said the captain of an Atlantic liner. "I took a Liverpudlian to Canada last month, and the poor fellow did have a time—sick from the first day to the last. But he bore it well, and when we reached Father Point he said to me:

"'Captain, I think I'll go straight back with you.'

"'Why?' said I. 'I thought you were going to make an extensive tour?'

"'No. I think I'll go back now,' he said, gulping as a nasty swell lifted our bow. 'I see by your rate card that you carry "returned empties" at half fare.'"

Many Successful Cures in Toronto, Perth, Smith's Falls, Carlton Place, Etc., Etc.

There was wandering in the streets of Toronto lately, a homeless man, who at one time held a splendid position, but drink was his downfall. To-day his wife, a cultured woman, works out by the day endeavoring to support herself and little family. Think of it, you wives and mothers, who have homes of comfort and all that makes life worth living, what it would be to you to be deprived of these and forced to face the wash tub for an existence, as this poor wife has to do to-day?

But this home which was made a hell on earth through strong drink—as every drunkard's is—may be made into a heaven upon earth, as many have been made, as a result of the Neal Treatment. Three days only—the wonder of it—to effect a cure and make the victim of strong drink a new man physically, morally and mentally.

We undertake to guarantee to effect a cure of the Drink Habit in Three Days, no matter whether the patient is a hard and constant drinker, social tippler or goes on occasional sprees. Are you interested in a poor fellow going down, down, through the curse of drink; then bring your influence to bear on him and bring him to the Neal Institute for treatment, drunk or sober, and we will undertake to remove the awful appetite for strong drink and deliver him to you a new man.

Here is an opportunity for REFORMATION SOCIETIES for INEBRIATES or any institution for the reformation of the drunkard, to test our ability to change the hard drinker into a new man physically and mentally in THREE DAYS' treatment.

We invite these Societies or any institution interested in the poor drunkard and the problem of dealing with him to send us for treatment any victim of the drink habit, it makes no difference how much enslaved, and we guarantee to effect a cure in each and every case. Can you spend your money to better advantage or in a way that will bring in greater returns than in redeeming these victims of strong drink and giving back to their families kind fathers, brothers, husbands and to the country most desirable citizens?

A CRITICAL TIME FOR CANADA.

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—The following few lines of my poem, "A Critical Time for Canada," contain some of my views in regard to the outlook of Canada:

Critical time for Canada!
Now at the parting of the road,
One to destruction and decay,
The other leading unto God;
Gunboats on the Great Lakes mean war—
A Judas Iscariot plot,
May God Almighty stem the bar,
And confound the treacherous lot.

I am your young Dominion;
I don't want reciprocities;
What I want is population;
And lots and dots of factories.
Uncle Sam's reciprocity
Would be my ruination.
Factories would get rickety,
And leave farmers in starvation.

A tariff against Uncle Sam,
Would be my great salvation,
His factories would come and cram,
With a rush of immigration.
Farmers and manufacturers
Should work hand in hand together
As both are benefactors,
And their interests are similar.

The Act of Confederation
That made my Provinces all one.
And my trade assimilation
Has made my Dominion strong.
May our Empire assimilate
On a good tariff reform plan,
Our markets would be very great—
One Army, one Navy, one Clan.

THE ANNUAL MEETING OF ST. ANDREW'S CONGREGATION

Reports Were Presented of a Most Encouraging Character ---New Managers were Elected---Banquet Will be Held in the Near Future.

The annual business meeting in connection with St. Andrew's Presbyterian church was held last night in the Sunday school room.

The pastor, Rev. Mr. Rollins, who was elected chairman, opened the meeting by an address in which he outlined the various important subjects to be discussed during the meeting.

Mr. McClelland, secretary, then followed by presenting the minutes of the last meeting, which were passed and adopted.

Then followed the reading of the various reports concerning the different departments in connection with the church work, all of which went to show that the financial affairs of the church has been conducted on a very satisfactory basis during the past year especially in the Sunday school department.

The reports of the various departments in connection with the church work are tabulated here in the order they were received.

The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavour report was read by Mr. Edson Wegg. Membership 75, total receipts $46.29, twenty-five dollars of which was given to Missions. Meetings were held weekly.

The General Statement.

Receipts for missions $4,932.54, not including contributions from Sunday School or Missionary organizations; Sabbath offerings $2,682.

Election of Officers.

Next followed the election of officers, two of which were elected verbally, and the third by ballot. The results are as follows: Mr. Harstone, Mr. Will Richardson and Mr. G .A. Gillespie, the latter being eletced to take the place of Mr. G. A. Cornish, who recently left for Toronto. For Hospital Board—Rev. Mr. Rollins and Mr. Richard Lees.

The printing of annual report was left in charge of the managers.

In referring to the report of the Young Men's Guild, the speaker, Mr. Langford, presented an excellent report on the subject. He said that the aim of the Guild was to get at the young men of the church to get them working along the lines of church work.

He said that they did not turn out to the meetings which were held on the 3rd Tuesday in every month as well as was anticipated, but they had great hopes for the future success of the Guild.

After the manager's report had been read by Mr. G. A. Gillespie and formally adopted, the meeting was open for discussion as to the best ways or means of eliminating the church debt which had increased by about sixty dollars during the past year. It was then that the endowment question loomed up on the horizon. Some were in favour of giving the annual proceeds of the endowment to Missions or some other worthy cause and let the church stand on its own feet but the general opinion of those present was to the effect that the endowment in itself was a hindrance to the financial welfare of the church. It was thought that the people were wont to rely on the annual proceeds of the endowment to swell the receipts so much, that it affected their own contributions.

It was thought that if the endowment funds were diverted elsewhere the people would be gradually educated to the responsibility of their duty to the church, just as they are educated to the responsibility of paying their grocery bill.

Various questions were discussed as to the best means of raising the necessary money to clear the church of debt, such as assessing the members or issuing a circular letter or by individual canvas. However, Mr. Gillespie came to the rescue by putting forth a motion that a banquet be held in the near future, and that the subject in hand could be discussed more fully then and under more congenial conditions.

The motion was carried unanimously, which was followed by a motion by the same gentleman that the managers ask the executive committee of the Ladies' Aid to appoint a committee to carry out the above course of action This motion was also carried unanimously.

Another important question to come up for discussion was the question of publishing the names of contributors in a printed report. Some of those present thought that printing the names of contributors would have a tendency to swell the funds of the church.

After the pros and cons of the subject had been discussed it was decided to leave the matter over until next year.

A pleasing feature of the evening was the reading of a letter and the unveiling of the portrait of the former pastor, Rev. Mr. Potter, which was presented by the Boys' Guild to the church. The letter was read by the secretary, Mr. McClelland, and the portrait unveiled by Mr. Lees, who made an address in which he referred to the honour conferred on the Boys' Guild by the presentation of the portrait to the church and also to the former pastor's good work during his ministry here. He also regretted his inability to do justice to the occasion, for his lack of eulogistic ability, and the best that he could say would only be feeble praise.

The Rev. Mr. Rollins in reply said that he hoped the people would be good to him, as they were were to their former pastor, and he looked foward to a year of good and efficient work.

The meeting then adjourned until further notice.

SERMON FROM SHAKESPEARE

(Copyr 1909 by Bradley-Garretson Co. L.td.)

The middle of humanity thou never knewest, but
The extremity of both ends.
—Timon of Athens, Act. IV., Sc. 3

Apemantus, the cynic philosopher of "Timon of Athens," was a railer against humanity. He had faith in no one ;according to him all men were base and sordid. But even Apemantus could utter words of wisdom, and this pithy summing up of the cause of the ruin of Timon should be taken to heart by all given to extreme courses. Timon was prodigal of his wealth. He lived in the present, with no thought of the future; he had generous impulses and he selfishly gratified his impulses, without stopping to consider whether or not he could afford to bestow costly presents on every favourite. In his state of prosperity his motto was, "We are born to benefits"; in his adversity he proclaimed, "I am Misanthropos, and hate mankind." His fault lay in the fact that he had failed to select the golden mean between excess and defect. Even a colossal fortune would not have withstood his extravagance. He had foolishly supposed that all men were generous; rudely awakened from his dream; his faith in humanity gone, he fled to the wilderness and lived like a beast of the forest solacing himself by unpacking his heart with words against the world he had left.

Apemantus and Timon were predecessors to Aristole, and Shakespeare, in the words of the text, but anticipates the philosophy of the great Greek teacher. Every man has to confront in one form or another his Charybdis of excess and Scylla of defect. The men who are able to choose the middle channel where the deep water is, and, with a strong hand on their passions and appetites, steer a watchful course, are in but little danger from the rocks and whirlpools.

The evil effects of extreme action have many illustrations in life. Take for example the matter of eating and drinking! Food is essential for existence. The great majority of the ills that flesh is heir to are due to overindulgence or unwise abstinence. On the one hand there is the glutton, who seems unable to resist the cravings of appetite; on the other, the ascetic, who starves his body. The glutton becomes coarse, gross and beastly, a mental sluggard; the ascetic grows emaciated, anaemic and apathetic. Food and drink are excellent servants, but must not be either overworked or underworked.

Clothes are likewise essential to existence. A man may survive without a schoolmaster, but he would perish without a tailor. There is nothing more indicative of character than clothing. A light-brained butterfly delights in fanciful, gaudy apparel; a vulgar mind, in loud and startling effects. The fop, the dandy and the vulgarian in dress usually have minds to match. A man slovenly and careless about his appearance is lacking in self-respect. It may be that his mind is so preoccupied with study or work that he has no time to think about his personal appearance. He could toil and spin just as well if he gave a little thought to his clothing. It is not the man or woman who runs after the newest fad who is esteemed, nor the one who is careless of all fashions. For usefulness, the esteem of others is essential, and a foppish or slovenly individual repels.

In the matter of language there are many who seem unable to choose a middle course. The prevalance of slang is a manifestation of the desire for startling and striking modes of expression. There is slang that is magnificently expressive, but the vulgar have allowed it to run riot with their speech. The extreme is nothing but vile. It pollutes the "well of English undefiled"; it corrupts the tongue that Shakespeare spoke." On the other hand there is affectation, a foppery of speech; finical expressions are used, a drawling accent is resorted to This is as much a mark of an empty head as a fanciful apparel. Take the middle course! It is not difficult to have force and fineness. Slang and affectation are not essential.

The evils of excess and defect are better shown in the matter of the use of wealth than in any other way. The ethical value of "Timon of Athens" is that it teaches the need of selecting and following the middle course. Timon came to wreck of fortune through over-lavish expenditure; in rushing to the other extreme he ruined what might have been a noble life. In the use of wealth the exercise of reason is necessary. As a general thing, as with Timon, mere impulse is followed. Something catches the eye, it is bought; an individual is in distress, he is helped; a craving, asserts itself, it is satisfied. Vanity is aroused by the ostentation of others possessed by wealth; they are imitated or outdone. On the other hand there are those who lay too much store upon wealth, who make a god of it, who hoard as though earth were eternity, and they were to have infinite time in which to use their treasure. Safety and happiness lie in choosing a middle course, accepting the good gift of riches and using it for the benefit of mankind. As Timon remarked, man is born to do benefits; but his spending should be regulated by his means.

THE "CHATEAU LAURIER," OTTAWA, CANADA.

THE "CHATEAU LAURIER," which will be owned and operated by the Grand Trunk Railway System, is now fast approaching completion, and will be, without doubt, the finest hotel on this continent, not only architecturally, but also in regard to its general appointments.

Besides the ordinary entrance to the "Chateau" from the street, it will be connected with the Grand Trunk Railway's new Central Union Passenger Station by a private passageway.

A manager has been found in Mr. F. W. Bergman, who has, for the past two years, been the manager of the Banff Hotel, at Banff Springs, Alta. Mr. Bergman, though a young man, has had a wide range of experience in the hotel business and through his capabilities has risen to the premier position in hotel management in Canada. He started his career in London, Eng., with Spiers and Pond, in 1883, at which time this firm was the most prominent of caterers in that city and operated all the big restaurants there as well as a dozen large hotels. After his experience in London and other cities in England, Mr. Bergman was for some years in China, leaving there for New York to follow his vocation in America. His experience in the United States has been wide and successful, having occupied prominent positions with some of the largest hotels there. Among them being the Murray Hill and Cambridge Hotels of New York City; the well-known fashionable resort, "New Cliffs," at Newport, R.I.; the new "Seelbache Hotel," at Louisville; the "New Florence" hotel at Birmingham; and the "Castle Crags" hotel in the Shasta Mountains.

Mr. Bergman's personality and popularity with the travelling public has been a great factor in his success during the past, and it is predicted that his management of the new hotel "Chateau Laurier" will be a good one, and that the Company have found the right man for the position.

Facts About The Art Of Calling

There is more in paying calls than anyone but the woman who has paid calls can readily imagine. In Ontario the height of the calling season occurs in January and February. Our calling season flourishes when the snow flies. Before Christmas, tender domesticity reigns supreme. Before that no one who can help it will do anything to cut short the social irresponsibility of summer. But the average woman loves social responsibility in the season for social responsibility, that is, all through January and February. There is no excuse for not paying calls at this time of the year, if you possess a calling book of any description. A calling book is an alphabeted, glorified diary of a sort where the names of the women on whom the average woman calls are inscribed, according to the days on which they receive. In this book may be found mysterious entries such as the following: "Mrs. Plantagenet Jones, 1st and 3rd Fridays," which means that Mrs. Plantagenet Jones will stay in her own house and see her friends and acquaintances between the hours of half-past three and six on the first and third Fridays every month during the season. If Mrs. Plantagenet Jones goes out on either of these Fridays — well, she is a rude or careless, or indifferent, or disagreeable member of society, especially if it takes time to get to the Plantagenet Jones house, or if no one else in of other calls to pay on the first and third Fridays also engraved on her calling card.

The Time to Call.

If a woman calls on another woman before four o'clock in the afternoon it is perfectly plain to both women that the caller means to call, she is determined to do her duty, but this single call is not the only interest she has on hand that particular afternoon. It would be cruel to go so fas as to say that the caller will not mind if the lady receiving is not in or is not ready to receive. She should be ready any time after 3 o'clock on her own day. But either the caller has an enormous number of other calls ot pay on the first and third Fridays, or it is her own day at home and she has just rushed out to pay a few calls that she positively must pay, as, for instance, on dear Mrs. Plantagent Jones, or she is a bride working overtime, or she only calls two weeks in the year and has a carriage for the afternoon and positively must get in as many calls as she can. All these considerations have just weight with women who call and are called on. It is only the foolish, inconsiderate, or very young woman who makes light of such considerations. We all need mercy when we make calls, more mecy than we need when we are receiving, but the woman who receives has her own need for consideration. After six o'clock no woman who is calling formally can call. This is the law. But your dearest friend, who has been trying to get in to see you all the afternoon, she can come in after six o'clock. The woman who doesn't owe you a call and is passing can come in after six o'clock if she has a good excuse. What constitutes a sufficient excuse to call at any time? A woman who can make a speech of the following character truthfully will be received by any hostess with banners on any reception day. "I was simply perishing for a cup of tea, and your tea is always so good." When a remark of this kind is made truthfully and the relations between the receiver and the received warrant the caller saying such a thing, the laws of the call are relaxed. The woman calling is welcome to the cup of tea, bless her.

Cards—Oh, Those Cards.

Cards are a terrifying part of the call. No one knows why cards should be terrifying, but they are. Some women who call have learned so well from experience that they will forget to leave cards, that they come into the house with the required number of cards in their hands and give them to the maid opening the door at once. They don't say aloud, "There, that is over for this time, anyway," but that is what they mean. The law of cards is so complicated, and remains so mysterious to the unsophisticated caller that appeals are always being made to the editors of women's pages in the newspapers to say again just how many cards ought to be left, and when, and where, and how often. "If the lady's husband is dead, shall I leave a card for him?" "If my husband is dead, shall I leave his card on her?" These questions may be supposed to be humorous, bpt they are strictly speaking the kind of question that the woman who calls and can never learn the law of cards may be depended on to ask at any moment. We all get tangled up at times with the law of cards.

Let me see, now, how does it go? If you are unmarried and have no brothers and sisters or fathers and mothers, and the lady on whom you are calling is in the same unattached condition, you leave one of your cards on her. And when she returns your call she leaves one of her cards for you. But if you are married and she is married, and both your husbands are alive, and neither of you is divorced, you leave one of your cards and two of your husband's cards for her, and when she returns your call, she leaves one of her cards and two of her husband's cards for you. Don't get frightened. The law of cards is perfectly reasonable. The theory is that you call on the lady. Your card represents your call. But your husband, he calls on the lady. His card represents his call. He also calls in theory on her husband. His second card represents that. It is all perfectly clear and simple. Once get the principles of calling fixed in your mind and you can call fearlessly, leaving bushels of cards without a single mistake. Of course, there are other theoretical cases of calls and cards to be dealt with. The woman with grown-up daughters and grown-up sons, sons and daughters all having cards of their own, calling on the woman who also has grown-up sons and daughters; this situation requires many cards. The maiden aunt at home should have cards left for her. A saving can be made in calling cards by turning down one corner firmly. This is done with a lady's card, but not with a gentleman's. Briefly put, the woman who calls leaves one of her cards for every woman in the household called on who is in a position to receive calls. But when a man's cards are left as well, one of his cards must be left for every woman and one for every man requiring a call. A woman must not leave her card for a man, and a man's card must be left for the lady or ladies called on, as well as for the man or men belonging to her or them.

Talk and Tea.

The joyous part of the call is the hostess' conversation and the cup of tea. The conversation of the hostess need not be discussed. If her caller is the silent kind, she must provide the conversation. If, on the other hand, the caller has learned that the hostess is the silent kind, the caller has to provide the conversation. If they are both the silent kind it is a sad situation. It is one of the queer things in this life that as long as one can talk and be entertaining you are expected to do it always. The silent people remain silent and expect you to do the talkng. The life and sparkle of calls depend on conversation. But a cup of tea is a great help. A tea blend appears in society, is belauded, and then fades away. There was a time when we all loved English Breakfast. Some do still. Then it was succeeded by all kinds of Indian and Ceylon teas. "So much milder, my dear, less harmful!" The succession is passing on. Would anyone like to take a wager that the next tea will be Russian? But it is terribly expensive! Still, for those who like it, and can afford the expense! Afternoon tea can be followed with much precision in popular novels. One of the prettiest speeches ever made by a caller to a hostess was that she never came into her house without feeling that she was going to have some beautiful, unexpected piece of good fortune, some adventure which would bring her happiness. This was praise both for the hostess and for the caller. No one who was not an ideal caller would ever have felt in such a way. Experience in calling will provide the average woman with delightfully humorous incidents. The truly humorous incident must be capable of enjoyment both by the hostess and her guest. As, for instance, when once an excited cook rushed into the drawing-room with the granite-ware kettle off the kitchen stove to provide the tea table with a further supply of hot water. After the cook retired the hostess said to her guest, "She is crazy." "Is she?" returned the guest with warm commiseration. Then she perceived that the hostess had meant crazy not literally, but in a Pickwickian sense, and the hostess understood what she was thinking, and they both were submerged in laughter. Then there is the lady who makes tea before your eyes while you wait. You often wait a long time. But calling without tea would be practically insupportable. There is still much to be said about calling But the present discussion must end here. No one can hope to exhaust any subject in which women reign supreme as she does in calling. — By "Stand-Easy" in Toronto Star Weekly.

ON THE VERGE OF A BREAKDOWN

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills the Only Hope for Weakened Nervous People

This warning will be read by thousands of people who only just succeed in getting through the day's work without a breakdown. If you feel always tired out, have but little appetite, and a poor digestion, cannot sleep well, suffer from headaches, backaches and nervousness, it may mean that you are on the verge of a serious breakdown.

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure weak nervous, troubled men and women because of their direct action on the blood. Every dose of these Pills helps to make new, rich blood, which tones the vital organs, strengthens the nerves and brings renewed health and strength. Mr. Geo. Johnson, of Lequille, N.S., suffered for some years as a result of overwork and strain, but found no help for his condition until he began the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Mr. Johnson says: "While working on a railway handling heavy ties I hurt my back and had to give up work. Later I was able to do light work, but for about six years I suffered from dreadful pains in the back and down my legs. This condition became aggravated by indigestion and chronic constipation, and my life was one of constant misery. During those years I was treated by different doctors, but did not get any help. One day a friend urged me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills and proved his faith in them by presenting me with a box. It was more to please him than from any belief that they would be of service to me that I began taking the Pills. Before the box was finished, however, they seemed to be helping me; the pains in my back and legs grew less intense and the bloating in my stomach, caused by the indigestion, disappeared. I continued taking the Pills until I had used over a dozen boxes, when I found myself fully restored to my former health. I am now able to do heavy farm work, and for the past year have not lost a day, or had the least symptom of my former troubles, and I attribute it entirely to the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills are sold by all medicine dealers or may be had by mail at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

VIEWS ON THE TREATY

Diversity of Opinion Among the Different Interests—Many Industries Are Not Affected

NEWSPAPER COMMENT

Toronto, Jan. 28.—That the abolition of duty on wheat will mean that the Canadian farmer will get 4c. or 5c. less per bushel, instead of more, is the opinion of Hedley Shaw, president of the Maple Leaf Milling Co.

Mr. Shaw added: "The new regulation will mean that we will have competition in new markets, which we were just building up. The markets most affected are the Indian and South African markets. The United States are placed on the same plane as the Canadian dealers in competing for this trade if they get free Canadian wheat.

E. C. Drury, president of the Dominion Grange, said:

"We are well pleased with the arrangement as far as it goes. We would like a little more, and we will continue on our way until we get what we are after.

"I think the duty on flour should have been removed entirely."

J. W. Flavelle, speaking for the packing industry, said:

"I fear the packing industry will receive a blow of so serious a character that the industry will probably not survive it. The United States packer treats his export trade to Great Britain as an opportunity to dispose of a negligible surplus. He has also treated the trade of the western provinces of Canada in the same way. The Ontario and Quebec packers will find themselves completely cut off from all the trade in the western provinces.

"If the proposals are approved, this interprovincial trade in these food products will cease. Western cattle will be marketed in Chicago in place of Toronto and Montreal. The cured hog products consumed west of the great lakes will be imported from Chicago and western United States packing points. The eggs, poultry and dairy products required for the west will be supplied from Chicago and other western producing centres. The immediate effect will be to create north and south trading conditions in place of east and west."

Local coal dealers seem unanimous in saying that the reduced tariff on slack coal will not materially affect the situation.

That eggs and fruit will be cheaper in Toronto seems the belief of commission houses. It is stated that the price of the former will be regulated by the price in New York and Chicago, where Canada's surplus will go. Cold storage eggs in Chicago are going at 17 cents a dozen, and if this arrangement had been in force they would have been the same price here.

Cement dealers say the change will not affect the price of cement materially.

Automobile manufacturers also remark, "never touched us."

S. N. Waldie of the Victoria Harbor Lumber Co. said:

"I think that the reduction will give us a better market for our lower class lumber. I don't think prices will be affected, though."

Diversity In Montreal.

Montreal, Jan. 28.—Very few of the papers have made straight pronouncements on the tariff question.

La Patrie is afraid of the result, and finds it strange that the Government should completely change the country's fiscal policy, while we are enjoying so great a measure of prosperity.

The Herald is surprised at the scope of the arrangement, and believes that the days of high protective walls are gone for ever.

The Star evidently thinks that it is the thin edge of the free trade wedge, saying: "The Liberal party in days gone by was accused of annexation proclivities, but it has lived down that name, and has proven its loyalty to the Empire in more ways than one. All loyal Canadians will hope that the Liberal party is not entering on a misguided unpatriotic course. Its advent to power, although provocative of wild alarm at the time, has been proven to have been a good thing for the country, through the destruction of adventurous and visionary schemes for gaining power. Surely it is not going back.

A Sincere Effort.

Ottawa, Jan. 28.—The Ottawa Citizen says: "The reciprocity terms submitted by Mr. Fielding appear to be the result of a sincere effort on the part of both Canada and the United States to arrive at a mutual understanding in regard to many articles of every day use and necessity.

The Evening Journal says that beyond doubt a good stroke of business has been done for Canada and on the lines of Sir John Macdonald's standing offer of reciprocity.

"The unexpected has happened. The United States executive has met us half way about food and raw materials, and said practically nothing about manufactures. The acceptance by the United States Cabinet of such an agreement is, frankly speaking, a staggering surprise. If Congress accepts it, an excellent thing we think will have been accomplished for this country."

Fielding Taken In.

London, Ont., Jan. 28.—The Advertiser describes the agreement as a triumph for the Canadian farmers, tempered by the fear that it will not survive in Congress. The favors to Canada have been strong, from the necessities of the Taft administration. The concessions by Canada do not expose a very wide front to the attack of Canadian manufacturers.

The Free Press says:

"What is the broad meaning of the trade proposal? Does the speech of the Minister of Finance give a clue, and is not that clue that the Minister has been overwhelmed at Washington by influences that are not in keeping with the spirit of our people, which is to build up upon this northern half of the American continent a nation that shall be a part of the great British Empire. Here a trade advantage and there a trade loss, but in the aggregate our national wealth thrown open to the despoiler, that he may preserve his own, our manufacturing interests disturbed at the entering of the wedge of free trade with a nation of specialised industries, and a general unsettling of the business that is based upon an agreement which has no greater stability than that either party to it may terminate it at will."

No Serious Disturbance.

Winnipeg, Jan. 28.—The Telegram litorially says:

"There is not likely to be any serious disturbance on account of any part of Canada over the reciprocity arrangement. On close study it reveals no semblance of fiscal convulsion, or even of serious fiscal disturbance."

The Free Press says that the people of Canada as a whole will be well satisfied with the conclusions which have been reached.

Hamilton Opinion.

Hamilton, Jan. 28.—The Times says:

"Parliament and Congress are not bound either by treaty or convention; the changes must stand on the merit of their general reciprocal benefit if they stand at all. Canada's policy of imperial preference is carefully guarded, and the reciprocity arrangement does not impair that policy."

The Spectator says:

"It is well-known that in the United States conditions have reached or about reached that stage where in the matter of food products the country is ready to cease exporting and begin importing. The question is what has Canada gained by assenting to a free trade condition when the United States must in a short time be compelled in self interest to remove food duties."

Calls It a Triumph.

Halifax, Jan. 28.—The Chronicle (Liberal), the only paper that comments on the reciprocity announcement yesterday morning, calls it "Fielding's master stroke," and says:

"Taken as a whole the reciprocity measure is a great, even a remarkable achievement. The concessions by Canada in the tariff reductions, in return for the enormous advantage of a free market for her natural products, are not important. Sir Wilfrid Laurier told the manufacturers' delegation that he believed that a reciprocity agreement could be concluded which would be mutually advantageous, without doing injury to any Canadian interests."

A Good Bargain.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 28.—The Telegraph (Liberal) says:

"The best news from Ottawa since the British preference beyond question. So good is the proposed bargain from the standpoint of every important Canadian interest, that our own Parliament will adopt it by a decisive majority."

The Times (Liberal) says:

"The Maritime Provinces will be especially benefited by a wider free market for natural products."

Veteran Clergyman Dead.

Thetford, Jan. 28.—Rev. Hector Currie, for thirty-five years pastor of the Thetford and Ravenswood Presbyterian congregations, died suddenly Thursday of heart failure. He was born in Argyleshire, Scotland, in 1846, and came to Canada when a boy. Mr. Currie was moderator and secretary of the Barnia Presbytery over twenty years.

Aged Woman Drops Dead.

Toronto, Jan. 28.—Mrs. Mary Moore, 75 years old, droped dead yesterday afternoon in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Wm. Balsam, 228 Niagara street. She had been ailing from a complicatio nof diseases.

CHAMPIONS DEBATE ON THE TARIFF TREATY

Manufacturers and Grange Representatives Argue the Point---Grange Representative Favours Revenue Duty ---Protection Not an Advantage He Says.

Beaverton, Jan. 28.—A detachment of upwards of 100 manufacturers from Toronto, led by Thomas A. Russell, stormed the Grange citadel defended by E. C. Drury, president of the Dominion Grange, and on the floor of the Town Hall here, was fought the battle of the tariff.

Mr. Drury was allowed forty-five minutes and Mr. Russell followed for fifty minutes. Then Mr. Drury was given fifteen minutes for reply and Mr. Russell closed the debate with a speech of ten minutes. After the meeting the Toronto contingent returned via special N.C.R. train. Mr. Russell, in opposition, ably championed the cause of protection from the viewpoint of both the farmer and the manufacturers. Both speeches were given an attentive hearing, and as the decision as to the winner was left to the audience, and as the audience was not called upon to express its opinion, the result was left in doubt.

"I believe in manufacturing in Canada," said Mr. Drury. "Canada is a country of many and varied resources. Agriculture is necessary for the development of them all.

Nor did Mr. Druray stand, he said, as an unqualified free-trader. He believed there might be such a thing as wisely directed protection. When there was a disposition to organize a fully-developed foreign competition protection might be extended to an industry which could not be maintained in the face of that competition. But if so, that protection should be extended for a definite period only.

He maintained, however, that protection was not for the advantage of the nation as a whole, but that the tariff was generally working to the disadvantage of the farmers, and was sure that it would injure the whole nation. Further, Mr. Drury argued that he was "not opposed to a tariff for revenue. That is ecessary. But we do not pretend to say that our tariff is one for revenue." The basis of taxation, he continued, was raw material, and industries using these raw materials should be allowed to have a tariff for revenue.

In opening his address Mr. Russell said that his ambition had been not to have the manufacturer and the farmer fight each other as foes, but to meet on common ground as friends interested in each other's welfare. He had no desire to become the champion of one class. He admonished them not to overlook the wage-earning class.

The Canadian market was just as valuable to the farmer as that of the United States was shown (1) by present prices in many lines of produce being higher here than across the line; (2) in that a change of fiscal policy would have an adverse effect upon national transportation routes and national development, and (3) the transitory nature of a bond between Canadian and United States markets.

TAFT IS SINCERE

Will Submit Tariff to Democrats if Necessary, That is if the Republicans Refuse to Pass It

A HUMANITARIAN MOVE

Washington, Jan. 28.—Snags began to loom up in the pathway of the Canadian reciprocity agreement before it had been in Congress twenty-four hours, and confident predictions of its failure were made by pillars of the protective faith. It was said that even should the House accept the terms of the arrangement it could not pass the Senate.

These dire prophecies were carried to the White House by members who visited the President, but Mr. Taft received them with smiles, which indicated that one defeat would not turn him from his purpose. If his own party fails to seize the opportunity and the credit of putting in operation this reciprocal trade pact, the President, it is believed, will not hesitate to submit his program to the Democrats.

One man in the confidence of the President came from the White House last night with the declaration that the proposed Canadian arrangement would not die an easy death so long as Mr. Taft was in the White House.

"The President was never more in earnest in his life," he said. "He would not hesitate to call an extra session if he thought such a course would do the business."

President Taft believes the mutual concessions arranged by the U. S. and Canada promise a great humanitarian movement that ultimately would mean a material reduction in the cost of living. He believes that, even if the promised reductions are not at once apparent, the very presence of this document in Congress will prove a deterrant force against continued advancement in the price of foods.

Local option carried by five votes over the sixty per cent. required. Judge Price decided to hold a scrutiny of the ballots on Feb. 9.

All payments maturing during the year on the Company's investments have been satisfactorily met, and the rentals from the property owned by the Company have also been promptly paid. Threw Him Over Bridge.

Pembroke, Ont., Jan 28.—A fight that took place the other night proved to be fatal for one of the parties concerned.

It appears that two young fellows, Wright and St. Denis, met on the Indian River bridge and started a friendly conversation. In the course of it St. Denis asked Wright for a chew of tobacco. The latter refused and matters were complicated. In the quarrel that followed Wright took hold of his adversary and without further preliminaries, it is alleged, threw him over the railing of the bridge on the flo below, with the result that St. Denis died from the injuries sustained within 24 hours.

Wright will likely have to face a charge of manslaughter.

For Assaulting a Woman.

Niagara Falls, Jan. 28.—Geo. Hawkins, hotel clerk, was fined $25 by Judge Wells yesterday, when he pleaded guilty to assaulting a young woman here last week. A petition of several hundred names was presented asking for leniency, and the charge was reduced to that of common assault from a more serious one.

IN THE WORLD OF SPORT

Monday Night's Game
The Event Of The Season

Great interest is being taken in the Junior O.H.A. district final game at the Brock street rink on Monday night between the fast Cobourg seven and the Grillers. It should be the classiest junior game seen here for a long time, as both teams are fast and willing and there will not be a dull moment. The visitors expect to win the game and the district and will be accompanied by many supporters who are coming on a special train. The Grillers big following will be out in force and the crowd will be as big as any this season.

COBOURG INTERMEDIATES DEFAULT TO PETERBOROUGH

Mr. R. M. Glover, Secretary of the Peterborough Hockey Club, received word from the Secretary of the Cobourg Club that the Cobourg Intermediates have decided to default next Wednesday night's game to Peterborough, which means that Trenton and Peterborough are tied for the championship of District No. 1 with five wins and one loss to their credit. Trenton beat Cobourg last night in Cobourg, after a red-hot game, which required over-time to settle. It was 2-2 at half-time and Trenton was leading by 5 goals to 2 with 10 minutes to play, when Cobourg rallied and tied the score. In the extra period Trenton scored the winning goal. Armstrong, the speedy left wing of the Trenton team, had his shoulder dislocated and will probably be out of the game for the balance of the season.

The Cobourg Juniors, however, will be here for Monday's game with the Grillers, and will bring with them one hundred and fifty supporters.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

That there will be a record crowd for Monday night's game between the Cobourg team and the Peterborough Grillers, which decides the championship of this district of the Junior O. H. A. goes without saying. The Grillers had their final practise for the big game last night, and are in the best of shape for the battle. Matthews has been ill and may not be able to play, in which case Howie Anderson will get a chance to win his spurs. The other regulars are going nicely and they will need to be as that Cobourg bunch will take a lot of beating. Peterborough beat them in Cobourg in slushy going, but the Lakeshore bunch say they can turn the trick on hard ice, and from all appearances the going will be good Monday night.

The Grillers are not a soft-ice team themselves, preferring a fast sheet but they handle themselves pretty well in the slush just the same. It is likely that Harvey Sproule of Toronto, will referee the battle, which will start at 8.15 o'clock sharp. It should be the snappiest junior game Peterborough has seen in years.

Sporting Editor of the Examiner:

In a pool on the Cobourg-Trenton game last night A has a score of 6 to 4 in favour of Trenton. B has a score of 7 to 5 in favour of Trenton. Which wins?

SUBSCRIBER.

In this game the score was 6 to 5 in favour of Trenton, which means that the winning team scored six out of a total of eleven goals, a percentage of .545. A's score of 6 to 4 in favour of Trenton virtually means that A bet that Trenton would score six goals out of a total of ten or in other words reach a percentage of .600. B's score of 7 to 5 in favour of Trenton means in the same way that Trenton would score seven goals out of a total of twelve and would therefore have a percentage of .583. As the correct winning percentage was .545, B would win the pool.—Sporting Editor.

Sporting Editor of the Examiner:

Will you kindly settle the following dispute in regard to a pool on Tuesday night's game between Trenton and Peterborough. A has a score of Peterborough 11, Trenton7; B has a score of Peterborough 10, Trenton 6. Which wins?

wins?—Inquirer.

Pools of this kind should be settled on the percentage basis. In this particular case the correct score was 13 to 6 in favour of Peterborough; that is the percentage of goals scored by the winning team in respect to the total number of goals scored was .684. Therefore the score that was closest to this percentage wins. A's score of 11-7 gives him a percentage of .611. B's score of 10-6 is a percentage of .625. B thereby wins the pool. This is the only sound and satisfactory way of settling such disputes.—Sporting Ed.

The junior Northern Light hockey team hereby challenge any team in the city under fifteen years of age to a game of hockey to be played on Brock street rink as soon as possible. For any particulars apply to Fred Reovy, captain.

The formation of the rainbow is due to the refraction and reflection of the sun's light by the raindrops. Thus rainbows are only seen when the observer has his back to the sun and looks at the falling rain.

JACK and JILL in FAIRYLAND

1—When Peter Piper picked a peck of pickled peppers, where was the peck of pickled peppers Peter Piper picked? Why, when he turned his back one time Jack and Jill ran off with it.
"We'll use it," said Jill, "on Jack Sprat and his wife,
And we'll play them a joke just as sure as your life!"

2—So the pint of pickled peppers they poured right into the pie
Which the lady Sprat had baked—she made 'em bully, by the bye!

3—Then Mr. and Mrs. Sprat sat down, took a mouthful and—Spieef!—
The burning Mrs. Sprat cried out, "Whatever can it be?
Oh, goodness, Jack, it's terrible!" "It's simply fierce!" said he.

4—But just then Mr. Fly walked in. He'd assisted at the funeral of Cock Robin, you remember.
"I," said the fly, "with my little eye,
I saw Jack and Jill put the peppers in the pie!"

5—Well, that was enough for Jack Sprat and his wife. They just swooped on Jack and Jill—and Mrs. Sprat performed.
Said she, "Take that, and that, and that,
I'll teach you to be careful with the family of Sprat!"
So they just got through the spanking —

Reductions are the Price We Pay for greater variety during the Selling Season

It is very easy to see how that is—the more variety, the greater chance of having an overstock in some particular kinds---and therefore, Reductions.

Every bit of a bargain which is offered at this Sale is intrinsically worth all of the full price, but since we were too liberal in our buying, the opportunity comes to lop off a third in some instances a half from the price.

Of course, we will have to take some losses, but our purposes is best served by selling quickly and we are making concessions to do it---You may as well save us your neighbor. :: ::

A TRIBUTE TO BARBARA TENNANT

Belleville, Jan. 26th, 1911.

Mrs. Hazen, Ritchie,
297 Hunter street,
Peterborough, Ont.:

Dear Mrs. Ritchie.—I am very glad to see that the King's Daughters are fortunate enough to arrange with Miss Barbara Tennant for an entertainment, to be given by her, in Peterborough, as this entertainment should be successful, both financially and in the pleasure it will give to those attending. Miss Tennant gave a most enjoyable and instructive evening in Belleville and she certainly is well worth hearing. It is impossible to describe the wide range, which Miss Tennant covers in her entertainment, and the power she has of influencing those listening to her. I trust this entertainment will prove a great success and wish to congratulate the Kings' Daughters on their enterprise in getting this up. Anybody who wishes to thoroughly enjoy themselves for an evening should not fail to be present.

Yours truly,
J. H. LARMONTH.

"THE FOURTH ESTATE"

The Great Newspaper Play at "The Grand" Next Wednesday

The famous newspaper play, "The Fourth Estate" which captivated New York and Chicago last season, where it divided the year between these two cities will be the attraction at the Grand Theatre next Wednesday, Feb. 1. "The Fourth Estate" is a great play, a play of substance, of truth and of importance. Aside from the healthy quality of its moral, it is strong dramatically. Its story is potent, its love interest both natural and appealing, while the diversity of its characters, their truth, their earnestness and finely contrasted positions and purposes, and the real excitement of action, giving it a grip upon the mind and the emotions that hold you vice-like tenacity until the final curtain. There is the most dramatic scene of all, Wheeler Brand's heroic sacrifice in the interest of truth and the honesty and integrity of the press.

The play will be presented in this city with the same excellent cast of players that gave the play its great vogue in New York and Chicago.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

SWEET LAVENDER.

No star has been received with such enthusiasm in Peterborough this season as was accorded the veteran English comedian, Mr. Edward Terry last night at the Grand Opera House in his favourite role of Dick Phenyl in Pinero's comedy, "Sweet Lavender." The audience was not as large as the merit of the attraction warranted, but it was enthusiastic and at the end of the second act there was a storm of aplause that was not lulled until the members of the company had taken a curtain call, and Mr. Terry was brought back several times. His presensation of the role of the slovenly, intemperate but lovable and kind-hearted old barrister was magnificent throughout, the offering being a masterpiece of dramatic art and given with the ease and facility that might be expected when it is considered that Mr. Terry has played the same role 6,000 times. His support by an an English company, was well night perfect and no play seen here in years has been better acted. Even the minor roles were in the hands of artists and the result was a most enjoyable production.

CANADIAN BREAKS ALL RECORDS FOR AN AEROPLANE FLIGHT OVER WATER

McCurdy Gets Within Ten Miles of Havanna To-day in His 105 Mile Flight From Key-West—Lack of Oil Prevented Him From Completing Task.

FELL INTO THE SEA

Examiner Special:

HAVANA, CUBA, JAN. 30.—To the intrepid Canadian aviator, J. A. D. McCurdy, of Nova Scotia, belongs the palm for the longest sustained flight over water. He gained it to-day in a flight from Key West toward Havana, and although he didn't reach Havana by ten miles, he had ninety-five miles to his credit, which beats Glen Curtis' record flight over the water by forty miles, and knocks into smithereens the records of aviators who crossed the English channel.

Lack of lubricating oil was McCurdy's trouble. The watchers on Morro Castle, close to Havana, sighted the airship about ten o'clock and prospects seemed good for the completion of the trip. But suddenly his big biplane (Belmont racer was seen to take a tip and within a few seconds it had landed its aviator in the water. There was a long period of suspense for the people on shore. Then up steamed the torpedo boat destroyer, Paul King, which presently sent the message that she had picked the aviator and machine up safely, and that as soon as he could make repairs he would attempt the flight of the balance of the ten miles from the deck of a steamer.

'Tis confidently expected by aeroplanists here that McCurdy will complete the trip yet.

SIGN FALLS AND THREE ARE KILLED

Examiner Special:

PHILADELPHIA, PA., JAN. 30. — Three were killed and four seriously injured when a huge sign in front of a store in the crowded district, crashed to the sidewalk at noon to-day. Most of the victims were women out shopping.

KING GEORGE WANTS TO GIVE EVIDENCE

His Majesty is Anxious to Take The Stand in The Libel Action Against Edward Mylius—Such a Step Would Be Against All Traditions of The British Courts.

Special to The Examiner.

LONDON, ENG., JAN. 30. — King George had a conference with his legal and political advisors this morning regarding the trial of Edward Mylius in the charge of sedition and libel against him in publishing the famous morganatic marriage stories. It is understood that His Majesty is anxious to appear in the witness box against Mylius, despite all the traditions of the British courts, which prohibit the reigning monarch from appearing in his own courts. If the advisors permit him to have his way this matter will be the first instance for centuries. Whatever decision is arrived at this morning, will not be published till the trial. 'Tis said that both Asquith and Balfour, as well as the leaders of the House of Lords are favourable to the King giving evidence, clearing up the matter.

Quick Action Was Means Of Saving Life; Man Caught On Bridge

Quick action on the part of Mr. Edward Tighe was the means of averting a fatality on Friday night last. Mr. Tighe was returning home along the Grand Trunk tracks and when he reached the bridge above Stewart street found a man imprisoned on the structure, his foot having become firmly wedged between the ties. At the same instant Mr. Tighe was horrified to hear the rumble of an approach train. He ran out on the bridge and grabbed the unfortunate man, succeeding after much effort in releasing his leg from the grip of the ties. The man was under the influence of liquor and did not seem to realize his danger. The train was almost on the bridge when Mr. Tighe freed the man and he had barely time to carry him to safety when the engine shot past them. It was a most narrow escape.

McCURDY STARTS ON HIS LONG AIR JOURNEY

Special to The Examiner:

KEY WEST, FLA., JAN. 30.—After waiting for a week for favourable winds and gentle seas, J. A. D. McCurdy, the Canadian aviator, made a start this morning on his 105 mile flight to Havana. United tSates torpedo boat destroyers are piloting the course to give assistance in case of need. McCurdy made the statement that with the winds and conditions supporting him he hoped to reach Havana before noon.

NORMAL SCHOOL LITERARY SOCIETY'S FINE DEBATE

Argued Questions as to Canada's Becoming a Greater Country Than The United States.

SOME BRIGHT SPEECHES

The Literary Society of the Normal School met in the assembly hall on Friday, Jan. 27, at 4 p.m., and, after the usual business had been disposed of the society was favoured by a violin and piano solo. It was then announced that the next number on the programme was a debate, the subject of which was resolved "that in fifty years Canada will be a greater nation than the United States." The affirmative side was composed of the following students: Mr. Bailey, leader; Miss Armstrong, and Miss Crosse, while those of the negative were: Mr. Campbell, leader; Miss F Hubble and Miss Moore.

Some of the main points discussed were the size, governments, natural resources, morals, educational systems, and character of the people in general of both nations.

The debaters of both sides deserve credit for the manner in which they discussed their parts, but especially does Miss Crosse merit mention for the way she upheld the cause of the affirmative, and it was greatly through her efforts that the affirmative side won the debate.

After the debate was finished we were favoured with a speech by Dr. Park, in which he very ably brought out the witty and humorous side of literature.

Especially amusing was the manner in which Dr. Parks quoted Eli Perkens' ridicule of the ancient definition of laughter. The old definition of laughter was "a short lived surprise." A few years ago a train in Scotland went through a bridge, carrying all the passengers to death in the river below. When Eli Perkens heard of this he said: "My, how those people must have laughed and laughed. I can just imagine I see them leaning back in their seats and laughing for this certainly must have been a surprise to them, and it certainly was short lived."

The meeting closed with the National Anthem.

CHIMNEY FIRE

Anxiety to have the house thoroughly warm for the arrival of Mrs. Bates from the hospital on Saturday evening, resulted in a small blaze at the home of James Bates, 323 McDonnel street, which resulted in the brigade being called out. The alarm came in from Box 38 at 6.23 p.m. No damage was done. The people of the house had put on such a big fire that the soot in the chimney became ignited.

FREE FISH.

The Massachusetts fishermen who joined some of our good Canadian Tories in regarding Messrs. Fielding and Paterson, the Canadian negotiators of a trade agreement, as suckers, who would fall an easy prey to United States, feel that they were slightly mistaken, and that in the matter of fish the Canadians made an excellent bargain, which the Gloucester fishermen regard as a death blow to their industry. One naturally feels too generous to rub it in, but, it is to be noted that in the matter of fisheries Canada has, of late been, and still is, in the swim. Canada pulled in a rather good sized victory on the main fishery questions settled at the Hague and also did conspicuously well in the supsidiary arrangements in regard to regulating fisheries in Canadian waters. It is no surprise, therefore, that the Gloucester fishermen, whose long time "pouching" in Canadian waters has yielded such a profitable fish harvest, should feel so greatly chagrined over free fish from Canada, as provided by the provisional trade agreement recently negotiated, that they hang all the flags at half mast on their fishing smacks as tokens of defeat and disaster. We may expect heaven, earth and sea to be moved to prevent the United States Congress from ratifying the agreement. Regarding this agreement both from a Canadian and United States point of view; it is inevitable that in such a sweeping arrangement some interests would be adversely affected, for a time, at least. The question is whether the recognized and undeniable reciprocal advantages do not overweigh the incidental disadvantages, to such an extent as to justify the ratification of the treaty by the parliaments of both countries.

WHEAT AND FLOUR.

It is claimed that the Canadian milling industry will be adversely affected by the admission of free wheat to the United States. For a time at least there may be some dislocation of trade conditions in the matter of flour production. But, looking at the matter form the wider point of view, are not Canadian millers in a position, in the long run, to compete successfully with their United States rivals? With its superior possession and distribution of water powers Canada should be able to hold the home market except, possibly, at a few points, and besides, compete successfully for the export trade, which must be the main outlet for Canadian flour. The Canadian milling industry has not reached the development of which it is capable, or in proportion to our wheat production. We do not now grow, perhaps, a hundredth part of the wheat we are capable of. Our rate of expansion in wheat produce, according to Mr. Wm. Whyte, of the Canadian Pacific Railway, who knows the West like a book, one-tenth as much grain as all the United States; and he predicts that in ten years we shall produce as much as the whole of the States put together. This can be done in one province of the West alone. In 1909 Saskatchewan produced 90,255,000 bushels of wheat, as compared with 30,040,087 bushels in 1908, and with 18,121,015 in 1903. And this tremendous rate of expanse in wheat production is bound of grow. According to Mr. Martin, M. P., Regina, speaking in Parliament on Jan. 25th, Saskatchewan's wheat crop of 1909 could have been grawn on the road allowances of the province. There were that year only 7,016,272 acres under cultivation, out of a total of 80 million acres of land, as suitable for weat growing, so that that provnice is producing only about one-fourteenth of its possibility. And there are other millions of acres of wheat land outside Saskatchewan to be brought under cultivation. In disposing of the crop that the future promises, there will be conjestion of all routes of transportation and a tremendous demand from all forms of exploitation. Canadian millers will have abundant outlet for their energies and the world, as a market for their products.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

This is the farmer's year. He went to Ottawa and demanded reciprocity in farm products; and he gets it if the present trade agreement is ratified by the high contracting powers and he gets something better than riches — a good name for honest goods. Out of 211 samples of butter from all parts of the Dominion, 195 were found perfect and only two were found adulterated --possibly for some perdatory cow, exercising her taste for turnips, and developing the "turnipy taste" that would "queer" a cup of ambrosia.

The Government, says the Toronto Star, might well advertise the powers of a ten-cent special delivery stamp as the telegraph companies have advertised their "night telegrams." "Why not push this special delivery stamp?" asks the Postal World. "Let the public know they may send a letter of 50 words, 500 words, or as many words as they wish, and have the letter delivered in the cities, having free delivery, up till 10 p.m., or if train arrives after 10 p.m., then delivery is made the following morning."

WASHINGTON'S CHANGE OF FRONT.

(London Advertiser)

The trade agreement is a complete reversal of the normal attitude of the United States for nearly half a century. Except during the brief periods of Cleveland's ascendency, the policy of the country since the civil war has been one of stiff-necked protectionism, with a particularly forbiddig front toward Canada. Probably no persons have been more surprised at the change than the Canadian negotiators. They could scarcely have expected such liberality when they set out for Washington.

It is contended in some quarters that the Taft administration would have been driven to a reduction of duties, or driven from power if it had "stood pat," and that Canada would have secured its present favours without making return. This is altogether too sanguine a view. The proposal to entirely sweep the duties off farm products has amazed all parties in the United States. It is a bold and calculated move in the party game. The administration has placed upon the Democrats and insurgent Republicans in Congress the onus of accepting or rejecting a measure which is an answer to their own cries for a reduction of the tariff, and the cost of livnig. Whatever Congress does, the position of the administration will be strengthened It will have rid itself of the odium of its reputed alliance with the "stand-patters."

Party exigencies in the United States have been Canada's opportunity. It is probable that no such concessions could have been wrung from the present executive but for the revolt in the Republican ranks. It is equally doubtful whether a Democratic executive and Congress, if elected two years hence, would go so far to meet this country. As matters stand, the trade agreement will have behind it the weight of the administration, which will carry with it a majority of the high tariff Representatives and Senators, while the Democrats and low tariff Republicans cannot oppose it without stulifying themselves. The time is peculiarly opportune for this country. We have snatched an advantage from a conjuncture of circumstances that might not recur for many years.

A Crank.

One sure way to tell whether a man is a crank or not is to draw him into a discussion. If he doesn't agree with you, of course he's a crank.

Canada and the United States.

The Dominion of Canada is some 500,000 square miles larger than the United States without Alaska and its inland possessions, its area being 3,500,000 square miles to some 3,000,000 square miles for the United States.

Traveling in Russia.

Any one speaking German or French will experience little trouble in journeying throughout Russia, although in the remote districts and along the Volga only the vernacular is spoken.

Old Rose.

There is a rose tree on the wall of a cathedral in Hildesheim, Germany, that is known to have flourished since the eleventh century.

Hedgehogs.

Hedgehogs are very strong in the water, swimming with ease against a rapid stream, and with their muscular claws they turn up the nests of trout or salmon. They will breast a very rapid stream, and cold water, as near the freezing point as may be, seems to have no terror for them.

Powdered Sugar.

When powdered sugar gets hard run it through the food chopper. This is an easier way of breaking up the lumps than using a rolling pin.

Mustard Seed.

Mustard seed is sown in Holland in March and April. It blossoms like rape, but the plant is stronger. The crop as a rule is ready for harvest in August or September. The plants are cut and the seeds dried on the shrubs of the plants, or, perhaps more generally, the shrubs are put together in small piles and thus dried in the fields.

Adams County, Ohio, U.S.A. Holds Political Corruption Championship

(The Mail and Empire.)

In all the history of bribery and corruption, no such tale of political debauchery has ever been unfolded as that which comes from Adams County, Ohio. There even the preachers are corrupt. The best people in the community set the example of selling their votes, and have done so for thirty years. The Adams County farmer thinks no more of selling his vote than of selling a load of hay, and he would no more think of giving his candidate a vote for nothing than of making him a present of a likelyheifer. Mothers sold their son's votes, just as they would sell their eggs at market, and young men always looked forwaru to the Fall, when they would get the price of a new suit or overcoat in exchange for their franchise.

Everybody Corrupted.

For more than a month a judicial investigation into the political corruption of Adams County has been going on. Fifteen hundred voters have been indicted for selling their votes; $25,000 in fines has been collected and more than one-third of the voters in the county have been disfranchised. A few men have been sent to the workhouse, but fine and disfranchisement for a period of five years is the favourite remedy of Judge A Y. Blair. Photographs show the scene in front of the court house, with long lines of tethered horses outside, their owners having gone in to confess to the judge. As many as 150 have been indicted and punished in a single day, and the investigation had to halt temporarily while the court clerks caught up in their work. A second investigation will be held for the purpose of finding out the men "higher up" who benefitted by debauching the community. So far, only the bribe takers have been punished. It may be the turn of the men behind the bribe givers next.

The Bribers Confess.

So far as the men who distributed the corruption fund are concerned, they escape punishment by turning State's evidence. It was they who first gave Judge Blair and his jury information on which the wholesale indictments were drawn. The politicians frankly admitted that the payment of from $4,000 to $52,000 a year to the Adams County voters was made in violation of their judgment and their desire. It was the only thing they could do, however, since without his $10 the most rabid partisan would not cast a vote for his political ideal. It cost $25,000 to carry the county for Taft, and if the Democrats had spent $30,000 they could have carried it for Bryan. One thrifty voter received $12.50 for voting the straight Republican ticket; another $10 for voting the straight Democratic ticket, and $3 for voting for a particular Democratic candidate. In the end honesty prevailed and he voted with the $13.

Corrupt for Thirty Years.

Before "Calico Charley" Foster ran for Governor some thirty years ago, Adams County was as clean politically as any other county, but Foster sent a "barl" into the community and a market price of $1 a vote was established. Ever after that candidates had to spend something, until any politician who wanted to make sure of carrying the county had to reckon on his campaign expenses running up to $20,000 or $30,000. Those were the days of separate ballot boxes, and the buyer could make sure that the voter was carrying out his part of the contract. Then the Austrian ballot system was introduced, and for one year there was little bribery. But a local politician hit on a scheme in time for the next election, and it has since been followed. An envelope is given to each voter as he goes into the booth, and he is instructed to place his ballot over it, and make his crosses. On coming out he hands the envelope to the briber, who can then verify the transaction, for inside the envelope is a duplicate ballot and over it a sheet of tracing paper. Thus the voter would mark the ballot in the envelope handed to the returning officer.

An Educated, Religious Community.

The most remarkable thing about the disclosures in Adams County is that for general morality and education the county stands high. It is a "dry" county. It has many churches; it is a liberal supporter of foreign missions, and turns out more school teachers than any other county in the State. But from the clergymen, the lawyers and the doctors, down to the most ignorant labourers, nearly everybody sold his vote and thought there was no harm in it. Even Judge Blair used to buy votes. That's how he got his remarkable inside information.

Napoleon on Washington.

Napoleon Bonaparte said, "Posterity will talk of Washington with reverence as the founder of a great empire when my name shall be lost in the vortex of revolution."

Small Horses.

The geologists tell us that the orobippus, the ancestor of the noble horse of today, was but little larger than the common rabbit of today and that each had sixteen toes, four on each foot, the same as the cattle of today. After the lapse of ages this sixteen hoofed equus shed a toe or hoof from each foot and thus became a twelve toed animal. The sixteen hoofed variety is first found in the eocene period of geological epochs.

Smoking in High Places.

The craving for tobacco is decreased after a smoker has climbed to a great height. Smoking under such circumstances is found to be somewhat laborious.

Boston's First Tavern.

The first tavern in Boston was opened in 1683 and stood near the corner of Merchants' row and what was then called Corn court. During the seventeenth century the leading taverns or hotels in Boston were the Green Dragon, State Arms, Red Lion, King's Arms, the Ship, the Castle and King's Head.

The British Museum.

The British museum originated with a grant by parliament in 1753 of £20,000 to the daughters of Sir Hans Sloane in payment for his fine library and vast collection of the productions of nature and art.

Canal Theory of Mars.

The canal theory of Mars is opposed by the Swedish savant Arrhenius, who thinks the phenomena observed are huge clefts in the surface of the planet.

"THE INNOCENT MURDERERS"

By Wm. Johnston and Paul West

"She is a blonde," continued Sullivan, "I think about twenty-two years old. In fact, I may say, the most attractive of the professor's pupils."

"Don't, don't," expostulated Mrs. Hopkins, intolerant of the detective's praise of her rival. "You are very wonderful at finding things out!"

"I keep my eyes open," said the detective, "that's all." He cast another look at the photograph, and, taking his hat went to the door, where he stood with his hand on the knob. "Now, Mrs. Hopkins," he said, reassuringly, "don't worry. We will locate this pair. If you hear anything, I'm at the hotel. They think I'm a book agent. Above all don't say a word about this to a soul. Understand? Not a word! If they ask where the professor is, tell them he's gone away. I'll see you tomorrow. Good-night."

CHAPTER FOUR.

The Shadows on the Blind

Detective Sullivan left the Hopkins house well pleased with the result of his visit. He had been in Graydon now only a scant two hours and already had learned much that would be useful in building up a case. It was about nine o'clock when he said good-night to Mrs. Hopkins and started toward the village.

Ever alert and a believer in the adage that procrastination is the thief of time, he decided to take a stroll around the college before returning to the hotel, to familiarize himself with every point in the case. So he turned his steps in the direction of the hill on which the building was situated. But prompt as he considered himself, Detective Sullivan was too late to witness a succession of scenes that would have helped him to solve instantly what was destined to prove the greatest puzzle of his detective career.

Directly after supper, that evening four men had left their homes and hurried to the college building. They were members of the faculty. The quartette consisted of Professor Snyder, in whose room the meeting took place; Professor Rice, the mathematician; Dr. Fisher, the German teacher, and young George Gordon, the professor of ethics. An oddly assorted group, yet now of but one mind.

The quartette was gathered about a table in the Greek professor's room. They had waited until everybody had left the building, then, on tiptoe, they had stolen in. Now, although the college was absolutely deserted, they were speaking in whispers, and the door was locked. From the precautions taken, and from their mysterious manner, they evidently regarded the business in hand as of the greatest import.

The original Graydon College had been a squat, solid structure of native stone, two stories high. A wide hall divided each floor into two large rectangular rooms. As, from time to time, more space had been required, the building had been extended backward, and east and west wings added, until in shape it resembled a great "T." Recently a cupola had been erected on the old front part of the building, relieving its flattened out appearance, and housing a small telescope presented by a grateful alumnus.

The broad staircase in what had been the rear of the old building still remained the only means of passage from the first to the second floor. A smaller staircase ascended from the upper hall to the roof, but by some miscalculation it did not open into the cupola, but ended in a hooded door some twenty feet from it.

The classroom of Professor Snyder, the Greek scholar, was the fourth room on the west side of the hall; Professor Hopkins' laboratory took up all the second floor in the west wing of the front of the building. Thus the windows of these two rooms were at right angles to each other, and though they were a floor apart, it was perfectly feasible to look from one room into another. In the peculiar location of these rooms lay the origin of the mysterious meeting now taking place.

"If you are certain of what you say Professor Snyder, said Professor Rice, with a slow, calculating manner, "it is a situation that requires the most careful and thoughtful handling. I think we should all prefer to hear the proposition again before we begin to decide on any plan of solution."

The Greek professor was not at all averse to repeating the story which he already had told his colleagues. He said:

"The circumstances were these, gentlemen. Yesterday evening, Sunday, I had occasion to come to my class-room for some papers which I had forgotten and needed for to-day's work. It was about six-forty-five," —Professor Rice made a note of the time—"and quite dark in the building, into which I let myself by my key. I reached this room and, as I rummaged for my papers, I happened to glance out of the window. To my surprise I observed a light in Professor Hopkins' laboratory.

"Suspecting some student prank, I decided to investigate. The curtains of the laboratory window were closely drawn, but I could see dim shadows of some person or persons moving about the room. I watched closely, hoping to identify the trespassers should they come near the window. My hopes were realized. The persons stepped close to the window and stood there, their profiles sharply marked in silhouette. I immediately recognized one of the shadows. The stooping shoulders and long beard could belong to nobody but our colleague, Professor Hopkins. I was about to turn away, satisfied that all was right, when to my dismay I noticed that the other figure was that of a woman.

"As I watched them, endeavouring to discover who the woman could be, it became plain to me that they were engaged in some earnest transaction. Professor Hopkins held a graduating glass in his hand—or so I judged it to be—and he and the woman watched it with interest. Both appeared to be talking, and Hopkins was gesticulating. The woman finally clapped her hands together, and at the same moment Hopkins put the glass down and threw his arms about his companion. She, on her part, returned the embrace, and, gentlemen, I am of the opinion that they kissed each other!"

The Greek professor stopped, partly to observe the effect of his statement upon his colleagues, and partly in surprise at the intensity of the moan that escaped the lips of the professor of ethics. The deepening dusk prevented the others from seeing the exepression of pain on Gordon's face, accompanying the sound that he made. Therefore they misinterpreted the meaning of the moan, and Rice remarked:

"It is, indeed, a shocking matter! Go on!"

There is little more to tell," said Professor Snyder, with a sigh of regret. "The light in the laboratory window was soon after extinguished and though I wished to do so I dared not leave my room to see who came out of the laboratory, for fear that I should be seen and my motives misconstructed."

"And you did not identify the woman?" asked Rice.

"No," said Snyder. "I did not, though I suspect—"

"Pooh!" exclaimed Dr. Fischer, impatiently, "dere iss no question who der voman vas. It vas—"

"Be careful," interrupted both Gordon and Rice, the former excitedly, the latter calmly but decidedly. Fischer, however, defiantly continued:

"Careful!" he said. "Do ve not all know who spends de evenings in der laboratory mit Hopkins? Iss dere any doubt in der mnids of you gentlemens dat it iss his assistant, Ernesta Frost? Iss there, yes?"

"Hopkins, so I have understood," said Rice, "has been conducting a series of experiments and has had to be in the laboratory at all hours. If he has required the presence of his assistant—"

"Pooh!" sneered Fischer, "it looks as if der experiments had been in der field of love potions, from vat Snyder says!"

Man of the world and hero of more than one duel of his youth, Fischer would have winced could he have seen the effect of his ironical speech upon Gordon. The young man—he was in his early thirties—gripped the edge of the table as though about to draw himself up and spring at the German. His teeth grated together, his eyes flashed resentment. But he seemed to master himself after a struggle, and sank back in his chair, his actions unnoticed by the others.

"While I consider Dr. Fischer's remark ill-timed," said Rice, slowly, "the facts in our possession certainin his impression as to the identity ly lead us to believe that he is right in his impression as to the identity of Hopkins' companion. Furthermore, whether I am right in my conjecture or not, the fact remains that Hopkins has been guilty of an act which, should it become public, would lead to a disgraceful scandal. A college professor, above all men, deserves the harshest censure for such behaviour as that which Professor Snyder has related to us. Exposure of a thing like that would result in incalculable harm to the college, especially to Graydon, a co-educational institution. It is fortunate that we have come into possession of the facts in time, so that we may act at once."

"What, then, do you suggest doing?" asked Snyder.

"There must be no public scandal," said Rice. "That, of course, is plain. To inform the Dean woul merely be extending the knowledge of Hopkins' misconduct to another person. It would, of course, result in his demanding Hopkins' resignation from the faculty."

"Vell," said Fischer, "unless ve vish to see Graydon go to smash, and all of us lose our positions, Hopkins must leave!"

"But why cannot we bring that about ourselves?" said Rice. "It is near the end of the term. Hopkins is in bad health. For him to hand in his resignation now would create little or no comment."

"You mean, then——?" asked Snyder, and Rice continued.

"We must go to him, tell him of what we have learned, and demand, as his colleagues, that for our own protection and the good name of the college, he withdraw from the faculty."

Rice's decision, given in such a way that the others felt that it was final and must be acquiesced in, left them silent. It was a situation unusual in the life of a college professor, and they required thought before they could trust themselves to say anything in reply to Rice. Fischer sat back and hummed a German tune; Gordon leaned far over the table, his hands in his hair, his face tense: he of all the three was not thinking of the problem in hand. His thoughts were of the heart, not the brain; the thoughts of a man whose love and trust in a woman have been misplaced.

Snyder rose and paced the floor. They were still in the dark, having been too intent on the subject under discussion to think of requiring light. It was approaching eight o'clock. Snyder, in his uneasy course about the room, passed the window. He glanced out, unconsciously, and saw something that brought a sharp exclamation from him. The others seemed to divine the meaning of the exclamation, and rose with one accord, tiptoeing to the window, through which Snyder pointed, with trembling hand, in the direction of the laboratory. The blinds of the laboratory window were down, but there was a light in the room.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

IN a speech the other day, I head the dean of a large college for women quote a verse from her autograph album, and a sudden sense of tender regret swept over me as if I had heard reference to a dead friend.

Where are the autograph albums of yesteryear?

"Well, that's not so hard to answer after all. They're stowed away in the big black trunk, packed between yellowing letters of dubious orthography but stately diction, and rambling diaries of the days when men were not too busy to live.

But where are the autograph albums of to-day?

That's harder to answer.

Are they entirely a missing quantity?

I am afraid so. When was the last time you were asked to write your name and an appropriate sentiment in some school girl's album, as you so frequently were asked in the "good old times?" Myself I cannot remember.

And I'm sorry I think the autograph album is far too quaint and sweet a custom to let the vandal twentieth century deprive us of it.

An old school friend of my mother's visited us last fall. They were talking of school days and the question came up as to the maiden name of one of the girls.

"I know where to find it," said my mother.

So out of the big black trunk from between the yellowing letters and the rambling diary, she fetched her autograph album. And by its spell we straightway had two laughing, chattering school girls instead of two white haired grandmothers in the house.

How they poured over the thick, white leaves with their gilt edges and their stately or sentimental messages.

This one bore the gentle admonition—

"Be a good sweet maid and let who will be clever,
Do noble things, not dream them all day long,
And thus make life and death and the vast forever
One grand sweet song."

Another gave the familiar advice—

"To thine own self be true,
And it shall follow as the night the day
Thou canst not then be false to any man."

This heartbroken lament adorned another—

"To meet, to know, to love, and then to part,
Is the sad tale of many a school girl's heart."

My mother's guest found her own signature under this wish—

"May peace attend your future hours,
May love your pathway strew with flowers,
And may you always have a friend
True as the one who these lines penned."

How they chattered and laughed and recalled this or that good time, and grew grave over the name of the girl for whom, as for Sweet Alice, "they have fitted a slab of the granite so gray," and laughed, even while the tears stood in their eyes, at the sentimental

"The rose is red, the violet's blue, Sugar is sweet and so are you."

of some hopelessly smitten youth who has since married twice and had several children.

Isn't it rather a pity that our children should have no such treasure to fetch out of the black trunk from between yellowing letters and rambling diaries?

Why not try to revive the old custom by giving your little boy or girl an autograph album next birthday?

Why not at the same time bring out your own and stimulate their interest in the gift by showing it to them and telling them some stories of the days when father and mother and some of the other grown-up folks they know were boys and girls?

"Victory Through Pain" Discussed Yesterday By Rev. Chas. C. Carpenter

At the men's meeting in the Princess Theatre yesterday afternoon, under the auspices of the League of Goodfellowship, Rev. C. Carpenter gave his second address on the subject of "Pain." A week ago his discourse was on "The Mystery of Pain." He now took "Victory through Pain," and, after briefly summarising his previous address, and emphasising the fact that pain rightly used will elevate, proceeded to show that Biblical history showed this, and further gave numerous instances of the way in which character was evolved and progress made.

Our first parents, as soon as they had fallen, began to suffer pain and sorrow, by the natural law that sin and sorrow were necessarily connected, and the only way to trace them back was by suffering and it was, therefore, not a curse but a blessing.

Cain, after his abominable murder, was placed under the ban of a long suffering, teaching him that life was precious and as a warning to him and his descendants.

Then, as to the flood. The deluge was caused by the sin of the world, and by it successive generations have been corrected and warned, and the path of progress has been followed, and new prospects and ideals generated by the flood. By the time of Abraham the difference in the moral life of the nation showed that something had occurred. Abraham, himself, was refined and ennobled by suffering. By his great trial, when told to offer up his son, Isaac; by the destruction of Sodom and Gomorah; when he had to leave his own land and his own people, he rose to such a height as, without pain, would have been impossible. The great promise, again, was not made to him in definite form, until he had passed through much suffering. Jacob was brought out by pain. In his early days, the pampered son of a fond mother, he was mean and grasping. But as he inflicted suffering, so he suffered. He had to flee for his life from the anger of his fierce brother. He lay with a stone for a pillow at Bethel. He was treated cruelly by Laban, then driven away. He wrestled with the angel, and later suffered much by his children. But for this suffering he would never have become the great Israel, nor learned the secret of the inner meaning of life.

Then Joseph had his great sorrows. He was sold and imprisoned, and through his sufferings he was kept pure, and became the power in Egypt that he was.

Thus far we have dealt with individuals. Now, as to the Israelites, when they dwelt in Egypt. Hitherto, they had been a wandering, nomadic tribe; they had no nationality, no code of laws. But during their cruel captivity it came to them that they should be no longer a tribe, but a nation, full of patriotism and religious zeal. A nation welded together by sorrow and suffering. The passover was to be a continual reminder of their troubles, of the plagues of the Egyptians, and a warning for the future.

During their forty years wandering in the desert much weariness and suffering were theirs, but they emerged with their nationality and their laws developed, and able to march forth as a conquering nation. Here is a lesson of selfrestraint and of remembering, not to please themselves, but to work for the honour and glory of God, and to distinguish plainly their ideal. They learned by their code of law and their ceremonials that God was only to be approached through suffering and pain.

No sooner had they settled down in peace than they began to go backwards and to degenerate. Famine, pestilence and wars came upon them, until, at last, a greater calamity was necessary for their recalling. They fell into bondage. Their temple was destroyed, and all that they prized best was lost, that they might be cleansed from idolatry.

In the time of Christ, they were weaker in numbers and had been conquered by Rome, yet they had a greater conception and a greater trust in the ideal that their mission was wholly religious and not worldly. They began to realise that the Saviour was to be a spiritual King, and their previous sufferings rendered them more noble, refined and moral, according to their lights.

Pain, in the New Testament dispensation, is essential. The apostles suffered to the extent of giving up their lives. And through them the victory of Christ's Church has been attained through bloodshed and martyrdom.

All along, unto the Church of today, suffering has and does make the Church pure.

Mr. J. S. Sewers gave a sacred song.

When You Feel Cross DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

And Are Easily Worried and Irritated, Chances Are That the Liver is Not Right and You Need

Life is too short to be cross and grouchy. You not only make yourself miserable, but also those about you.

When healthy and active the liver filters the poisonous bile from the blood and passes it into the intestines, where it aids the process of digestion and keeps the bowels regular.

But when the liver balks the whole system becomes clogged with a mass of fermenting food, which gives rise to gas on the stomach, belching of wind, pains about the heart, and a multitude of annoying symptoms which accompany indigestion and constipation.

There is nothing in the world which will more promptly afford you relief than Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills. This statement is true. A trial will convince you. This medicine acts definitely and directly on the liver and bowels and cleanses the whole digestive and excretory system.

Mr. Theo. Bedard, Lac aux Sables, Portneuf county, Que., writes:—"I have found Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills the best treatment obtainable for indigestion and impure blood. They cured me of indigestion, from which I suffered for four years.

"This certificate is given without solicitation, so that others may not waste their money buying medicines of no value when they can get Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills, which I am convinced are the best."

Avoid Harsh Drugs

Many Cathartics Tend to Cause Injury to the Bowels

If you are subject to constipation, you should avoid strong drugs and cathartics. They only give temporary relief and their reaction is harmful and sometimes more annoying than constipation. They in no way effect a cure and their tendency is to weaken the already weak organs with which they come in contact.

We honestly believe that we have the best constipation treatment ever devised. Our faith in it is so strong that we sell it on the positive guarantee that it shall not cost the user a cent if it does not give entire satisfaction and completely remedy constipation. This preparation is called Rexall Orderlies. These are prompt, soothing and most effective in action. They are made of a recent chemical discovery. Their principal ingredient is odourless, tasteless and colourless. Combined with other well known ingredients, long established for their usefulness in the treatment of constipation, it forms a tablet which is eaten just like candy. This may be taken at any time, either day or night, without fear of their causing any inconvincing whatever. They do not gripe, purge or cause nausea. They act without causing any pain or excessive looseness of the bowels. They are ideal for children, weak, delicate persons and aged people as well as for the most hearty person.

They come in two size packages, 12 tablets 10 cents, 36 tablets 25 cents. Remember you can obtain them only at our store.—The Rexall Store, McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte streets.

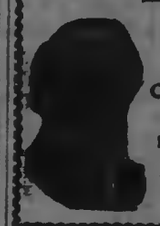
PEOPLE'S PULPIT.



Sermon by CHARLES T. RUSSELL Pastor Brooklyn Tabernacle.

Prince Lucifer of Old Now Prince of Demons

Much in the Bible on Satan's Past, Present and Future.

Washington, D.C., Jan. 29.—Pastor Russell addressed large audiences twice to-day in Convention Hall and also in Masonic Temple. He had close attention from very intelligent congregations. We report his address on Satan, the rebel angel.

Doubtless many of the audience were surprised when told that Satan is not in some far-off place stoking fires and torturing human or other victims, but that he is present amongst men, an invisible angel of evil, ably supported in his work as an adversary of God by legions of other fallen angels, of whom he is a master—"Prince of demons," either because of his superiority of nature, or because of belonging to a higher rank or grade than the ordinary angel. It was a surprise to many to learn that Satan, so far from being ill favored, is beautiful, according to the Scriptures, and that he is supervising the work directly and through the fallen angels, his servants, to mislead and to deceive humanity—putting light for darkness and darkness for light, error for truth, etc.

Pastor Russell's text was taken from Romans xvi, 20, "The God of peace shall bruise Satan under your feet shortly." He said:

The time was not long ago when intelligent people made light of everything in the Scriptures respecting invisible spirit beings, good or bad—the messengers of God and the messengers of Satan. This, however, can no longer be done. Under the increasing light of the New Dispensation man himself to-day can do things which but a short time ago would have been considered impossible. Can we not speak with our friends over hundreds of miles with a telephone and recognize each other's voices? Yet there is no pipe, no tube to convey the sounds and nothing, seemingly, carries it over the wire. We speak into a hole in the wall and our friends hundreds of miles away hear audibly. Still more marvelous is wireless telegraphy and wireless telephony. If man can accomplish these things what cannot the Almighty accomplish? Who can deny the possibility of invisible presence of spirit beings and yet admit the possibility of wireless telegraphy? We are safe, dear friends, in guiding our judgments directly by the Word of God and reasoning inside and not outside of its boundaries.

The Bible, and it alone, explains certain phenomena and all of the Bible explanations, although written, some of them centuries apart, are in most perfect accord. Thus in Genesis the Bible tells us respecting Satan's defiection, and the book of Revelation, written more than three thousand years later, tells us of his binding for a thousand years, of Messiah's reign and Satan's ultimate destruction. Isaiah and Ezekiel tell us of his at one time being in full harmony with God, and that, then he was the "covering cherub," glorious, grand, beautiful, and that his name was Lucifer, which signifies the Morning Star.

All of the angelic heavenly hosts are termed stars, bright ones; but Lucifer, being of a higher order, was styled the Morning Star, the Brightest Star. It was at that time, while in Divine favor, that Satan permitted the lodgment in his mind of a disloyal thought respecting his Creator. He thought of how, indirectly, by being in higher responsibility, he could work some wonders and do some things better than the Almighty. He craved the opportunity to make a demonstration of what he could do. But the Scriptures declared that first of all he said this merely in his heart and uttered it not. "He said in his heart, I will ascend into heaven; I will exalt my throne above the stars of God (still farther above his angelic associates), I will be as the Most High"—a ruler.

Never had there been sin in heaven. Satan was the first of all its inhabitants to cherish, to entertain a rebellious thought and to bring it to a consummation. He held the thought in abeyance until the opportunity afforded, and God himself afforded the opportunity, with full knowledge of the consequences, and with the desire that this test of the entire heavenly host, and of a human race as well, should be effected because God seeketh not the worship of constraint, but "seeketh such for worshipers as worship him in spirit and in truth," voluntarily, joyfully.

It was when Satan beheld our first parents, in the image and likeness of God, yet not spirit but flesh, earthly, that he perceived the opportunity of gaining the coveted power for an empire, separate from that of Jehovah. In the first pair the Adversary beheld a new thing, a creature of Godlike qualities and possessed of the power to propagate his own species. Satan realized that the conquest of this pair and the bringing of them into subjection to himself would signify the capture of a world full of people eventually—that the enslavement of the parents would signify the enslavement eventually of the race.

We cannot deny that Satan's plans were logical and that he has carried them out with great success—so that the Scriptures declare him "the Prince of this world" (John xiv, 30); and again, "the God of this world" (II. Corinthians iv, 4). Nevertheless, his victory was not so great a one as he doubtless expected it to be. No doubt he expected that he was capturing an immortal race. Quite probably he believed the falsehood he told mother Eve, when he contradicted the Word of God—that sin, that disobedience in eating the forbidden fruit, would bring upon them the penalty of death, "dying thou shalt die."

Satan's charge was that God had [illegible] the facts for the race, purpose of holding His creatures in mental slavery to himself; that he did not wish them to be wise, therefore he forbade the eating of this particular kind of fruit and declared the penalty of death for the transgression of his law. "I, Satan, assure you that you need not be afraid of the fruit; I assure you that it will do you good, and that you will not surely die from the eating of it." Alas! Mother Eve believed the Adversary and disbelieved her God, and then enticed her husband, still thinking, no doubt, that she would not die and that the serpent had told her the truth and that God had been the deceiver. St. Paul tells us that father Adam knew better and ate the fruit, knowing that it would cause his death, willing thus to disobey in order to maintain the fellowship of his wife, whose life, he realised, was already forfeited.

When the Divine sentence began to go into execution; when our first parents were driven out of Eden to battle with the thorns and thistles until they should return to the dust, no doubt Satan was disappointed. He had rather be the Prince of a noble living family of angels or of humans than the Emperor of a weak and dying race. However, from that day to the present time he has been fighting upon the same line; he has been contending with mankind that the Word of God is false when it declares that "the wages of sin is death," and that "the soul that sinneth it shall die." From that day to this he has been using this falsehood to the injury of our race, and surely he has succeeded wonderfully.

To-day, not only in heathen lands, but amongst the most civilized, it is freely believed (and by many Christians considered Scriptural to believe the nonsensical) that a dead man is more alive than before he died. People of good, sound reasoning faculties on ordinary subjects seem to be "hoodooed" by this falsehood of Satan, "ye shall not surely die." So true is this, that it seems not inconsistent to them to say, that a man hit over the head with a stick and knocked senseless, knows nothing, but a man, hit over the head harder and killed, knows everything.

It was sometime after the fall of Satan and the fall of man that the Lord permitted the great test to come upon the angels of heaven, under which test a host of them fell into sin, disobedience, etc., and since then are known in the Scriptures as the fallen angels and as devils—more properly demons. Two weeks from to-day, D.V., we will consider their temptation and sin and penalty and whether or not there be any hope. Suffice it to say now that these fallen angels, demons, are under Satan as their great Prince and that they have been his active agents in long centuries in deceiving mankind and opposing the Divine Program.

It would have been as easy as not for God to have blotted out of existence entirely both Satan and the fallen angels, and man also, and to have completed another creation, angelic and human. But such was not the Divine Program. God's ways are not man's ways, but higher—as the heavens are higher than the earth (Isaiah lv, 9).

No less an authority than our great Lord and Redeemer tells us that Satan was a murderer and a liar. He declare that he was a murderer from the beginning and abode not in the truth; when he speaketh a lie he speaketh of his own, for he is the father of lies (John viii, 44). It is well that we keep this Divine testimony in our minds. It is well that we note just what the first great lie was, namely, Satan's misrepresentation, saying, "Ye shall not surely die." It is important that we notice this, because so thoroughly has Satan accomplished his deceptive work that practically everybody, heathen and civilized, accepts Satan's version of the matter and discredits the Almighty's.

Let us note also that Satan is a murderer; that he murdered Father Adam and Mother Eve, and that his lie is still murdering our race under the just laws of heredity. The error of believing Satan instead of God has gotten many into the confused situation of disclaiming that God proposed that man should live forever on earth in a Paradise, and, as his family would increase and continue in harmony with his Divine regulations, the boundaries of his Paradise filled with the knowledge of God and the home of a perfect humanity, in accord with God, privileged to maintain everlasting life here. But, says this theory, by Satan's lie and our first parents' fall, we die and by dying become more alive and some of us go to heaven and the mass to some eternal, fiery hell, of which we have no knowledge and for which there is no Scripture proof.

But let God be true and let us see how and wherein Satan lied when he contradicted our Maker, and let us see also how our race was not sent to heaven or to hell of torment, but was murdered, killed, put to death—"The wages of sin is death."

God, while permitting Satan and sin and depravity and death to take their course, had not been idle. He has had, and still has, a great plan for human salvation—a plan for recovering man from sin and from death and from all of his fallen conditions, a plan of restitution to human uplift, a plan by which the Seed of the woman shall yet, figuratively, crush the Serpent's head, or undo Satan's great original misdeed—recover man from his murdered condition and from his fallen estate to all that he had at first, plus the knowledge and experiences of the present life and plus the experiences incidental to his uplift during the reign of Messiah, for which we pray, "Thy Kingdom come."

The Scriptures clearly show us that all of this recovery is to be accomplished through the merit of Jesus' sacrifice—"the just for the unjust." That the work has not yet begun is evident. We are still living under the law of sin and death. The Messianic Kingdom must come in power and great glory and be established, the Scriptures tell us, in a great time of trouble. Then the earth will be made to blossom as the rose, and the wilderness and the solitary places will be made glad, and all mankind will receive Divine blessing and opportunity to return to Divine favor and eternal life as human beings. And the wilfully disobedient and negligent of those opportunities will die the Second Death, from which there will be no recovery, no resurrection, no hope.

These great blessings of restitution, for which Israel and the whole world are waiting, cannot be brought about until first the special salvation of a special class, the salvation of the very elect—not to human nature, but to a heavenly nature, as the Bride of Christ—shall be accomplished. The selecting of these has progressed for nearly nineteen centuries and, apparently, is about complete. The Divine blessing and work then to be inaugurated will be restitution to earthly natire and perfection—"to the Jew first."

During all these centuries, while Satan has been the Prince or ruler amongst the children of this world, and while he has blinded them with his sophistries and falsehoods, he has also done another work for the saintly few now being called to the heavenly places. For these he has, so to speak, turned a polishing grindstone to prepare them for the riches of the heavenly glory as new creatures, as heirs of God and joint-heirs with Jesus Christ their Lord. Quite unwittingly, we may be sure, he has served the Creator's purposes and helped to prepare, through trials, this class for the glorious things which God has in reservation for those that love him.

In Divine dealings, God's wisdom, foreseeing the end, is able to use the wrath of men and of the fallen angels and of Satan to praise him and to work out blessings to his elec Church, and the remainder, which does not thus work, he can and does restrain. Hence the Divine promise that "all things shall work together for good to those that love God, to the called ones according to his purpose."

St. Paul declares of Satan, "We are not ignorant of his devices," and he tells us that Satan and his servants transform themselves into servants of righteousness, etc. We see this principle in operation as we read Church history. Satan, all through this Age, has sought to pervert Christian hopes and distort Christian doctrines by presenting counterfeits of Bible truths. Thus, for instance, the Scriptures tell us that eventually the Church, "a little flock," will be associated with Messiah in his Kingdom of glory to reign a thousand years. It was Satan's method to counterfeit this hope, to suggest to men the establishment of an earthly Kingdom with an earthly little flock, an earthly glory, an earthly reign. This was set forth as the fulfillment of the second Psalm.

And when later on some of Satan's dupes began to get free from some of his snares, he became their leader in an opposite direction, called them reformers and led them to claim that all the civilized kingdoms of the earth are the kingdoms of Christ. This is the status of affairs to-day. The world in general believes that Christ's Kingdom has come, even though they are still praying, "Thy Kingdom come, thy will be done on earth as it is in heaven." Satan has led them away from careful attention to making their own calling and election sure by Christian character development, into the various reform movements of the world, whose trial time has not yet come. Thus Christians of all denominations have been bewildered, confused by the artful wiles of our enemy.

Now, however, as the morning of the New Dispensation dawns, our eyes of understanding are opening. We perceive that our Adversary has but a short time until he must be bound for a thousand years; that the Messianic Kingdom must prevail that all the families of the earth may be blessed through the Seed of Abraham. Finally, at the close of that reign of righteousness, the Scriptures declare that Satan shall be destroyed.

The Church is the Body of Christ, of Messiah. Hence the Apostle's words of our text apply to the Church in glory—"The god of peace shall bruise Satan under your feet shortly."

"THE FOURTH ESTATE".

To make sure they got their "local colour" correct, Liebler and Company, previous to making their production of "The Fourth Estate" the great newspaper play which has been crowding theatres in New York and Chicago for six months and which will come to The Grand next Wednesday evening, sent Mr. Morange, of the scenic artist firm of Gates and Morange, on a pains-taking inspection of every newspaper office in New York city. Mr Morange made sketches in each office he visited, and from the total extracted enough to present this play by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford, in ambitious style. Detail has been followed, down to the little flags which the compositors fasten to the front of their linotype machines, and, whatever else the play may be, it is a truthful picture of everyday scenes in the office of a big newspaper just as the night editor is getting ready to "send her to press."

If You See a Robin It Is Not a Robin, Likely a Grosbeak

(London Advertiser)

A great many reports of people having seen "first robins" are daily coming in, and although there may be a couple of real robins about, it is altogether likely that many have mistaken what is known as the pine grosbeak for the best harbinger of spring.

Mr. W. E. Saunders, the well-known local ornithologist, stated to the Advertiser to-day that an immense number of these birds are at present scattered throughout Western Ontario. In size they resemble the robin, but the colouring on the wings and breast is very different. Most of the pine-grosbeaks are a dark colour and have no red on them at all, while there are some that are a pinkish shade all over. It is no doubt these which are mistaken for the robins. These birds come from the north about every three or four winters. They are a regular winter bird, and are very rarely seen in warm countries. When food becomes scarce in the north they come farther south but do not go past the cold zone.

A few days ago several of them were seen in the vicinity of the water works. They were at first mistaken for robins, but a closer inspection revealed their real identity.

BRIGHT MEETING

Service at The Crystal Under The Auspices of The Y. M. C. A.

One of the best meetings of the year was htat held in the Crystol Theatre last evning. The singing was brighter and the number who attended was larger than usual. These meetings are kept on a high level, and the people appreciate them so that they delight to attend.

Mr. J. M. Green sang a beautiful solo entitled "How Sweet the Name of Jesus sounds," and the Y.M.C.A. duet sang "Brightly Beams Our Father's Mercy". The new Alexandra song "He Will Hold Me Fast" has taken hold of all who have heard it, and the audience sang it last night without the books.

Next Sunday night there will be a couple of selections by a local Male Quartette and a more than usually bright meeting is expected. The message last night was a straight-from-the-shoulder talk on the question "How shall we escape if we neglect so great Salvation."

The Social Tea ot be given by the Ladies' Auxiliary to-morrow evening promises to be one of the big events of the season at the Y. M. C. A. The ad. in another column of this paper reveals a programme of rare merit. After the conclusion of the programme htere will be a delightful menu of refreshments served in the Reading Room.

The Bible Classes were held as usual yesterday in the Parlours of the Association.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES

That the boys of the Department mean to make their exhibition of February 17th, one worth the time. and attention of their parents and the public in general, is shown by the class of work that is being entered for the same. A great many entries in manual training work are coming in—entries in art, designing. photography, industrial craft, miscellaneous collections, natural history. collections, penmanship, and domestic science.

The Peterborough public is to be treated to something worth while. Every article exhibited will be made or collected by the boys themselves. Amongst the many exhibits of interest is a model aeroplane.

Also a steamboat model, and a few surprises in the way of industrial craft exhibits will no doubt occur before the 17th.

A certificate denoting 1st, 2nd, and 3rd prize in each of the nine classes of exhibits will be awarded. An entry fee of three cents in each class will be charged, and an entrance fee to the public and those not exhibiting will be charged. It is hoped, in this way, to cover expenses. All profits, if any, will be spent on the boys' department library. The library is doing good work now, but will soon need a number of new books. Help the boys to help themselves and encourage them in their industrious pastimes by keeping in mind Feb. 17th; place, Y.M.C.A. entertainment boys' hobby exhibition.

Saturday night's entertainment in the boys' department drew a fair sized crowd and was very much appreciated by those present. This being the first since Christmas it was perhaps not generally known about. Next Saturday night a programme will be conducted between the hour of eight and ten. A large crowd will no doubt take advantage of the Saturday night entertainments which will continue throughout the winter months.

POST CARD COLUMN

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Sir,—While I know it is not fair to think I cannot expect to stop the Canadian General Electric Co. putting a siding, or two sidings, as they ask, across Park street, at Albert street corner, into their new plant. still I think it is the height of injustice to allow these switches to parallel my store on the north side. and for all time to have the inconvenience of smoke on my store front. and the goods, which I would put out to show, and further, it will be evident to every merchant, citizen and farmer that farmers' produce, waggons and buggies, as well as city vehicles, cannot stop on the street in front of my store if a switching engine is running up and down there.

I think it is only fair that I ask the Council that the Railway Commission shall settle what my damage will be to my business and my store as a business property, and that the Canadian General settle with me before they allow the switches to be put in.

Surely this is nothing but fair play! Why should a rich corporation be allowed to damage the property and business of a smaller concern without settling with them the damages?

If ten or twenty stores were in the same position as my store. Or say, if a siding was wanted to run up the east side of George street, would not the whole city, mayor and council, rise up and say with thundering voice: No, no, we can never allow such a thing to happen.

Then why is it not just as vital to me to object to this disastrous proposition to my business property and business?

I would humbly ask every citizen and the mayor and council to demand that my case be left to the Railway Commission of Canada to decide my damages and I am perfectly satisfied to accept their decision as to what damage it is.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

PAID IN FULL.

Eugene Walters' great play of modern life "Paid in Full," paid a return visit to Peterborough for matinee and evening performances on Saturday and delighted two good audiences. Although the company was totally different in personel from the cast which first presented the play here, those who saw both performances were satisfied that the company which appeared here Saturday was fully tre equal if not the superior of the former. Certainly a more artistic presentation of this thrilling, broadly hewn drama could not be asked for. Playgoers are familiar with the action of the play, which needs no comment here. The cast throughout was uniformly good, and the production won great favour from both audiences.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES HELD YESTERDAY

THE ANNIVERSARY SERVICES OF ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

LARGE CONGREGATIONS

The pulpit was occupied both morning and evening by the Rev. Canon O'Meara, L.L.D., Principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto.

The reverend gentleman took for his text at the morning service, the second chapter of St. Paul, 12th verse, the last five words "Without God in the World." The speaker went on to emphasize the need of reaching unreached nations and drew attention to the wide difference of opinion concerning the heathen. "I want to bring before you God's photograph of the heathen, not man's idea or the idea of a great senate or gathering of people," he said, but God's idea. The majority of the people in the world to-day have never heard the word of God, and we are face to face with this question as to whether it is right for us to turn a deaf ear to the call of the church and let the heathen remain in his darkness. A noted writer of travel in Central Africa once said that the saddest thing he saw while there was the hundreds of native men of fine phyique between twenty and forty years of age, with no more intellectual ability than a boy of eight.

They are in moral darkness. In India, with all its light and sunshine, and teeming population, there are 294 million more idols that there are people to worship them. There are 26 millions of widows under 17 years of age, more than three times as many as the population of Canada, and we can recall the fact when about two years ago in British Columbia, Indian girls were brought in from the interior and auctioned off to the highest bidder. That was done in broad daylight and in what we are pleased to call a civilized country. I recall the case of a boy of 13 in one of our large cities who figured as a material witness in a police court case. When about to take the oath the presiding judge said, "Stay, do you know what the book is?" The boy said, "no sir." "Do you know who God is?" "No sir." That is a fair example of the spiritual knowledge a great many thousand of our own civilized people possess of the 'Divine Spirit.'

Some will say there is nothing good in the religious heathen, but I ask you in the name of God to disperse that theory and consider the other side of the question for a change. God who is the light of the world has given us power to assimilate the knowledge of His word so that we can go forth and enlighten our fellow beings.

The Lord judges us, not by what we give but by what we don't give. The speaker wished to emphasize the fact that he was not soliciting funds when he drew the people's attention to the above facts, but he wished to give a feeble outline of actual existing conditions, in an endeavour to awaken his hearers to the great responsibility which rested upon their shoulders.

OLD MEN ARE NOT WANTED

Only Young Looking Men Engaged Now

In these days of strenuous competition when dividends count for more than men, the man who retains his youth is the man who holds his job the longest.

That is why young men should take good care of the hair. If you grow bald at 30 or 35 or even when you are older, that bald spot will so far as appearance goes, add 10 years to your life.

Men who have hair should by all means keep it. In later years it may mean a livelihood to yourself and family.

JUNIOR BOYS' ATHLETIC CONTEST AT THE Y.MC.A.

In the Junior Boys' athletic contest at the Y. M. C. A. Saturday morning the following events were run off, and furnished some very exciting finishes.

In the running high jump, Brown's team defeated Hornfield's team by a foot? The standing broad jump was also won by Brown's team, defeating Arnott's team by 10 in. Stewart's team won a well-earned victory from Horsfield in the 100-yard relay, but was defeated by Horsfield and Arnott in the 20-yard swimming race. Brown defeated Stewart in the obstacle, and Arnott in the potato race, after running a dead heat in the latter.

Every boy in the class is on a team and it is up to every fellow to turn out every Saturday morning and help his team. The standing of the different teams follows: C. Brown's team 153 points; A. Horsfield's team, 110½ points. C. Arnott's team 84¾ points; C. Stewart, 52 points.

Owing to an entertainment that is being held by the ladies' auxiliary ing to talk over plans for a summer Intermediate class that night; but athletics will be resumed on Thursday night as usual.

There will be a meeting of the Intermediate class held Tuesday evening to talk over plans for a summer camp, to which every member of the class is requested to make a special effort to be present.

Prayers Were Offered For The British Immigrants

Yesterday at St. John's church, the rector, Rev. Canon Davidson, referred sympathetically to the death of Mrs. Mutius Clementi, formerly a member of the congregation.

In response to a circular letter from the Bishop prayers were offered on behalf of all British immigrants in Canada, in all their difficulties incidental to life in a new country. In connection with this matter Rev. Canon Davidson expressed his warm appreciation of the splendid services rendered by the many English men and women who took such a valuable part in the work of the church. He regretted, however, that there were many others who were not connected with the church of their fathers and hoped they would see their way to do so. The church of England was a living link between the English people here and the old land.

DUKE OF CONNAUGHT NEW GOVERNOR-GENERAL

His Appointment as Earl Grey's Successor Has Been Officially Gazetted —Will Come to Canada for Two Years, Arriving Here in September Next.

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—The official announcement of the appointment of the Duke of Connaught as Governor-General of Canada, in succession to Earl Grey was received yesterday.

A cablegrom from the Colonial Secretary to His Excellency states that His Royal Highness will be here in September, and that the term of his office will be two years, with no doubt the possibility of extension.

The Duchess of Connaught will accompany him.

London, Jan. 30.—(C.A.P.Cable.)—It is officially announced that the Duke of Connaught will succeed Earl Grey in September as Governor-General of Canada. He will hold the appointment for two years, subject to further extension.

The London Daily Mail says that the Duke of Connaught will have an immense success.

The Mail asks: "Does Connaught succeed to an empty throne? Has Canada, by drawing nearer the United States, set her foot on the road to separation from Britain? Some will see in the reciprocity agreement the end of imperial federation. Undoubtedly, these relations will grow till Canada and the United States have a common market. Now the agreement gives rein to forces, against which the preference the British imports is of no avail.

The Graphic says: "In Connaught we send of our best in a double sense." It recalls that 41 years ago the duke smelt powder in the Fenian troubles. Canada, in regard to the agreement may safely assume it says, that mutual affection will be undiminished by a commercial arrangement adding prosperity to the Dominion.

The Morning Post remarks: "The Duke of Connaught's appointment marks the final stage of the entrance of the oldest and largest Dominion as a nation, equal in status to the inhabitants of the United Kingdom, constitutionally connected with them by no link, except allegiance to a common sovereign. It is a momentous experiment.

"Canada is destined to be either British or else American: according her economic interests or defence interests and moral interests conjointly, if her economic interests become predominantly American, so will her defence policy. The national idea of the people may not wish it so, but if an economic bond is established, the sequence will be beyond power of their control.

"Nations are master of their fate only for a time. This country has still the opportunity, though it is rapidly receding to revert to commonsense and lay the basis of imperial union by establishing imperial reciprocity."

Prof. Howins opines in The Morning Post that a complete reciprocity treaty will follow, facilitating the known aims of many far-seeing Americans for political absorption. Britain, he says, will now have to face the world-wide competition of the Canadian market.

The Telegraph discusses the appointment, eulogizing Canada, and declaring that a fresh, bright page opens a new regime. Canada's heart will go out to the representative of the consummation of many loyal hopes.

The London Express says: "The appointment is a new departure, entirely in consonance with the new conception which has taken place of the crown in imperial life. It is a tribute to all the dominions overseas, and its significance will nowhere be ignored."

The Times says the appointment will meet with warmest appreciation in both Houses. The duke will reach the Dominion at a profoundly significant period. It is gradually being recognised that the tariff arrangement is a momentous departure. We should be the last to believe that Canada's acceptance of America's terms implies any weakening of her allegiance. On the contrary, it involves so profound a modification of conditions that the basis of consolidation the trade policy of both must be reconsidered. Canada is only on the threshold of her national life. Britain must not relax the fibre strengthening and maintaining the imperial system. The Duke of Connaught will take a wide view.

IS NOW IN CONGRESS

The Tariff Treaty is Now Formally Brought Before United States Government and Goes to Committee.

DOUBTS AS TO PASSING

Washington, Jan. 30.—Representative McCall of Massachusetts, a member of the ways and means committee, Saturday introduced in the House the administration bill to carry out the reciprocity agreement with Canada. The bill was referred at once to the ways and means committee.

The introduction of the bill by the Massachusetts man, instead of by Mr. Payne of New York, chairman of the ways and means committee, occasioned some comment. It is interpreted in many quarters to indicate that Mr. McCall will take a prominent part in steering the bill through the committee and in engineering its progress on the floor of the House.

While members of the committee decline to discuss their prospective attitude on the measure, it has become fairly well established that the McCall bill will pass through committee and come out on the floor of the House within a comparatively short time.

The first move will be to take up the bill at a meeting early in the week and determine if any hearings will be held upon the measure. It is the opinion of several members of the committee that if certain delegations representing industries seriously affected by the lowering of the tariff rates wish to be heard by the committee, an opportunity will be afforded before any final action is taken.

There will be no extended hearings, however, and no opening of the bars to all the tariff arguments that might be introduced for and against the terms of the new arrangement. Members of the committee believe the facts upon the various items were fully elicited in the hearings held during the preparations of the Payne-Aldrich bill; and that to renew extensive hearings upon the reciprocity agreement would needlessly and dangerously delay its consideration by the House.

As a bill to raise revenue, it will be subject to amendment and change, unless a rule of closure is first put through the House prohibiting amendments and forcing the House to vote on the reciprocity agreement as a whole.

The negotiations are received in a definite and concrete arrangement, which cannot be changed in any particular, without upsetting the balance and the effectiveness of the whole agreement. For this reason, it is the opinion of those who favor the approval of the Canadian pact, that the ways and means committee and the rules committee will have to prepare a rule providing for its consideration as a whole, and without amendment.

The impression has been strengthened that President Taft's determination to secure action on the measure at this session is such that he will resort to an extra session if it becomes necessary to bring the matter to final consideration in both Houses of Congress. The extra session talk has caused no little worry at the capitol. The leaders of the Senate do not believe an extra session will be necessary, even in the light time remaining in this session to dispose of the trade agreement in both Houses.

If defeat comes, it is said in the Senate, the Democrats of the House, after a fairly careful poll by the leading members of the minority are apparently disposed to accept the treaty and to support it in debate and with their votes. They look on it both as a tariff change in line with Democratic ideas, and as a serious attempt on the part of a Republican President to take the tariff out of politics and elevate it above political dispute.

The McCall bill, after indicating the duties that are to be levied upon Canadian products, proposes that they shall become effective as soon as the President ascertains and issues a proclamation showing that Canada is levying similar duties against American products. The free importation of certain articles is to become operative as soon as the President becomes satisfied that Canada is doing the same to the United States.

N. Y. American's View.

New York, Jan. 30.—The American's Washington correspondent thus sizes up the reciprocity situation:

"Canadian reciprocity faces defeat in the present temper of Congress. A poll of the two Houses taken yesterday by The New York American discloses such opposition to the reciprocal trade agreement which President Taft made public Saturday as to suggest that all the force of the administration will be necessary to secure action at this session.

"The committees to which the agreement has been referred—finance, in the Senate, and ways and means, in the House—are apparently in agreement against the plan. By delaying a report on the agreement either can defeat action.

"Arrayed on the side of the members of these committees are most of the stand-patters in both branches of Congress. The Republican leaders have learned nothing as a result of the November elections. On the other hand, the Democrats are almost solidly in favor of the agreement.

"An extra session of Congress looms up in consequence. President Taft is averse to this action, but there is reason for believing that if assurance could be given that the Democrats will ratify the reciprocal agreement as submitted without attempting to tack on to it amendments that would upset the plan, the President would issue the call.

"A large non-committal vote in both branches of Congress is disclosed by The New York American's poll. President Taft is concentrating all of his powers of persuasion on these members, who hold the key to the situation.

"Representative McCall of Massachusetts, a member of the ways and means committee, yesterday introduced in the House, the administration bill to carry out the reciprocity agreement. The bill was referred at once to the ways and means committee.

Silence!

The instinct of modesty natural to every woman is often a great hindrance to the cure of womanly diseases. Women shrink from the personal questions of the local physician which seem indelicate. The thought of examination is abhorrent to them, and so they endure in silence a condition of disease which surely progresses from bad to worse.

It has been Dr. Pierce's privilege to care a great many women who have found a refuge for modesty in his offer of FREE consultation by letter. All correspondence is held as sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

NORTH AMERICAN LIFE

FINE RECORD FOR 1910

The Thirtieth Annual Meeting of the North American Life Assurance Company was held at its Home Office in Toronto on Thursday, Jan. 26th, 1911, when the report of the business for the year ended Dec. 31st, 1910, was presented.

CASH INCOME

The Cash Income for the year from premiums, interest, etc., was $2,177,-012.61, showing the satisfactory increase of $147,134.91.

CONSERVATIVE MANAGEMENT

The business continues to be conducted on a conservative and economical basis, the North American Life being among the foremost in this regard.

PAYMENTS TO POLICY-HOLDERS

The amount paid on Policy-holders' Account was $877,792.31, of which sum $142,764.06 was for surplus or dividends. Considering that the sum of $8,000 only was paid to Guafantors, the preponderance of the Policy-holders' interest is apparent.

The large amount of $480,707.85, including surplus and guaranteed reserve, was paid to holders of Deferred Dividend policies.

ASSETS

The assets increased by $898,-308.42, and now amount to $11,388,-773.32. They continue to be, as heretofore, invested in the best class of securities available, principally in Mortgage Loans and Bonds.

SURPLUS

After making ample provision for all liabilities and further strengthening the reserves, the net surplus on policy-holders' account was increased to $1,174,768.68.

INSURANCES INCREASED

The policies issued during the year together with those revived, amounted to the sum of $5,108,047, being an increase over the previous year. The total business in force amounts to $43,391,236.

AUDIT

A careful and systematic audit was made every month by the Auditors, who also made a thorough scrutiny of all the securities of the Company. In addition, a committee, consisting of two Directors, made an independent audit of the securities each quarter.

London Printers Strike.

London, Jan. 30.—The general strike in the job printing trade is already under way and the number of employes involved will be rapidly increased this week when strike notices expire. The men have been offered a working week of fifty-two hours, but they demand a maximum of fifty hours.

The principal firms this far affected are Spottiswoods & Co., Ltd., contractors for much Government and other official work, and Waterlow & Sons, Ltd.

The weekly periodicals managed to appear as usual Saturday, but curiously the new daily, started in support of the printers' campaign, failed to publish on Saturday.

The daily newspapers are not affected and their compositors have agreed each to contribute $2.50 weekly in aid of the strikers.

THE KING WILL SUE

His Majesty King George Says The Marriage Story is Libellous— The Trial Commences on Wednesday.

CHARGE IS TO BE PRESSED

London, Jan. 30.—The News of the World says that King George's advisers have instituted criminal libel proceedings, with the objects of ending once for all rumors which have been freely circulated for years that His Majesty, when Prince of Wales, was morganatically married to a daughter of an admiral at Malta.

The defendant in the case is Edward F. Millus, who is said to be connected with the paper, The Liberator, publisher in Paris, which printed the statements on which the libel charge is based. Millus was arrested some weeks ago, charge at Bow street, committed for trial and sent to jail.

In the ordinary way the case should be tried in the Central Criminal Court, but on application of the crown it will be brought up in the high courts on Wednesday next, before Lord Chief Justice Alverstone and a special jury.

According to a statement in The Liberator, the defendant intends to file a plea of justification and also to subpoena the King as a witness. The constitutional law, however, makes it impossible for His Majesty to give evidence in his own courts, notwithstanding that he may be anxious to do so.

Practically all of the London morning papers publish stories of the intention of the King's advisers to carry the case to the courts on the charge of criminal libel. It is noteworthy that The Morning Post, referring, in a recent article, to the arrest of Millus, on Dec. 23., said that he was charged with being concerned in the publication of seditious statements, but the paper made no reference to the alleged morganatic marriage, merely saying that the alleged seditious statements referred, among other things, to the policy followed by this country in Egypt and India.

Aviator as Herdsman.

Houston, Texas, Jan. 30.—Rene Simon, the aviator, known on two continents for his daring, has added new laurels to his record, when for the first time in the history of aviation, he demonstrated Friday afternoon that herding cattle with aeroplanes was possible.

Simon left the aviation field, and heading across the prairies, darted directly for a herd of cattle grazing half a mile away. Cowboys were just arriving preparatory to rounding up the animals, when Simon descended and circulating around the steers soon had them on a trot toward the aviation field. He drove them up to the fence separating the field from the prairie and then started them off westward, delivering they to the cowboys.

Barrie Doctors Burned Out.

Barrie, Jan. 30.—Fire which did damage to the extent of about $8,000 broke out about 11 o'clock Saturday night in the beautiful home and offices of Drs. W. A. and Fred Ross on Dunlop street. The fire started in the disinfecting cabinet in the basement, Dr. W. A. Ross having been called out on a case during the evening which was thought to be contagious, on return home removed his clothes, placing them in the cabinet and started the disinfecting apparatus.

After the doctor had been upstairs but a short time, it was discovered the clothing had caught fire, and in turn had set fire to the building. Some of the family, who had retired for the night, were quickly gotten out and removed to safety in neighboring houses.

Mrs. Ward Dies.

Newton, Mass., Jan. 30.—Elizabeth Stuart Phelps Ward, author and lecturer, died at her home at Newton Centre Saturday night, after a short illness, at the age of 67. Her husband, Herbert D. Ward, was in the south when she was taken ill, and reached home only yesterday.

Mrs. Ward was born in Boston on Aug. 31, 1844. She began to write for the press when but thirteen years of age. She was the author of "The Gypsy series" of four volumes appearing in 1865. From that time until very recently, hardly a year passed that a book from her pen was not published.

TRAVERS TELLS ALL.

He Writes a Confession of Affairs of Farmers' Bank.

Toronto, Jan. 30.—The statement of W. R. Travers, former manager of the Farmers' Bank, containing a sensational story of the affairs and transactions of the Farmers' Bank, is now in the hands of Inspector of Detectives Duncan. This confession consists of forty or fifty typewritten pages, and it is said to contain a full account of dealings which were not set down in the books of the bank and could not be discovered by the curator. The story of Travers is said to be to the effect that he was at the mercy of a clique of men who made him treat them liberally with the funds of the bank. One man, whose name is withheld, obtained $60,000 from Travers because he had threatened to put the bank out of business. Two of the men most severely blamed by Travers for assisting in his downfall have quietly disappeared from Toronto and the police so far have not located them. Travers, it is alleged, was advised in some of his irregular dealings by a lawyer whose name has not yet appeared in connection with the bank, and action is threatened against him, if a clear case can be made out.

One of the missing men is said to have reported on several mining propositions for Travers.

Had Severe Pains In His Back.

Could Hardly Work.

Mr. Alfred E. Davis, Corrie, Ont. writes:—"For some years I suffered from severe pains in my back and could hardly work at all, and when I stooped down to pick up anything felt as if my back must break. I was advised to try Doan's Kidney Pills, and after taking two boxes I was entirely cured, and feel that I cannot speak too highly in their favor.

"This was nearly four years ago and I still remain cured."

Those who have never been troubled with kidney trouble do not know the suffering and misery which those afflicted undergo.

Weak, lame or aching back comes from the kidneys, and when the kidneys are out of order the whole system becomes deranged.

They help the kidneys to flush off the acrid and poisonous impurities which have collected, thus clearing out the kidneys, bladder and urinary passages.

BIG CROWD CERTAIN AT TO-NIGHT'S JUNIOR GAME

Championship of the District Depends Upon the Battle Between Cobourg and the Grillers---Ice Will be Lightning Fast and the Game Should be Correspondingly Speedy.

Another record-breaking crowd will see to-night's junior district championship battle at Brock Street rink between the Cobourg youngsters and the Peterborough Grillers. It is admitted that the game will be one of the classiest and fastest exhibitions of the season, as the teams, on their records, are well-matched, and will go after each other from the drop of the hat. The Cobourg seven has demonstrated its class by taking two games from Lindsay, while the Grillers fell before the Midgets in Lindsay. On the other hand the local seven trimmed Cobourg at home, so that each has the same record of two wins and one loss. The championship of the district depends upon the result of to-night's game, so there is no doubt of the fact that the teams will fight for victory with the last atom of strength. The game is called for 8.15 o'clock and the fans are advised to get around early if they wish to be sure of a seat.

The Grillers will have the following line-up:

Goal—Patterson.
Point—Reynolds, (Capt.)
Cover—Heffernan.
Rover—Coughlin.
Centre—Hall.

TRENTON'S OPINION OF THE DEFEAT HERE

The Courier Has Some Interesting References to the Unexpected Loss of McGraw and His Men---Blames the Rink, the Ventilation, the Soft Ice and Other Things.

Read this from the Trenton Courier and then laugh:

On Tuesday of this week a special train left the C. O.R. station at 3 p. m. bearing on it three carloads of humanity who accompanied our home team to the Manufacturing City of Central Ontario to witness the struggle for supremacy in the hockey arena. All left in good spirits, feeling sure that our boys, who had not as yet suffered defeat, would be able to add still another victory. That such was not the case, 13-6 in favour of the Petes will clearly show. The Petes had changed their line-up considerably and the old veterans brought into combat, and it proved a benefit to them; while on the other hand the home team had made but one change, and that for the worse, so the "vox popuh" determined, and so it proved.

It is not becoming in one sense to begin to make excuse for defeat, but this time we will.

1—In the first place, a team playing away from home is at a disadvantage.

2—The ice surface was like a little match-box compared with the Colosseum.

3—And the chief reason, the utter lack of decent ventilation. The boys say they were playing in blue air, like a dense winter fog, suffocating and at times unbearable. Even the ice itself rose up in indignation and showed its disapproval by belching forth its slush. Boys, give me the Colosseum with its "barn-like appearance." as the "Examiner" speaks of it, I presume on account of the timbers you CAN see, with its good ventilation and clear atmosphere in which you do not have to gasp for breath, to all your steel arches which you CANNOT see for the dense foul atmosphere and smoke.

4—The slush ice in which the game was played favoured the Peterborough team. Glover, their Captain, stated to one of the players, "if the ice had been hard, there never would have been a score like that."

5—Horseshoes hanging on the goal posts of Petes' net and on every mesh of it.

But why be discouraged! A slight change in our line-up will make a vast difference. Hob. Armstrong back in his old place on wing, Powers at point, Law in goal and Croft on the forward line, with H. Palmer possibly at cover point, would give an almost invincible team. Remember the game is not yet lost. Trenton and Peterborough have each one game to play—a win for both will have it a tie; a loss for one or other gives the other the round. It is a tie between Peterborough and Trenton, then goals count; and our total on the first round leaves us 7 ahead. In fact the total goals of the Petes against us, 17 does not equal one score of 18 against them on our own ice.

The Game.

The game was a beautiful exhibition of pure hockey, the combination of the Petes was perfect. This is where our boys lacked, and if some of our players would only pocket their ambition for talleying an individual score and play to one another more, it would be for the common good, and they would get as much credit, aye, more credit, from the 'gallery.' In the first half tallies came rapidly for the Petes and at its conclusion they had 7 to their credit to 2. The score does not indicate the play, for Petes defence was put on its mettle, and the goal referee, who bye the bye had to stand on the ice behind the nets, (a very antiquated method) had to keep a bobbing his head very frequently to avoid getting a black eye or a broken nose. In the second half Petes came back strong in its earlier stages and ran the score up to 12-2. Trenton, game to a finish, then went at it and got four straits, making it 12-6. Petes added another by a fluke and the game terminated 13-6 in favour of the opponents. Some say that there had there been 10 minutes of play. Trenton would have tied the scores. Whitehead referred and gave perfect satisfaction. Trenton players gave him no trouble for only 2 were off during the entire game for minor offences. Petes had 7 or more penalties. Powers received a cut over the eye from a baby hockey stick in the hands of a fair and tender onlooker, who felt so bad about it, that she expressed a wish to and did offer a humble apology for the accident. 'Tis needless to say that it was readily accepted and Wilfred made quite a "mash."

MONTREAL BANK TEAM HAD AN EASY VICTORY

The Bank League fixture on Saturday afternoon between the Bank of Montreal team and the Toronto-Nova Scotia combination, resulted in a hollow victory for the former team by a score of 9 to 2. The Toronto-Nova Scotia team failed to find the nets at all, until the game was almost over and the score was 8 to 0. in favour of the Montreal team. The winners had all the better of the play, the amalgamation team failing to get in close at all, while on the other hand, the Montreal team had no difficulty in piercing the losers' defence. For the winners Elliott was the star while Fitzgerald was the best for the losers. The score at the half was 4 to 0.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

George Scott of Cobourg, tells a good one on Fred Waghorne, that "Wag" did not tell the Star. Several years ago, in a junior game at Belleville, the Belleville manager produced a telegram from W. A. Hewitt, the O. H. A. Secretary, saying a playing certificate was to be forwarded for a certain player. The Cobourg manager objected as the telegram might not be genuine. "Wag" settled the dispue after looking at the telegram: 'That's all right' he said, 'sure don't I know Billy Hewitt's writing.' The player played.

Should Be Taught to Write English.

New York, Jan. 30.—A special cable to The Tribune from London says: One of those literary discourses which are always read with delight was delivered Saturday by Lord Morley to the members of the English Association. English boys, he said, were not taught to write English, and the significance of that was the indifference implied to one of the noblest and most powerful of tongues. Surely not the least stupendous fact in British annals was its consequence in the boundless area of the habitable globe, influenced by the English language. There was in the past no parallel to it.

Suffered for Years From Constipation and Sick Headache.

Headache seems habitual with many people; indeed, some are seldom, if ever, free from it, suffering continually, and wondering why they can get no relief. The most frequent of all are bilious or sick headaches, and are caused by some derangement of the stomach or bowels, or both.

Burdock Blood Bitters regulates the digestive and biliary organs, removes acidity of the stomach, improves digestion, regulates the constipated bowels, and promotes a perfect circulation of pure blood to all portions of the body.

Mrs. C. Meadows, Clarksburg, Ont., writes: "For years I was troubled with sick headache and dizziness, and was also constipated. I was advised to try Burdock Blood Bitters. I only took three bottles of the medicine, and now feel like a new person as I am completely cured. I can truthfully testify that B.B.B. is the best medicine I have ever used."

Burdock Blood Bitters has, during the last 35 years, built up an unrivalled reputation as a cure for all troubles arising from a constipated condition of the bowels.

CUT DOWN $250,000.

N.T.R. Arbitration Board Presents Its Finding.

Ottawa, Jan. 30.—Half a million, approximately, is to be deducted from contracts on the eastern division of the National Transcontinental Railway, in respect to over-classification and allowance for overbreak.

This is the effect of the award of the arbitrators—Gordon Grant for the Transcontinental commissioners; B. B. Kellher, for the G.T.P., and Collingwood Schreiber, C. M. G., chairman. The report has been sent to the Government, and represents several months of work, in which the different sections were examined and notes taken on each cut.

The finding of the arbitrators does not say in so many dollars how much is to be deducted, but it takes each particular part of the work complained of and lays down a ruling as to what the measurements and allowances should have been. This will be compared with what was allowed, and if the latter is in excess of the arbitrators' findings, deductions will have to be made accordingly. As stated, about half a million dollars will be taken off contractors and subcontractors. It will come out of the drawbacks held by the Government.

The complaints were made by the Grand Trunk Pacific Railway, whose concern arises from having to pay interest on the total cost of the eastern section.

If dissatisfied with the award the contractors will have the right to appeal to the Exchequer Court. The contracts involved are about $40,000,000.

Scottish Landscape Painter Is Dead.

London, Jan. 30.—John MacWhirter, the Scottish landscape painter, died Saturday. Born at Slateford, near Edinburgh in 1839, he was educated at Peebles and later pursued his art studies at the Edinburgh School of Design, becoming an Associate of the Royal Scottish Academy in 1864, and associate of the Royal Academy in 1879, and academician in 1894. MacWhirter was intensely national in sentiment and was a brilliant member of the Scottish school, excelling in his transcriptions of the wild scenery of the highlands. One of his specialties lay in the drawing of the mountain beich, that graceful tree inspiring many of his finest canvases. His diploma works was "Nature's Archway," and his "June in the Austrian Tyrol," purchased out of the Chantrey bequest, is now in the Tate Gallery in London. The deceased artist married, in 1872, Katherine, daughter of Prof. Menzies of Edinburgh University.

To Force Chinese.

St. Petersburg, Jan. 30.—Russia is on the point of employing pressure to improve its trade conditions in Mongolia. It is intended to force China's consent to the opening of a consulate at Kebdo, in Western Mongolia, thus lifting obstacles now in the way of Russian commerce.

The Novoe Vremya calls upon the Government to send to China an ultimatum on the situation, embodying in it a threat to reoccupy Kulja, Chinese Turkestan, which, from 1871 to 1881, was a Russian possession.

Contract Let For New Railway.

Montreal, Jan. 30.—It is learned that a contract has been signed with the Bishop Construction Co. for the building of a railway from a little below Ste. Anne de Beaupre to St. Catherines Bay at the month of the Saguenay River, a distance of about 160 miles.

This work, which will pass through Murray Bay, and will skirt the River St. Lawrence all the way down, is to be started at once and rushed forward to completion. It will be remembered that the railway in question was financed by Rudolphe Forget, M.P. for Charlevoix County, and will be subsidized, so it is said, by both the Federal and Quebec Governments.

Baron Winterstoke Dead.

London, Jan. 30.—Sir Wm. Henry Wills, first baron Winterstoke of Blagden, died suddenly yesterday of heart failure.

Lord Winterstoke was born in 1830 and was created baron in 1906. He was pro-chancellor of the University of Bristol, director of the Great Western Railway, and chairman of the Imperial Tobacco Co. He was a noted breeder of cattle and horses.

Guardian Has Stormy Time.

Halifax, Jan. 30.—The Allan liner Corsican, which arrived in port on Saturday night from Liverpool with the English mail and five hundred passengers. She encountered terrible weather off Halifax in a blizzard on Saturday morning. Captain Cooke arrived off the harbor at six o'clock, and ran into the worst storm of the winter. The wind was blowing fifty miles an hour, and after several attempts to make the harbor the captain decided to anchor until the evening, when the wind shifted. The blizzard that swept the coast was one of the worst for years. It is remarkable that considering the fierceness of the storm, how little damage was done.

Turks Attack Consul.

Constantinople, Jan. 30.—J. Ridgley Carter of the American embassy, with the rank of minister plenipotentiary, Saturday lodged a protest with the Porte against the assault and indignities to which the American consular representatives at Smyrna and Alexandretta were recently subjected.

It appears that a sergeant instigated a mutiny among fifty Turkish soldiers, who were being transported on the steamship New Jersey. When the vessel reached Alexandretta she was flying the American flag, and the United States consular agent, John T. Peristiany, went on board to investigate. There he was set upon by the soldiers and driven from the ship. During the attack his hand was cut and his coat torn off.

The local police arrested some of the soldiers, but the captain of the New Jersey refused to surrender the sergeant, the ringleader. The vessel proceeded subsequently to Smyrna, where there was a second row over the question of whether the soldiers or the sailors of the New Jersey were primarily at fault. When the vessel docked, the second mate was arrested. At this stage of the quarrel the American consul-general, Ernest L. Harris, took a hand, with the result that he was roundly abused by the warring factions.

Killed by Bandits.

Mexico, Jan. 30.—San Juan Evangelista, terminal of a branch of the Tehuantepec Railway, and San Juan, Jalampan, near Coatzacoalcos, are reported in despatches from Vera Cruz to have been occupied by revolutionists under the command of Dr. Enrique Silmenares Rivas, president of a political club in Atoyac, State of Vera Cruz.

Rivas is said to have been at the head of former rebellions in Guatemala, and to have passed several years in Cuba.

An account of murder and savagery, of which an American Mormon family, and a young Canadian, were victims, reached here yesterday in a private letter from Dublan, near Casas Grandes. Four bandits attacked and robbed the home of James Mortensen and brutally mistreated Mrs. Mortensen and a thirteen-year-old daughter.

Subsequently the latter was shot and killed while preparing a meal at the command of the robbers. An American by the name of Madison escaped, and in reply to his appeal Marius Cox, a native of Canada, attempted to assist the Mortensens, but fell dead under the fire of the bandits.

Black Snow In Alps.

Geneva, Jan. 30.—A strange phenomenon recently occurred in the Emmenthal Valley and the surrounding mountains when "black" snow fell to a depth of fifteen inches, giving the whole country, which was white with snow before, a funeral and most depressing aspect over a large area.

The first few inches of snow was of a greyish color, as if mixed with ashes, but the grey became darker and darker in hue, until now it is almost black.

Such a phenomenon has been witnessed in the Alps in former years after volcanic eruptions in different parts of the world, and on this occasion Swiss scientists are of opinion that the black snow is due to ashes blown over the sea and Alps after the recent eruption of Mount Etna.

The cold in the Alps on the Swiss-Italian frontier is intense, the thermometer registering 13 degrees below zero centigrade on the Simplon. In a hut between the Simplon and Domodossala three persons have been found frozen to death.

Orgies of Lloyd-Georgism.

London, Jan. 30.—J. L. Garvin, editor of The Observer, in an article in that paper yesterday, says that British democracy is likely to pay dear for the "Orgies of Lloyd-Georgism."

"The first forfeits," he continues, "will soon be demanded. What the tariff reformers prophesied has at length happened. President Taft has secured the initial triumph for North Americanism."

U. S. Gunboat Safe.

Washington, Jan. 30.—The gunboat Wheeling arrived in Guantanamo, Cuba, Saturday. This advice was flashed to the Navy Department by wireless, setting at rest the fears for the vessel's safety. It was rumored to have met with an accident at sea.

Drowned In Bay.

Hamilton, Jan. 30.—While skating on the bay yesterday morning, Fred. Smith, aged 21, eldest son of Mr. Henry Smith, 80 Wood street east, skated into the channel that had been cut by the Dewey & O'Heir Ice Co., and was drowned before assistance could reach him. Albert Smith, whose home is at 186 Brock street, Brantford, with him at the time, is also missing, and it is feared he also went to death in the water.

Strength of Rope.

The strength of rope is very irregular, much depending upon the quality of the fiber used and the solidity with which the rope is put together, but a safe rule is to multiply the square of the circumference in inches by eight and the product will be the number of hundred pounds required to break the rope.

Battle of Inkermann.

The battle of the British Soldiers is a name given to the battle of Inkermann, Nov. 5, 1854, because the British troops bore the brunt of the fighting.

CROWN INVESTIGATOR IS ANGRY OVER INSINUATIONS

Mr. Johnston Sets at Rest the Imputation Against Himself ---Ingersoll Offical Put on the Stand to Explain His System of Keeping Account of $10,000 Which He Handled.

Woodstock, Jan. 31.—The Oxford County graft enquiry has given haman indecent a feast.

Sam M. Fleet, reeve of Ingersoll, who was one of the foremost in the agitation for a Government inspection into graft rumors that have been rife in the county, was himself dragged into the mire on a charge of having handled nearly $10,000 of the county's money for which, it is declared, he gave no detailed accounting.

Judge Finkle will be put on the witness stand in the morning to clear his skirts of allegations of irregularities while an arbitrator on the sale of a toll road to the county. He was not well enough to go on the stand yesterday.

E. F. B. Johnston, K.C., chief crown investigator, was also called upon to vindicate himself and the crown concerning rumors around here that he had entered into a secret agreement to call his dogs off of M. T. Buchanan, "county boss" and ex-warden, who was accredited with several charges of taking graft.

Mr. Johnston was white with rage when the court opened yesterday afternoon.

"It is said in Woodstock, my lord," he announced, "that some agreement has been entered into between Mr. Buchanan and me. That is absolutely false, and I wish it understood that we are ready to investigate all matters that should be investigated, and if they are not investigated it will be the fault of the people of this county who brought us here, in not coming forward with their information. Anything they think should be looked into will be investigated, as I have announced several times.

Later on in the proceedings, Mr. Johnston startled the crowded court room by calling upon Sam. M. Fleet, reeve of Ingersoll, who was chairman of the committee which petitioned the Government for an investigation and hired detectives to trace up cases and seek out facts for probing.

Judge Snider announced that it was charged that Fleet had in the past three years spent upwards of $10,000 on good roads in Ingersoll, for which no accounting was given.

Mr. Johnston wanted witness to explain how much of the county's money was entrusted to him during the years of 1908, 1909 and 1910.

Fleet fumbled amongst some slips of paper, but could not make his estimates tally with the county check books, which accredited him with $3,082 in 1908, $3,255.18 in 1909, and $3,100 in 1910, a total of $9,377.18. Impatiently crown counsel broke in on his fumblings:

"You have talked a good deal about this investigation? You have taken the liberty of saying that Mr. Buchanan and myself had came to an agreement."

"Er—well—"

"Have you any evidence to bear it out?"

"No."

"Be a little more careful how you couple my name and Mr. Buchanan's after this."

"Now, sir, have you any evidence concerning any of these alleged graft cases that the crown hasn't gone into?"

"No."

Recurring to the $10,000 expenditure for which no accounting was given, witness told Mr. Johnston that he had no statement to show when or how the money was received, but counsel could learn that by scanning the county checks.

"You had only to pay $126 in June; why did you draw out $350?"

"We paid other bills."

"Got the receipts?"

"No."

"And you carried that money in your pocket?"

"Yes."

"With no bank account, no checkbook."

"No."

"Didn't Mr. Buchanan ask you for an accounting, which you refused to give?"

"I wouldn't account to anyone but the county council."

"Is your account audited by the county?"

"No, because it cost the county $60 to audit the six or seven towns, and they decided not to do it."

Judge Snider: "Well, well, no wonder they have rumors here."

At this point the crown called all the other members of the committee that demanded the investigation and asked them if they were satisfied, or if they could suggest anything further that required looking into. D. R. Stauffer, William Thompson, William Appell and John Kneal successively said the enquiry had worked out beneficially and satisfactorily to the county.

Sidney C. Bartlo of Ingersoll swore that he got $65 from Fleet for letting the later out of his pond so that a bridge could be built. The feat was performed in July, and he did not get the money until late in November, and the check was dated ahead. He had asked for the money several times.

What gave rise to the continuance of the investigation was an allegation that a cheque for $600 was handed them while the board of arbitrators were sitting on the Ingersoll-Port Burwell road deal. It was learned that a check for $400 had been issued by W. A. Dowler and V. A. Sinclair, lawyers of Tillsonburg, who were acting for the road company. The check was payable in cash. Neither Dowler nor Sinclair could recall who got that money. George M. Neilly, one of the arbitrators, swore that he had got nothing but his bona-fide fee.

Buchanan knew nothing of the check.

Dr. Canfield, one of the directors of the road company, said he remembered something being said at a meeting about a $600 check, and he thought it was Dowler who had said nothing should be said of it, as it might upset the deal.

YESTERDAY IN THE HOUSE

For the Third Time During the Present Session the Resolution of A. E. Lancaster for the Abolition of the Senate Was Defeated

IDEAS ARE ASKED FOR

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—For the third successive time during the present Parliament the resolution of A. E. Lancaster (Lincoln), for the abolition of the Senate, was defeated in the House of Commons. The debate lasted for nearly five hours, with the result that every speaker, including Sir Wilfrid Laurier, admitted that there was need for reform in the Upper Chamber.

Mr. Lancaster alone seemed resolved on total abolition, contending that the Imperial Parliament would serve the purpose of a second chamber for the Dominion. Sir Wilfrid did not agree with this, as it would impose the will of Imperial Parliament on that of Canadian people, as expressed through their representative. W. F. Maclean (South York) said the life term should cease, that the Senatorial term should be, says, six years; that some Senators should be appointed by the Provincial Legislature and other by the Government.

A. E. Lancaster, in moving the resolution, said that had the fathers of Confederation realized the progress Canada was destined to make in the next four decades, they would not have decided on a second chamber. They thought it would be a safeguard against the passage of ill-advised legislation, and provided it as a "cooling" place for dangerous enactments.

The Senate was supposed to exist to correct bad laws passed by the Commons and to protect minorities. As all Canadian legislation has to be passed upon by the home Government, the necessary protection could be given by that body. Beside the members of the Commons, being member of an elective chamber, are more directly responsible, and are more likely to protect their interests than the appointed members of the Senate.

Mr. Lancaster then proceeded to argue that the Senate fails in its duty to protect minorities. He instanced his bill to protect level crossings.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, in taking up the defence of the Second Chamber, pointed out that this was the third session in which the member for Lincoln had introduced the resolution, and he hoped that next year he would present some tangible plan.

The remedy of disallowance by the Imperial Government, which Mr. Lancaster proposed, would be far worse than no check at all on legislation. Certainly it would not improve the relations between Canada and the Mother Country.

"Would my hon. friend take the stand as a check upon the Province of Ontario that we ought to disallow the legislation of that province?"

He was in favor of bicameral system of legislation, and thought a reformed Senate, partly nominative and partly appointive, would suit the purpose.

Dr. Sproule was of very much the same opinion as the Premier in regard to the Upper House.

Hon. George E. Foster quoted from Liberal newspapers to show that a demand for the reform of the Senate was general. He pointed out that there were only 20 Conservatives in the Upper House, out of a membership of 87, which was absurd. Soon there would be none. The whole difficulty, he said, was in two questions —mode of appointment and tenure of office. A strong committee of both Houses should be appointed, make a thorough examination and report to the Government their plan of reform.

Three Hundred Killed.

Manila, Jan. 31—Latest Government reports confirm the previous report that 300 persons have been killed by the earthquakes and eruption of Mt. Taal.

Five villages were obliterated and three partially destroyed by a 12-foot-wave, which came soon after the four-foot wave that followed the earth shocks. Coincident with this a superheated blast from the volcano practically cremated those who escaped drowning.

Lemery and Taal are believed to have been totally destroyed.

Hydro Power Fails London.

London, Ont., Jan. 31.—London yesterday was without electric power so far as the hydro-electric is concerned, and two of the biggest plants, McClary's and White's, have been obliged to partially close down. The street lighting system was out of commission most of Sunday night. Engineers say the trouble was caused by breaks in the insulators, one at St. Mary's and one at Stratford.

Child Badly Burned.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—Three-year-old Dorothy Coulter was severely burned about the body when she tipped a dish of boiling water from the stove in the kitchen of her home at 370 Howland avenue yesterday afternoon. She was removed to the Hospital for Sick Children in the police ambulance, where her condition is not considered critical.

TAFT URGES THE TREATY

In Address at Banquet He Argues for Its Acceptance and Speaks of the Kinship of Countries

QUOTES McKINLEY

Washington, Jan. 31.—The last public utterances of President McKinley in favor of reciprocity, made the day before he was assassinated at Buffalo, were recalled last night by President Taft in an address at the Ohio Society's anniversary banquet in commemoration of the McKinley birthday.

President Taft eulogized the character of the martyred President and paid a high tribute to his attitude on the commercial expansion of the country, with particular references to the declarations in favor of reciprocity made by President McKinley at the Pan-American Exhibition at Buffalo.

"The broadening effect of the national responsibility McKinley had had to carry," said President Taft, "shows itself in no respect more conspicuously than in this change of view on his part in respect of a policy of which he had always been the chief exponent. May we not hope that the change that he advocated may soon find expression in our national policy towards our good neighbor of the north, who has come half way to meet us?

"The Canadian agreement, if confirmed by legislative action, will be a fitting close to a century's controversies, and permanently establish good feeling and commercial union between kindred peoples. We shall find a rapidly increasing market for our numerous products among the people of our neighbor. We shall deepen and widen the sources of our food supply in territory close at hand.

"Our kinship, our common sympathies, our similar moral and social ideas, furnish the strongest argument for supporting this agreement."

Fishing Interests Protest.

Gloucester, Mass., Jan. 31.—A committee representing the fisheries industry of this city left for Washington late yesterday to appear as protesting at a hearing on the fresh fish clause of the proposed reciprocity agreement between Canada and the United States.

Meeting of Protest.

London, Jan. 31.—The Canadian Associated Press learns that the preliminary steps are being taken by a committee of Canadians for a mass meeting here to protest against the reciprocity agreement with the United States.

Endorses the McCall Bill.

Boston, Jan. 31.—Representative Cushing of Boston offered resolutions in the House yesterday endorsing the President's reciprocity plan, and the McCall bill in Congress. The resolutions were referred to the committee on rules.

Thinks It Insufficient.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—In an interview yesterday, Mr. Meighen of Portage la Prairie, expressed dissatisfaction with the reduction of duty on agricultural implements as proposed in the reciprocity schedules. He thinks it insufficient and will reintroduce his resolution on the subject.

Killing Salt Industry.

Windsor, Jan. 31.—E. G. Henderson, manager of the Canadian Salt Works, this city, declares that the placing of salt on the free list means the extinction of the company's business.

Travers Still a Director.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—W. R. Travers is still a director of the Kerley Mines, Ltd., and has repeatedly refused to resign from the directorate. At the meeting of the directors, held in the City Hall yesterday afternoon, he persisted in his refusal and despite the statement of those connected with the mine, who declare that he has turned over a written resignation, it has not yet been dealt with, and the reason of his refusal is that he wants to have it agreed that no move will be made to sell the mine, which he believes will retrieve his losses if worked without first consulting either himself or his counsel, H. H. Dewart, K.C.

Mrs. Crippen's Estate.

London, Jan. 31.—A contest for the property of Belle Elmore Crippen, the murdered wife of Dr. H. H. Crippen, was begun yesterday by Theresa Hunn, a half sister, who asked the probate court for possession of the property, worth $1,000. Dr. Crippen, who was hanged for murder, willed all his property to Miss Ethel Claire Leneve, the girl for love of whom he killed his wife.

Attorney Grumbrooke, representing Miss Leneve, fought yesterday's action on the grounds that Mrs. Crippen's property passed to Dr. Crippen at her death, and is included in Dr. Crippen's will.

Cremated In Caboose.

Thamesford, Jan. 31.—Robbert Lane, a Canadian Pacific brakeman, was burned to death in his caboose which took fire yesterday afternoon after being wrecked. The train on which Lane was running west, stopped at the station here for orders, and while the conductor was inside, another train, also bound west, crashed into the rear end of Lane's train. The brakeman was caught in the debris and burned to death before the fire brigade of the village could rescue him. The car in front of the caboose was also burned. The station took fir twice and the brigade, which had only buckets to work with, had a hard time saving it. Lane leaves a widow in Stratford.

Quick With His Gun.

Fort William, Jan. 31.—On Sunday night two Italians, giving the names of Alexander Amadi and Guinello Donacamora, entered the home of Mrs. Lilly Ross, Northern avenue, and at the point of a revolver demanded her money. She gave them $17. Just at that minute, a boarder, John Rowe, entered, he, too, looking into the muzzle of the 38-calibre weapon, and was forced to disgorge $14. While Donacamora kept the two covered, Amadi left with the money, remaining outside until his pal joined him.

Mrs. Ross telephoned police headquarters two blocks away. Getting a description, Donacamora was seen by the chief sergeant and one of the constables, who were driving. Sergt. Watkins, jumping from the rig, declared him arrested. The Italian apparently acquiesced, but suddenly drew his revolver. Watkins jumped for him and pinioned his arms, but the Italian fired, the powder burning the officer's fingers and the bullet passing between the chief and the constable, so close that the powder from the discharge scorched their eyes. Amadi was captured yesterday morning by Port Arthur Police Chief McLellan at his boarding-house in Water street. Amadi made a grab for his weapon on the dresser, but the chief was too quick, but had a desperate struggle with him.

G. T. R.'s Ottawa Plans.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—It was announced here that the Grand Trunk has plans in contemplation for extensive improvements, and probable rebuilding altogether of the local shops and roundhouse next summer. The large accommodation is made necessary owing to Ottawa being the terminal point of the company's new short line to Toronto, and also the fact that the city is to have connection with the G.T.P. The staff of workmen will be largely augmented here.

Robbed Fare Box.

Ottawa, Jan. 31.—August Deschene, a conductor of the Hull Electric Railway, arrested on Saturday, yesterday pleaded guilty to robbing his fare box by means of a private key. He was sentenced to five weeks' imprisonment and five months' additional police supervision.

Invalid Suicides.

St. John, N.B., Jan. 31.—Albion St. George, aged 75, while delirious from pneumonia in his home, Youngs, King's County, killed himself Sunday by blowing off the top of his head with a shotgun. He leaves a wife and child.

"THE INNOCENT MURDERERS"

By Wm. Johnston and Paul West

Conditions seemed to be exactly as they had been the night before, and as though fate were playing into their hands, the watchers could see the shadows of two people distinctly painted on the curtains. One was unmistakably Hopkins, the other just as surely a woman, and, with little doubt, Ernesta Frost. The professor seemed to be talking earnestly. His finger moved in decisive attention. Finally Hopkins went away from the window, and the girl stood alone. She appeared excited and passed her hand across her forehead several times. The shadow of Hopkins again came within the range of vision. He had something in his hand which he proceeded to give to the girl. It was undoubtedly money. He passed a bill at a time to her, and when she had received all she placed the roll in the bosom of her dress. Then further speech by Hopkins, more careful attention on the part of his companion, and finally the watchers saw him throw his arms about the girl, and kiss her hurriedly on the cheek. When they had recovered their composure, the figures moved away from the window, and she show, for the time, at least, was over.

Snyder was the first to speak.

"If we needed more proof," said he, "it is finished."

"Not quite," objected the mathematical Rice, moving toward the door of the room. But come, this is the time to secure absolutely convincing evidence. We will go to the laboratory."

"No," said Fischer, "ve do not yet vish them to know vat ve know. Ve must observe midout being observed."

"The skylight!" suggested Gordon, doggedly.

Close in front of the college building was a row of tall elms. These obscured the light from the front windows, and to obviate this trouble without sacrificing the trees, a skylight had been cut into the roof. It opened directly into the middle of the laboratory. The ceilings on the second floor were low, not more than nine feet intervening between the floor and the skylight. Gordon's suggestion, therefore, was welcomed as entirely practical. Rice leading, the four conspirators tiptoed up the wide staircase to the second floor. They listened a moment to make sure that nobody was loitering about the halls, then softly ascended the narrow stairs to the roof.

It was starlight overhead, but there was no tell-tale moon. They trod carefully over the resounding tin of the flat roof. A fountain of light rose upward through the open sky-light. That it was open they noted with relief. Reaching the goal, as if by preconcerted signal they flung themselves flat on the roof and extended their heads over the opening. Anyone looking upward at that moment would have seen a strange picture. Over the western edge of the skylight protruded the ascetic visage of the youthful Gordon, one long arm extended to hold his glasses on. Beside him was Rice, alert and cool, carefully surveying the room beneath in search of proof. Opposite them the bearded face of Snyder, twitching from nervous excitement and on his right, both hands firmly clutching the edge of the opening, Fischer, whose dropsied eyes seemed almost ready to fall from his bronzed forehead as he stared into the mysterious room below.

On all the faces might have been observed a look of disappointment. The room into which they gazed was apparently empty. Yet as they looked and listened they heard sounds as if some one were moving around beyond the little partition at the end of the room, which divided the laboratory from the private room, in which Hopkins conducted his more important experiments. They listened more closely and exchanged glances. They were sure they were not mistaken. They could hear Hopkins' voice speaking in low but excited whispers, though at that distance the words were indistinguishable.

At length Rice withdrew his head and looked up. He rose to a standing position and the others followed his example, Gordon last. At a signal from Rice they moved to one side to discuss the situation.

"Since we have gone so far," said Rice, "we must see the affair to a finish!"

"I distinctly heard Professor Hopkins' voice behind the partition," said Gordon, excitedly.

"And the girl?" questioned Snyder.

"People do not talk to themselves" said Fischer.

"I have it," exclaimed Rice. His eyes had been scouring the roof. Lying alongside the observatory dome he espied a small ladder. He pointed to it, then ot the skylight, and the others grasped his idea. Snyder brought the ladder; the others lent eager hands, and it was silently lowered down into the room below. It was somebody's turn to go first. The others hesitating, Snyder took it on himself to lead. He descended, stepping so carefully that not a sound could be heard. Rice and Gordon followed him at once. The rotund German professor looked dubiously at the slim ladder and then at himself.

"Vait!" he gasped.

But they did not wait, and his eagerness to be in at the denuement overcame his fears of the descent. Clumsily he essayed the ladder. At almost his first step on the rounds, it began to slide along the floor, but he did not notice this at first. Nor did his companions observe his plight for they had reached the floor and were creeping stealthily toward the doorway in the partition, from which came earnest whispers. As the ladder slipped entirely from beneath him, Fischer clutched at the edge of the skylight for support, but in vain.

The three professors had time to catch a single fleeting glimpse of the space beyond the partition. As they expected, Professor Hopkins was there; but as they had not expected, he was alone. In one hand he held a tall graduating glass in which there was some chemical solution. At this he gazed in rapt attention, as it gradually changed colour. He kept up a running whisper of comment to himself as the experiment progressed.

"So!" they heard him say. "So! At last I have succeeded! I was right! Yes, I was right after all, and I shall be famous. It all rests with Ernesta—my happiness, my hope! My—"

Crash! The noise of a falling ladder and an explosive German oath, as Fischer was forcibly propelled half way across the laboratory floor, landing in a heap against the wall.

At the sound, Hopkins turned sharply, and for the first time became aware of the presence of the intruders. They could not move, and stood withering under his gaze. His face became contorted with passion; he trembled in an excess of rage. Then with a screaming imprecation he rushed toward them, still holding in one hand the graduating glass, from which spilled several drops of the liquid. With the other hand he clutched Rice by the throat, forcing the astonished man backward against Gordon and Snyder. Hopkins' face was the face of a madman, and his long beard bristled like the vigour of his wrath, an dhe seemed almost bursting with fury, his bent shoulders were straightened by the vigour of his wrath, and he seemed imbued with demoniac strength, so that he held Rice and the others as helpless as children.

In the next instant the rage in his expression gave way to fear. He relaxed his hold on Rice's reddened throat, and leaned back against a cupboard, cowering like a beast at bay. And still the four men did not move. They had expected nothing like this and were overwhelmed. Then Hopkins spoke, but not in the voice to which they had become accustomed in the long years of their acquaintance. He shrieked:

"You spies! You thieves! So, you have been watching me, have you? You have been playing the spy on my life work, and now, when it is about to fructify and bring me results beyond my wildest dreams, you are here to steal it! O, you miserable scoundrels, how much do you know? How long have you been keeping watch? Speak! Speak!"

Snyder was the only one who could find words. He said, in a tone that was meant to mollify the infuriated scientist:

"My dear Professor Hopkins, you do not understand us. We dont want to steal your secret, whatever it is."

"You lie!" screamed Hopkins. "You lie! But you can't do it! No, by God, you can't! It is here! Here! Look at it!" He held the glass over his head and gazed at it fondly, adoringly, as a miser would look on gold. "See? You are too late! I have completed it and the world will know that it is mine. You, you are too late! Too late!"

"Wait, for God's sake, wait," said Rice. "We don't want to do you any harm, Hopkins! You must listen to us."

"Stand back," cried Hopkins, as Rice took a step toward him. "Stand back, or I will kill you!"

"Something must be done," said Rice to Snyder. "We must overpower him!"

Hopkins overheard this, and if he had been a madman before he was a raging beast now. "So," he howled. "you would use force! But you shan't! No, I defy you. Come on, come on, overpower me, if you will. You can. You are fools to one. But it will do you no good. For see—see I destroy the secret."

Before his dumbfounded spectators could divine his purpose, he lowered the graduating glass to his lips and drank the contents at one gulp. For a second or two he stood there, one hand clutching the door of the cupboard to give himself support. At first there was a mocking smile on his lips, but it gave way to a look of exquisite agony. His face turned livid, his eyes rolled upward, he gasped and swayed. They saw his muscles stiffen, his lips twitch, and then, with a moan, he fell to the floor with a crash, hurling the glass to bits against the wall with the last movement of his arm.

Fischer, who, during all this had remained on the floor, unable to move, scrambled to his feet, forgetful of his bruises, and rushed to the side of the prostrate Hopkins. The others, roused from the stupor into which this tragedy had thrown them, joined the German professor in lifting the inert body to a table. Rice seized a wrist, while Gordon put his ear to the man's heart. Fear predominated in the questioning looks which they threw at each other. Fischer caught up a bottle of ammonia and began applying it to the unconscious man's nostrils. Snyder scurried nervously about after water. For five of the longest minutes in their lives they laboured to resuscitate the victim of their unfortunate espionage.

Rice broke the awful silence.

"Gentlemen," he said in a whisper that was scarcely audible, "I am afraid that our efforts are useless!"

"He is not—dead?" gasped Gordon.

"He is," said Fischer. And he raised the white hand that he had been holding in his and laid it reverently across the breast of the man on the table. They looked at each other in terror. It is one thing to destroy a man's reputation, another to kill the man himself. Yes, kill; for they could not help thinking that they were directly responsible for Hopkins' suicide.

Diseases Of the Skin

Dr. Chase's Ointment

Cold, damp weather brings out eczema and salt rheum. Many who are subject to these ailments do not suffer except during the changeable weather of fall and spring.

The annoying itching and the disfiguring blotches on the skin make this trouble almost unbearable to those who are not familiar with the soothing, healing influence of Dr Chase's Ointment.

Relief comes almost as soon as this ointment is applied. Gradually the irritation disappears, the sores are healed up and the skin is left soft, smooth and natural.

There is alwaye danger of eczema spreading and becoming chronic. For this reason the use of the ointment should be regular and persistent until the cure is thorough and complete.

Mrs. John J. Delory, Linwood, Antigonish county, N.S., writes: "I want to say that Dr. Chase's Ointment has proven a great blessing to me. I had salt rheum on one hand, and could not get it healed up. The itching was most distressing at times. Two boxes of Dr. Chase's Ointment has cured me completely, and I gladly recommend it to every sufferer."

In every home there is a demand for Dr. Chase's Ointment. It is particularly useful where there are children. Chafing and skin irritation are relieved at once. Obstinate wounds are readily healed. Baby eczema and all forms of poisoned or irritated skin are soon cured by this soothing healing ointment. 60 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co. Toronto

Ontario's Going Dry

Pass along the stirring watchword,
Keep the banner floating high,
"We are out for Prohibition
And Ontario's going dry."
From the music of thepine trees
In our rugged northern land,
From each city, vale and hamlet
By our southern breezes fanned,
Where the lure of the White Ribbon
Leads the victors far and nigh,
Comes the song "For God and Freedom"
And "Ontario's going dry."
Bygone years brought ceaseless struggle,
Weary path, and grim defeat,
Hope deferred, and painful striving,
Home to guard and home loves sweet!
Let the record be forgotten,
Raise the drooping standard high
For a glad new day is dawning
And Ontario's going dry."
Stretch the hand to raise the fallen,
Break the captive's cruel chain,
In the hearts of little children
Wake the song of joy again.
Speed afar thestirring watchword—
Vanquished evil soon shall die,
Truth shall reign and right shall triumph
When Ontario has gone dry!

Theodore Roosevelt's Views

Theodore Roosevelt well understands the saloon business and its promoters. In a reference to that subject recently this declaration was made by Roosevelt:

"When the liquor men are allowed to do as they wish they are sure to debauch, not only the body social but the body political also. The friends of the saloon keepers sometimes denounce their opponents for not treating the saloon as other business places are treated. The best answer to this is that the business is not like any other business and the action of the saloon keepers themselves prove this to be true. Taken as a whole the liquor business tends to produce criminality in the population at large and law-breaking among the saloon keepers themselves."

Ex-President Roosevelt further comments on the fortunate fact that in some localities it is possible not merely to restrict and to hamper the liquor traffic, but to stop it altogether. Mr. Roosevelt may be a radical insurgent in some directions, but he is a clear-headed and careful, conservative in his judgment and comments on the saloon business.

McGill Art Students will Have No Intoxicants Served at Annual Dinner

(Canadian Press Despatch.)

Montreal, Jan. 20.—The question as to whether intoxicants should be served at the McGill arts undergraduates' dinner on February 15 or not was settled to-day. The "drys" defeated the "wets" when the matter was put to the vote at McGill University at lunch hour.

The result of the polling was Against, 138; for, 38.

The Boy and the Boy's Father

The boy's mother is holding indignation meetings in Carnegie Hall New York, and passing resolution against the prevalence of youthful vice. Or, she is smashing saloon in Kansas because they are boy-traps Or, she is working with might and main in some other State, against the deadly cigarette, or for temperance education in the public schools all in the interests of the boy. Where is theboy's father? Why isn't he heard from

The boy's father is a prince of merchants or contractors or mechanics but a torpid church member; and in the boy's home manly religion is no as much in evidence as thedaily paper, or the trade journal. The boy's father has a business to build up for the boy.

But many a father has built up a business for the boy, and has forgotten to build up the boy for the business, as his godly father built him up. And when he is ready to add "& Son" to the name of "Smith" or "Brown" on the business sign, the "Son" is too busy sowing his wild oats to honour the ceremony with his presence.

The boy's father would better leave behind him a good son than a great business. Any father could better afford to have carved on his tomb stone, "Here Lies the Father of Dwight L. Moody" than to leave a twenty-storey building or a great railroad, named after himself.

The next quarter of a century is going to witness one of the most tremendous and desperate struggles to save the boy from the whisky bottle the gambling mania, the octopus of social impurity, and the clutch of gold-greediness. The meetings in Carnegie Hall, the blows of the hatchet in Kansas, the anti-cigarette league, are but straws. The boy's mother is in the fight already. But it is time the boy's father was aroused. Shout it above the jingle of the telephone bell; above the clatter of the car wheels; above clatter of the clubs, and so loud as to break the spell of the newspaper and novel: "The boy needs his father!" He must get from him a virulent, aggressive type of piety. He must see in him his ideal of courageous citizenship and staunch loyalty to honour. A hundred devoted mothers couldn't do this for the boy, though they gave their lives.

Does the boy's father hear? Is the boy's father ready to meet the emergency?—Christian Endeavor World.

"Pulling Hard Against the Stream."

A London brewer recently gave a supper to all his employees. Having, in his younger days, been a good singer, he was called upon to render a selection. The London papers, commenting, said the song was received with emotion by the hearers. It was entitled "Pulling hard against the Stream." Funny, wasn't it?

When Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills Cured her Chronic Liver Complaint

Mrs. R. Smith, of Winnipeg, Man., tells an interesting story of relief from almost intolerable sufferings:

"I can hardly tell you how great my sufferings have been. Chronic liver complaint accompanied by biliousness were a daily source of trial to me. Every day I experienced the sickening effects of these ailments. I longed for some medicine that should permanently drive them away.

Reading of Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills, I thought they were worthy of a trial. My surprise was indeed great. From the very first I experienced relief. Continuing with them I found my troubles were slowly but surely leaving me, and before long I once more knew what it was to be free from the harassing effects of the ailments that had long sickened and weakened me. THE VENGEANCE OF MINE

A Short Story

A ROMANCE OF OLD JAPAN

Matsmura and his pretty little wife, O-Yoshi, lived in a Japanese village so quaint and altogether beautiful that it seemed like fairyland itself.

These good people often asked Miyahana, the story-teller, to come and tell them one of his wonderful tales.

"Dear Lord," said O-Yoshi, caressing her husband's big brown hand, "I have a fancy to hear Miyahana tell one of his stories to-night."

"Presently he will come, little one. I have asked Miyahana to call to-night. What shall the story be? Of love, or war? War I think."

"No, no," replied O-Yoshi laughing. "Let it be a little love story. All the best love stories contain much in the manner of war, so we shall both be satisfied."

A moment later Miyahana came into the room, bowed ceremoniously to his guests, and sat down by a low wooden table, cooling his heated face with a very big fan.

"Hitherto," began Miyahana very slowly, tapping his fan on the little table, "I have made up the stories you have been honourably pleased to listen to. This evening I am going to tell you a story which I have never told anyone else before. It is about the early days of my youth when I fell in love."

"Fell in love?" echoed O-Yoshi. "Oh, how funny to think of you ever being in love. I know you have a pet frog."

After the story-teller had partaken of a little refreshment thus he began—

"When I was a young man I was employed in my father's rice fields. I worked hard at hoeing and reaping, and in the early summer I stood all day long in mud and water. My father employed many men and women in his rice fields, and it chanced that I fell in love with a pretty little maid who made her work a pleasure. She loved standing in the water with her kimono tucked round her and a cotton cloth tied over her head to keep off the hot sun. There was nothing that she would not do in the rice fields, even to threshing the rice with flasils or tying it to short poles. But she told me that the joy of her work lay in seeing the rice fields a vivid green and her feeling the water, cool and bubbling round her little feet. Her name was Mine, and she was beautiful as a little child is beautiful.

"In those days, my good friends, I found that emotion had a way of tying my tongue. Others chatted and laughed with Mine, even played with her, while I remained silent and apparently morose.

"One day I went to a young priest, who was not like other priests in that he took an interest in my love affair, and went so far as to forget the Lord Buddha's teaching and to instruct me in the art of love. 'Love,' he said, 'must not lie hidden in your heart. It is not a thing to dream about. Love must grow and act if you would prosper. Speak to Mine and seek an opportunity of rising superior to your rivals.'

"One night an opportunity came. I found myself working side by side with Mine. 'Little maid,' I said, 'have you never guessed that I hold a secret in my heart?'

"'Then I won't sing any more, and perhaps the trouble you have been suffering from will cease. Listen. I do not love you. I can never love you. You are too proud and sullen. Please do not say any more about it or I shall not work in your father's rice fields. I love Toba. See, there he is with the sunshine falling on his hair. Oh, he is a handsome and splendid man. You, Miyahana, are not handsome. I could never marry any one with cold eyes and a hard mouth that never seems to smile.

"A few days later a dreadful fire broke out in our village. It happened late at night. I was awakened by a dazzling light and by a noise of women and children running down the street, crying and wailing pitifully.

"I rose and hastily left my father's house. My one thought was for Mine's safety. When I drew near her house I saw that it was on fire. Even the pine trees of good fortune that stood at the garden gate were wrapped in flame. I saw, too, that Toba was joining in a drunken dance with some of his companions, laughing and jeering at the tongues of fire as they licked the woodwork or shot into the air a cloud of dancing sparks.

"I rushed into Mine's room. A heavy beam had fallen upon her ankle. She was making desperate efforts to release herself, but her foot was badly crushed, and her poor little face was wet with the pain from which she was suffering. I bent down and flung aside the smouldering beam. Then I stretched forth my arms. She shook her head. Tears were streaming down her cheeks. 'Where's Toba?' she said. 'Why doesn't he come?'

"'Mine,' I said, 'I think Toba is ill. Perhaps he's helping his aged mother. Be sure he would have come if he were able to do so.'

"Once more I stretched out my arms. Mine was too weak from pain to offer any residence now, and in another moment she lay in my arms.

"Now I stumbled across the matting, shielding Mine's face from the hissing and roaring flames. The heat and smoke were terrible. Twice it seemed that I must needs fall with my dear, frail burden. Only the gods know how I reached the street that night. I had no sooner done so than I heard a sharp, rending sound and saw Mine's home totter into a heap of charred wood.

"Suddenly I saw Toba lurch toward me. 'Who's that?' he shouted.

"'Let me pass,' I cried. 'Can't you see that I am carrying a suffering woman to a place of safety?'

"Mine stirred in my arms. 'Toba,' she whispered softly. 'My Toba, why didn't you come for me?' She opened her eyes and looked at him. I felt her body quiver against my own as she gave vent to sobs that did not come from the pain of her crushed ankle.

"'Come?' shouted Toba. 'Why, your house was on fire. It was about to fall. I should have been burned to death. As for you, Miyahana, we will settle our account later.' With that Toba burst forth into a drunken song and staggered away.

"I took Mine into my father's house and dressed her ankle and gave her a medicine to relieve the fever. She watched me with a curiously wild expression in her eyes. I did not talk to her. There was a sweet joy in doing little things for Mine. Sometimes I would cool her forehead and lips with water; sometimes I would bring her flowers that she might hold them in her hot, restless hands.

"'Miyahana,' she said at last, 'why did you try to shield Toba? Why did you try to hide the truth from me?'

"'Because, little suffering one, I knew you loved him. It must be a cruel pain when—when the loved one does not come in the hour of need. Do not be hard on Toba. He was drunk. He has a weakness for sake, otherwise he would have come and played a man's part. See, you have moved the bandage. There, now it is right again. Try to go to sleep. You will be better in the morning.'

"'I cannot sleep because of the pain,' she said wearily.

"'Ah your poor little foot will soon be well again.'

"'I was not thinking of that pain, Miyahana. I wish the beam had fallen on my heart and killed me when—when he did not come! I thought Toba loved me. Toba is a coward. Cowards only love when the sun shines. When the sun seems to creep down in the night and go mad and set houses on fire, when there is danger, cowards do not love then.'

"Suddenly I was aware of Toba's presence in the room. He stood with his arms folded across his great chest. 'Come,' he said to me, 'we will settle our little account now.' There was a smile on his handsome face as he said these words. 'You will have good cause in future to remember that Mine belongs to me. You look tired, Miyahana. You will sleep soundly in a garden to-night, my friend. Your face will look well surrounded with blossoms and the moonlight upon it. I pray you walk slowly down the long white road to the Land of the Yellow Spring. There are no rice fields there, no Mines, no hungering fires, no carrying off another man's love.'

"Toba's words sounded far away. I heard them as in a dream. I was watching the sudden change on Mine's face.

"'Toba,' she said softly, 'come near to me. Put your arms round me; caress me.'

"Toba did so. The old sweet smile came back to her face again, and he murmured tender words. It made my heart ache to hear.

"'You wish to kill Miyahana,' she said gently. 'Miyahana, who saved my life? Yes, yes. I know you do, Toba; his life is more precious to me now than yours. It is you who will walk along the road to the land of the Yellow Spring. Oh, my little brave heart, my splendid fellow, who was afraid of fire. Your love, it will change just as often as a kakemone is changed in a room. Was my life so poor a thing that you could not come and save me? Love does not flash on the surface in fine weather. Love is the strong arm that comes in time of trouble. It was so easy to make love to me in the fields. I wanted something much more than that.'

"In a moment a knife shone in Mine's hand and was pressed home into Toba's breast. The blow was swift and sure. Like a tongue of flame it shot to its mark. Toba rolled for a moment from side to side, then fell dead upon the matting.

"Neither of us spoke for some time. I knew in my heart the meaning of it all. I knew that it was the mystery of a woman's love wounded beyond endurance and turned into vengeance.

"'Miyahana' said Mine, 'you saved my life, and now I have saved yours. Justice in her turn will visit me, but before I go I want you to know one thing. I want you to know that I have learned too late what your love is. Oh, Miyahana, my dear one, my dear one!'

"Nothing availed against inexorable justice. I pleaded all in vain that Mine was in a fever when she killed Toba. Justice without a smile or a frown laid her down cold and still and very beautiful in her last long sleep. But the old love is with me as strongly to-day as it was when I first met Mine. And now, wrinkled old man as I am, I keep a pet frog because Mine loved frogs and was kind to them in those far-away rice fields."

IRON MINES

It is a well known fact that prospecting for iron is being very actively carried on in the township of Anstruther, Peterboro County. It is not officially stated who are carrying on the work, but it is rumored that the Hamilton Steel and Iron Works are the persons interested. A gang of about a dozen men are employed, and it is stated that some very excellent samples have been procured. A most promising vein has been struck, and next spring may see considerable work going on in Anstruther. At the present time the work is being carried on without the aid of machinery, but it is expected that an up-to-date plant will be installed later on. If the vein turns out satisfactory, a line will have to be run from the Irondale, Bancroft and Ottawa Railway. The distance from the Irondale railroad to the scene of operations is about 10 miles.

LACK OF APPRECIATION

A Serious Mistake Which is Made in Some Families

In families it is quite often the case that the child who has real talent is overlooked because some brother or sister has more conspicuous attractions. And in some communities the same mistake is often made. Some precocious infant is told off for future honors, and it is hard for fathers and mothers to understand that some quiet little mouse of a maid or some unobtrusive lad will be the future authoress or statesman.

This lack of appreciation is really what urges those who know what they have in them to seek greater opportunity for their expansion by leaving the people who do not believe in them, and going among those who do.

This does not mean that every girl who fancies herself a genius should cut herself off from the precious home atmosphere, but there are those who feel that they have it in them to do things, and when this feeling becomes so strong as to be a certainty, and when they have some good reason to think they can succeed, then they probably have sufficient excuse for some new line of action.

A ROSEBERY ROMANCE

To those who love romance, the romantic and unusual episode in the life of one of Lord Rosebery's ancestors will appeal. It occurred in the eighteenth century, when the young Lord Dalmeny was a young man. He fell in love with a very pretty girl, and eventually a secret marriage was contracted. The pair spent their honeymoon on the Continent, and the bride becoming seriously ill, confessed that she was the wife of the Rector of Thorpe, from whom she had run away. Dying shortly afterwards, her husband had her body embalmed with a view to bringing it to England for burial. However, the Customs House officials opened the case in which the grim burden was packed, and it was only to avoid a far more serious tragedy that the truth was made known. The body was eventually buried at Thorpe in the presence of both "husbands."

Try This Home-Made Cough Remedy

Costs Little, But Does the Work Quickly, or Money Refunded.

Mix two cups of granulated sugar with one cup of warm water, and stir for 2 minutes. Put 2½ ounces of Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle; then add the Sugar Syrup. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

You will find that this simple remedy takes hold of a cough more quickly than anything else you ever used. Usually ends a deep-seated cough inside of 24 hours. Splendid, too, for whooping cough, chest pains, bronchitis and other throat troubles. It stimulates the appetite and is slightly laxative, which helps end a cough.

This recipe makes more and better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for $2.50. It keeps perfectly and tastes pleasant.

Pinex is the most valuable concentrated compound of Norway white pine extract, and is rich in guiaicol and all the natural pine elements which are so healing to the membranes. Other preparations will not work in this formula.

This plan of making cough syrup with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) has proven so popular throughout the United States and Canada, that it is often imitated. But the old, successful formula has never been equalled.

A guarantee of absolute satisfaction, or money promptly refunded, goes with this recipe. Your druggist has Pinex or will get it for you. If not, send to The Pinex Co., Toronto, Ont.

Palpitation of The Heart.

When the heart begins to beat irregularly or intermittently, palpitate and throb, skip beats, beats fast for a time, then go slow as to seem almost to stop, it causes great anxiety and alarm.

The least excitement or exertion seems to affect it.

Many people are kept in a state of morbid fear of death, become weak, worn and miserable, through this unnatural action of the heart.

To all such sufferers Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills can give prompt and permanent relief.

Mrs. John Thompson, Mill Cove, N.B., writes:—"Just a few lines to let you know what Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills have done for me. I have been troubled with weakness and palpitation of the heart; would have severe choking spells, and could scarcely lie down at all. I tried many remedies but got none to answer my case like your pills did. I can recommend them highly to all suffering with heart and nerve trouble."

Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills are 50c. per box or 3 boxes for $1.25 at all dealers or will be mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

THE HORNET, REBEL ROVER of the SPANISH MAIN

ONCE Henry M. Flagler's Yacht, the Pugnacious Craft of Many Disguises Has Become a Central American Navy, Ready to Fight Her Best in Any Cause.

The Hornet.

Bluefields from the Lagoon. Courtesy of Harper's Weekly.

GENERAL LEE CHRISTMAS.

ALREADY made navy; a navy all cut and dried, so to speak; a navy small, perhaps, but efficient and bearing a fighting record; a bargain counter navy, warranted satisfactory; a real, sure enough, steel hulled navy, to be had by any nation or faction of a nation belligerently disposed and possessing the price; a navy that will fly one flag as bravely as another and see the matter through—S. S. Hornet, at present the flagship of General Manuel Bonilla, leader of the revolutionary forces in Honduras.

THE formula for Central American revolutions, according to jokesters of the past, was:—One tatterdemalion soldier, add ten generals, as many pairs of glittering epaulets, season with peppery proclamations to taste and serve hot. To-day it is very much shorter and very much less of a jest—the expression of the Hornet.

Just now this free lance navy is very much engaged, but it is quite likely that it will be available again before long. The next applicant will then be able to acquire its services. Come early and avoid the rush.

Who shall say that the day of romance upon the sea is passed? Let the scoffer read the story of the little vessel that has become the weightiest factor in Central American politics, that is making history among the stormy republics of the Caribbean, the arbiter of rulers, the bugaboo of uneasy Cabinets, the forenster of uprisings, the terror of sovereign States, the liveliest little filibuster that ever landed a warlike army on a hostile coast or flung defiance at established power.

Like many another swashbuckler, the antecedents of this tiny warrior, already a veteran of three wars, which now engages the anxious attention of three nations, were most peaceable and harmless. She was designed to serve no more serious purpose than the junketings of leisurely sea parties and no more violent pursuit than that of pleasure—a yacht, nothing more. She was built in 1900 by the Harlan & Hollingsworth Company at Wilmington, Del. When she slid from the ways the most fantastically minded could not have predicted for her any adventure beyond a race now and then. When she swung out on her trial trip—fifteen knots an hour was her speed—she was the model of grace and skittishness, a slim, trim, rakish thing with a low freeboard, slender spars and dainty lines, 160 feet in length, with a 24 foot beam and displacement of 425 tons. And she was named, of all tender, innocuous names, the Alicia. Surely there was nothing in this to suggest a grim future.

And yet, yielding to the plausible belief of all true seafarers that every vessel has a definite personality, the Alicia must have carried from the first beneath her frivolous exterior the spirit of the fighting craft. It is quite apparent that she had a destiny far aside from dawdlings and vacation cruisings. Perhaps the shipwrights worked into her some seasoned timbers from an old rover of the Spanish main that had borne roaring crews through fire and slaughter. Perhaps there was cast in with her metal some ancient culverin, saker or Long Tom that had done duty in its time for lawless masters. As that may be, she was not long in finding real action.

After some eight years of peaceful voyaging about American waters she was on hand and in good shape at the outbreak of the Spanish War. Her owner, Henry M. Flagler, immediately offered her to the government, which was then in urgent need of supplementary vessels of all kinds. She was inspected, the Navy Department found her suitable and she was accordingly purchased.

Behold her now a war ship, or, if that sounds too grim for a converted pleasure yacht, an auxiliary cruiser, committed to doing battle with all foes of the Stars and Stripes and launched upon her adventurous career. It is not hard to imagine, if one have any love for a sweet going, true built craft, that she thrilled along all her keel when the Union Jack was run up over her snow white decks and spotless hull. For this she must have tripped a joyous measure at her buoy and whispered notes of rollicking sea songs through her toy rigging.

When they painted her the dismal, war time fog color she tried hard to look desperate and dangerous, and when they mounted glittering rapid fire guns fore and aft and amidships she took on a most militant swagger at her moorings. She had much the appearance of a bad small boy togged out in juvenile uniform, with a belt stuck full of deadly weapons.

Worthy of Her Name.

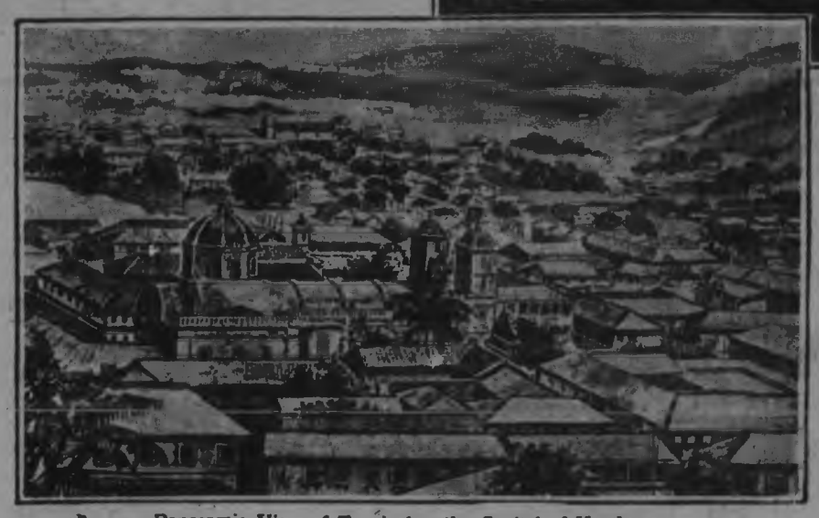
But let no one suppose that she was not fully prepared for business. She might have provoked a smile, but a discerning eye would have observed that she was a very capable little affair, neat, swift and heavy for size, if rather cocky and diminutive. By this time, of course, her name had been changed. Alicia, somehow or other, did not quite fit with her new manner of life. The wise ones of the Navy Department could not seem to expect maritime deeds of derring do from a vessel yclept Alicia.

The official, whoever he was, that selected Hornet for her did a good job. It suited her appearance exactly and it has since suited her later career. A hornet she proved herself, and is still proving—a busy, marauding, uppish insect of the seas, with a most abominably irritating sting to her. For the time being the choice was particularly approved as holding a promise of achievement for the new chick of the navy. If she could be worthy of that other Hornet in American naval history, the Hornet that fought the memorable battle with the Peacock under the gallant Captain Lawrence, she would be all that was required.

And she was not long in showing herself worthy, for she took a leading part in one of the snappiest engagements of the war and bore herself with honor.

It happened while the American fleet was sitting like a pack of terriers off the mouth of Santiago Harbor and waiting for the Spanish mice to come out. Admiral Sampson received word that four Spanish gunboats were lurking in the bay at Manzanillo. Deciding that four gunboats would be a fair prey for three auxiliary cruisers of the mosquito squadron; he ordered the Hornet, the Hist, another converted yacht, and the Wompatuck, a converted seagoing tug, to proceed to Manzanillo and lead the gunboats to the dance.

There was a pleasant surprise in store for the Hornet and her consorts when they poked impudently into the bay. Instead of the four foes they hoped to surprise they found a whole grand stand of opponents drawn up in battle array and awaiting their arrival. There were nine Spanish vessels, including a torpedo boat and a cruiser, in crescent formation. At each side of the bay were land batteries, strongly placed. About the shores were anchored armed pontoons. On a point was a heavy battery of field artillery. Up on the hill was a vicious little fort with some large guns. And sprinkled over the landscape for two miles were Spanish soldiers.



Panoramic View of Tegulgalpa, the Capital of Honduras.

It was a happy occasion. The Hornet led off the celebration and waltzed in with a crash of music from her rapid firers. The Hist and the Wompatuck followed, the assembled enemy replied in kind and the waltz was on. The three little fighters found an embarrassment of partners. The batteries, the pontoons and the soldiers flanked them, the Spanish fleet had all the advantage of position, and the Spanish fire was disconcertingly good. Having turned their especial attention to the wooing of the cruiser and the torpedo boat they discovered that the rest of the gathering was inclined to be jealous and matters grew quite warm while they tried to distribute their favors with less discrimination.

For two hours the ball continued without cessation while the three auxiliaries manoeuvred to and fro, bombarding the Spanish line, shores, batteries and fort. The Hornet was in the thick of the festival, popping bouquets at the cruiser, sweeping confetti along the pontoons and the thickets, where the rifles of the enemy crackled merrily, and anon paying her compliments to the smoke fringed crescent between the horns of which she lay. Under her concentrated fire one of the Spanish gunboats was put out of action, the crew taking to the water and the vessel sinking before she could be run ashore. Later one of the pontoons was sunk and an armed sloop, her gun dismounted and her sides riddled by the American fire, began to settle.

Matters were well under way for a clean sweep, the Spaniards were ready to abandon their batteries and their ships, when disaster befell. The Hornet, having pushed into the most exposed position, had been struck repeatedly. Now a shell from the Spanish cruiser came hurtling aboard to burst directly over the engine room. The gallant little craft was badly cut up amidships, where her light upper work was shattered to splinters. The missile struck the main steam pipe, destroying it. The Hornet, from an active, aggressive factor in the fight, became a helpless, drifting wreck, while her working force clambered out to escape the steam, and the enemy poured a steady fire into her.

The Hist, which had suffered severely, but was still in fighting trim, undertook to stand off all opponents while the Wompatuck hurried to the aid of their stricken consort. A line was carried aboard the Hornet and the powerful tug was turned seaward. With the Hist covering the rear the little squadron thus made its escape, retreating in good order, after having sunk three of the enemy's vessels.

This was the Hornet's baptism of fire and for two days the country rang with the exploit, until Cervera made his dash out of Santiago and all other triumphs were lost sight of in the flare of the decisive victory that followed.

The damage to her superstructure and engine room was soon repaired, and at the close of the war the Hornet was again in commission. From this time she was used in Navy Department affairs in and about the navy yards and stations, transporting detachments of sailors and marines and carrying officers on inspection tours, moving always, as she could have wished, in the martial world, bearing her rapid firing guns and holding her place as an accredited member of the naval force.

Purchased for $5,100.

The next chapter in her career began last June. Stanch and still capable of her ten or twelve knots, she was judged, however, to be no longer necessary to the government. The decree went out that she must be sold. She was in need of many repairs and rather than make them the department chose to get rid of the craft that had served so well. Perhaps she felt, craft wise, like a veteran deprived of a post long and worthily filled. Perhaps she creaked mournfully when she was laid up for the last time under official orders. It is not difficult to suppose so, for that she might have lost faith for the time being in her mission as a fighter.

But in truth her adventures had scarcely begun. Like the born soldier whose trade is war and who cares for nothing else, serving here and there under various commands wherever swords are bared, she was destined to engage in many strange enterprises. She was purchased for $5,100, a price beneath her value as junk; she was stripped of her guns, and her record on the books of the navy was closed; but she entered straightway upon warlike business of another kind. From this time on she became involved in the shadowy plottings and mysterious activities of juntas and revolutionaries, of unnamed agents and the restless representatives of conflicting factions in the turmoil of Central American politics. She became now the ready made navy, convenient to the hand of intrigues and rebellions. Henceforth her movements became as questionable and as secret as the men who sought her for their own furtive purposes. Henceforth her doings were reported in no department sheets, but were veiled with a discretion quite necessary in a country that respects its neutrality laws. The Hornet, war ship, was now the Hornet, filibuster.

Her next appearance was at New Orleans, where she slid in one July night to an inconspicuous anchorage and began to take on cargo. Somewhat dingy and battered, she was still the trim, lady like yacht to outward seeming; nothing could destroy her graceful lines and the deep curve of her cutwater. She had abandoned the panoply of the sea warrior. She was quite modest and inoffensive, shunning observation. She looked for all the world the pleasure craft in genteel decay, settled down from early giddiness to a respectable old age in commercial pursuits.

The Hornet Was in the Thick of the Festival.

But in spite of her retiring ways she began to attract attention. There was trouble in Nicaragua. General Estrada was carrying on the uprising that first shook loose the grip of Zelaya and later drove out Madriz, the successor of that much dreaded dictator. New Orleans is the refuge for numerous citizens of Central American republics who have reason to believe that their health is improved at a distance from their homes, and is accordingly watched by compatriots of these same citizens whose own health at home is temporarily quite good. Came presently an intimation to Washington that the innocent little vessel in the Mississippi should be seen to.

Inspection revealed that the Hornet, in point of fact, was taking on arms and ammunition, in addition to provisions and a miscellaneous cargo. Nicaraguans who were supporters of the then administration insisted that sufficient evidence was therefore available and that the Hornet should be held. But the officials thought otherwise. In the first place the Hornet was ostensibly a trading vessel and had not yet established her reputation as a filibuster. Further it was held that there was no indication of a definite belligerent purpose. Only when the evidence shows that an expedition is intended against a friendly Power are the neutrality laws considered as violated. In this case it was decided the Hornet was merely putting to sea with a miscellaneous cargo, and since her owners protested their peaceable intentions there could be no restraint.

This was very pleasant for the Hornet. On July 31, having obtained her clearance, she dropped down the river to the Gulf. So much the authorities knew. What they did not know was that she made around to a point near the mouth of the Mississippi that had not been watched, and there, safely hidden up a shrouded bayou, became the centre of a scene the like of which most peaceable traders would fly from.

Men sprang up from the jungled shores and the beds of lush vegetation and hailed her—rough looking men, of all kinds and complexions, but marked alike by a certain boldness of manner, sharpness of eye and freedom of movement—men in picturesque and careless garb, but wearing for the most part holsters at their belts that fitted them and were not for show. A motley lot they were, and one that the government would have kept a wary eye upon had their movements been known. But the Hornet snuggled in toward them confidently and the whole outfit put out to her and scrambled on board. Pirates? Yes, perhaps, in one sense. But the Hornet made them welcome.

The Rebels' Whole Navy.

A day later the little vessel was steaming bravely to the south and once more a transformation was in progress. From the lower depths of her hold her new complement, a swaggering, slouching, loud swearing crew, dragged forth certain bulky objects. Very different they were from the neat, orderly, well disciplined sailors who had handled the Hornet during her navy days. But these were competent, if somewhat disorderly, and they went about their work as men who knew it. Before she had kissed the waters of the Caribbean she was again the ship of war, with the rapid fire guns forward and aft, canister and grape in their mummy coverings.

Bluefields was her destination and to Bluefields she came. The men she had brought swarmed off to join the Liberian forces of Estrada, and the Hornet, flying the flag of the revolutionaries, became the navy proper of the insurgent government. In this capacity she patrolled the vicinity and gave quarters to numerous olive skinned men who called themselves admirals and commodores and lay about her cabins smoking endless cigarettes or amused themselves by practising at the flying fish with her Maxims while they took her on dashes up and down the coast.

She was regarded with great pride and awe by her new owners and the moral effect of her presence was great. She was a real navy, remember, not a tub furnished with Quaker guns, and she aroused a deal of respect in a neighborhood where the residents have seldom distinguished themselves by naval prowess. She partook of Estrada's triumph and for a time flew the flag of the recognized republic under his Presidency. During this interval she was employed in watching for the possible advent of just such an expedition as she had brought, affording a convincing illustration of the rapid shifts of circumstances to which that part of the world is subject.

Followed another period of eclipse during which she dropped from sight. Such episodes were an inevitable part of her new rôle. When she next slipped into the public view she had once again changed her character, like those figures in fiction that carry a pocketful of disguises and appear with a different set of whiskers in each chapter.

This time she showed up, discreetly as usual, at New Orleans in the guise of an absolutely harmless tramp. There was protest from the Central American colony as before, though from another section of it. Rumors flew fast that one or both of the Bonillas—Manuel and Policarpo—had designs upon Honduras, from the Presidency of which country they had successively been ousted. And the healthily homesick ones pointed to the Hornet in confirmation. Where the Hornet was there roosted trouble, they said. The owners of the slandered craft, possibly the tenth set within six months, raised their hands in shocked protest at this uproar. What, the Hornet a disreputable filibuster? Not at all. She was entirely and completely reformed, rehabilitated—a marvellous example, good folks, of the effects of change in title.

But the authorities were not so easily put off on this occasion. They had grave suspicions of the Hornet and they proceeded to search her rudely and thoroughly, with no result beyond the discovery of some canned peaches. Probably the Hornet chuckled to herself, down in her cylinders somewhere, when the baffled searchers left. Inside and out she was an eminently respectable, ladylike, yacht built vessel; a little battered, a little worn, but peaceful—quite peaceful. Not so much as a blank cartridge could be found on board of her.

The uproar among loyal adherents of the Datila administration continued to rage while the Hornet underwent extensive repairs. They went so far as to object to the nature of part of those repairs. They found fault with the equipping of this quiet little tramp with a very efficient searchlight of the most approved design. Yet why not? asked the owners. She was to be sent to Cape Gracias after—er—bananas or something. And the nights around Cape Gracias are undeniably dark. General Manuel Bonilla and General Lee Christmas, both of whom were accused of having a very close interest in her, vehemently denied the statements.

Finally Washington was forced to stricter measures. There was no ground for refusing the Hornet clearance papers, but when she dropped below the city to Nine Mile Point and anchored there under plea of disabled machinery the revenue cutter Davey took up position alongside and watched every person and every package that went up her side.

It took her two days to get down the Mississippi, sliding a few miles and dropping her anchor. The Davey stuck to her like a woman and a sister throughout and saw her safely off outside the three mile limit on December 22. The officials at New Orleans were ready to swear that this time she was nothing more than she professed to be, that she carried nothing more than a crew of twenty-one men and some miscellaneous provisions, not to speak of the searchlight.

But the officials, as before, were not on hand when the really interesting things were happening. Somewhere in the Gulf, out of sight of prying watchers, the Hornet sighted another craft, a bluff nosed, patch sailed schooner. Signals passed between them that had nothing to do with the time of day, and presently they were engaged in sea greetings not far apart while small boats plied swiftly back and forth between them.

And still again the Hornet went through one of her quick changes. Her crew had been mysteriously reinforced when she turned southward, also she bore a cargo that had never appeared in her manifest at New Orleans. Before she had slipped below 20 degrees she was fitted in a manner to delight her lawless heart, the sturdy rapid firers belted to her decks, the racks of rifles in her saloon and the boxes of ammunition packed between her ribs.

In this, her latest expedition, she was and is commanded by Captain Charles Johnson. Johnson is a good type of the American adventurer. During Estrada's activities he was master of the Yuia, revolutionary, later Nicaraguan, gunboat. Her engineer was David P. Rowland, who has also seen service in Central American imbroglios.

While the Hornet was scurrying away south Puerto Cortes, the nearest and most easily accessible port of Honduras, was undergoing spasms of anxiety. Full information of the movements of the Hornet was received, also of her armament in the Gulf. A wheezy gunboat, whose pumps needed the constant assistance of the crew to keep her afloat, put out to sea to meet the redoubtable filibuster. But the Hornet evaded her, a matter which was not regretted very bitterly by the crew of the gunboat aforesaid.

Supporting a New President.

It is not known exactly where the Hornet first touched, but on reaching Honduran waters she took no further reinforcements, arbitrarily changed her register and hoisted the flag of General Manuel Bonilla. Bonilla meanwhile decreed himself the President of Honduras and, formalities being completed, his navy was ordered into action.

The first achievement of his navy was to stand in to the harbor of Bonaca, one of the group of the Bay Islands off the north coast of Honduras, and demand its surrender. There being nothing handy that had a remote chance of withstanding the Hornet's machine guns, the island was promptly handed over. With Bonaca as temporary headquarters of the revolutionary movement the Hornet then steamed to Roatan, the adjoining island. This, too, fell without a shot, the garrison joining the revolutionists. Shortly afterward came the report that the aggressive navy had shown up in the harbor of Trujillo, on the mainland, and had captured the town with a few pivotings of the guns.

And so the Hornet, yacht, lotterer, cruiser, filibuster, blockader and tramp, is fully embarked once more on the adventurous career for which she was never built but which she has consistently followed. For some time to come, until peace settles upon the distracted fall of North America, she will probably be mixed up in many and strange happenings. And when her time comes, if she holds by her destiny, it probably will come as she could wish in her restless steel soul, with guns going and the flash of her last shot spraying the water while she goes down under the last of her flags.

Its cost is so trivial, and the cookery results it yields are so palate-pleasing, that you should never be without a bottle of

MERCHANT COMBINES

Wonderful Discoveries and Explorations Made by Fearless Mercantile Adventurers of Old

Combinations of merchants are no new thing; in fact, it may be said that to a considerable extent the commercial prosperity of England has been founded upon such combines. The old trading companies exercised a marked influence in laying the foundations of Britain's commercial position.

In addition to the wonderful discoveries made by the fearless adventurers, these great English companies were concerned with some of the most romantic expeditions ever undertaken by man, though the actual objects were prosaic enough—mainly that of finding new customers for English merchandise. The big companies in addition to employing the Cabots employed such men as Martin Frobisher, Cavendish, Hudson, and Chancellor Davis, and penetrated from Europe to Cathay.

Eventually the New World was colonized as a result of the operations of the companies. Those days were indeed the most romantic in the history of commerce. In travelling to unknown parts of the world it was necessary that both merchants and sailors should be intrepid and that their vessels should be of the stoutest.

It was as a result of the workings of the companies that England obtained the sovereignty of the seas and that English-built ships were the finest in existence. Each ship was a powerful man-of-war of its time, as it was necessary at any moment that fighting should be undertaken, not merely against wild natives, but also against the hordes of pirates who infested the seas. Strength alone ruled the far seas, so the ships had to be of the stoutest and provided with guns and ammunition, so as to be ready to fight at any moment.

It was owing to our great merchant vessels that the Spanish Armada was repelled; indeed, out of our fleet there were but thirty-seven vessels of the Royal Navy, while there were a hundred of our merchant ships engaged.

All the great companies provided ships, including such as the Levant Company, the Muscovy Company, the Eastland Company, the Virginia Company, etc.

The great companies of merchant adventurers not merely opened out new trade passages, but founded great colonies, and, owing to the splendid quality of their ships, gradually displaced Spain and Holland from pride of place on the seas.

Even now some of the companies exist, though in a modified form. Other new companies sprang up to take the place of the old, the most recent of which, of course, include such concerns as the British South Africa Company.

To this day one of the old companies of merchant-adventurers still lives as a powerful corporation, carrying on much of its work as in the old days. This is the Hudson's Bay Company, formed by Prince Rupert and seventeen noblemen for the purpose of importing into England furs and skins obtained by barter from the Indians of North America. This company, wealthier than ever, still buys skins from the Indians of North America as it did in the old days of the merchant-adventurers, whose glamor remains undimmed.

HOUSING OF WORKMEN

The first step in an important scheme of housing has been taken in South London. A large island block of old-fashioned houses facing on Elsted Street, in the Rodney Road district, Walworth, has been acquired by the trustees of a fund for the better housing of the working classes, and within a year some 200 of these houses will be replaced by nine huge blocks of modern dwellings, capable of accommodating more than 600 persons. The ground acquired consists of 60,000 square feet.

MONEY FOR NECKLACES

Despite hard times, there still seems to be money in some quarters. In London a week ago a necklace of 85 pearls of pinkish orient was sold for $20,000, and another of 57 round pearls realized $5,750.

LACK OF CHAUFFEURS

The chairman of a motor cab company in London says they have cabs not in use, simply because they cannot get chauffeurs to drive them.

PLUCKY POLICE AND BURGLARS

Desperate Encounters of Recent Years Recalled by the Murder of the Houndsditch Police

The attempted burglary of a jeweller's shop in Houndsditch, which resulted in the death of three constables at the hands of the baffled miscreants, may, in the suddenness of its awful catastrophe, be said to stand alone in the annals of English crime. It surpasses even the tragedy of January 23rd, 1909, when Constable Taylor lost his life while gallantly striving to apprehend two Poles, named Hefeld and Lepidus, who, after a desperate resistance, involving two deaths, besides numerous injuries to others who had taken up the pursuit, finally, by shooting themselves, evaded justice.

Police Heroes

Wheatley and Wright, having successfully burgled the warehouse of Mr. Elsbach, a Hoxton furrier, were accosted by a policeman, who, despite a bad thigh wound from a revolver bullet, managed to apprehend the former. Wright contrived to escape, and, having shot down a constable who attempted to seize him, gained the roof of a block of houses lying between East Road and City Road, where, after a struggle, he was captured.

A narrow escape was that of Constable Robinson, when on November 17th, 1878, he attempted to arrest a burglar who had just quitted a house in St. John's Park, Blackheath. Five shots from a revolver were aimed at the policeman, who, although severely wounded, retained his hold, threw his man to the ground, and ultimtately, after a desperate struggle, secured him.

Not so fortunate was an officer named Cole, who, on the night of December 1st, 1883, being on duty in Ashwin Street, saw a man clambering over the wall in front of the Baptist Chapel. Thinking that all was not right he proceeded to arrest the suspect, who, in his turn, attempted to break loose, and on finding that he could not effect his purpose, whipped out a revolver and fired four shots, the last of which took fatal effect, so that when two constables who had been summoned arrived on the spot they found their comrade lying dead.

Concealed in Wagon

Although fortunately unattended by any tragic consequence, the pursuit of Fowler and Milsom, who were wanted for the murder of Mr. Smith at Muswell Hill Lodge in 1896, was as exciting as it was persistent. The miscreants, having left London, made for Liverpool, whence they travelled across country to Cardiff, where they threw in their lot with a showman named Sinclair. From Cardiff they moved to Pentypool, Bristol, and Swindon, whence they were traced by the police, now close upon their heels, to Chippenham, and Bath, at which town, at a house in Monmouth Street, they were finally run to earth.

Fraught with even more sensational incidents was the comparatively brief chase after the Netherly Hall burglars. Thrice when stopped by the police the miscreants answered with revolver shots, on the third occasion killing a constable named Byrnes. They then gained Penrith Station and were noticed by a guard concealed beneath the tarpaulin of an empty wagon, as the train was starting. On reaching Tebay, the guard, as there were no police at hand, called together all the railway officials available, who surrounded the wagon where the men were concealed. Finding themselves discovered, the ruffians made a desperate bid for freedom. One, indeed, did escape, only to be captured a little later; but the other two were secured and tied to telegraph posts, there to await the arrival of the police.

THEATRE DONT'S

Advice that a Veteran Actor Contributes Without Charge

Don't arrive at the theatre late. You would not begin your dinner with the entree.

Don't keep your theatre bonnet on until the very last minute before the curtain goes up, and thus give the man behind you a fit wondering whether you are going to take it off or not.

Don't secure side seats and then glare at the people who have inside ones and pass you on their way out to see some man between the acts. Maybe you've done the same thing yourself.

Don't chatter during the play. The actors are paid to speak their lines for your entertainment.

Don't explain the story of the play to your companion. The man on the other side might want to hear it for himself.

Don't lose your temper if some persons come in late and you have to stand up to allow them to pass, and thus drop your hat, coat, bag, opera-glasses, umbrella, and programme.

Don't leave the theatre before the play is over—a certain amount of courtesy is due to the players while they are talking.

GOAT WAS A GHOST

Mr. Alfred Tennyson Dickens, the eldest surviving son of Charles Dickens, relates how the servants at Gad's Hill once threatened to leave because they were terrified by a ghost. Dickens, armed with a gun, and his sons, armed with bludgeons, set out to find it, and saw a white object which emitted an awful noise. It proved to be an asthmatical old goat.

WE are again compelled to give more space to our Carpet and Home Furnishing Sections, as we find the present space quite inadequate for this rapidly growing department. It is only two years since we doubled our floor space and now we propose adding an addition to be devoted solely to Rugs, which are now so much in demand. This new addition we expect to open about March 1st with a magnificent display. Previous to this we must have out of the builder's way many lines which will be offered at extraordinary price concessions in a big Ten Days' Sale.

It's the Time for Wise and Liberal Expenditure of Money.

OTTAWA, JAN. 31.—From reciprocity to Canals, Ottawa will turn its attention to-morrow, and the indications are the Government will have as hard a time in satisfying the diversified interests as in the tariff question. A memorial resolution, representing a hundred and fifty municipalities of Ontario and the Western Provinces will be presented by the Canadian Federation of Boards of Trade here to-morrow, urging the immediate construction of the Georgian Bay Ship Canal. On the other hand the Government has memorials from Toronto, Hamilton, Kingston, Montreal and other cities, urging that nothing be done with the Georgian Bay project till the Welland and St. Lawrence routes are deepened.

YOU NEEDN'T DESPAIR

Here's an Offer that Should Interest Sufferers of Skin Irritation

First of all we want to explain that the remedy we are about to tell you of carries our promise of money back for the mere asking to anyone not thoroughly pleased with its use. That should unquestionably establish the sincere faith we have in it.

Parasites or germs cause eczema, and eczema is probably the most prevalent cause of skin ailments. To overcome them, the remedy must of necessity destroy or remove the parasite or germ before relief can be obtained.

Possessing remarkable antiseptic, germicidal, cleansing, soothing and healing power, the curative value of Rexall Eczema Ointment is very pronounced in the treatment of eczema and allied skin diseases, whether of the dry scaly sort, the weeping type, where there is a flow of ill-smelling excretion, or the intermediary kind, such as pimples, blotches, discolourations, ringworm or acne. It is very useful for treating hives, nettle rash, insect bites and wounds. It is ideal for the skin ailments peculiar to children.

Rexall Eczema Ointment is grayish-white in colour, has a pleasant odour, and is very cleanly for use. If you are a sufferer of skin irritations or eruptions in any form whatever, we urge you to try a box at our risk. At the mere hint of dissatisfaction you may have your money back. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. Remember, it is only sold at our store.—The Rexall Store. McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte street.

PLAYER HAS SKULL FRACTURED IN GAME

Patrick Shannon, Rover of the Campbellford Team, Seriously Injured in a Game at Havelock Last Night---A Despatch To-day Says He is Not Expected to Recover.

Hockey has its perils as well as its pleasures. It was responsible last night for an accident that is serious and may possibly prove fatal to Patrick Shannon, a member of the Campbellford hockey team, which was playing a game with Havelock in that place. During the progress of the game Shannon stumbled over another player or tripped and fell, his head striking the ice with such violence as to render him unconscious and to cause blood to flow from his ears. This morning he regained consciousness.

A despatch from Havelock to the Examiner this morning says:

In the Campbellford-Havelock hockey match last night Pat Shannon, playing the rover position for Campbellford, was seriously injured, receiving a fracture of the base of the skull. Three doctors are in attendance, and it is not exected he will recover. He is still at the Armstrong house. The accident was purely accidental.

Hewitt, held in the Telegram office here this afternoon, the protest of the Trenton Club against Maurice Park, who played centre for Peterborough against Trenton last week was heard and finally decided in favour of Trenton. The sub-committee decided that Park was not eligible to play, and that the game in which he played should be replayed in Peterborough on Friday night of this week, Feb. 3rd, without Park. After the expenses of the game are paid the proceeds will be divided equally between the two teams. If Peterborough wins Friday's game the two teams will be tied for the district, and will play home and home games or a sudden death game to decide the group. McCurdy Tells Of His Trip Over The Ocean

Special to The Examiner.

TORONTO, JAN. 31.—In Aviator McCurdy's story to the Toronto Star of his flight across Gulf Mexico yesterday, the daring young Canadian says: "I am seriously impressed with the possibility of ultimately making intercontinental transocean flights by aeroplane. Describing the sensations of the trip he said that the mirage seemed to be causing the sea to stand up in front of him, with everything below blotted out. Two man-eating sharks swam about the aeroplane as it floated on its pontoons.

WARM SCENE OCCURS IN THE BRITISH PARLIAMENT TO-DAY

Special to The Examiner:

LONDON, ENG., JAN. 31.—During the election of speaker in the Commons this afternoon there was an unprecedented scene, when Lawrence Gintell, the Irish Nationalist, raised a protest against the re-election of Speaker Lowther, because, he said, he was subservient to the party machine. Gintell was held down and would have been ejected but for Asquith's plea for order.

W. B. HAMILTON SHOE CO. OPEN WHOLESALE ROOM

Mr. J. E. Firth, representing The W. B. Hamilton Shoe Co., Toronto, has taken a lease of 364 Water street, in the Hopwood Block, which he will use as a permanent sample room for the convenience of his local trade and may eventually carry a stock of staple lines as well. This should add to his already large trade in this district.

Citizens will notice that a gradual change has been made in the character of this building since it was acquired by Mr. Hopwood, the whole building being now occupied by wholesale firms, viz.: The Novel Ti Ltd., wholesale neckwear, W. B. Hamilton Shoe Co. Limited, wholesale shoes and rubbers, Hopwoods Limited, whole sale dry goods, etc. This shows that the wholesale trade has confidence in Peterborough as a distributing centre and should prove a convenience to the retail trade in the district.

LIQUOR CASE HEARD IN POLICE COURT TO-DAY

Patrick Hogan is Fined $20 and Costs for Selling Liquor in Bulk Over the Bar Contrary to the Provisions of the Liquor License Act---Interesting Evidence Heard.

Patrick Hogan, a licensed hotelkeeper of East City, was this morning charged with having sold a quantity of liquor in bulk to one Leonard Dobbin on the 26th day of January, contrary to the Liquor License Act. Inspector Stewart conducted the prosecution.

Leonard Dobbin was the first witness called upon. He stated that on the 26th day of January he was given 25c. by Geo. Lipsett, proprietor of the Maple Leaf Hotel and told to go out and get some ale. Witness went over to the Albion Hotel and purchased two quarts of ale. Witness then brought them over to the barber shop which is a part of the Maple Leaf hotel and handed them to Geo. Lipsett who opened one of the bottles and handed Frank Arkells, who was also a party to the transaction, a drink. Witness did not drink any himself, as he was not offered any.

Frank Arkells was the next witness called. His evidence coincided with that of the former witness. He said he was in Lipsett's hotel on the 25th of January and had a glass of ale which was procured by Dobbin. He also admitted having been in the Albion hotel on the 25th of January. On that day he had a glass of whiskey and a bottle of ale. He drank the whiskey on the premises and took the bottle of ale home. Witness admitted having been refused liquor at Sullivan's retail store.

Geo. Lipsett, the man at whose premises the liquor was alleged to have been drunk, was the next witness called. Asked what became of the two bottles of liquor purchased by Dobbin and taken into the premises, witness said that he and Arkells consumed one of them and he took the other one home. Witness lost his license last May. He admitted having gone into the bar and procuring a glass with which to drink the liquor. This closed the evidence for the prosecution.

The only witness called for the defence was Leonard Holland, the bartender at the Albion Hotel. He admitted having sold the two bottles of ale over the bar, contrary to the law, on the 26th day of January. His excuse was that he thought Dobbin had been sent in by some of the workmen who were working on a stable at the rear of the hotel. His Worship did not think the reason strong enough to warrant the witness selling liquor in bulk over the bar.

This closed the evidence for the defence. It was inferred by the defence that Arkells was nursing a grudge against Hogan, the proprietor of the Albion hotel, the grudge arising out of the fact that Hogan gave evidence against him when he (Arkells) was being prosecuted for disorderly conduct some time ago, and that he had been heard to say that he would get even with Hogan.

$20 and costs, amounting in all to $24.10, to be paid in ten days, was the sentence meted out to Patrick Hogan, proprietor of the Albion hotel for selling liquor other than that which was consumed on the premises on Jan. 26.

The charge against Geo. Lipsett, proprietor of the Maple Leaf Hotel for allowing liquor to be drank on his premises contrary to the statute, he being without a license will be heard on Thursday, Feb 2nd.

FRIDAY NIGHT'S GAME .WILL BE GREAT BATTLE

The action of the O.H.A. to-day in cancelling the game won by Peterborough over Trenton last week is not very pleasant, but the fans will appreciate it in one way, as it means another exciting game of hockey when the teams come together in Brock St. rink on Friday night. The Petes will have to play without Park, but they are determined to beat the down east bunch and will go into the game with the firm resolve of giving them a trimming that will be decisive. The result of the district hinges on the game. If Trenton win they will have the district. On the other hand a Peterborough victory means the teams are tied. There will be a record-breaking crowd, as the fans are stirred up over the situation and old Brock street rink will not be big enough to hold the crowd that will want to see the two rival teams battle for the district honours.

DEATH OF ADMIRAL McCOOMB IN NEW YORK

This morning Mr. W. H. Hill received a telegram announcing the death in New York, from pleuro-pneumonia, of Admiral McCoomb, who was well known to many Peterborough residents, especially those who summer at Chemong Park. For the past six or seven years Admiral McCoomb has spent his summers at the Park where he built a beautiful summer residence. He was a great favourite at the Park where his venerable figure was well known. He was a most kindly, affable and genial gentleman and a most entertaining raconteur, his experience in the navy furnishing him with an endless store of interesting incidents. He was a midshipman, in the United States Navy, in the China seas as long ago as 1853, and served continuously in the navy till his retirement a few years ago. He was in the service when there were only sailing ships of war.

At the Park the late Admiral was held in veneration. He had a kindly word for everybody and took a kindly interest in the affairs of the little summer colony. He was an Episcopalian in religion and took an active part in the park services. By his geniality he became well known in the village and, as if by premonition, when he left the Park last September he went around and said good-bye to all the old residents of the village, with the remark that he might not come back again.

He will not come back it is true, but a very kindly and loving memory will stay with the residents of the park and village

NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Saves Worry, Saves Money, Saves the Hair

If you want to free your head of dandruff and stop falling hair, you must sooner or later resort to Newbro's Herpicide.

By using Herpicide first you save yourself worry, which is desirable, you save money, which is a consideration, and you save your hair, which is the most important of all.

Why not profit by the experience of Mrs. S. A. Lee, of 110 South 4th street Richmond, Va., who writes:

"Four years' residence in India ruined my hair until it was but two inches long and very thin. I tried everything in Europe and America without benefit until I was induced to use Herpicide. My hair is now long, soft and silky and natural colour, while before it was quite gray. My friends never tire of admiring my hair."

Mrs. Lees story is a typical history of hair troubles. After everything else fails Newbro's Herpicide brings relief. It would be just as effective if used first.

Newbro's Herpicide kills the dandruff germ and prevents falling hair. It stops itching of the scalp almost instantly. No matter what the claims of others, Herpicide is the only genuine original dandruff germ destroyer.

"THE FOURTH ESTATE"

"The Fourth Estate" for the benefit of those playgoers who may not enjoy familiarity with technical expressions, is a play concerning itself with newspapermen. Only one of the four acts is set away from 'The print shop' and this exception is the drawing room in the home of the proprietor of the paper. The play, which has been running six months in New York and Chicago, comes to "The Grand" to-morrow (Wednesday) evening. This is the first time an effort was made authoritatively to show the complete workings of a big plant. The composi-parliments are pictured exactly as they make-up men, editors, sub-editors, artists and chiefs of the various departments are pictured exactly as they appear today in any big daily newspaper shop in the country.

WELCOME CONNAUGHT.

The British evidently regard Canada as the gubernational plum. The Duke of Connaught was banquetted in London in congratulation of his appointment to the Governor-Generalship of Canada. It is evidently felt that honours are reciprocal. It is a great compliment to Canada that she should be selected as the first of the overseas dominions to be ruled by a member of the Royal family; a pretty good indication that the British powers that be do not think Canada is ripe for secession from the Empire, because a trade arrangement has been proposed that puts potatoes and carrots on the free list. We shall be glad to be governed by a manly prince, like Connaught. Canada will, in a literal sense, have a friend at court, and even the King himself is bound to hold the Governor-General of Canada in respect, not only on account of the important position he occupies as the Governor of the first outpost of the Empire, but as a superior in years and a kinsman. We welcome the Duke of Connaught as the future Governor-General of Canada.

A GREAT FLYER.

Bad luck cannot down Canadian pluck. Mr. J. A. D. McCurdy, the Canadian flying machine enthusiast, has accomplished the feat of surpassing all distance records for over-water flights, and though he did not complete the attempted distance of 110 miles, his want of success was not due to any fault of his machine or his management, though he was a good deal like the foolish virgins of the parable; he let his oil run out. There is not the slightest reason to doubt that if lack of lubricating oil had not caused a "hot box," McCurdy would have came through the lacking ten miles as he came through the 95 miles, with flying colours. It is disappointing to be shut off from complete triumph by a paltry matter of no oil. He deserved better. But he has succeeded splendidly and his pluck and persistence are a lesson to those who are disheartened by initial failure. Per ardua ad astra, applies with particular pertinence to McCurdy. It is a far cry from his bumping over the sand-dunes of Petawawa last summer with his "Baddeck," to making the highest score in aviation yet recorded for over-the-water flights. Almost any other man would have been disheartened, but in the bright lexicon of McCurdy there is no such word as fail. His persistence is a variant of the little rhyme—"If at first you don't succeed, fly, fly again."

SAVE OUR FORESTS.

The overflowing revenue of Quebec the past year is due to an increase in the returns from lands and forests. While money is always welcome and useful, it can be got at too high a price, and the price will be too high if we imperil the permanency, so to speak, of our forest resources. So long as a fairly liberal revenue comes from a reasonable and legitimate exploitation for commercial purposes, and with due regard to consideration, it is not so bad. But, when these considerations are disregarded to any considerable extent, dangerous conditions are created. We Canadians have come rather late to an appreciation of the necessity of more rigid conservation of our standing forest wealth. If, a quarter of a century ago, we had been so fully seized of the necessity of making the most, both in the way of use and preservation of our forest reserves, the country would have been vastly benefitted. In that time millions upon millions of feet of our standing timber have passed into commercial forms; and it is a lamentable fact, that, according to a great authority, Mr. Bronson, the great lumber merchant of Ottawa, as much of our timber has been destroyed by forest fires as has been legitimately manufactured, not to speak of reckless waste in lumbering operations. A desire for revenue may easily constitute a menace to the conservation of our splendid stand of timber. But it is to be expected that Quebec will not be unduly influenced by this desire. Its policy in regard to pulpwood, as well as pine lumber—to compel manufacture at home of the raw material of our forests into paper pulp and lumber—is in itself an assurance against indiscriminate slaughter of standing timber; and the same policy on the part of the Ontario Government, will reassure us in regard to future negotiations as to the terms of admission of our pulp products to the United States. Under the agreement for enlarged trade relations these were left in statu quo. It is to be hoped that neither Ontario nor Quebec will relax their regulations, so as to hasten the reduction of our forest resources by free entry of pulp products to the United States market.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The arrival of the Duke of Connaught at Rideau Hall will dispel the idea that Canada is very young—that we have no ruins in this country.

Carrie Nation, the noted saloon smasher, is reported to be dangerously ill in a private sanitarium. She recently suffered a nervous collapse. It is almost impossible to fancy a lady of Mrs. Nation's strenuosity and handiness with the hatchet to be guilty of having nerves.

It seems that the Asquith Government is not influenced by the cry, "No Irish need apply." It has designated the Duke of Connaught to be Governor-General of Canada. Connaught is a good, Irish name, and being Irish in name, is the next best thing to being Irish in fact.

Quebec province is not indifferent to the importance of education. This year it is proposed to appropriate for education the, comparatively, very large sum of $1,005,950 for the fiscal year 1911-12. This is a considerable advance over the expenditure of last year, which was $867,460.

INDEPENDENT BANK AUDIT.

(Brantford Expositor.)

The Bank of Nova Scotia is not to be left in its lonely position of being the sole bank in this country to demand a government audit of all the books of chartered banks, as the following resolution, recently passed, abundantly shows:

That the shareholders and directors of the Traders' Bank of Canada place on record their hearty approval of any legislation of the Dominion Parliament whereby an independent examination and audit under the direction of the government of all Canadian banks shall be made from time to time;

Resolved also, that whilst the system of auditing should be determined by the government, it is hoped that in the public interest, the method to be devised will be thorough and efficient, and of a practical character, as the result of a defective system would create injustice and tend to injure those who might be induced to rely on reports having the sanction of a government or other official auditor.

That a copy of this resolution be forwarded to the Honourable, the Minister of Finance.

The disclosures which have been made of the absolute rottenness of the Farmers' Bank, and the systematic manner in which the books of that institution were falsified, have made a case for an independent and thorough audit which the bankers of this country cannot afford to disregard. No doubt Canadian banks, as a rule, are perfectly solvent, and their officials honourable men, but experience has shown that the absence of proper control which at present exists is faulty, and puts a premium upon dishonesty.

WHERE PULP AND PAPER STAND

(Toronto Star)

Some misunderstanding seems to exist regarding one of the most important and most interesting clauses of the reciprocity agreement, that dealing with pulp and paper. For example, some Canadian paper men with whom the Star conversed today believed that the agreement admitted free United States paper to Canada at once, and that in consequence some Canadian plants would be jeopardized. This is not the case. Whether there will be any change in the Canadian tariffs is conditional on future developments. What will go into effect immediately is the placing on the free list by the United States of all pulp and paper (valued at 4 cents a pound or less, all newsprints, most book papers, and some bonds are under 4 cents), produced from wood grown on private lands in Canada, in other words, on wood upon which there is no restriction placed by the Provinces of Canada.

The United States has made an important immediate tariff reduction without Canada giving any reduction in return. This is not done out of any love for Canada, but because United States publishers have been campaigning for years for free access to Canadian sources of paper supply.

The snarl with the Provinces is of long standing. Briefly, Ontario and Quebec prohibit the export of pulp wood cut from Crown lands. In retaliation the United States imposes a duty of $5.75 per ton on paper manufactured from wood so restricted as to export. This is prohibitive. United States paper firms like Browns' Bros. of Berlin Mills, N.H., have installed a plant at La Tuque, Que., to manufacture paper from Crown lands, and the International Paper Co. has been considering a similar proposition. Such plants will be debarred from the United States market by the $5.75 duty in the future as in the past, unless they get their wood supply from private or unrestricted lands.

It will be noticed that the snarl with the Provinces has been avoided by a wording in the agreement which will make the United States tariff apply to "wood" which is restricted, and not to the "Province" which imposes the restriction.

The agreement further provides that when the United States admits all pulp and paper from all parts of Canada duty free, Canada will do the same for the United States. The United States, no doubt, will do this if the Provinces of Canada remove their restrictions on Crown land pulpwood. Only those Provincial restrictions then stand in the way of absolute free trade in pulp and paper.

Mr. John Norris, chairman of the Paper Committee of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, describes the agreement as satisfactory to American publishers, as it provides for the immediate free entry of pulp and paper from private lands in Canada. He predicts that the pressure of the holders of licenses on Crown land limits upon the Provincial Governments will become so strong for the removal of the restrictions as to be irresistible, and a complete diplomatic victory will result without coercion or ill feeling.

Mr. John Norris need not be too sure that "the pressure of the holders of licenses on Crown land limits will be irresistible to the Provincial Governments." The people of Canada are becoming too deeply impressed with the necessity of conserving our pulp wood forest, that any Provincial Government will find it dangerous to make any relaxation that will open the way for a slaughter of our pulp wood timber.

Financial Post's Statement Re Damages Thro' Transmission Lines

The recent stormy gales, suggest ideas of the costly swaying of Hydro-Electric transmission wires in high winds, and recalls the statements that have been made of great financial damage done thereby. In regard to this the following will be read with interest by the people whose money has built these transmission lines, which may be enlisted, to a large extent, in payment for damages done. The Provincial Government says the damage is trifling. The Financial Post insists that the damage permanent municipal instalments has been great, probably exceeding $100,000. The Post has the following upon the subject:

The Hon. Adam Beck is a diplomat. Mr. Beck has issued a rather incoherent statement purporting to refute certain facts first published in the Post, relating to serious damage to electrical machinery by Hydro-Electric current. Yet Mr. Beck does no such thing. He states that "the damage sustained at the stations, however, was very small, trifling in fact," while Mr. Sothman, engineer of the Hydro-Electric, is quoted as saying that he could meet all the claims for damage ot apparatus of the Hydro-Electric with the small change in his pocket."

These indefinite and apparently carefully inexplicit statements no longer deceive the public. The Post made specific mention of certain damage done. It offered to correct any inaccuracies in its next issue. No statement made by The Post has been challenged. Surely Sir James Whitney, even if he "has not time to answer The Post" has time to deny such well-defined statements as these, which it published a fortnight ago.

"The interruptions have been serious and have resulted in very heavy loss, both to Hydro-Electric Commission and to all the municipalities that have joined in the project. Valuable electrical machinery and revolving apparatus have been destroyed or seriously injured."

"At the transformer house of the Hydro-Electric Commission at Niagara Falls costly oil tanks and other switching apparatus have been burned out. At Berlin motor supplied by the municipality and one transformer, also supplied by them, have been burned out. At Guelph, two transformers have been destroyed. At Preston one transformer, and at Stratford one transformer. The financial loss is not a matter of hundreds of dollars, or thousands, nor even tens of thousands, but probably consider ably exceeds $100,000."

And now all Mr. Beck can say is "that the damage is trifling," and waves it away as not warth considering. What are the facts? Why does not Mr. Beck deny specifically that this machinery, specifically mentioned, has been injured, or destroyed, as stated. He has been given specific cases to investigate. Does he think that the public will forever be satisfied with smug platitudes which explains nothing? The public must be shown. Will the public at Berlin be satisfied with thehe soothing words as indicating that motors and a transformer commonly known to have been burned out were not damaged, and if they were the loss will be very, very trifling? Are not the people at Preston and Stratford entitled to know the truth as to the destruction of machinery in the substations built by them? Is it not a matter of deep interest to the whole of the Province of Ontario to know whether the operation of the Government Transmission has destroyed public property to the value of over $100,000, when this is not mere rumour or idle gossip—it is vouched for to The Post by engineers of high standing in their profession.

And as for Mr. Beck's naive remark that the "trifling loss" will be made up by the contractors who built the machinery," and a Toronto paper's equally innocent suggestion that the machinery was put in under guarantee for a year, the absurdity is only too obvious. It needs no lawyer to see that if destruction results from engineers' incompetence in constructing the line or acident or other the trouble, the loss cannot be borne by contractors innocent of the trouble. The contractors will have something to say on this subject when called upon to make good—which they never will be.

The London Advertiser recently remarked: "The present situation is a very serious one for the municipalities tied to the present scheme. They are entitled to frank explanations." Can it be that Mr. Beck and Mr. Sothman are themselves anxious that the truth should not be known, and is that the reason why the meagre and insufficient excuses given by them are substituted for the full and frank explanation which undoubtedly the municipalities interested and the general public are entitled to receive and will, in time, demand?

A Gain to Canada.

London, Jan. 31.—The Lord Mayor at the Guildhall banquet, referring to the Duke of Connaught's appointment, said they had all read the announcement with the keenest interest. Whilst their first feelings were one of regret, their loss, great though it was, would be a corresponding gain to Canada, and they congratulated the Dominion their good fortune.

Among the guests were Lord Strathcona and the agent-general from Canada.

The duke in the course of his speech at the Guildhall said it would shortly be his pride to be closely, he hoped affectionately, associated with the Dominion of Canada.

Berlin, Ont., Jan. 31.—The inquest into the murder of Franz Lobinski at his lonely shack near Wellesley Village, a couple of weeks ago, was resumed at Wellesley yesterday afternoon. Little evidence of importance was brought out and Coroner Dr. Glaister decided that there was not sufficient to warrant bringing in a verdict, and again adjourned the inquest until Feb. 15.

Earning, Saving and Investing Money

It is most meritorious to earn money honestly, and doubly so to save a part of what you earn. It is easy to earn, but how can you save? Example: Three years ago a working man with family bought 8 Lots from me, paid a deposit and agreed to pay $5.00 per month, also interest and taxes. This he has done faithfully, although at times it required a supreme effort and self denial, but the road to success is not one strewn with roses. Difficulties must be encountered & surmounted. He has surmounted his, and in less than two years his Lots will be fully paid for and worth at least $1,000, which is more than double their cost. The easie and profitable investment with the means to save is the secret of success.

My Lots will double your money in less than five years, for a certainty.

THE GRILLERS CAPTURED THE DISTRICT DEFEATED COBOURG JUNIORS HERE 7-5

It was a Close Call for the Locals as Cobourg Had the Better of the Scoring in the First Half—The Grillers Put on Their Customary Strong Finish.

1200 SAW THE GAME

The Grillers have captured this district of the junior O.H.A. The local youngsters turned the trick last night by defeating Cobourg at Brock street rink in the final game of the district. It was a very tight fit at that. Cobourg outplayed the Petes in the first half, led at one stage by 3 to 0 and at another by 4 to 1, and were in front half way by 4 to 2. The Grillers came back in the second half, however, and reversed the situation by scoring five goals to one and it was 7 to 5 at the finish. The game was played on lightning fast ice before the biggest crowd that has ever witnessed a junior O. H. A. game at Brock street rink, some 1,200 fans braving the Arctic weather to see the wind-up of the district, and they were repaid with a wildly exciting game without a let up from start to finish. It was not always good hockey, for both teams seemed over anxious and lost a lot of good opportunities, but it was fast all the way with the two teams battling until the final gong for victory. The early lead scored by Cobourg and the up-hill fight on the part of the Grillers to overhaul the gritty visitors from the lake front, kept the excitement at fever heat throughout and there were few dull moments. In spite of the importance of the game and the close checking, the play was very clean throughout, the penalty list being comparatively light.

The Grillers had to show their mettle to win last night's game. The visitors put up a surprisingly tough argument throughout and on the play in the first half looked very near good enough to spill the beans. The fast pace tired them thoroughly, and although they did not succeed in making good their threat of trimming Peterborough the next time they met them if the ice was hard, they gave the local team and the Peterborough fans a very busy evening. Cheered on by two hundred and fifty leather-lunged visitors, who escorted them to Peterborough on a special train, they fought until the last ditch and although defeated will take back to Cobourg with them the respect of the Peterborough players and of the local fans who were forced to admire the determination and grit of the visitors in the desperate fight they put up for the district honours.

Cobourg outscored and a shade outplayed the Grillers in the first half, although the margin was not quite as wide as the score looks. The local team did not get working in the early stages. They bunched too much, shot inaccurately, and the forwards did not check back as persistently as they should have done, or id do, in the second period. As a result, the visitors had the better of the argument and had it not been for the gilt-edged work of the Petes defence, the Corktown aggregation would have been quite a distance ahead at the half. The second half, however, saw the Grillers' forward line playing more in their usual form. They began to find their combination and they checked back so closely and continuously that the Cobourg youngsters failed to work in as they had at first. On the other hand, the Petes were boring in well with the rubber and quickly pulled down Cobourg's lead and then shot ahead. A nice individual rush gave the visitors their last score of the game at this stage, but the Petes came back with a brace of counters and easily held Cobourg safe until the end of hostilities.

It was an exciting game, close enough to make the spectators forget the fact that the mercury was falling below the zero mark, and the noise was something to remember. The Cobourg contingent gathered in a body in the southwest corner of the rink and made things lively with their yells. There was no system to the Peterborough rooting, but the local fans came back at the visitors with a continual roar.

The Peterborough defence played sterling hockey all through. Patterson in goal stopped a host of likely shots from well in, and while a couple of lucky shots beat him, he could not be blamed, as they were going wide when somebody turned them into the nets. He saved on a dozen occasions when Cobourg were close in, and cleared quickly. Capt. Reynolds was a whirlwind all through and both on the defence and on the attack played a grand game. His checking was sure and his rushes kept the visitors always on the jump. In the second half he kept his forwards going by switching up on the attacking division, where his work was equally as effective. Heffernan showed his usual brilliant, effective game, checking splendidly and rushing beautifully, although the Cobourg team watched him closely and made it hard for him to get away.

Jerry Coughlin played a beautiful game at rover, his work in the second half being a great factor in Peterborough's victory. His speed and stickhandling made him a very hard man to stop and he started almost every rush, at the same time playing unselfishly and passing neatly and at the right time. He was equally good on the defensive, coming back with every Cobourg rush in the last half, often intercepting a pass or checking an opponent as he was balanced for a shot. Hall worked hard in centre, but was not as effective as usual, possibly because the Cobourghbourg team watched him closely when close into the nets, and he did not get the same opportunities to score as he has had in other battles. He fitted into the combination nicely. Matthews, in spite of his recent illness, delivered a most useful game at left wing. He was always at it and in the last half was especially effective, carrying the rubberber nicely and checking back faithfully. McMartin, on the other wing, had troubles of his own in looking after his check. Hinman, and did not seem able to get going, although he was plugging away all through.

The Cobourg team had a world of speed and with better team work would be a very awkward proposition. They introduced the somewhat unusual tactics of constantly interchanging their defence men and forwards, with the result that there was always a fresh lot of forwards at work. They did not combine very well, however, and lost opportunities to get in close by failing to pass when they reached the defence. Most of the team shot nicely. Peachey, the diminutive goal-keeper, who was not much taller than the top of the nets, saved Cobourg from a worse beating. The youngster was as cool as an iceberg, handling shots from all angles with a nonchalance and sureness that earned the admiration of the fans, and he often saved goals when the Grillers were close in by coming out and spoiling the shot. Niles and Holnbeck, the two defence men, checked effectively, and both rushed nicely, while they did equally as good work when they moved up on the forward line to rest their forwards. Of the advance guard Glidden, who played with the Cobourg Intermediates last season, and Freeman, the rover, were the most conspicuous and at the time time the most effective. Glidden had lots of speed, rushed nicely, and shot wickedly and accurately from any old position. Freeman was as slippery as the George street pavement after a thaw, and was very hard to stop when he got under way. Referee Sproule says that Fletcher had his hands full looking after this youngster when he played for the Cobourg intermediates against Trenton the week before last, a statement that is easy to believe after his work here last night. Hinman played a dashing, effective game at left wing, rushing nicely and checking back persistently.

F. H. Sproule of Toronto, refereed the game most satisfactorily with an eagle eye for offsides and nothing escaped him. Neither team could have a word of complaint about the refereing. The teams were:

	COBOURG
	Peachey
	Niles
	Holenbeck
	Freeman
Cunningham	Glidden	Hinman
Matthews	Hall	McMartin
	Coughlin
	Heffernan
	Reynolds
	Patterson

PETERBOROUGH

The play was fast from the face-off, but the teams were plainly nervous, showing it by the number of offsides, which occurred at the go-in. Sproule's bell was working overtime during the first few minutes and the play remained around centre ice, with neither team having much advantage. Then Glidden and Freeman broke away and came down together nicely, but Patterson pulled off a pretty stop and cleared into the corner. Glidden had another good opening, but Patterson's pads intercepted his low shot. Holnbeck, the Cobourg cover drew the first penalty of the game for tripping. While he was off Peterborough had the best of the going. Heffernan pulled off a nice rush and on a combination with Hall, scored, but the last pass was offside, and the play was called back. The play was of the up-and-down-the-rink variety, and Peachey and Patterson were called upon frequently, both showing classy and Patterson were called upon frequently, both showing class. Peachey came out and spoiled a shot when the Grillers were right through. A little later Heffernan had a chance with the nets empty, but shot wide. It was Cobourg who finally scored. From a face-off near the Petes' nets the puck was passed back to Freeman and the little rover took a lightning shot. It was going wide until Heffernan, in trying to catch the rubber, knocked it into the nets. Score, Cobourg 1, Peterborough 0.

Hinman, the left wing of the visitors, was penalised for loafing, and with one man to the good the Petes pressed hard, but could not score. Peach caught a swift, low one from Heffernan, and followed up this good work by grabbing off a high drive from McMartin from close in. Try as they might, the Grillers could not beat him, and Cobourg increased the lead when Glidden scored from close in on a pass from Hinman, in five minutes. Cobourg 2, Peterborough 0.

The next few minutes were featured by a couple of brilliant rushes by Reyolds. Following one of these Matthews nearly scored, but Peachey made another splendid stop. Coughlin was benched for tripping Freeman, although it looked accidental. Cobourg was having a little the better of the argument and their chances for the district looked bright when Glidden, securing the rubber, slipped up the side and beat Patterson with a neat shot. Cobourg 3, Peterborough, 0.

It looked bad for the Grillers, but their luck went up a minute after the face-off, when Matthews, getting the rubber at the side, fooled Peachey with a weak roller that bounded through the Cobourg goaler's legs as he went down on his knees for it. Cobourg 3, Peterborough 1.

The roar that greeted the first score for Peterborough had hardly died out when Glidden set the hopes of the visitors soaring, by a long wrist-shot from centre ice, that landed in the Petes' nets. It would have gone over the goal, but one of the Grillers, in trying to stop it with his hand, pulled the rubber down between the posts giving Cobourg a rather fluky goal. Score, Cobourg, 4; Peterborough, 1.

Three goals behind, with half-time only a few minutes away, the Grillers battled desperately to pull down the lead. Niles was penalised for nice dash from the Petes nets, Coughlin and Hall pulled off a pretty passing rush from centre, following a nice dash from the Petes and Coughlin pasted one past Peachey, at short range. Cobourg 4, Peterborough 2.

Niles had hardly got back on the ice when he was again sent away, just 90 seconds before half-time was called.

The Petes came back in the second half with a burst of speed that swept the visitors off their feet. Niles was still in the penalty box at the commencement of the half and forty-five seconds after the face-off, Matthews and Coughlin carried the rubber from centre through the whole Cobourg team. Matthews' shot was stopped, but Coughlin was on hand to slide the rubber past Peach on the rebound. Cobourg 4, Peterborough 3.

The play was all Peterborough at this stage. Hall got clean through on a combination rush, with Coughlin but Peachey came out, and blocked the shot. The visitors could not hold the Grillers out and their rushes were smothered up by the back-checking of the local team. After two minutes' playing the Petes equalized. From a face-off Hall slipped the rubber back to Coughlin who fooled Peachy with a quick shot. The teams were even for the first time since the game started. Peterborough 4, Cobourg 4.

The Grillers were going at top speed now, and Cobourg were fighting with their backs to the wall to keep them out. The Petes went ahead for the first time when Coughlin and Hall combined nicely for a neat goal by the latter. Peterborough 5, Cobourg 4.

Glidden was penalized for tripping, and distinguished himself on his return by getting the puck at centre and slipping across the rink in a puzzling semi-circular rush, fooled Patterson, with a low, swift shot from the side. Peterborough 5, Cobourg 5.

Coughlin was banished for tripping and was followed to the side by Holnbeck, who tripped Matthews as the latter was getting away nicely. Patterson received a crack over the head in a scrimmage around the Petes' nets, and there was a short delay. Freeman was caught slashing and was chased, and while he was off, Hall and Matthews went up together in a nice passing rush which Hall wound up properly, by scoring. Peterborough 6, Cobourg 5.

Coughlin was sent away again. Heffernan was hurt, and the game was pulled up until he recovered. Hall batted a rebound in with his hand, but Sproule had his eyes open, and refused to allow the goal. Freeman was penalized again and Hall followed him to the side. They were both back again, however, when Coughlin scored the last goal of the game on a neat shot, after Peachy had distinguished himself by pulling off a number of pretty saves. McMartin was ruled off just before the game ended.

The summary follows;

1—Cobourg, 10 mins.
2—Cobourg, Glidden, 5 mins.

"Pneumonia"

Pneumonia is nothing more or less than "Lung Fever," or as it used to be called, "Inflammation of the Lungs" and the results come entirely from a local source such as taking a violent cold.

There is more or less difficulty in breathing: a cough, at first dry, but soon accompanied by raising a thick, sticky, rusty-colored matter, composed of a mixture of phlegm and blood.

There is only one way to prevent Pneumonia, and that is to cure the cold just as soon as it appears. Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup will do this quickly and effectively.

Mrs. G. W. Bowman, Pattullo, Ont., writes: "Three years ago I caught a cold which ended in a severe attack of Pneumonia. Since that time, at the beginning of each winter, I seem to catch cold very easily. I have been so hoarse that I was unable to speak loud enough to be heard across the room. Last winter, however, a friend advised me to try Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup, saving it had helped her. I bought a bottle and before it was half used I was completely cured. I also find it a good medicine for the children when they have colds."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; the price 25 cents.

Manufactured only by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

The Peterborough intermediate O. H.A. team will practise to-night at 7 o'clock at Brock street rink. A full turnout is expected in view of the fact that the Petes will probably have to go into action again this week if they are ordered to play off the tie with Trenton. The following are expected out: Derocher, Bond, McMillan, Giroux, Kelly, Park, Sorel, Ray, capt.

Last nights victory over Cobourg gave the Grillers the district, and the standing is as follows:

	Won	Lost	Goals For	Goals Agst.
Peterborough	3	1	34	18
Cobourg	2	2	21	20
Lindsay	1	3	18	35

The Grillers' record is as follows:
At Cobourg—
Peterborough 5, Cobourg 3.
At Peterborough—
Peterborough 17, Lindsay 3.
At Lindsay—
Peterborough 6, Lindsay 7.
At Peterborough—
Peterborough 7, Cobourg 5.

In the four games played the Grillers have only been scored on five times in the second and four of these goals were scored in Lindsay. In the first two games their opponents failed to score in the last period and last night Cobourg only bagged one.. The Grillers are great finishers.

It is likely that the youngsters will be called upon to meet the champion Kingston juniors in the second round, and may have to go to Kingston on Friday and play back here Monday or Tuesday.

Can Frontenacs repeat this year and follow in the footsteps of the two teams (Peterborough and Stratford) which succeeded in accomplishing this feat in the 18 years during which the O.H.A. series has been in existence? asks the Toronto News. In 1894 and 1895 the Peterborough juniors won out the junior honours. In 1894 there was a very small number of clubs entered and Peterborough was in a class by itself. The second year that Peterborough won out (1896), however, they had to go some, and only succeeded in winning from the Toronto Granites by 7 to 6, and curiously enough since that date the junior championship has been won by a margin of one goal on but three occasions, including Frontenacs win over Preston by 8 to 7 last year, and their loss of the championship to Toronto Marlboros in that great overtime struggle at Port Hope in 1903, when the Toronto lads nosed out in the third game of a play off by 1 to 10. In 1907-08-09, the Stratford juniors established a great record by winning in three successive years. If Frontenacs are successful this year it will be the third occasion for a team to repeat. Can they do it?

The following has been submitted to the sorting editor of the Examiner with a request for its publication:

One of the fastest games of hockey played this season was played on Saturday, Jan. 28th, between the old-time rivals, Armatures and Metre department teams. The game was clean all the way through, with the exception of a couple of metre men getting too fresh with their stick, and Referee N. Barry called them to order by giving them 3 minutes on the fence. Runt Bain was the star for the losers, and put up a fine exhibition all the way through for the Metre team, for which he got very poor support. Hi Woodchopper Wood was conspicuous by his chopping and slashing.

The Armatures played a nice cool, clean game, and at no time felt anyway ferocious over the game. Jobe in goal was never at any time worried. Coach Campbell yelled the boys advice from the side of the rink, which was wholly responsible for the victory. The score at half time stood 4-1 in favour of the Armatures, and when the time was called the score stood 6-2 in favour of the Armature seven. As this has been the third time for the Armature team to lick a pike Metre seven, the Armature team don't take upon themselves any credit for making it an easy victory

Mr. Norman Barry acted as referee and gave perfect satisfaction. To pick the stars of the winning team was almost impossible to decide. The teams were as follows:

At Mature	Metre
Goal, E. Jobe;	point, John Doherty;
cover, Arthur Flowers (capt.);	rover, Fred Mowry;
centre, Will Sheppard;	left wing, Frank Barry;
right wing, Robert Carson.
Metre — Goal, Birdgnaw;	point, O'Rourke;
cover, Mornney;	rover, Wood (capt.);
right wing, McWilliams.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

THERE is a certain astonishingly common little social sin which has three roots—one in impatience, one in egotism and one in selfishness.

I wonder if you can name it fromm that description.

I mean the habit of interrupting.

It is really astonishing to me to notice how many people, otherwise well bred, are guilty of this offence against tact.

I know a dear little hostess, with charming manners for the most part, who continually embarrasses her guests at the table by breaking in on what someone is saying to ask if they do not wish to be helped to this or that.

Of course she only does this because she is anxious for the well being of her guests, but surely they would not be in danger of suffering the pangs of hunger if she waited for a lull in the conversation to offer to replenish their plates.

Blatant and open interrupting of what another is saying by some remark of one's own is, of course, a fault easily recognized and promptly condemned, but there are some less obvious forms of interrupting that I consider quite as bad offenses.

For instance, to interrupt a general conversation on a subject which does not happen to interest one by abruptly turning the trend onto some subject which one does like, seems to me to be quite as bad as to break in when another is speaking.

And then it seems to me that the blank stare of those people, who always think of what they are going to say next while you are talking, deserves to be classed as an interruption. It is a silent one to be sure, but none the less irritating, as all who have suffered it can testify.

Another brand of interrupter is the person who breaks in with a pun or joke, or something he has been reminded of, right in the middle of your narrative and shunts you so completely off the track that it is impossible, or at least most awkward to attempt to get back again.

If I had begun with my favourite lead, a question, and asked, "Do you ever interrupt?" you would doubtless have mentally answered "Of course not."

But now that I've explained all I mean by interrupting perhaps you won't be quite so positive.

How about it?

HOW WEAK WOMEN

May be Made Strong at Small Expense and no Risk

There are hundreds of women in this vicinity, weak, thin, run-down, tired out and nervous. Such women need Vinol just as much as did Mrs. Jane Pepper, of 2307 Howard street, San Francisco, Cal., who says:

"I have used Vinol for some time with particularly gratifying results. I was run-down, weak and debilitated, and my appetite was gone. After taking several bottles of Vinol I found my condition greatly improved, and do not hesitate to recommend Vinol to anyone similarly affected." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

Vinol is not a secret nostrum, but a delicious cod liver and iron tonic without oil which will create an appetite, tone up the digestive organs, make pure blood and create strength.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte street; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Simcoe streets.

HONOURING THE HOLY GHOST

By Rev. W. J. Ward

If I should say that from one-half to two-thirds of the professing Christians in our churches to-day were practically Unitarian in their belief, I might be called by some an extremist and accused of making a statement that I could not prove, but if the reader will take time to examine this matter as I have and then note that I said practically Unitarians, I believe these criticisms would be modified somewhat if not altogether withdrawn. No one believes that these people are intending to be Unitarian in faith or that they have the Unitarian church's creed, far from this, but because of ignorance concerning the personality and deity of the Holy Spirit they are practically Unitarians in their faith. If this is doubted let some orthodox preacher who reads this go before his congregation next Sunday morning and preach a sermon on the subject of the Personality and Deity of the Holy Ghost and discourse on the office and work of the Holy Spirit as taught in the scriptures and then by some method find out the views of his people previously on this subject. If he is not then convinced that his people are in ignorance concerning this subject, then this writer will ask that preacher's pardon and admit that so far as this brothers' church is concerned this statement at the beginning of this article is not true; but if all the preachers in this world would do this I am satisfied that the conclusion would be that one-half to two-thirds of the so-called orthodox Christians of this country are practically Unitarians. I say Unitarians because it is impossible to understand the second person in the trinity without a proper understanding and accepting of the third person. As Jesus came to reveal the Father so the Holy Spirit came to reveal the Son, and as no one can accept and understand the fatherhood of God, only as to accept the Christ of God, so no one can understand and accept the divinity of the Christ save as it is revealed to him by the Holy Spirit, or as Paul put it, "No man can call Jesus Lord save by the Holy Ghost," and because of this ignorance concerning the third person in the trinity stands unrevealed in His divine person and character. Hence Unitarianism is the result. True, we may accept Him in His human nature and behold in Him a good man and even believe that He offered Himself as a sacrifice for human sin, and yet because of lack of spiritual enlightenment our eyes are closed to His real divine character and mission, because the Holy Spirit has not been honoured and accepted in his work of revealing the Christ of God. Jesus said this Himself when He told the disciples that it was expedient for them that He go away. They did not and could not understand the real character of Jesus until the day of Pentecost, when their spiritual eyes were opened and Jesus was glorified before them in and through the divine Holy Spirit Himself, who came as the fulfillment of the promise to them, and to-day because of the lack of the Holy Ghost the church is a pre-Pentecostal experience, and while many orthodox so-called preachers are preaching about Jesus, yet His true mission and power is hidden from their view and the people to whom they preach are perishing for lack of knowledge and their own ministry is barren because of lack of power. "Ye shall receive power after that the Holy Ghost is come upon you." This means power to the otherwise impossible task of saving a lost and dying world. Now just where the blame for this state of affairs is to be placed may be hard to determine. We may say the preachers are to blame, as they are the appointed leaders and teachers of the people, but how can the preacher teach unless he first be taught, and if he depends upon the modern school of theology for his teaching how long will he have to wait to get the needed instruction? After a ministry of over twenty years this preacher is just beginning to wake up to the fact that this is the dispensation of the Holy Ghost and he did not learn this from any human school of theology either, but it has dawned upon him that it is time to begin to honour the Holy Ghost if he expects the Holy Ghost to honour him in his ministry. And I am satisfied that if the Christian ministry could be led into this experience personally and then teach the people their privileges under this dispensation of the Spirit that the conquest of this world for our Lord and His Christ would not be far distant. But because of this lack the progress of the coming of the Kingdom is necessarily slow.

God speed the day when the Holy Ghost will have His place in the church again, as He did in the first 300 centuries and which He must have before the work of salvation can be complete. Holiness will then be given its rightful place and we need no special class to propogate it, for then it will be the supreme desire of every church as well as every individual that names the name of Christ.

As it is the majority of the Christians of to-day think of the Holy Ghost as a thing, an attribute or an influence, a something emanating from God, rather than as very God Himself, and clothed with all the attributes of deity and exercising as God's vice-general the power of commander and leader of the church militant in this His day and dispensation, and because of this lack of recognition He is unable to assume His rightful leadership in the work of subduing the kingdoms of evil and establishing the reign of righteousness which Christ made possible by the sacrifice of Himself. But we believe a better day is coming and more and more the work of the Holy Spirit is being honoured in some of our churches, but much yet needs to be done. Let us by voice and pen proclaim that the Holy Ghost is King to-day and is to rejoin until "the kingdoms of this world have become the kingdoms of our God and His Christ."

YOU CAN SEE IT WORK

The beauty of Dr. A. W. Chase's Ointment as a healer of the skin in eczema, salt rheum, itching skin disease and old sores is that you can see from day to day exactly what it is doing. There is no guess work, no experimenting. It simply heals the skin and makes it soft, smooth and natural. It heals as if by magic. Prove this to your own satisfaction by trying it.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE YOUNG PEOPLES' SOCIETIES

Officers Selected and Reports Received at Gathering at Knox Church---Interesting Address Was Given by Rev. Mr. Priest, of Toronto, Upon the Young Peoples' Movement.

The annual rally of the Young People's Guilds of the city was held last night at Knox church. There was a fairly large turnout of representatives from the various denominations of the city. The Rev. J. G. Brown occupied the chair, and needless to say he carried his duties to a successful issue.

The financial report of the Guild for the past year was submitted to the people in due form and was as follows:

Subscriptions	$ 25.80
Amount contributed by 12 societies out of thirteen	76.55
Total	$102.35
Expenses	$105.25
Sundries	5.45
Balance on hand	3.20

The above statement is the gist of the annual report. There are only a few minor items that have been omitted. The reoprt was duly received and adopted.

Next followed the election of officers, which was as follows: President, Rev. H. R. Trompour. Sec-Treas., Mr. W. G. Shiner

The next item on the programme was a solo by Miss Robson, entitled "Ninety and Nine," which was very beautifully rendered

Rev. J. G. Brown then introduced the speaker of the evening, the Rev. H. C. Priest, secretary of the Young People's Movement in Canada and a returned missionary from India.

The theme of the speaker's discourse centred chiefly around the mission problem, which confronts the civilized nations to-day and also some of his unique experiences while engaged in mission work in India. The speaker also referred to the convention held in Whitby, in which there was a large delegation from the Peterborough district, and he hoped to see a still larger one this year. He also referred to the appeal of missions in the present age and to the past record of achievements in the Mission field, which was incomparable to the work which was yet to be done.

Ferry Half Buried.

Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Jan. 31.—A 50-mile gale with snow caused serious damage by ice to the docks on both sides of the St. Mary's River Sunday night.

The ferry Algoma was half buried in a flow that swept down without warning from the rapids. The crew and 24 passengers spent the night on the boat and walked ashore over the ice yesterday.

Several small buildings were unroofed and many chimneys blown down.

Lamp Wicks.

When lamp wicks grow stubborn and will not work easily pull out a thread from each edge. This makes the wick smaller and easier to manage.

A Glove Cleaning Hint.

In washing chamois gloves do not wring them or even squeeze very dry, as with ordinary glove cleaning. The skins pull easily, and wringing breaks the tender fabric.

Put the rinsed gloves into a thick Turkish towel and press out most of the moisture, then hang them in a strong current of air to dry. Fasten the pair together by buttons and hang with fingers down.

The shrinking, of which many women complain in chamois glove washing, can be overcome by drying the gloves on the hand after they come from the Turkish towel and a few minutes' airing.

Rub gently until dry. The heat of the hand makes this drying a quicker process than most women imagine, and there is little danger of taking cold.

Do not neglect rinsing as well as washing in soapy water if you do not wish your gloves to stiffen.

Lady Gordon's Dress Ideas.

Lady Duff Gordon thinks that every woman should dress according to her face and form. Middle aged women, she thinks, should not follow the fashions, but should have fashions of their own, as a dress that suits one's own face and form doubles the chances for looking well, which is all middle aged women may expect.

SAYS THE WORST OF THE WINTER IS YET TO COME

The worst of the winter is yet to come, if any reliance is to be placed on the forecast made by Dr. H. Habernicht, a distinguished member of the staff of Perthe's great geographical establishment at Gotha. For several years Prof. Habernicht has endeavoured to make a forecast of the winter weather, largely from observations on the gulf stream and the movements of the ice in the Arctic and southward.

For the next month he promises us severe wintry weather. From the uniform distribution of temperature in the gulf stream, a result of the scarcity of ice around Newfoundland, and from the extraordinary large masses of drift ice during the summer between North Cape and Spitzbergen, he concludes that there will be unusually hard and continuous cold weather in Europe.

The want of temperature variations in the gulf stream leaves little room for low North Atlantic minima, and the ice masses around the North Cape favour the extension of the Siberian high pressure and cold region westward. In Central Europe hard winters often set in about the end of November or the beginning of December, after a new or full moon, with considerable precipitation, followed immediately by east winds and cold weather. Should this winter not be considerably colder than the average of many years, Dr. Habernicht would regard this as a sign that he had overestimated the influence of the drift ice and temperature changes in the North Atlantic Ocean on European climate, and that hitherto his forecasts have been the result of chance. Should this turn out to be the case, he states he would definitely give up his communications concerning ice and weather, since they would possess no recognizable practical value.

HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

The East City Hockey Club have accepted the challenge of the Young Northern Lights to a game of hockey and it will be pulled off at Brock St Rink to-morrow night.

The Simcoe A team of Toronto, with which Ken Crane and Hugh Burritt of Peterborough, were playing, were knocked out of the running last night by the Toronto Canoe Club juniors. The score was 6 to 3 in favour of the Paddlers, who led at the half by 3 to 1.

Stratford surprised the hockey world last night by defeating Parkdale Canoe Club in Stratford by 4 goals to 3. St. Michaels, after beating Stratford on their own ice, were easy victims for Parkdale, and it was thought that the Canoeists would turn the trick on the Classic City bunch.

Tommy Daly, well known to Peterborough fight fans is responsible for a good story. Tommy, who trains the Tecumseh Lacrosse Club in the dog days is now handling the Belleville professional team, and until a short time ago was trainer of the Trenton pros. Talking about the attendance at some of the games in Buck Irving's circuit, Daly remarked: "The Trenton team was playing a game at home not long ago and a row started on the ice which so disgusted the spectators that the three went out to get a drink and we had to stop the game until we could go out and get some spectators." To get down to cases the attendance at the game in question was only one hundred and fifty.

TO ASSIST WIVES.

Ontario to Have Laws on Wife Desertion Amended.

Toronto, Jan. 31.—Sir James Whitney moved in the Legislature yesterday afternoon a resolution of thanks to the Imperial Government for copies of the records of the House of Lords, House of Commons, and other historical volumes. The resolution will be forwarded to the Imperial Government through the Lieutenant-Governor and the Governor-General.

Sir James also moved a resolution of thanks to the persons named in the librarian's report who had contributed books to the library of the House. Both motions were seconded by Hon. J. J. Foy, and passed.

Sir James indicated his desire for the prompt transaction of business. The Prime Minister said he did not know that there would be any reason to rush or hurry business, but it would be too bad to have nothing done on Mondays. There was no Government business on the order paper for yesterday, but on some Monday the Government might possibly wish to take up some Government business. He would, therefore, give notice of motion, seconded by Hon. Mr. Foy, that Government orders be placed on the order paper for next Monday and each succeeding Monday of the session.

Hon. Mr. Cochrane introduced a consolidation bill respecting the cutting of saw logs on Government lands.

Hon. Col. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, gave notice that he would to-day move the House into committee of supply and ways and means. It is understood that the estimates will be presented to the House this afternoon, and the budget speech be made on Thursday.

As a result of a number of deputations which have called upon the Attorney-General on behalf of the "deserted wife," Hon. J. J. Foy is bringing in a bill, the objects of which are to secure a modification of the difficulties in the way of securing maintenance. The measure removes the necessity of proving repeated cruelties and assaults which often has stood in the way of a summons, and now permits the crown to act on her behalf by a simple proof of the husband's cruelty, and his denial of a comfortable home.

It will also change a troublesome clause in the old bill, which read to the effect that a deserted wife could summon the delinquent husband by proving him capable of maintaining "his wife and her family," which was sometimes interpreted as meaning her mother or father. The new bill reads "his wife or wife and family."

It will provide that orders for payment of money into court for purpose of maintenance are made enforcible by summons.

MARKET REPORTS.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—Reciprocity wheat selling at Winnipeg to-day without limit had a depressing effect on the market here. Closing prices showed a net loss of 1c to 1⅛c to 1⅜c to 1⅝c. Corn finished ⅛c to ⅜c up to ⅜c down. Oats off ⅜c to ½c, and provisions at 5c decline to 15c advance.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Report Slow Business for Cattle—Chicago Firmer.

GLASGOW, Jan. 30.—Edward Watson and Ritchie report 280 States cattle offered. Trade experienced slower prices, favoring buyers. Top quality steers, 12c; secondary, 11½c; bulls in request, 10½c to 11¾c.

Union Stock Yards.

TORONTO, Jan. 30.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 65 carloads, consisting of 1439 cattle, 19 hogs, 215 sheep and lambs, and 4 calves.

Exporters.

E. L. Woodward bought 280 cattle for Swift & Co. as follows: 115 steers for London, 1314 lbs. average weight, at $5.65 average price, or a range of $5.50 to $5.80; also 16 bulls, 1760 to 1900 lbs., at $5.30 to $5.50. For Liverpool, 165 steers, 1220 lbs., at $5 average price, or a range of $4.75 to $5.15; 15 bulls, 1800 to 1850 lbs., at $5 to $5.25.

Butchers.

Prime picked lots of butchers, and there were few of them, sold at $5.75 to $6; loads of good, $5.50 to $5.75; medium, $5.25 to $5.50; common, $5 to $5.25; cows, $3.50 to $4.90; with a few good enough for export at $5 to $5.15; bulls, $4 to $5.

Milkers and Springers.

A limited number sold at $60 to $85 and one at $70.

Veal Calves.

Four veal calves sold at $8.50 to $9 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs

Wesley Dunn bought all offered as follows: Sheep, export, at $5 to $5.25; rams, at $4 to $4.25 per cwt.

Hogs.

W. J. Johnston reports prices as follows: Selects, fed and watered, $7.60 and $7.65 to $7.70, to drovers for hogs, f.o.b. cars at country points.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Jan. 30.—At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market the receipts of live stock for the week ending Jan. 28 were 1200 cattle, 925 sheep and lambs, 3475 hogs and 175 calves, while the offerings this morning amounted to 850 cattle, 600 sheep and lambs, 1200 hogs and 75 calves.

A feature of the trade was the stronger undertone to market for cattle on account of smaller run, and prices scored advances of ¼c per pound. The quality of stock coming forward is better than it has been of late, as in most cases it is well finished, which drovers claim that they have to pay more money for in the country; but, as the supplies that are being fed are larger than a year ago, and as the export demand is somewhat limited for them at present, the indications are that values will not go much higher, if any.

The attendance of buyers was fairly large, but owing to the advance in prices noted above the demand was rather slow, and purchases were principally in small lots to fill actual wants, consequently trade on the whole was only fair. Choice steers sold at 6½c to 6¾c; good at 6c to 6¼c; fairly good at 5½c to 5¾c; fair at 5c to 5¼c, and the lower grades at 4½c to 4¾c per pound. There were a fair number of good to choice heavy bulls offered, which brought 5c to 5½c per pound.

A weaker feeling developed in the market for hogs, and prices since this day a week ago show a decline of 25c to 35c per 100 lbs. This is attributed to the fact that supplies were somewhat in excess of the actual requirements, but at the above reduction the demand from packers was ample to absorb all offerings, and sales of selected lots were made at $7.50 to $8 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars. The impression here is that prices will not go much higher than they are at present.

The tone of the market for sheep and lambs was steady on account of the small supplies. The demand was fair for small lots, and sales of sheep were made at 4½c to 4¾c, and lambs at 6c to 6¼c per lb. Calves were scarce and in demand at fair prices. Choice stock sold at 8½c, and the commoner ones at 6c to 6c per pound.

East Buffalo Cattle Market.

EAST BUFFALO, Jan. 30.—Cattle—Receipts, 3135; market active and steady; prime steers, $5.50 to $5.75; butcher grades, $5 to $5.75; cows, $3.50 to $5.50.
Calves—Receipts, 1150; market slow; 25c lower; cull to choice, $5.75 to $10.50.
Sheep and Lambs—Receipts, 14,600; market fairly active and firm; choice lambs, $6 to $6.35; culls to fair, $4.75 to $5.75; yearlings, $5 to $5.35; sheep, $3 to $4.75.
Hogs—Receipts, 11,200; market active and higher; yorkers, $8.00 to $8.10; stags, $6.50 to $7; pigs, $6.75 to $8.05; mixed, $8.00 to $8.10; heavy, $8.25 to $8.40; roughs, $7.25 to $7.40.

Chicago Live Stock.

CHICAGO, Jan. 30.—Hogs—Receipts, 35,000; market 5c higher; mixed and butchers, $7.70 to $7.95; good, heavy, $7.50 to $7.90; rough, heavy, $7.50 to $7.65; light, $7.75 to $8.05; pigs, $7.65 to $8.15.
Cattle—Receipts, 26,000; market steady; 10c higher; beeves, $4.65 to $7.65; cows and heifers, $2.60 to $5; stockers and feeders, $3.70 to $6.20; Texans, $4.15 to $5.35; calves, $7.35 to $9.75.

Toilet of Nose and Throat.

Great caution must be exercised in interfering with the natural processes in the nose. Frequent douching and spraying with antiseptic solutions is often very irritating and injurious in some old standing cases of catarrh the nasal douche is necessary, but its use should be directed by a physician. The careless use of the douche may lead to infection of the ear. When a cleansing spray or douche is necessary, the following should be employed in preference to strong antiseptic solutions or advertised catarrh cures:

To a pint of warm water add one teaspoonful of a powder composed of equal parts of sodium bicarbonate, sodium biborate and sodium chloride. This may be used warm in an atomiser when the nose is dry and crusty or clogged with soot and dust.

In blowing the nose, especially after a douche or spray has been used, close one nostril and blow with moderate force through the other. The usual metod of partially closing both nostrils and forcibly blowing often causes infectious matter to be blown into the ears. After using a nasal douche exposure to the open air should be avoided for at least half an hour, as the nose has been deprived of its protective mucus and time is necessary for the mucus to reform. If an oil spray is used following the douche this precaution is not necessary.

When the nostrils are irritated or inflamed from discharges, and especially if there is any ulceration, the ordinary official ointment of the yellow oxide of mercury is an excellent preparation for use. It may be diluted with an equal part of vaseline. This preparation is cheaper and safer than advertised salves or nostrums.

Absorption of poisonous matter from the intestines, due to constipation, is a frequent cause of nasal congestion. Care of the bowels is extremely important as a preventive measure.

PILLPOUNDERS LOST

The Pill-pounders sustained their first defeat in the Mercantile League last night when the fast C.G.E. tool room team trimmed them in handy fashion in a Mercantile League fixture at Brock street rink after the Cobourg-Peterborough game. The score was 7 to 0 in favour of the tool room team, who were too fast for the druggists. The latter were further handicapped by not having their best line-up available. Art Hall, the centre of the Grillers, earned the title of "Iron Man" by playing two games in a row, figuring on the line-up of the tool room seven after playing a gruelling game against Cobourg.

TO CURE A HEADACHE

The experience of Mr. O. Barber, Simcoe Ont., is of interest to all who suffer from headaches. He writes: "For a long time I was troubled with headaches which came on about once a week with such violence that I could not eat or do my work. Headache powders and quick cures did me no good. I then used six boxes of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food and have not been troubled with headache since. That was eight months ago."

In a Bad Way.

The physician had taken his patient's pulse and temperature and proceeded to ask the usual questions. "It—or—seems," said he, regarding the unfortunate with scientific interest, "that the attacks of fever and the chills appear on alternate days. Do you think—is it your opinion—that they have, so to speak, decreased in violence, if I may use the word?"

The patient smiled feebly. "Doc," said he, "on fever days my head's so hot I can't think, and on ague days I shake so I can't hold an opinion."

HOP WENT FAR AFIELD.

Then the Quarry Was Found Right at His Own Door.

Almost every farmer up north is personally acquainted with at least one or two deer, and sometimes he doesn't have to go beyond his own apple orchard to get a shot at one. Jealous "city fellers" have accused certain farmers of keeping a deer under lock and key and leading it out early in the morning of the first day of the open season for execution. Certain it is that many deer are shot by moonlight before the season is half an hour old.

Hop Wheeler lived in a spot where the woods came down almost to his back door until three years ago, when most of the timber on the hill was cut away.

Hop had a brand-new high-power rifle that would bore a hole through a good-sized maple tree. He practiced shooting with it at a target until he was sure that he could hit a deer at 300 yards. All that was necessary then was to find the deer.

The season opened on a Monday, as it always does, and Hop was up two hours before dawn, polishing his gun and stowing away doughnuts and hard-boiled eggs in a knapsack. At 5 o'clock he hit the trail for a place where deer are usually plentiful. Other hunters were in the woods before him, and occasionally he heard the crack of a rifle not very far away. Before the day was over he passed several hunting camps and saw the carcasses of freshly killed deer hanging by the doors. The successful hunters were usually celebrating their good luck, and Hop was often invited to wet his whistle before he moved along.

But not a living deer did Hop see. Once he heard a scurrying of hoofs in the dry leaves, but when he ran ahead and peered through the bushes that blocked his path there was not an animal in sight. He could hear the rapid diminuendo of the pattering hoof-beats far down a ravine.

He slept in the barn of an abandoned farmhouse that night, and at daylight he was up and stalking through the woods again. But the second day brought no better luck than the first. It was one of those gorgeous days of early Indian summer, when the declining sun sheds his last warm rays on the hillsides of the north, which Jack Frost on his southward march has painted yellow and brown and flaming scarlet. But Hop had no eyes for the beauties of nature. He was tired and sore. He came out on a mountain road early in the afternoon, threw down the gun, bit off a fresh chew of tobacco and uttered one word, the one most expressive of his feelings.

He was through. A farmer came rattling along in a buckboard and offered him a ride. He accepted with a grunt of thanks and jumped in. There was something with hoofs and antlers strapped on behind the seat, but Hop pretended not to see it. The farmer knew well enough what the hunter's feelings were and was laughing at him without uttering a sound or moving a muscle of his solemn face. They talked about many things, but the subject of deer was never mentioned. They shook hands as they parted, and the farmer wished his passenger good luck.

"I wonder if he meant anything particular by that," said Hop to himself, as he buttoned his rifle under his coat and started for home.

The sun was just setting when Hop reached his shack. He hung his gun up over the door, kicked the cat out of the house, and loudly damanded his supper. There was something in the tone of his voice that warned his wife not to say any questions about his two days' hunt. She placed the supper on the table and Hop sat down to eat it. He was just raising his first forkful to his mouth when—bang! A firearm was discharged outside the house.

"What in thunder was that!" said Hop, jumping to his feet.

He opened the back door and looked out. There, over the fence, almost in his own yard, was a wounded deer on the ground! It was a splendid buck with large, spreading antlers. A hunter, knife in hand, was running up to cut its throat.

Hop retreated into the house and gave the door a slam that almost jarred it from its hinges.

"Well, I'll be tarred and feathered," he groaned, "if that sin't rubbin' it in!"

MYLIUS CONVICTED OF SEDITIOUS LIBEL AND SENTENCED TO PRISON FOR A YEAR

Writer of the Articles Stating King George Had Contracted a Morganatic Marriage Was Found Guilty by Jury To-day.

GREAT INTEREST IN CASE

Special Wire to the Examiner.

LONDON, ENG., FEB. 1.—Edward Mylius was to-day found guilty of seditious libel, and was sentenced to one year in prison.

LONDON, FEB. 1.—"It is within my right to demand that the King, who accuses me, should be present in person in this court," said Edward F. Mylius, counsel for himself, in the trial commenced this morning before Lord Alverstone, on a charge of seditious libel, brought against him by His Majesty, in connection with the allegation in the Liberator of a Morganatic marriage. The King was represented by a large array of counsel, including Attorney General Rufus Isaacs, and Solicitor General Simon. Mylius had been furnished with a plan of defence by his employer, Edward Holton James, a wealthy citizen of the United States, who published the Liberator. Lord Alverstone told Mylius that the King could not be present. This proved a great disappointment to many prominent spectators, who had secured admittance through influence with the high judiciary. Hon. Winston Churchill was permitted an entrance after considerable delay. The jury was selected from Court officials. The King's lawyers told of the loss of esteem reported developed among the King's subjects, and mentioned Mylius' admissions that he wrote the articles in question.

Admiral Sir Michael Seymour was the first witness. He said he had two daughters, one of whom married Captain Napier, the other now deceased, had never married. He did not know she ever had seen the King. Mrs. Mary Grace Napier, the elder daughter of Seymour, swore there was no such marriage as the Liberator mentioned. She was also sure her deceased sister had made no such alliance with the King. With the other members of the Seymour family and the production of their marriage, registers the prosecution's case closed. Mylius rested his defence on the papers which had been taken away from him.

The Jury returned a verdict in a few minutes.

After the conclusion of the Mylius trial this evening the Attorney-General issued an authorised personal statement of King George that he never married anybody but his present queen and that he would have entered the witness box to testify to this effect had it not been unconstitutional.

PETERBORO' COUNTY MAN IS KILLED IN THE WEST

Lloyd Helps, Formerly of Douro, Falls on a Circular Saw and Receives Injuries Which Result in His Death.

WELL KNOWN HERE

Bowsman, River, Man., Jan. 10.—A sad fatality occurred at the sawmills of Wm. Butson, six miles east of Birch River station, when Alec. Loyed Helps, sixteen years of age, met with a sad accident. He was engaged in edging lumber, and in some way fell on the large circular saw, receiving wounds which resulted in his death. The accident occurred on January 9th, at four o'clock in the afternoon, and he died at 10.30 that night in the Swan River hospital.

The unfortunate young man was the eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Jas. Helps, formerly of Douro, Peterborough County, Ont. He leaves to mourn his loss his father, mother, three sisters and two brothers.

BROCKVILLE PAYS $5,000 TO WATER DEPARTMENT

At a late meeting of the Committee of the whole of Peterborough's City Council during a reference to our water works department, and the cost to the city of its water service, Brockville was held up as a model city regarding the conducting of its civic affairs, special stress being laid upon the big saving effected by that corporation in the operation of its own water works system. The City Clerk was instructed to write Brockville for information as to its service and the cost thereof to the corporation, and at last night's meeting of the Fire, Water and Light Committee, advices from Brockville showed that that city pays its water department $5,000 a year for fire and all other municipal purposes against Peterborough's payment last year to our water department of nearly $9,000 for like service.

PETERBOROUGH DEPUTATION ON LINDSAY VISIT

A deputation consisting of the court house engineer, and the county property chairman of Peterborough, visited the local court house yesterday to view the heating plant of that institution. It is estimated that in the Peterborough court house they burn coal at the rate of 80 tons in about 74 days. Here the estimate is that 80 tons are consumed in the season of from 7 to 8 months.

The Peterborough county council have been of the opinion that too much coal is being used in their plant and are trying to remedy the matter if possible.—Lindsay Warder.

A Car Of Dynamite Explodes In New York

Special Wire to The Examiner.

NEW YORK, N.Y., FEB. 1.—Great sky scrapers shook violently and the frightened occupants rushed down and out coatless and hatless when an explosion of a car of dynamite on the Jersey City side of the river this morning caused rumblings and shakings like an earthquake. For a long time the source or place of the explosion was undiscovered. Then suddenly came a hurry-up call for all available doctors and ambulances. It is known there has been some loss of life and many severely injured, but it is not known, however, how many.

GORHAM TAKEN TO KINGSTON THIS MORNING

James Gorham, whose sentence of hanging for murder was commuted to life imprisonment by the Department of Justice last week was this morning taken to Kingston. He was in charge of Turnkey Ray and Deputy Sheriff F. J. A. Hall and did not seem at all concerned over his confinement in the Kingston penitentiary. He was smoking a cigar at the station. Few people knew that he was going to be taken away this morning and only the customary station crowd was on hand when the 8.25 G.T.R. train left this morning with Gorham on board.

The tuberculosis exhibit car of the Provincial Board of Health, arrived in the city this morning and through the kindness of Mr. W. H. Denham of the Quaker Oats Company will be stationed on one of the sidings of that Company. The car will be placed on the siding near the river, immediately south of Hunter street, a location that is central and convenient and everyone who possibly can, should make it a point to see the exhibit which has been arranged by the Provincial Board with a view of educating the people of the province in the subject of tuberculosis, how it can be cured and how it is possible to prevent the spreading of this disease.

It is hoped that there will be a large attendance at the lecture to be given in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute to-night at 8 o'clock by Dr. McCullough, the secretary of the Provincial Board of Health Dr. McCullough will go into the subject of teaching people how to avoid contamination with tuberculosis, the proper methods of treating the plague and other important features. His lecture will be illustrated by limelight views and there will be absolutely no charge made. The public is once more reminded of the desirability of hearing this lecture and also the one to be given in the same hall to-morrow night by Dr. Hodgette, the Medical Adviser of the Commission on Conservation.

Pain in Heart

"For two years I had pain in my heart, back and left side. Could not draw a deep breath or lie on left side, and any little exertion would cause palpitation. Under advice I took Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy and Nervine. I took about thirteen bottles, am in better health than I ever was, and have gained 14 pounds."

MRS. LILLIE THOMAS,
Upper Sandusky, Ohio.

For many years Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy has been very successful in the treatment of heart troubles, because of its tonic effect upon the heart nerves and muscles. Even in severe cases of long standing it has frequently prolonged life for many years after doctors had given up all hope, as proven by thousands of letters we have received from grateful people.

CANADIAN LUMBER.

One interesting feature of the splendid report issued by the Dominion Forestry Department, Ottawa, is the fact that, while the total production of Canadian lumber last year was of the value of $62,819,477, it is a little less than one-ninth less than the cut in the United States in 1908. This is encouraging in the interests of forest conservation. Relatively Canada's forest resources are greater than those of the United States. If Canada conserves her timber carefully, when the United States shall have, in the not-distant future, practically exhausted her raw material for lumber, this country will stand to dispose of her surplus at a much enhanced price. While every effort should be directed to conserving our forest resources, there should be no loss of time in reforesting the millions of acres of denuded land, composed of small, and, in some cases, large areas on all the farms of Ontario, especially. There would not only be produced, in time, a continuous supply of timber for domestic fuel supply, but important and beneficent climatic conditions would be created, and the beauty of the rural landscape infintely heightened.

ULTIMATE SELF-ADJUSTMENT.

The commercial travellers, who spend, much of what must to them pass for home life, in hotels, are petitioning the Ontario government to provide inspection of hotels in local option districts, which are declared to be deficient in comfortable or even, in some cases, decent accommodation. Are not the commercial travellers wasting their time? Is it not true that the government has no right, by authority, to inspect such so-called hotels? Has the government any more right to do so than to inspect the ordinary boarding house? The only authority the government may have in this regard is derived from issuing a hotel license and that carries with it the license to sell strong drink, which cannot be done in a local option district. Is there anything to prevent anybody, without interference from the government, from opening a hotel, so-called, in a dry district? It seems that the commercial travellers will have to bear the ills they have, or provide themselves with a portable commissariat equipment, for use when they enter an arid zone. It does not seem practicable for the government to give them relief. Of course the banishment of the bar makes a great difference, for it is generally recognized that the bar very largely finances the other departments of a hotel. At first there will be noticed an undesirable change in the character of accommodation, but this is inevitable, and may in the long run be for the better. A sweeping fiscal change like the trade agreement ,now under discussion, if adopted, no matter how beneficial it might be, in the end, will cause considerable dislocation of trade and readjustment of trade channels. In a similar way local option disjoints things, but may, after a while, give place, under settled conditions, to better conditions. Matters may readjust themselves.

THE PERISHABILITY OF RICHES

One of the facilities which the provisions of the Canadian Government Annuities Act affords, is that given to old people of investing their capital with absolute security and safety, and with a much greater return than any other form of investment will give them. A woman of 80 years of age, who is livnig in one of the small villages in Ontario, and who has outlived all her near relatives, has a deposit in the Savings Bank of $1,500, which is all that remains of a very considerable fortune left her by her husband, who predeceased her nearly fifty years ago. This amount is earning her an income of $45 a year, which, needless to say, is not sufficient to provide her with the necessaries of life, and the poor house would ultimately have been her only destiny, as in a little less than six years she would have spent the remainder of her capital, as her living expenses are over $300 a year. One day the little booklet "Comfort and Happiness" found its way into this lady's hands. She persued it carefully and considered its statements thoughtfully, and with the result that she is advised to transfer her $1,500 to the Government. She will then receive an income of $288 every year, instead of $45, and the probability is that her life will be very much extended. Certainly her happiness and comfort, while she lives, will be increased, as the difference of $243 a year in her income will mean to her all the difference between poverty and affluence. She may live to be 100—her paternal grandfather did.

Particulars concerning this provident system of investment may be had from your Postmaster, or from the Superintendent of Annuities, Ottawa, to whom letters may be addressed, postage free.

POWER FOR PETERBORUGH.

Peterborough's growth as a manufacturing centre, must, it is admitted, depend upon its ability to compete, on reasonably even terms with other places, in the matter of being able to offer cheap motive power. We have been somewhat remiss in this matter, but recent events in power-producing concentration have aroused us to the necessity of making some effort to retrieve the situation.

The Examiner learns that our Industrial Commissioner has, after spending a good deal of time,research and diplomacy, brought to a practicable point, the matter of the provision of abundant power for Peterborough. We are not in possession of the details of the proposals, nor of their merits, but one thing is certain, they merit the earnest, careful, and, above all, prompt attention of the City Council. Our City Councils in the past, have let their power chances, "like sunbeams, pass them by," but better things are hoped of the present council. They are but newly in harness, and in the matter of the power question they are in a position to do the city an inestimable good. We are sure they have public spirit and enterprise enough to deal with the question as business men. The first duty of a business man is to investigate any proposal that promises well. This, at least, the Council can do without any expenditure, beyond expenditure of a little time, and of a good deal of interest in the welfare of the city they represent. We are sure they will give their best attention to the power proposals they are called upon to deal with. We are at the parting of the ways in the matter of power acquirement. We must act now or forever after hold our peace—sitting silently in the back seat among manufacturing cities. The City Council are called upon to give this subject their best consideration, and if the proposals submitted prove to be feasible, to give their best services to give them effect.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The new British Parliament has assembled for business and the House of Lords may feel flattered that it is to recive first attention and even exclusive attention. There will be many great questions to konsider, but none will be taken up till the veto power of the Lords is dealt with.

We have been told that the adoption of the proposed trade agreement with the United States would destroy the salt industry. Now we have the intelligence from Goderich that in anticipation of the agreement being adopted, a local salt-producing establishment, which has been lying dormant, is to be revived.

A CONTRAST IN TARIFFS.

(London Advertiser)

In getting down to a basis of reciprocal free trade in many natural products, the United States Government has had to make greater tariff reductions than is necessary in Canada. We have been in the habit of telling our neighbours that they must pull down their tariff wall to the Canadian level if they wished to give us a proof of their desire for commercial fair play. The Taft administration has now met us more than half way.

Wheat is a striking illustration. At present it is dutiable in the United States at 25 cents a bushel and in Canada at 12 cents a bushel. Under the new arrangement wheat is to be free in both countries.

Barley is dutiable at 30 cents a bushel in the United States—a rate that killed a thriving Canadian export trade. The duty in Canada is 15 cents. Barley is put on the free list in both countries by the agreement.

Oats are to be free. The American duty is now 15 cents a bushel; the Canadian duty, ten cents.

The duty on potatoes, in the United States is 25 cents a bushel; in Canada 20 cents. Potatoes will be free if the aggeement becomes law.

Beans pay a duty of 45 cents a bushel entering the United States, and 22 cents entering Canada. They are to be duty-free in both countries.

Dried peas pay 40 cents duty in the United States; they pay 15 cents in Canada. They will be free on both sides of the line.

The American tariff on Indian corn is now 15 cents; there is no Canadian duty now, and there will be none in the United States under the reciprocity pact.

The duty on butter is 6 cents a pound in the United States; in Canada 4 cents. On cheese it is 6 cents and 3 cents respectively; on flaxseed and linseed, 25 cents a bushel and 10 cents, respectively; on hay $4 and $2 per ton. These commodities are to be non-dutiable on both sides of the line.

There are some articles covered by the agreement upon which the United States duty is lower than Canada's—soft coal, for instance—but on the bulk of them the Washington Government has had to make considerably greater reductions to meet Canada on an equal footing.

TAX REFORM.

(Ottawa Citizen)

Victoria, B.C., has followed the example of her sister city, Vancouver, in the matter of tax reform, and by a vote of virtually five to one has decided to abolish all taxation on improvements and raise the necessary revenue on a basis of land assessment. The decided nature of Victoria's change from the old method is, perhaps, more significant than appears on the surface when it is recalled that the voters have had ample opportunity to see the reform in actual operation in Vancouver, and that the growth and prosperity of the latter city have been such as to cause the adoption of its tax system by its next door neighbour. Victoria's move is not an experiment, but the result of Vancouver's experience.

Throughout the West the growth of the tax reform movement has been steady and uniform and in every instance where the method of taxing improvements at a lower rate than land values has been tried the wisdom of the change has been justified in the improved class of buildings erected, in the occupation of lots long kept from use for speculative purposes and in the general growth and progress of the community, following equal assessment.

While the West has led the rest of Canada in the tax reform advance it is only fair to point out that in the East, in many sections, including Ontario, it has been impossible hitherto to adopt the principle of land taxation because of the Provincial Assessment Act, which makes it obligatory on municipalities to tax improvements at the same rate as land values. Bu that the desire to exercise local option in taxation is widespread in Ontario is undoubted. Already some 217 municipalities have petitioned for the right to modify, if desired, the existing system, while only 19 have opposed the granting of such privilege by the provincial legislature. The growth of the movement is indicated by the fact that last year 78 municipalities were opposed to home rule in taxation matters. In addition to municipal bodies labour unions and associations to the number of 198 have joined in the request to the local legislature, while no fewer than 160 influential newspapers have petitioned for and practically all of them have editorially endorsed, the movement in favour of the necessary legislation permitting Ontario municipalities to exercise their own discretion in the matter of taxation methods.

With such a steadily growing and influential representation it is expected that Premier Whitney and his colleagues will see the necessity of conforming to the desires of the people of Ontario, as revealed by their newspapers and elective bodies, by the introduction of legislation making optional with municipalities in this province the system of local taxation to be employed.

Development Of The City Beautiful Characteristic Of Twentieth Century

(Winnipeg Free Press)

A development that is certain to be characteristic of the twentieth century is the making of the city beautiful. The magazines are crowded with plans of improvement. Henry Vivian, who recently visited this country, is the English champion of the garden city. In the United States, Boston has long set a good example in far-sighted planning for health, convenience, and beauty. Cleveland has a dream of a more excellent future, and now Chicago has undertaken with characteristic energy to transform its famous ugliness and chaos into a joy forever.

It is almost shocking to hear the Chicagoan announcement that out of that wilderness of pork and pelf, dust, smoke and noise, shall soon arise the most beautiful city in the world, a sort of new Jerusalem on earth, swept, garnished and shining up into the sky. Is such a thing possible? Can even the Chicagoans do that with Chicago? In the past, when the old city was burned out, a bigger and better, if noisier city, replaced it, in the most wonderful manner. So it probably will be again, a metamorphosis more creditable still.

A week ago the Chicago papers were rejoicing over the appointment of a young financial Titan, Walter D. Moody, to the position of director-general of the Chicago plan commission. It is expected that this youthful organizer, already celebrated as general ampager of the Chicago Association of Commerce, will do the necessary "boosting" in quick, decisive order, and that the great work already done by the "plan commission" will be pushed on with redoubled force. Mr. Moody declares that everybody must help, as the work is to be done for all, both rich and poor. He and other businessmen see in the operation of the "plan" not only greater beauty, but more marked commercial supremacy for Chicago. "The city will be made so attractive to everyone, both resident and non-resident, that some of the millions of money spent elsewhere each year will remain at home." Hitherto, Chicago has "jes' growed," like Topsy, without tutelage or culture. But she can find no reasonable excuse to ignore for another decade her great obligation to her citizens, not even for another half decade.? So speaks the new leader of the movement. Chicago has said, "I will," and intends to dress herself in new and shining raiment, in part, into a professional beauty, with an eye to material advantage, in part for the joy of the thing and for the glory of God and man.

What is the "Chicago plan"? Ex-president Eliot, of Harvard, has written an interesting paper on the subject, which appeared in the Century Magazine of January, 1910. The article is illustrated with designs showing what is to be done with the city and its environment for 60 miles around. Dr. Eliot states that the Commercial Club of Chicago has spent much time and money in the movement during the last two years. A pamphlet called "The Plan of Chicago," which has been published in quarto form, is the outcome of co-operation by various experts, engineers, architects, financial ,and business leaders, scientific, literary and social workers, etc. As the modern city is growing into the country, and the country into it, the city proper and its environs are broadly vewed as a unit for planning purposes. The "plan" has made full consideration of transportation lines, parks, stations, freight depots, all to be placed outside the city proper, location of buildings, etc. Michigan avenue is to be 246 feet wide! Roads and sidewalks are to be broader, and buildings limited in height, so that the streets will no longer resemble tunnelled ditches. This is something of the plan which Mr. Moody will carry out.

Dr. Eliot is impressed with the vindication of democracy involved in this great design. Objection has been made to "the exaggerated individualism" of democracy, but at last it is showing its enormous power for good when its individualities fall into an enlightened collectiveness. Compared with the city buildings of such single leaders as Pericles and Augustus and Louis XIV., the new development of cities like Boston and Chicago will be on a grander scale. These great men changed brick into marble. But metropolitan co-operation will mould all structures, public and private, all the streets, paths, and gardens, into one vast temple of humanity.

"THE INNOCENT MURDERERS"

By Wm. Johnston and Paul West

For a moment there was not a sound but the breathing of the guilty quartette. Then footsteps were heard. In a sudden frenzy of fear Snyder reached up to the electric light button that depended near him and pressed it. The laboratory was plunged into darkness. The footsteps came nearer along the hall, stopped at the laboratory door. A hand tried the knob, and a voice called:

"Professor! Professor Hopkins!" Rice, standing next to Gordon, felt a spasmodic movement of the young man's body as the voice reached them. Silently he clutched at Gordon's sleeve. And then the voice came again:

"Professor, let me in. It is Ernesta!"

Another pause and the listening four imagined they could hear an exclamation of disappointment or petulance from the speaker. Then another trial of the door knob, and still another pause. She must be looking through the keyhole. Thank heaven, one of them had sense enough to extinguish the light! Then came the sound of footsteps retreating as though the girl had concluded that the professor had gone.

It seemed hours before any of the men standing there in the inky darkness dared loose his voice. Finally Fischer made bold enough to whisper:

"She is gone!"

For another interval there was no move by the others. At length Rice said:

"Turn on the light!"

Snyder felt for the button and the room was flooded with light. The faces of the living were scarcely less deathlike than that of the man lying on the table. There was but one thought in the minds of all. Under ordinary conditions and, if they had been given time for consideration, they would have dismissed it; but now they were incapable of thinking clearly. They must hide the body. Rice proclaimed it.

"It is only for the present," he said apologetically. The others silently agreed. The open doors of the cupboard suggested a temporary hiding place. They put the limp form of Professor Hopkins in the cupboard, locking the doors.

"Let's leave it there for now," said Rice, "until we can decide on some story as to how he met his death. It must never be known that we broke into his room through the skylight:"

"No," said Snyder, "now that he is dead, for his sake—!"

"For our sakes!" grunted Fischer, harshly.

"This is no place for us to linger," said Rice. "Let us adjourn to Professor Snyder's room to talk it over."

Raising the ladder, Snyder went out the way they had all come in. The others unlocked the door, and went out that way. Rice locked the door after them. In Snyder's room they gathered.

CHAPTER FIVE.

THE LIGHT IN THE CUPBOARD.

"There is on matter of extreme importance," said Rice, when it seemed as though his companions were in a frame of mind to receive a suggestion calmly. "Was that Ernesta Frost who tried the door and called Professor Hopkins' name?"

"She said so," was Snyder's comment. "'It is I—Ernesta' were her words."

"Still—" began Rice; but Fischer interrupted, saying.

"Come, come, Rice, ve know dat you are mathematically inclined: very goot; it pays to insist on proof before arriving at conclusions, and ve would haf been better off if ve had vaited. But let us not split straws. Dot vos Ernesta Frost for all practical purposes. Admitting dat, vat?"

"That being the case," went on Rice, acquiescent though not humbled, "and we saw her—or her shadow—with Hopkins in the laboratory only fifteen minutes previous to that, she could not have been very far away while—while matters were going on. We must in some way discover if she heard what transpired in the room, between us and Hopkins."

"He certainly spoke loud enough" said Snyder, shuddering at recollection of their victim's tirade.

"And yet," said Rice, "if she had heard him she would scarcely have gone away without making further inquiry than she did. I believe that she came back to ask him something which she had forgotten during the evening. Receiving no answer to her call, undoubtedly she returned home to wait until to-morrow morning."

"Well," asked Fischer, impatiently.

"A person hearing Hopkins' unjust denunciation of our purpose might naturally have thought that we were there to offer him violence. In such a case it would be most difficult to arrange an explanation of his death. If, however, there was no witness to the scene, we have an opportunity to deny all knowledge of the affair; unless, of course, you gentlemen wish to have the actual truth become known."

"No!" came in unison from Fischer, Gordon and Snyder. Rice could not help smiling at the rapidity with which his companions had changed from absolutely honourable men to persons of criminal bent. For it was a criminal bent that permitted them even to consider the expediency of trying to hide all connection with Hopkins' death. Had the case been put to them hypothetically a day previous, there was not one who would have not have counselled a clean breast with assurance that it always pays to tell the truth. Yet now, confronted with an actual condition, they were all for subterfuge in preference to straightforwardness.

The door of Snyder's office suddenly opened and as suddenly closed. The professors sprang ot their feet, chilled with guilty terror. It must be Ernesta Frost. Gordon ran to the door and opened it. The others heard a woman's voice say: "O, excuse me, Professor. I didn't know anyone was in there. I was just goin' to clean the room."

They gave a sigh of relief, for the speaker was nobody but Mrs. Harms, the scrub woman who customarily made her rounds of the building at this hour of the evening. But they were in no condition for a fresh shock, ascould be seen by the way they trembled as they resumed their seats.

The scrub woman's presence in the building reminded them that quick action was necessary if they were to decide on a course of procedure that night. Rice, as usual, became spokesman for their sentiments.

"Gentlemen," he said, for the first time showing impatience, "we must arrive at a conclusion. What are we going to do and say in this matter? Come; has anybody a suggestion but me?"

"I have," said Fischer, "and it iss dis. Der body will haf to be discovered in the morning anyway. Our presence in der building to-night is already known at least to der scrub woman. Dere is no vay we could demand silence on her part mitout arousing suspicion. Derefore, ve must act as follows:

"Dis is our story as ve vill tell it. Ve met in dis room to discuss matters connected mit der curriculum. Our business transacted, ve vere about to go to our homes ven ve heard der sound of a fall. Investigating, ve decided dat it came from the laboratory. Ve found der door of dot room open, and inside on der floor lay der body. Datt iss all."

"Whereupon," said Rice, falling into Fischer's manner of phraseology, "we sound the alarm, and our story is accepted."

"Dat iss it," said Fischer. Turning to Gordon and Snyder who remained silent, he asked, "Vat do you gentlemen tink of dat plan?"

Before either could reply an unearthly shriek rang through the building. The four professors were on their feet, stiff with terror. Again the shriek rang out. It came unmistakably from the second floor. This time there could be but one interpretation. Ernesta Frost, returning again, had found Professor Hopkins' body, and was forestalling the conspirators in giving the alarm. At breathless speed the four men dashed from Snyder's room and up the stairs, the screams continuing all the while. They found the laboratory door, which they had locked, wide open. Rushing in they found, not Ernesta Frost, but Mrs. Harms, backed up against the wall, still uttering ear-piercing shrieks. Fischer flew at her, and clapped one hand over her mouth, while with the other he supported her for she would have fallen from fear.

A fresh terror seized the guilty four. What had the scrub woman seen? How would she accuse them? A cry from Gordon drew their gaze in the direction of the cupboard in the further end of the room.

In the gloom a strange, penetrating, ghastly, whitish light emanated from the doors of the cupboard in which the body was concealed!

"It's only some chemicals," faltered Rice to the scrub woman. "For heaven's sake be still!"

"Chemicals," she repeated. "I thought — I thought—"

"What?" demanded Gordon, half afraid to hear her answer.

"I—I don't know," said the woman. "But I wish Professor Hopkins wouldn't leave such things around to frighten a poor woman!"

"It's nothing," said Rice. "But as it seems to have unnerved you, perhaps you had better go. We will lock the door and see that everything is all right." He half pushed the woman from the room and escorted her downstairs. Only when he heard her go out at the front door of the college did he return to the shuddering trio on the threshold of the laboratory.

He looked at the laboratory door once more without realizing what he was doing, and then turned to gaze at the cupboard. The doors were still closed, disguising, but not concealing, their hideous secret. With trembling hands Rice opened the cupboard, swinging the doors apart with a sudden movement of his arm.

With exclamations of horror they sprang back. On the floor of the cupboard, in exactly the position in which they had left it, was the body of Professor Hopkins. It was luminous! From every part of it came a strong, clear light, so powerful that it had penetrated the thick doors of the closet; so dazzling that it almost blinded them as they stared stupefied.

And, as their eyes became more accustomed to looking at the figure, they discerned the face. It stared at them with wide-open fiery eyes, and through the parted lips semed to come a steady glow of flame.

It was Fischer who first broke the silence. He said:

"My Gott! It would never do for der vidow to look on her husband in such condition!"

Is This Your Boy

Who At Tender Age Must Face the Hard, Cold World Without Preparation or Protection.

No. You could not think of such a thing. And yet, would you neglect your health as you do if you waited to think of your family and how they would get along without you.

You have not the old-time vigour and energy. You go home tired and worn out, feel cross and irritable, lack the old-time smile and good cheer which brought sunshine into your home at your arrival.

You don't sleep well, the brain is not so clear and active, little things annoy and worry you. In short, the nervous system is exhausted. You know this, but do not want to consult a doctor, and scarcely know what to do.

Use Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. It cannot fail to do you good, for it is made up of the elements of which your run-down system is most in need. Through the medium of the blood it sends new energy and vigour to every organ of the human body.

You can feel yourself getting stronger every day. You can prove it by noting your increase in weight. You will sleep better, appetite and digestion will improve, and you will feel again the courage and energy which can only exist side by side with good health and steady nerves.

You can put a stop to the wasting process to-day by beginning this treatment. You need not let delay bring you a day nearer to nervous collapse.

This treatment is not a stimulant to whip up tired nerves and brain. It cures in nature's way by filling the system with rich red blood. It will not cure in a day, but its benefits are natural and lasting. With persistence on your part it will work wonders.

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Food, 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co. Toronto. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., the famous Receipt Book Author, on every box.

Life Isn't Worth Living

When This Statement is Made It May be Generally Attributed to the Lack of Good Health

We want to talk to people who are nervous, who suffer frequent headaches, who dont' enjoy their food, who are irritable, quickly lose their temper, who are so exhausted that they feel they must give up, and have become so despondent that life doesn't seem worth living.

Most of the above described conditions are chiefly caused by what is commonly called catarrh, a "below par" condition of mucous membranes. This delicate lining of certain of the body cavities becomes weakened, inflamed and congested until the whole system is weakened, mental depression ensuing as one of the results. The wise way to overcome this condition is through a treatment of the general system. We have the treatment, and we are so positive it will produce the results we claim for it that we will supply it to any one with the understanding that we will return to them every penny paid us in every instance where the treatment is not in every way satisfactory and beneficial to them.

We want you to try Rexall Muco-Tone, which is a scientifically devised alterative tonic and body builder, its action being to aid the body in its effort to re-establish the natural and healthy functions of the mucous membranes.

Rexall Muco-Tone thus acts to expel the "catarrhal poison," restore the mucous cells to good health, tone up the whole body, allay inflammation, remove congestion and stimulate the system to healthy activity. It is splendid for aiding in the building up of flesh and muscle tissue and removing weakness.

Come to our store and get a bottle of Muco-Tone, and after giving it a reasonable trial, if you are not satisfied, simply tell us so, and we will hand back your money without question. Surely nothing could be more fair than this. Rexall Muco-Tone comes in two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain Rexall Remedies in Peterboro only at our store. —The Rexall Store, McDermid and Jury, druggists, corner George and Charlotte streets.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

If the present system of late hours, overdress and exciting pleasures continue, the children of to-day will to-morrow have nothing within themselves to satisfy their wants. The reading of good books, the study of nature, the simple converse with friends, will be "too slow" for them. Like drugs, excitement will become a habit, and weakened mental and spiritual natures will crave more and more for it all the time.

Such is the message to mothers from Mrs. Frank P. Frary, a society woman of San Diego, who is at the head of a movement in California to discourage overdress and imitation of their elders on the part of school children.

It is a message that ought to find echo in the hearts of mothers all over the United States.

On the trolley car yesterday I happened to sit opposite a group of girls who were going home from high school. They were dressed in the extreme of fashion. And not of children's fashion either, but of grown-ups. One wore a black velvet coat, another a silk dress with a fur coat and another an elaborately braided velvet suit.

Elaborate gold bracelets and fussy long chains were very much in evidence.

Three of the five wore veils. All had toques or hats which would have been much more suitable for their married sisters.

Rice powder had evidently been used by four of the girls and all the coiffures looked as if they represented at least an hour of time and ten dollars' worth of hair.

The snatches of conversation that reached my ears were mostly about boys, dates, dances and similar objects.

I got off the car wondering sadly to myself, "Where are the children of yesteryear?' 'the dear, rosy-cheeked, pig-tailed, short-skirted high school girls who talked of studying and coasting and skating rather than of dances, and who left rice powder and veils strictly to grown-ups.

I read a prophecy the other day that according to the way the birth rate has decreased in the last thousand years, children will become extinct in about one hundred and fifty years.

Personally, I seem to feel that there is no danger of our ceasing to bring children into the world, but it does seem to me that if we keep on spoiling our progeny the way we do at present, children will become extinct because our babies will grow straight from the cradle into grown-up estate.

In the same dispatch which tells of Mrs. Frary's warning, we are also informed that "in other cities of California the educators have taken steps to stop overdress and imitation of their elders by the children. At Stockton a notice was given out that any girl caught wearing imitation curls would be sent home. Fresno educators refused to permit the use of face powder and—

Do you think that's going to do any good?

Because it isn't.

Listen to the rest of the sentence which I chopped in two: "And the girls, aided by their parents, raised an awful rumpus because they declared it was impossible to prevent shiny noses without the use of powder."

Reforms of this sort must come from the homes.

It is only the mothers and fathers who can see that the girls wear proper school clothes to school.

It is only the mothers and fathers who can see that their social life is confined within proper bounds and they go to bed early, as they should, every night except Friday and Saturday.

It is only mothers and fathers who can see that their daughters are guided toward normal girlish interests and kept from thinking wholly of fashions and furbelows, of powder and parties.

I hope Mrs. Frary's warning will be reprinted all over the country and will arouse mothers and fathers to the harm they are allowing their girls to do themselves.

THE FIRE, WATER AND LIGHT COMMITTEE'S BUSY SESSION

Large Amount of Business Was Taken Up by the Committee Last Night---Fireman McBride's Case Caused Considerable Discussion.

The Fire Water and Light committee of the City Council held their first session for the year 1911 last night. Those present were Ald. Morgan, Anderson, Metheral, Edgar and Kerneghan.

The amount appropriated for the use of the committee last year was $12,500, and this year an additional $400 would be needed, making in all an appropriation of $12,900 for the year 1911. The increase is mainly needed for the erection of some twenty-four additional incandescent lights throughout the city.

The next important subject to come up for discussion was the Fire Chief's report for the year ending 1910, which is given in another column. It showed that there were a total of 131 alarms during the year; total damage by fire $18,568. Of this amount $9,-958, was the damage done to buildings, and the damage to contents amounted to $8,610. The report is very satisfactory in respect to the number of fires during the year and the damage incurred by same. And the decrease in the number of fires and the damage incurred thereby is due, as the report indicated, in no small measure to the extension of the water works system and the efficiency of the police patrol, coupled with the extensive protective measures which have been adopted by those concerned with the department.

The question of moving street lights to the centre of the road was also discussed. $2.00 more per year for each individual light will be charged by the power Co. for doing same. The question was left over till next meeting.

Next followed the question of extending the water main into Auburn. It was pointed out that should a conflagration break out in that portion of the city the work of the fire department would be seriously hindered through lack of water. A motion was put forward to the effect that the Mayor be asked to interview the Auburn Power Co. in regard to the extension of the water main over their new dam. The above motion was carried.

An account was presented for two new pea jackets for the Fire Dept. at $18 each and repairs to overcoat 75c., making in all $36.75; also expenses to Fire Chiefs' convention, amounting in all to $21.20.

Another account from Chief Howard for $8.00 in connection with the reception of the Fireman's excursionists last summer caused some discussion, but the matter was left over till the next meeting.

Fireman McBride's case was referred to next. It appears that McBride had been on the force for about 3 years and was therefore drawing pay in proportion to his number of years' service with the force. On July last he was reprimanded by the Chief for misconduct and owing to a misunderstanding between certain parties who had no connection with the Fire Dept. McBride considered himself discharged.

Chief Howard immediately took means to reinstate McBride on the force and succeeded in doing so after a lapse of a little over a month. But he was taken on as a new man and only received first year pay. Now the question that faced the committee last night was to whether a man who is discharged and taken on the force should be taken on as a new man, or whether he should start in where he left off. And also, if a man leaves the force on his own accord with a view of bettering his position and rejoins the force after a lapse of time should he receive the same consideration as the man who is discharged, or be taken on as a new man? The committee were fully aware of the necessity of drawing the line somewhere in this particular case, for the reason that what applies to one applies to them all. The question will be taken up at the next meeting.

Ald. Morgan contended that it would be establishing a bad precedent to allow a re-engaged man — whether he had been discharged or left of his own accord — to enjoy the benefit of the graded scale—such men should start again at the first year rate.

Ald. Kerneghan differed from the chairman. Were a man discharged, the responsibility rested with the Chief. In being re-engaged his time of service should continue in respect to the wage scale.

Ald. Edgar agreed with Ald. Morgan. McBride should be classed as a new man.

Ald. Metheral offered that McBride had been re-engaged by the Chief and promised the second year rate when due as though he had not been absent from the brigade, as the Chief wanted to make good with McBride on the eve of the former's vacation to attend the convention of Fire Chiefs.

The question will be taken up again at the committee's next meeting.

In regard to some junk which was sold to Geo. Stevens during Ald. Buller's term, out of the Fire Hall, the Treasurer was instructed to send Stevens an account and that the City Solicitor invite Stevens to pay the account, which amounts to $23 and some cents.

The meeting then adjourned.

Peterborough Light and Power Company's account. A monthly statement of which you will please find attached.

The total number of street lights reported out for the year 1910 was 328, a saving of $280.40 to the city. Under this system of light inspection the citizens have received better service, the Light and Power Company have been making a sincere effort to give satisfaction, and have succeeded admirably.

During the past year several of the street lights were moved from the side of the streets to the middle of the road, and the experiment has had the effect of giving much better light in the locality where this trial was made, and that to such a marked degree that I would recommend that your committee make arrangements at once to have all the arc lights in the city moved to the centre of the intersection of streets.

Your obedient servant,
W. A. HOWARD.
Chief Fire Dept. and Inspector of street lights.

Attached to the report was the following table of fires, causes, time etc., for the year 1910:

The Committee thought the firemen sufficiently well paid. Ald. Metheral offered that the only change he would favour in the present schedule of wages would be a subtraction from the high paid men in favour of the rank and file.

The Chief also reported 328 street lights not burning on intermittent nights during the year, at 41 2-3c. per lamp.

A big list of supplies needed also accompanied the Chief's report, including $65 for billiard table cloth.

It appears that the Board of Works has been paying half the horse feed bill for the fire hall in consideration of their horses being kept in that building.

Ald. Metheral thought the Board of Works was paying too much for the feed of their team, under this arrangement. However, no definite conclusion was arrived at in this respect.

It costs 30c. a day to feed the fire hall horses

Chief Howard Presents His Annual Report

Peterborough Had 131 Alarms During the Past Year With a Total Damage of Less Than Nineteen Thousand Dollars Altogether.

At o meeting of the Fire, Water and Light committee of the City Council Fire Chief Howard submitted his report for the year as follows:

Gentlemen,—I have the honour to submit herewith the 3rd Annual Report of the paid Fire Department, for the year ending December the 31st, 1910.

During the year the Department responded to 131 alarms of fire, six less than the year 1909, and you will please find attached a table of the various fires and the cause of each fire as near as could be ascertained.

The total damage by fire for the year 1910 was $18,568.00. Of this amount $9,958.00 was the damage to buildings, and the damage to contents amounted to $8,160.00.

The City was exceptionally fortunate during the year 1910 in not having any accidents and not having sustained any very heavy losses by fire. The damage sustained was $41,287.00 less than that of the preceding year. I attribute this partly to the extension of the waterworks system, and partly to the improved Police Patrol in the business districts of the City.

The most disastrous fire in the year amounted to $7,000.00. Of this amount only $668.00 was the actual damage to the building by fire, the balance of the $7,000.00 damage being caused by smoke, and not one dollar damage was caused by water. This is an instance where the economical use of water saved very many thousands of dollars to the stock of perishable goods.

In taking stock of the equipment I find there is about 1,000 feet of fire hose unfit for service. Some of this hose has been in commission since the year 1892. We are often delayed at a fire by hose bursting. The old hose should be discarded from the fire service, and sold to the Board of Works for flushing sewers, etc., and new hose purchased to replace the amount discarded.

I wish to bring to the attention of your committee the necessity of the extension of your Fire Department. Provision should be made for another Fire Station with a hose waggon and sufficient men to man the apparatus, and also the purchase of a chemical engine, and five more fire alarm boxes.

Another matter that should receive attention from your Board is the wages paid firemen. The present scale of $1.37 per day is not enough money to secure and retain the services of good men at the present price of living expenses, and I would respectfully ask your honourable body for an advance of 10 cents per day, all round, with the exception of The Chief.

In the latter part of the year 1909 the Fire, Water and Light committee handed over the inspection of street lights to the Fire Chief, which has proved a benefit to all parties concerned. In every case where lights have been reported out by citizens they have been visited to verify the report, and whenever lights have proved to be out, they have been reported to your committee at the end of each month, and the necessary deductions made from the

BRIDGES

County Council Chambers,
Peterborough, January 25th, 1911.

To the Warden and Members of the County Council.

Gentlemen,

Having examined the bridges authorized by this Council at the Fall Session, I beg leave to report as follows:

On December 7th, accompanied by the Warden and Mr. Porter, we visited O'Leary's Bridge, situated over the Indian River in the township of Asphodel. This bridge is a wooden structure about 100 feet in length built upon wooden piers. Some of the logs in piers are more or less decayed, but from the fact that no extra heavy traffic need pass over this bridge, we concluded that with some slight incidental repairs that this bridge might last for a long time.

On the same date we also visited Allandale Bridge. This is a steel structure built on stone abutments. As there is nothing about this bridge which would need any repairs except flooring, we think that this matter might besafely left in the hands of the local commissioner. At time of visit, from the fact that several inches of snow covered the bridge, we had no opportunity of giving the flooring a thorough examination.

On same date we also examined Keene Station Bridge. This is a Otonabee. This bridge is a wooden piers. Centre piers are sagged and unlevel, which leaves the flooring uneven. While we do not think that there is any immediate danger, we would recommend that this bridge be rebuilt as soon as possible from the fact that this is one of the main roads of the township, and has a large amount of traffic.

On December 11th, accompanied by the Warden and Mr. Shaw, we visited Gannon's Narrows Bridge, in reference to a pier which was referred to in report of Roads and Bridges at June Session. From the fact that some steps had been taken along the line of interesting the Dominion Government in building permanent structure, we decided to await further development.

On December 17th, the Warden, Mr. Howden, and myself visited Payne's Bridge in the township of Monaghan. This is a wooden structure, which appears to be strongly built in every particular, and barring accidents in our own opinion this bridge should be safe for some time yet.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

(Sgd.) CHRIS J. DARLING,
Chairman Roads and Bridges.

GRAND NEWS FROM NEW ONTARIO

Mr G. W. Todd Tells How He Got Rid of His Rheumatism

Two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills brought him the long-looked-for relief—How Rheumatism is cured once and for all.

Wah-Tay-Beg, New Ontario, Jan. 31. -(Special.)— Every person who suffers from Rheumatism wants quick relief and a sure cure. That's the reason they will all be interested in the statement of G. W. Todd of this place. Listen to it:

"After suffering with Backache and Rheumatism for twelve months and trying several so-called remedies and getting no relief, I decided to give Dodd's Kidney Pills a trial. Two boxes brought me the relief I had looked for so long."

Are you looking for relief from your Rheumatism? Are you also looking for a cure that will banish its aches and pains so that they will never return?

You will find both in Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Rheumatism is caused by uric acid in the blood. That uric acid is in the blood, simply because disordered Kidneys are not doing their work. With healthy Kidneys, all the uric acid will be strained out of the blood and there cannot possibly be any Rheumatism. Dodd's Kidney Pills never fail to make the Kidneys healthy Ask your neighbours about them.

INTERESTING LECTURE

Rev. John Galt Spoke of "The Slums of London."

Rev. John Galt, of Picton, gave a most interesting lecture last night in Park [illegible] Baptist Church to a large and appreciative audience on "Slum Life in Old London." It was replete with pathetic story and interesting facts about the struggling thousands of the famous East End.

Many Londoners present recalled hte old city, and thanked Mr. Galt for his kind and sympathetic feelings towards their unfortunate brothers and sisters.

The proceeds of the lecture went towards the Picton Baptist Church.

BOTH ARE VINDICATED.

Judge Finkle and Reeve Fleet Freed From Suspicion.

Woodstock, Feb. 1.—Judge Finkle cleared himself yesterday morning before Judge Snider, of any suspicions that may have existed as to whether he shared in any rake-off while he was acting as an arbitrator in setting a price on the Ingersoll-Port Burwell road. His evidence was taken at his home, where he is ill. He further said that he knew of no person who had accepted a bribe in that connection.

A special audit was made Monday night of the bills, receipts, drafts and time-books of Reeve S. W. Fleet of Ingersoll, and though he had made no accounting to the county, nor kept a detailed account of upwards of $10,000 of the county's money, which had been paid to him in the last three years to apply towards good roads in his town, yet the auditors, by working from 6 o'clock to midnight, were able to check every item and found that he had not misappropriated a dollar. Evidence to this effect was also taken yesterday and the famous Oxford County graft enquiry was brought to a close.

Judge Snider will put his report into the Attorney-General's Department before the week is over. He was all ready to hand it in last week; but the county investigating committee appealed to Premier Whitney to have the commission return to Woodstock and probe further into a rumor that $500 was given to somebody in facilitating the sale of the Ingersoll-Port Burwell toll road to the county.

Three hundred thousand words have been taken in evidence.

Honors For Aviators.

London, Feb. 1.—The feature of the dinner of the Royal Aero Club last night was the presentation of the Gordon Bennett aviation trophy to Claude Grahame-White and the Baron de Forest prize to Thomas Sepwith, the English aviator. Grahame-White's victory was scored at the Belmont Park meeting last October, while Sepwith captured the De Forest prize of $20,000 for the longest flight, including the crossing of the English Channel, on Dec. 18.

The Duke of Argyll, who presided, expressed the hope that the British Government would spend more in the development of military aeroplaning. Admiral Sir Edward Seymour referred to McCurdy's flight across the Florida Straits as a noteworthy and striking achievement.

Major Sir Alexander Bannerman evoked dissent by expressing doubt whether for military purposes the aeroplane was much ahead of what it was when Wright made his first flight.

Sues For Ten Millions.

Trenton, N.J., Feb. 1.—Suit was commenced in Court of Chancery yesterday against James H. Post and the executors and trustees of Henry O. Hevemeyer to compel the surrender of $10,000,000 of common stock of the National Sugar Refining Co. of New Jersey, or the payment for the same at its face value with interests from 1900. In case the stock is not paid for the suit seeks the return of $2,500,000 which has been paid out on the stock in dividends.

Froze nto Death.

Regina, Feb. 1.—As a result of careful search of the country six miles east of this city the mounted police yesterday afternoon discovered the frozen body of William Knaggs, a farmer of the Regina district. Accompanied by two dogs Knaggs left the city last Thursday night to return home. The dogs in due course turned up at the home of a neighboring farmer, but Knaggs himself failed to appear.

There Are Others.

London, Feb. 1.—The Express remarks editorially: "There is neither reason nor excuse for a jeremiad of despair. Canada is not the whole of the overseas dominions. The resources of Australia in wheat are probably immeasurable. It can be made as effectively the Empire's granary as Canada may become the granary of North America."

$40,000 Fire at Strathcona.

Strathcona, Alta., Feb. 1.—A disastrous fire swept out three places of business early yesterday morning, with a total loss of about $40,000. The stores destroyed were: Bright & Ashbaugh, men's outfitters; Cook & Orr, general merchants. An overheated stove in the up-town office of the O'Brien Lumber Co., was the cause.

Consul at Gibraltar.

Montreal, Feb. 1.—Senator Eduardo Ortiz de Zugarti, Spanish consul-general to Canada, who will be replaced some time this month by Senor Manuel Garcia Cruz, now of Bremen, has been appointed Spanish consul-general at Gibraltar.

Will Lose an Eye.

St. Catharines, Feb. 1.—Struck on the hand by a flying piece of metal from an exploding gasoline tank, Thomas Boston, married, employed at Ginner's garage, will lose one eye.

Unprotected Ice Holes.

Hamilton, Feb. 1.—At the Board of Health meeting last night Thomas Hutton asked whose duty it was to mark the iceholes in the bay. He was told it was the duty of the police. Mr. Hutton then said that the holes were often left in an unprotected state, and said that was what caused the death of two young men on Sunday.

Hopes For Favorable Vote.

Washington, Feb. 1.—President Taft refuses to discuss "extra session" in connection with the reciprocity agreement. He hopes that the present session will act favorably.

In conversation yesterday, he emphasized his belief that reciprocity would establish currents of commerce which would benefit both the United States and Canada. The fears which were being expressed in some quarters, he said, were ghosts which would melt away as soon as the agreement went into effect. Many letters have been received at the White House congratulating him on the decided stand he has taken in the matter. He has been told also that he would have the backing of many influential associations throughout the country. While a few missives have reached the President criticizing the proposed reciprocity, these have been by far in the minority.

The President called attention to the fact that on the day his message went to Congress, when its influence on the market might have been supposed to be felt, there was a difference of only one cent in the price of wheat at Winnipeg and in Minnesota. This was in spite of the argument that reciprocity would effect unfavorably the prices of articles included in the agreement in either country.

Shot Down by ex-Soldier.

Vancouver, Feb. 1.—About 11 o'clock Monday night, in front of the Wonder Cafe, Carroll street, John Flax of Montreal, a young man of 23 years of age, was shot down by Alfred Rowsch, a veteran of the British army. No enmity had existed between the two; it was purely and simply the sudden and unaccountable act of a brain crazed with bad whisky.

Flax had been in the city less than a year, and the affray took place on the eve of his departure for home. Doctors last night had little hope for his recovery.

PRESENTATION MADE TO MR. THOS. CAMPBELL

A pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. S. L. Thomas, 516 Chamberlain street for the purpose of wishing good-bye to Mr. Thomas Campbell, who is leaving Peterborough to accept a position in Stratford.

During the evening a presentation of a gold stick pin set with pearls was made to Mr. Campbell, accompanied by an address which was read by Mr. P. Castle. The address was as follows:

We deeply regret to hear that we are about to lose you from our happy circle. Your absence from our company will be greatly missed. Your kindly actions and gentle manly manners which you have shown so many times at our happy and social functions, have been greatly appreciated and will be difficult to replace. We feel in our hearts that we can not allow you to go away from us without showing the love and respect that we have toward you. We ask you to accept this small token, not only for its value, but for the remembrance of your friends in Peterborough. We all join hands and wish you good luck success and prosperity in all your undertakings the rest of your life.

Signed by your friends.

A very suitable reply was made by Mr. Campbell and the remainder of the evening was spent in singing, playing games and dancing. Altogether a most enjoyable evening was spent.

Mr. Campbell leaves for Stratford to-day.

Sir James Whitney Announces That the Sessional Indemnity Will Be Increased to $1,400—Supplemental Estimates

CONSOLIDATION BILL

Toronto, Feb. 1.—Members of the Ontario Legislature had the fact impressed upon them yesterday afternoon that the Imperial Government is an august body and that the procedure of intercourse through vice-regal channels was one of form and ceremony. This was brought home by the explanations by Sir James Whitney that in sending the resolution of thanks to the Imperial Government, adopted on Monday, for volumes donated to the library of the Legislature, it was necessary to adopt an address to the Lieutenant-Governor, requesting him to transmit the resolution through the official sources. Such an address was then read by the leader of the Government and agreed to.

Hon. W. J. Hanna introduced a consolidation bill with respect to the Municipal Act. The Provincial Secretary said that the measure was more than a mere consolidation, as it took the portions relating to local improvements and grouped them together. When the bill was before the members of the House he desired the changes to be carefully considered; even this caused a little delay.

Expectation was on the tip-toe when the leader of the House announced that he had received a communication from Government House, in which the Lieutenant-Governor transmitted the supplemental estimates.

In presenting these estimates, which are supplementary to the main estimates adopted for this current year at the last session of the Legislature, Sir James announced an increase of the sessional indemnity. He said that the question was discussed in an informal way last year, but now the Government had taken the full responsibility and was treating the subject on its own responsibility. There had been no bargaining and no round robin. The question was not discussed at the general elections, neither was that of the increase of the salaries of Cabinet Ministers, but the latter had been afterwards confirmed by the public. The increase of the indemnity and the increases of salaries of members of the civil service were in accordance with changed conditions and the increased cost of living.

The Prime Minister expressed the opinion that rules regulating the number of days which a member might be absent, and of deductions to be made for absence over that number, should be adopted. The amount of indemnity proposed was $1,400.

The increase of $400 additional for each of the 106 members is included in the supplementary estimates. The item reads: "To provide indemnity to members, $42,400."

The total supplementary estimates aggregate $2,659,043.

Among the estimates of public interest are:

Hydro-Electric Power Commission (capital account): To complete Niagara power transmission lines, including additional extensions to Tillsonburg, Weston, Port Credit, Brampton, Mitchell, Seaforth, Agricultural College, London and Hamilton Asylums, $1,000,000.

To complete Port Arthur station and transmission line (in addition to $29,909.08 expended in 1909-1910, which is approved), $30,000.

Enforcing Liquor License Act in local option districts, $5,000.

Fish and game, $5,000.

The supplementary estimates contained a total of $39,900 for technical education, and granted the recent requests of the Hamilton deputation for a revote of the $2,400 and of $5,000.

Agricultural training in high schools will receive $6,000.

Colonization and immigration, $28,280.79.

New Government House, $50,000.

Parliament and Departmental printing, $488,440.

Alterations, additions, etc., to Hospital for Insane, Hamilton, $24,500.

To Brockville ditto, $48,140.

To Mimico ditto, $16,300.

Toronto ditto, $7,900.

Similar supplementary votes are called for in respect to the alterations at a number of other hospital and public institutions.

Central prison, including the erection of provincial prison, $100,000.

The following have had their salaries increased from $3,250 to $3,500: Edward Bayly, solicitor to the Attorney-General's Department; A. H. U. Colquhoun, Deputy Minister of Education; T. W. Gibson, Deputy Minister of Mines; R. P. Fairbairn, Deputy Minister of Public Works; C. H. Sproule, Assistant Provincial Treasurer; S. A. Armstrong, Deputy Provincial Secretary.

Dr. McCullough, Deputy Registrar-General, and secretary of the Board of Health, has his salary increased from $2,800 to $3,200 a year. J. A. Amyot, M.D., provincial analyst, has his salary increased from $1,900 to $2,200.

A. E. Donovan, Brockville, states that 90 per cent. of the replies he has received from municipal officials form his bill for having the municipal elections held at a date which will not conflict with the Christmas and New Year holidays.

DOCTORS TELL HOW "CUTICURA" CURED SKIN DISEASES

One says, "I have Great Faith in Cuticura Remedies." Another, "They Always Bring Results."

"I wish to let you know of a couple of recent cures which I have made by the use of the Cuticura Remedies. Last August, Mr. ——— of this city came to my office, troubled with a severe skin eruption. At first I could not understand the nature of the case. I finally traced it to his occupation, as he was a painter and decorator. It was dermatitis in its worst form. It started with a slight eruption and would affect most parts of his body—thighs, elbows, chest, back and shoulders—and would terminate in little pustules. The itching and burning was dreadful and he would almost tear his skin apart, trying to get relief. I recommended all the various treatments I could think of and he spent about fifteen dollars on prescriptions but nothing seemed to help him.

"In the meantime my wife who was continually suffering with a slight skin trouble and who had been trying different prescriptions and methods with my assistance, told me she was going to get some of the Cuticura Remedies. But as I did not know much about Cuticura at that time I was doubtful whether it would help her. Her skin would thicken, break and bleed, especially on the fingers, wrists and arms. I could do nothing to relieve her permanently. When she first applied the warm baths of Cuticura Soap and applications of Cuticura Ointment she saw a decided improvement and in a few days she was completely cured.

"I lost no time recommending the Cuticura Remedies to Mr. ———, and this was two months ago. I told him to wash with warm baths of the Cuticura Soap and to apply the Cuticura Ointment generously. Believe me, from the very first day's use of the Cuticura Remedies ——— greatly relieved and to-day he is completely cured through their use. I have great faith in the Cuticura Remedies and shall always have a good word for them now that I am convinced of their wonderful merits." (Signed) B. L. Whitehead, M.D., 108 Dartmouth St., Boston, Mass., July 23, 1910.

As though in confirmation of this most convincing statement, G. M. Fisher, M.D., Big Pool, Md., writes: "My face was afflicted with eczema in the year 1897. I used the Cuticura Remedies and was entirely cured. I am a practising physician and very often prescribe Cuticura Remedies in cases of eczema, and they have cured where other formulas have failed. I am not in the habit of endorsing patent medicines, but when I find remedies possessing true merit, such as the Cuticura Remedies do, I am broad-minded enough to proclaim their virtues to the world. I have been practicing medicine for twenty years, and must say I find your Remedies A No. 1. I still find the Cuticura Remedies as good as ever. They always bring results."

House Of Commons Shows Confidence In Fielding

Hot Debate Upon A. C. Boyce's Motion Regarding the Recent Testimonial—Makes Manly Reply—Several Times He Was Offered Gifts and Refused.

Ottawa, Feb. 1.—For the second time within a year an attack on Hon. W. S. Fielding, Minister of Finance, in respect to his acceptance of the testimonial of $100,000 last spring, was voted down by the House of Commons yesterday, after a protracted debate, on a straight party division of 118 to 63. It was a delicate situation, and A. C. Boyce (West Algoma), who moved the amendment to the motion to go into supply to consider the question of Ministers of the crown receiving gifts of money from those having pecuniary relations with the Government, did his best to make what appears that he had no desire to embarrass the Minister of Finance.

As soon as Mr. Boyce had finished, Mr. Fielding made a brief, manly statement of his knowledge of the facts and withdrew from the House, taking no part in the division.

Mr. Boyce urged the Government to have the list of subscribers to the Fielding testimonial made public, claiming, in the words of Sir Richard Cartwright, ten years ago, that the pledge of secrecy was a "direct aggravation of the offence."

Hon. George E. Foster, who was the last speaker, claimed that the circumstances were not parallel with that of 1891, and said that if the news went abroad that Hon. William Pugsley, Minister of Public Works, had received a memorial of $100,000, it would almost provoke a resolution in the country.

A. C. Boyce (W. Algoma) in moving an amendment to the motion to go into supply, offered a resolution declaring that acceptance of gifts or testimonials by Ministers of the crown or of any members of their families, from contractors, Government officials, etc., was calculated to bring Parliamentary Government into contempt, that the source of any such gift ought not to be surrounded with secrecy, and an authentic statement of the names of the donors should forthwith be made public.

At the outset Mr. Boyce made it clear that his resolution was not a want of confidence motion, but he desired the principles involved on the resolution. He had no desire to injure any public man.

The member for West Algoma then urged with considerable force that the withholding of the list of subscriptions to the Fielding testimonial pleased the Minister of Finance under grave suspicion, and that the whole transaction was in bad odor. He charged Sir Wilfrid Laurier with being the chief obstacle to the granting of the information to the House and country.

Mr. Fielding said it was not his intention to reply to the statements of the member for North Algoma, but as the matter was so personal to himself, to make a statement and then withdraw from the House. Some years ago, a personal friend had approached him, on behalf of a group of other personal friends, and asked him to accept a testimonial. He requested that the proposal be dropped, and, although this friends pressed the matter upon him a second time, the proposal was dropped. Subsequently that friend passed away.

Some years later, said Mr. Fielding, the proposal was again renewed by another friend, and his first decision was to decline to take the proffered gift, for several reasons. One was that in the case of gifts made to public men in former years it had been alleged that contributions had been made by contractors or men receiving favors from the Government.

Mr. Fielding said that this friend continued to press the matter, on the ground that the Finance Minister was getting old, but he remained obdurate. Finally his friend said that he had been advised by his associates to say that they would guarantee that not one penny would be taken from any Government contractor or official, or from any one who would at any time be likely to have any favor to ask of the Government. In order that he might not have any sense of obligation to anyone whatever, it was proposed that the list of subscribers should not be made known. The object of secrecy thus was good, and not harmful in its purpose.

Mr. Fielding said that he had suggested that, should the time come when he might be out of office, he might care to know who had been his friends, but he was informed that even under such circumstances it was not proposed to reveal to him the names of the subscribers.

In view of these assurances and the plan having had the approval of Sir Wilfrid Laurier, he finally agreed to accept the testimonial.

"Those who know me best will believe," said Mr. Fielding in conclusion, "that there was nothing in this matter which any way reflected on my honor or the honor of my colleagues, or that will in any way affect my independent action as a member of this Parliament."

Mr. Fielding then bowed to the Speaker and walked out of the chamber amidst Liberal cheers.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier took straight issue with the good intentions of the mover of the resolution. He said it was a direct attack on the Minister of Finance. He claimed that no analogy could be drawn from the previous debate in 1891, when the gift of Sir Hector Langevin was under consideration and no imputation had been raised in the House at the propriety of the testimonial to Sir John Macdonald about 1887.

Admitting that publicity was the best thing to provide a safeguard in such matters, Sir Wilfrid thought after the assurances had been given, Mr. Fielding was justified in his own conscience if he did not seek to obtain a list of the donors.

R. L. Borden then rose to reply. He said he had seen Sir Wilfrid Laurier in many tight places, but he had never seen him struggle so hard as in the present instance. Mr. Boyce had pointed out that there should be publicity in all matters of this kind, in order that no paper, Grit or Tory, would dare to utter a word of suspicion.

He accepted absolutely every word Mr. Fielding himself had said in his own defence, but believed that in stipulating for secrecy he had made a serious mistake. He ought to have taken the ground of full publicity, and he could not understand why the Minister of Finance should want to keep the names secret.

FREE PSYCHINE FOR THE SICK

Let us buy a 50c. bottle from your Druggist and give it to you to try. Here are our reasons:

For nearly the third of a century we have known what Psychine will do. We have known it to cure hundreds of thousands in that time, of some of the most desperate cases of disease known to medical science.

We have received thousands of unsolicited testimonials, which we will gladly let you look over should you desire.

Think of it, a third of a century's experience with one preparation, a third of a century's intimate knowledge of what extraordinary cures it has made—almost a lifetime!

Do you wonder then with that perfect knowledge of Psychine, that we are anxious to bring it to the notice of everyone in Canada suffering from disease?

Do you wonder that we want those to know who are using wrong methods of cure, who are not getting well, and who we know will be benefited by Psychine.

Do you wonder that we can buy hundreds of thousands of 50-cent bottles of Psychine from the druggists of Canada to give to those who wish to try it?

* * *

Psychine builds vitality.

It strengthens and increases the white corpuscles of the blood—the phagocytes, the policemen or scavengers of the blood.

These white corpuscles of the blood, when strong enough, destroy every disease germ that gets into the body, keeps the body healthy.

If these white corpuscles are not in sufficient numbers or are not sufficiently strong, then these disease germs destroy them and disease holds the body. That's the cause of nearly every disease that afflicts the human race. For years, centuries, in fact, it has been recognized that herbs are the most effective treatment for disease.

It is only within recent times that we have been able to tell just why they were so effective.

Because certain of them increased and strengthened the white corpuscles or phagocytes.

These herbs are employed in compounding Psychine.

We go all over this world to obtain these herbs. Arabia, South America, China and Japan all contribute.

And the result is a preparation that will restore health and build vitality as no other preparation will.

That has proven itself in nearly the third of a century's use as no other preparation has proven itself.

That is a most effective treatment for:

La Grippe	Bronchial Coughs
Bronchitis	Weak Lungs
Hemorrhages	Weak Voice
Sore Throat	Spring Weakness
Anaemia	Early Decline
Female Weakness	Catarrhal Affections
Indigestion	Catarrh of Stomach
Poor Appetite	Night Sweats
Chills and Fevers	Obstinate Coughs
Sleeplessness and Nervous Troubles	Laryngitis and Dyspepsia
After-effects of Pleurisy, Pneumonia and La Grippe

Now we don't ask you to take our word for the tremendously beneficial effect of Psychine. Fill out the coupon below, mail it to us and we'll give your druggist an order (for which we pay him the regular retail price) for a 50-cent bottle of Psychine to be given you free of cost.

We will undoubtedly buy and distribute in this manner hundreds of thousands of these 50-cent bottles of Psychine.

And we do that to show our entire confidence in this wonderful preparation.

AFTER TREATMENT

He was surprised at how the sores healed—"I took your New Method Treatment for a serious blood disease with which I had been afflicted for twelve years. I had consulted a score of physicians taken all kinds of blood medicine, visited Hot Springs and other mineral water resorts, but only got temporary relief. They would help me for a time, but after discontinuing the medicines the symptoms would break out again—running sores, blotches, rheumatic pains, looseness of the hair, swellings of the glands, palms of the hands scaling, itchiness of the skin, dyspeptic stomach, etc. I had given up in despair when a friend advised me to consult you, as you had cured him of a similar disease 8 years ago—I had no hope, but took his advice. In three weeks' time the sores commenced to heal up and I became encouraged. I continued the New Method Treatment for four months and at the end of that time every symptom had disappeared. I was cured 7 years ago and no signs of any disease since. My boy, three years old, is sound and healthy. I certainly can recommend your treatment with all my heart. You can refer any person to me privately, but you can use this testimonial as you wish. W. H. S.

Burdock Blood Bitters

CURES ALL Skin Diseases.

All diseases of the skin are, more or less, directly occasioned by a bad state of the blood, and it is absolutely impossible to eradicate them from the system unless you put your blood into good shape.

The following skin diseases are curable by Burdock Blood Bitters through its wonderful cleansing, purifying powers on the blood, and its renovating action on the system, viz., Salt Rheum, Tetter, Shingles, Scurf, Erysipelas, Itching and Burning Rashes, Ulcers, Sores, etc.

Miss Stella Eisbel, Maitland Forks, N.S., writes: "I have been bothered with salt rheum on my hands for three years, and it itched so I did not know what to do. I tried everything but nothing seemed to be any good. I heard of Burdock Blood Bitters and bought two bottles of it, and now I am perfectly cured and have no salt rheum on my hands any more.

"I cannot speak too highly of Burdock Blood Bitters."

CHANGES IN TRENTON'S LINE-UP FOR FRIDAY

McGiffin, McGaw and Cummings Will Likely Be Benched for the Big Game With the Petes---Local Line-up Will be About the Same as That Which Beat Trenton Here Before.

The announcement that Trenton and Peterborough have to replay the protested game at Brock street rink on Friday night of this week has caused great excitement among the fans and the biggest crowd of the season will see the game. The Petes are determined to repeat the feat of last week when they defeated Trentonton handily and re practising every night with a will. Park will have to be dropped off the line-up, but otherwise the personnel of the team will be about the same. Trenton on the other hand, will probably have a number of changes. It is said that their goalkeeper, McGiffin, has been given the hook in favour of Law, who played against Peterborough in Trenton. Powers, who played right wing, has been shifted back to point. McGaw, the big ex-Goderich man who played cover, is benched, and Reynolds, a junior last year, will take his place. Palmer, another junior will be at right wing and Croft, the point man, will be at rover, with Fletcher centre and Art Armstrong left wing, a very different team from the seven which played here, and the shift is not very likely to result in any improvement in team work or combination. The revised line-up had troubles of its own winning in Cobourg, and had Cobourg remained on the ice instead of suffering so many penalties, the Stottsville boys would have carried off the big end of the game. Friday night's game should be a sensational struggle all through. The members of the Peterborough team are in better shape now probably, than they have been all season, and they are confident of giving Trenton an awful argument. From the way the fans are talking, the crowd will be the largest of the season. The Peterborough line-up will be selected after to-night's practice.

GRILLERS ORDERED TO PLAY KINGSTON NEXT

Famous Frontenacs Will Play Here Next Tuesday Night and the Return Game Takes Place in Kingston on the Following Friday---Sproule and Wettlauffer Will Be the Referees.

Kingston Frontenacs at Peterborough, Tuesday, Feb. 7th. Referee, F. H. Sproule, of Toronto.

Peterborough at Kingston Frontenacs, Friday, Feb. 10th. Referee, Ed. Wettlauffer, Berlin.

This is the programme the O. H. A. executive has mapped out for the Grillers in the Junior O. H. A. second round. Manager McGeachie's brayes are called upon to meet last year's junior champions next and a great series should be the result. The Limestone City team are indeed redoubtable adversaries, foemen worthy of the steel of any junior team in the Province and the fans will wait with interest the game here Tuesday night which will undoubtedly be the greatest junior struggle seen here since the famous Colts walloped Stratford here in 1901. The Classic City seven came down from the west that season with a formidable record of big scores, the mere repetition of which was enough to scare a team but the Colts walked into them with a vengeance and dipped them into the kalsomine barrel to the tune of 12 to 0. History has a habit of repeating itself; if it does not in this case it will be no fault of the Grillers, with whom the coming Kingston series is the whole topic of conversation.

GOOD PROGRESS IN THE LOCAL BONSPIEL

The Primary Competition is Being Rapidly Carried Through and the Consolation Event Was Gotten Under Way Last Night---Outsiders Are Doing Well.

Good progress is being made in the primary contest of the big bonspiel of the Peterborough Curling Club, and the Consolation event is also well under way, having started last night. The outside rinks on the whole are meeting with success. The ice is keen and most of the games have been well played and correspondingly interesting. A large gallery of spectators has been in attendance throughout. Following were the games played yesterday afternoon, and last night:

BRINTON CARPET COMPANY'S TEAM HAD EASY WIN

The weaving industry held down the boards at Brock street rink last night, when the Brinton Carpet Company and the Colonial Weaving Company's teams had a lively battle, the Brintons winning out by 9 goals to 2. Play was pretty even in the first half, being 3 to 2 at the half in favour of Brintons, but the latter made a runaway of the game in the second period, scoring six counters in a row. McMartin, of the Grillers, was the star of the winners, getting three goals on end-to-end rushes. Rose and O'Dette also showed up well. Burcher and White were the pick of the Colonials.

SEATS WILL BE RESERVED

In the Gallery For Friday Night's Game

In connection with the Trenton Peterborough hockey game at Brock street rink on Friday night it has been decided to reserve the gallery and one hundred and twenty-five seats will be sold there at 50 cents each. The plan will be put on sale to-morrow afternoon at Sanderson and Company's store. Those who want to be sure of a seat for the big game without having to wait for an hour or more before the match should get their seats in the gallery before the limited number is snapped up. The same plan will likely be followed for the Kingston game next week.

INDOOR BASEBALL

A very exciting game of indoor baseball was knocked off at the Armouries last night. The competing teams were selected respectively from the members of the Bugle Band and No. 8 Company. The trumpeters won easily by the rather agricultural score of 30 to 22. The Buglers turned out for the first time in their new uniforms. The batteries were:

Buglers—Sharp and LeBar.
No. 8—Eccleson and Macpherson.

See the Great Newspaper Play "THE FOURTH ESTATE." Grand To-Night.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

The Peterborough intermediate and junior O.H.A. teams will practise to-night at Brock street rink. In view of the big games with Trenton and Kingston a full turnout of players is expected. The juniors will practise sharp at 7 o'clock and the intermediates at 7.30 o'clock.

With the Trenton-Peterborough game here on Friday night and the Kingston Frontenacs-Peterborough Grillers battle on the calendar for Tuesday of next week the Peterborough fans have two of the most exciting games in the history of hockey in Peterborough to look forward to. And maybe this old town is not stirred up over hockey as it was in the days of Whitcroft and Company. Everyone seems to be a fan nowadays, and the Brock Street arena will not be able to accommodate all the fans who will want to see these two great ice battles.

Lindsay hockey fans in general will be grieved to learn that Jack Spratt the fast rover of St. Michael's senior O.H.A. team, is at present in St. Michael's hospital, Toronto, with typhoid fever. Jack has not been feeling any too well for a few days and word was received this morning that he was taken to the hospital. Everybody has been taking a great interest in the St. Michael's team, of which both Peter and Jack are regular players, and no doubt the absence of Jack in their approaching game with Stratford on Feb. 15 will be greatly felt by the champions. — Lindsay Warder!

CENTRALS DEFEATED THE SOUTH CENTRALS BY 5-1

For the second time this season the Central school team succeeded in defeating the South Central seven in a hockey game at Brock street rink yesterday afternoon. The score this time was 5 to 1 in favour of the Centrals who won last week by 2 to 1. Yesterday's game was a good exhibition of junior hockey, although both teams paid too much attention to the man instead of the puck and as a result there were many penalties, the teams generally playing a man or two short. At half time the score was 1-1, but Centrals had the better of the play in the second period, scoring four goals, while the Southerners were blanked. Dobson in goal for the Centrals played a star game, and Long and Cavanagh were always prominent. For South Centrals Parker and Smith were the stars.

HOW TO SETTLE POOLS

During the present hockey season there has been considerable argument over pools on the different games, and in nearly every case there have been disputes as to the winner. Several of these were referred to the Examiner for settlement, but the parties were evidently not satisfied with the finding, as they afterwards submitted the difficulty for the Toronto Star to settle, getting, of course, the same result. There should be no difficulty in pools of this kind, as it is merely a matter of arithmetic. Take for instance Monday night's game with Cobourg. The score was 7 to 5 in favor of Peterborough: therefore, the winning percentage was seven-twelfths of .1000 per cent., or .583. Suppose there were scores in the pool of 8 to 5 and 7 to 4 in favor of Peterborough, which would win? It is simply a question of percentage. The 8-5 score gives a percentage of .615; the 7 to 4 score a percentage of .636. The 8-5 score being closer to the correct winning percentage naturally wins the pool. There is no dispute possible.

ANNUAL MEETING OF ST. PAUL'S CONGREGATION REPORTS WERE ENCOURAGING

The annual meeting of St. Paul's church was held in the school-room last Wednesday evening. After devotional exercises, led by the pastor, Mr. R. E. Wood was elected chairman of the meeting. The reparts of the different organizations were of an encouraging character, and showed a substantial growth throughout the year.

The first repart was that of the Session, which showed that the membership of the church now stands at 944. During the year 83 were united by profession of faith and 23 by certificate. Mention was made by the Session of a gift of the late Miss Gow, of $100, and of the late Mrs. John Livick, of $1,000 to the Missions of St. Paul's church, and also the special gift of Mrs. T. G. Hazlett of $3,200 in connection with the seventy-fifth anniversary which was celebrated last May. The receipts for missions for the year were: Special for Mission in North West $1000.00
Special for Jewish Mission . 12.35
Special for Persian Mission 39.61
Legacy from late Miss Gow for Home Missions 100.00
Legacy from the late Mrs. John Livick, divided equally between Home and Foreign 1000.00
Envelope contributions with accrued bank interest . . 2966.70

$4,405.66

The report of the Board of Managers was next presented, which showed an increase of $245.00 in the envelope collections for the year, and total receipts for all congregational purposes of $7,114.38. The congregation also undertook the erection of a Manse during the year, which will cost in the neighbourhood of $11,500, including the lot. The Managers brought to the attention of the congregation the fact that an entire new heating system would have to be installed, and the electric wiring replaced during the present year, which will involve a big outlay.

The report of the Sabbath School has already been noted. The School contributed the sum of $530.21 for Missions, and it received for its current account, including the Managers' grant of $200, the sum of $468.17.

The report of the Young People's Guild showed that organization to be in a flourishing condition, and the members are looking forward to another successful year.

The most encouraging report, however was that which came from the Women's Foreign Missionary Society. This Society is the banner Society of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, in giving, for the past year. It contributed the sum of $1,177.84.

The new organizations that were formed during the past year submitted reports of the work they are doing—the Brotherhood of St. Paul, and the Boys' Brotherhood of Andrew and Philip. The Brotherhood of St. Paul meets once a month, and has a number of successful meetings throughout the year, at one of which the men of the congregation were treated to a banquet by the Ladies' Aid, when Mr. C. C. James, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, gave an address. The Boys' Brotherhood is in charge of Mr. Sandford Hall, and has had an average attendance since its organization of 37. The boys are taking a deep interest in the work of the Brotherhood. Each boy uniting promises to observe two rules—the rule of prayer, and the rule of service. The rule of prayer is to pray daily for the spread of Christ's kingdom among boys. The rule of service is to make an earnest effort each week to bring at least one boy within hearing of the gospel of Christ, as set forth in the services of the church.

The report of the Ladies' Aid Society showed that they had had a very successful lyear. The receipts were $449.93.

WATCHED FOR 25 YEARS

Mr. D. M. Waters, the popular druggist, Belleville, Ont., sold his first box of Dr. Chase's Kidney and Liver Pills a quarter of a century ago and since then has noted many remarkable cures, as this medicine grew in popularity. The latest cure coming to his attention is that of Mrs. Jas. Ottray, Bay Side, Ont., who was cured of wrinkles disappear, and the glow of health returns to the cheeks.

Your Danger From Kidney Troubles

BEGINS WHEN YOUR BACK ACHES.

Backache is the first and the sure sign of kidney disease.

When the back aches or becomes weak it is a warning that the kidneys are affected in some way.

Next to the heart, the kidneys are, perhaps the most important organs in the body. It is no wonder then that if the kidneys are affected the whole system must be.

On the first sign of backache Doan's Kidney Pills should be taken. They go right to the seat of the trouble, heal the delicate membranes of the kidneys and make their action regular and natural."

Mr. E. J. Saulnier, Lake Annis, N.S., writes:—"I take a great deal of pleasure in telling you the benefit I have received from the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. I was troubled with my kidneys for several years; my back was weak, I had terrible headaches, and was so restless I could not sleep at night. I commenced using Doan's Kidney Pills and in a very short time I was right and fit again."

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c. per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

Cobwebs in the Morning.

Cobwebs in the head on rising in the morning is the result of a Lazy Liver, one or two mornings in succession and sick headache follows.

Father Morrisey's Liver Pills will clean the Brain.

These Pills are a purely vegetable compound prepared with great care, and are without doubt the very best pills for general use, on the market. The greatest care has been given to selecting the ingredients, and being entirely vegetable, they act upon the liver and bowels in such a manner as not to disturb the other functions of the body as many pills do.

As a Liver Invigorator, Blood Purifier and General System Renovator, they are unequalled. Sick headache is invariably brought on by a sluggish liver, constipation or irregular bowels; these pills are a cure for sick headache in any form.

Pimples, eruptions and yellow skin are often caused by a lazy liver; one pill three times a week, will soon clear the complexion.—Price 25c. per box.

WEDDING BELLS

STARK—COMRIE.

KEENE, JAN. 25.—A very pretty wedding was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Comrie, last evening, Jan. 25, when their youngest daughter, Jennie Miller, was united in marriage to Robert P. Stark of Otonabee. The bride was gowned in brown silk and wore the customary veil and orange blossoms, and was attended by her niece, Miss Evelyn Drummond, as flower girl.

The wedding march was played by Miss Annie McFarlane. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. D. D. McDonald, pastor of the Presbyterian church.

After the congratulations the guests, to the number of fifty, sat down to a dainty repast in the large and spacious dining-room.

Games were then indulged in for a few hours, after which the happy couple left for their home in Otonabee, carrying with them the good wishes of their many friends.

STOKES—KITNEY.

A wedding of local interest was solemnized yesterday, Jan. 31, in Regina, Sask., when Miss Minnie Kate Kitney, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kitney, Otonabee, was united in the holy bands of wedlock to Mr. Arthur D. Stokes, of the Imperial Oil Co., and son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Stokes, of Heathfield, Newpoll, England. Rev. J. Oliver, of Regina, performed the ceremony. The bride wore a travelling suit of taupe gray, with mink trimmings and mink hat to match. Thebride and groom were unattended. They will at once take up housekeeping in Regina.

The bride was the recipient of many beautiful tokens of esteem from her numerous friends here and in Regina as well as from other parts of Canada and from England.

Zam Buk

"RUB IT IN"

HEALS QUICKLY SAVES HOURS OF PAIN.

A few minutes after Zam-Buk is applied to a cut, a burn, a scratch, or any sore place, the pain is stopped. Mothers should never forget this, because it is one reason why Zam-Buk is the best thing for children's injuries. It stops their crying and gives them ease. Right from the instant of application healing begins, and Zam-Buk heals quickly. Note these statements from reliable persons, some of whom you may know.

Baby's Sore Healed.—

"My baby girl had a bad sore on her chin, which was very painful, and caused her to be very restless. We put on some ZAM-BUK, and in a wonderfully short time it gave her ease. In a few days the sore was completely healed."

MRS. E. COCKER, Yorkton, Sask.

Rusty Nail Pierced Finger.—

"I ran a rusty nail under my thumb nail while at work. The pain was terrible and I feared blood-poisoning from the dirty, rusty nail! I melted some ZAM-BUK and ran it into the wound, and it stopped the pain almost instantly. It kept away inflammation and in a few days the wound was quite healed."

MR. A. H. ORTH, Shipley, Ont.

A Bad Burn.—

"In moving some wood in the stove, I burned my thumb very badly. In a few minutes it was covered with a big white blister, and the pain was very bad. ZAM-BUK was applied, and in quick time it gave me ease!"

H. E. JENNER, Organist, Canmore, Man.

Take this advice!

If you have some sore place, some skin disease, some cut, or burn or ulcer, why continue to suffer pain? Every hour you suffer is an hour wasted. You cannot do your best work in pain; you cannot enjoy your leisure. ZAM-BUK saves far more than it costs, by saving you time in this way.

ZAM-BUK is a "short cut" to skin healing. There is nothing which acts so quickly and so surely. Use it for all skin injuries and diseases, Eczema, Ulcers, Blood Poison, etc., and for Piles. All druggists and stores, 50 cents a box, or post free from ZAM-BUK Co., Toronto, for price. Refuse harmful imitations.

BIG STORM DOES ENORMOUS DAMAGE

Telegraphic Communication Has Been Entirely Cut Off With Many Places—Great Damage in Fort William Harbour—Tramp Steamers Reported Lost.

Special to the Examiner.

TORONTO, FEB. 2.—From north-east and west this morning came reports of record-breaking wind and snow storms, and to many sections telegraphic communication has been entirely cut off as a result. Along the northern shore of Lake Superior and in Fort William and Port Arthur harbour, immense damage was done to the shipping. There are rumours of tramp vessels lost, but it is scarcely believable that any navigator would venture out on the Upper Lakes this time of the year. Trains from all directions are late, some are hours overdue.

TENDERS CALLED FOR VESSELS FOR THE NAVY

Four Bristols and Six Destroyers of the Latest Type—No Favours Shown in the Purchase of Naval Supplies

OTTAWA, FEB. 1.—The Government has called for tenders for the construction of the ten new vessels of the Canadian navy, contemplated in the initial building programme, viz., four Bristols and six destroyers of the latest improved type. The plans and specifications are, as has already been stated, based on the plans received from the Admiralty last fall and embrace the very latest advances in naval science. The tenders are not publicly advertised, since following the rule of the Admiralty, details have to be kept secret, and only firms in whom the Department has confidence and who might be bona fide tenderers, will have access thereto.

Letters have been sent to all the leading British and Canadian firms who are in a position to tender, inviting them to inspect the plans and put in tenders. It is stipulated that all the vessels must be built in Canada. Tenders must be in by April next. When submitted they will be gone over by the experts of the Naval Department, and probably some time must elapse then before a decision is reached as to which tender shall be accepted, all the conditions being considered.

As an evidence of the fact that there is to be no patronage list nor any opportunity for graft in the purchase of supplies, etc., in the Naval Department, it may be noted that in calling for tenders for any supplies the department communicates with all Canadian manufacturers dealing in the items in question. The Canadian Manufacturers' Association was first communicated with, with a view to obtaining the names of all the Canadian manufacturers of the articles required by the department. On the advice of the association the department adopted the Canadian trade index, a book published by the Manufacturers' Association, which contains the names of practically all Canadian manufacturers as its "patronage." Thus no distinction whatever is made between Conservatives or Liberal firms in the matter of being invited to tender.

It may be given at some future date.

ACCUSE GIRL OF ROBBING POOR BOXES IN CHURCH

Examiner Special.

NEW YORK, FEB. 1.—Alleging that she had broken open three poor boxes in the Polish Catholic Church of St. Stanislaus, Driggs Avenue and Humboldt Street, Brooklyn, the police yesterday held fifteen-year-old Annie Sulinsky, No. 1955 Pitkin Avenue, as a juvenile delinquent and sent her to the Children's Society.

All the worshippers had left the church yesterday morning after the last mass except Mary Jaeckel, aged nine, who heard a noise near the poor boxes. The child hastened to the rear of the church and says she surprised Annie, who drew a knife, and threatened to kill her if she raised an alarm.

Mary ran from the church, terror-stricken. Outside she met Sexton John Lukow, to whom she told her story. The sexton quickly locked all the doors, then he hurried to the Humboldt Avenue police station.

Patrolman McDermott was sent to the church, where he found Annie seated in a pew. Three poor boxes were found to have been pried open. At the police station an envelope, containing a five dollar bill and thirty cents in change, was found in the girl's possession. She denied that the money came from the poor boxes. She said she had worked for a family in Manhattan until yesterday morning, when she was paid off and discharged.

RESIDENT PROTESTS AGAINST THE OIL

Claims That the Odour is Unbearable and Should Not be Tolerated—A Heated Protest Against Plan of the Council.

SOME OF THE REASONS

To the Editor of The Examiner.

Dear Sir,—I notice the question of oiling the streets is again before the Council, and the City Engineer states this method will cost $1,200 less than water sprinkling.

The same authority stated last summer, when an experimental test was made on Rubidge street, that the odour would only last a few weeks, but we all know (especially those within three blocks of the place) that this is not the case.

The abominable stench was in full evidence even after the ground was frozen, and not until covered by snow did we get a respite from the nauseating odour.

Twelve hundred dollars saved; but what does it cost us. Our city turned into a foul smelling place, on a par with a dirty, oil warehouse. Dirt we can see, is bad enough; but dirt we MUST smell is worse. From it there is neither escape nor remedy, day or night.

We can clear our premises or street of eyesores, but this foul intruder knows no sanctity of hearth or home, even the sick room must have added discomfort, the invalid more torture, and nausea ad libitum for everybody.

The reeking odour pervades everywhere, tainting milk, pastry, and cooked foods; not only must we smell the foul stuff, but taste it also.

We can understand how it might be used around cattle sheds, or pig sties, or on a country road, but to apply it in a residential part of a city is an intolerable nuisance.

The trivial saving of $1,200.00 is no return for the discomfort—only about ⅛ of a mill, or on a house assessed for $2,000.00, only 25 cents of a saving, who would have it for four times that amount?

The plea is put forth it will save the streets, but (as the Examiner showed recently) we have no streets to save, unless a short section of George may by courtesy (or imagination) be called one.

If the merchants of George street want oil, let them have it, but it has no place in the residential districts.

If the new Council is anxious to save money there are other ways; for instance, the cutting out of "deputation picnics" at the city's expense, that was such a standing feature of last year's Council, would save quite an item.

The Council should turn down any proposition to oil the streets, in residence quarters, and if they want to know how the people regard it (especially last year's victims) they can soon find out.

If the citizens could secure the removal of the Pork Packing House for $1,200.00 they would quickly accept it; but it is only a single spot; how absurd then to introduce a similar nuisance that would be general. We have quite enough in that line already. With our city permeated by such a miasma, tourist and summer trade would be injured and the city given a bad name as well as a bad odour. We all have a first claim on sweet, pure air.

Yours truly,
RESIDENT.

DOCTOR ADVISED OPERATION

Cured by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Canifton, Ont.—"I had been a great sufferer for five years. One doctor told me it was ulcers of the uterus, and another told me it was a fibroid tumor. No one knows what I suffered. I would always be worse at certain periods, and never was regular, and the bearing-down pains were terrible. I was very ill in bed, and the doctor told me I would have to have an operation, and that I might die during the operation. I wrote to my sister about it and she advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Through personal experience I have found it the best medicine in the world for female troubles, for it has cured me, and I did not have to have the operation after all. The Compound also helped me while passing through Change of Life."—Mrs. LETITIA BLAIR, Canifton, Ontario.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs, has proved to be the most successful remedy for curing the worst forms of female ills, including displacements, inflammation, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, bearing-down feeling, flatulency, indigestion, and nervous prostration. It costs but a trifle to try it, and the result has been worth millions to suffering women.

THE FIELDING TESTIMONIAL.

The attack on Hon. W. S. Fielding, Finance Minister, by the Conservative Opposition in Parliament, is only in keeping with their policy of slander as a substitute for statesmanship. Mr. Fielding was denounced as having done wrong in accepting a testimonial in the form of a substantial gift of money from his friends. It was sought to show that the testimonial was a sort of bribe, for favours received or to come. Mr. Fielding made it clear that he only accepted the testimonial on the assurance that no government contractor or official shoul dbe allowed to contribute, a condition that was carried out, as was another condition, that the names of contributors should not be known to him, so that he would not be even unconsciously influenced in his official capacity. The fact that Mr. Borden, leader of the Opposition so far as he was concerned, accepted Mr. Fielding's assurance both in the parliamentary and literal sense, showed that he had no sympathy with the action of his followers, though he seemed to be unable to restrain them, for the Opposition have become so greatly outlawed, that they pay as little deference to their leader as they do of the demands of decency and fair play in the conduct of political warfare. The personal character of Mr. Fielding, who after the toilsome years of a long and valuable life of public service, is a poor man, is above reproach, and his personal honour has never been successfully questioned. With infinite credit and success he has continuously held the office of Finance Minister of Canada for fifteen years, a longer time than any other statesmen has done in a similar capacity. Slander and scandal are poor substitutes for a political policy.

DR. CHASE'S OINTMENT.

SPECIAL PLEADING.

Nova Scotia is well pleased with the new tariff agreement, especially the interests concerned in fishing and lumbering. The Dominion Iron and Steel Company is claimed to be a sufferer by the reduction of 8 cents a ton duty on coal. This may or may not be true. But it is probable that this statement may be used to buttress a request to the government to renew the steel bounties, which expire in June of this year. Mr. J. Butler, the general manager of the Dominion Steel and Coal Company, who is in Ottawa to urge the retention of the bounties, rather gives away his case in testifying to the prosperous condition of the steel industry he represents. He says the past has been a most successful year with excellent prospects for the future. The works are now turning out 800 tons of pig iron per day; and every month they are producing 26,500 tons of steel, 18,000 tons of steel rails and of steel rods between 8,000 and 9,000 tons. At the present time the company has three cargoes of steel rails on the way "round the Horn" to Prince Rupert for the Transcontinental Railway. When one comes to consider that the company employs directly and indirectly 4,500 men in connection with the steel plant, and in the coal branch 6,000, to be increased to 8,000, with generally prosperous outlook, and an active market for its products, the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation does not seem to be very sorely in need of a renewal of the bounty on steel. The cry of injury by tariff reduction on coal may serve excellently well for special pleading in connection with the renewal of the steel bounty.

NOT HIT SO HARD.

It is evident that the public opinions regarding the trade agreement, are being modified as further study of the effect of the free list is made, and as facts bearing upon the situation are brought out. When Mr. Fielding first made his announcement it was asserted that the agreement would ruin the salt industry in the Western Peninsula of Ontario. Later intelligence is that the agreement promises to be such a stimulant to the salt producing industry that action is taken for bringing into operation salt works that were lying dormant near Goderich. At the first the fruit growers of British Columbia claimed that the fruit industry of that province would be ruined. More recently the Manitoba Free Press points out that enlightening comment on the fact that "fruit growers in British Columbia are opposed to the free entry of fruit from the United States to this country is furnished by the fact that fruit growers in California are no less opposed to the free entry of Canadian fruit to the United States. There is not now anything like enough British Columbia fruit available for the demand in this country. Unquestionably one of the greatest of all possible booms to people of these prairies will be the removal of all tariff taxation on fruit. And the growers of British Columbia will find in the expanding west a continually improving market for the products of their orchards." So will it probably be with other complaints of prospective injury to special interests. They may, on further consideration, not be so badly hit as is claimed.

SCHOOLS AND TEACHERS.

The Royal Commission on Technical Education, at its sittings in Montreal, heard complaints of the school system in that city. It was stated that at present it is impossible for many parents to keep their children at school as long as is desirable, on account of the number and expensiveness of the text books they are obliged to buy; and, if, by some struggle and self-sacrifice, a child is kept at the public school till he is ready to enter High School, he is confronted with another array of costly text books and high fees.

It is a question whether or not there are too many text books. Every day we can see youngsters going to school staggering under the burden of a bale of text books almost as big as himself, a condition forced on the pupil by the modern system of cramming which penalizes the pupil with "home work". It seems that it would be better to have fewer text-books and more teachers equipped to supplement the bare outline of knowledge on a subject a text-book is assumed to provide. Every good teacher in a primary or secondary school should, in the measure of what is demanded of him or her, be as a professor in a college, able to supplement text books by something in the form of informal lectures, amplifying or explaining what the text book, at is best, is only supposed to treat in a rudimentary way. The teacher who cannot go beyond the text-book is far short of what effective equipment for his or her duties demands.

We have, in Ontario, a sufficiency of cheap text books—cheap, some of them both in character and cost,—but we have a great dearth of teachers. Hundreds of rural schools are blundering along with cheap teachers, that is, improperly qualified teachers. Teachers are the backbone of a school system; if they are weak then the results are weak. We have, in the past, given undue attention to the provision of cheap text books and neglected the important work of providing good teachers. It seems that the time is come when greater attention must be paid to the preperation of teachers. We have the same general course in our high schools for preparation for teaching as we have for preparation for the college or university, as palpably absurd an arrangement as having the same lectures for students preparing for law and medicine.

Until we treat teaching as a profession, demanding special training and preparation, we shall have undesirable results. Until we are prepared to pay adequate salaries for first-rate teachers we shall not have first-rate Public Schools. If school trustees were to-day ever so much disposed to pay decent salaries they would not have an opportunity to do so, for there is no adequate supply of teachers, worth good salaries.

It is time the Ontario Government, which is charged with the responsibility of education, should take steps to strengthen our school system in its weakest part—the teaching department. It is not much exaggeration to say that we have not, in some respects—as far as, in very many cases, essential qualifications go—gone very far ahead of the days when an unfrocked, drunken parson, or a discharged soldier, "with a wooden leg," was considered good enough for a public school teacher. What our educational system is short in, is good teachers, and its greatest lack in equipment is the lack of the proper machinery for the manufacture of good, well-qualified teachers. We have many, but far too few, first-class teachers; we have many, far too many, ineffective teachers, forced, from very lack of supply, into positions they are not yet qualified to fill.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

Hon. Mr. Lemieux, Postmaster-General, has introduced a bill to authorize the introduction into the larger post offices of the Canadian automatic stamp vending machines. By putting a cent or a penny in the slot of the machine one can obtain a stamp of these denominations. The machine refuses to respond to counterfeit coins. It will effect a considerable saving, as the machine charges no commission. This device is an Australian invention, largely used in that Dominion as well as in Europe.

Great Britain begins to see that she has nobly erred in the way of extending asylum to foreigners and recognizing the liberty of the press and speech. The recent anarchist outrages proved the former and the dastardly slum journal attack on the king, accusing him of leading a double life and having two wives, is an example of the other. The slander has been proven in court to be unfounded,—that the king, like the bishop mentioned by St. Paul is "the husband of one wife" and one wife only, and that he never had another. The slanderer, a tool of a Yankee, with more money than character, who financed the slanderous sheet, is sent to jail as the criminal he is.

Irish Prosperity Being Promoted By Improved Agricultural Methods

(Manitoba Free Press.)

The annual report of the Irish Agricultural Organization Society shows that remarkable progress is being made in a movement which is bringing prosperity to the Emerald Isle. Sir Horace Plunkett and his associates have rendered Ireland a great service by their work in introducing into the main Irish industry, agriculture, the methods which have proved so eminently successful in other European countries, notably in Denmark. Much opposition was met with at first in the work of organizing co-operation, no less than fifty meetings having been held during the years 1889 and 1890 before even a working basis was obtained. Not until 1894 was the Irish Organization Society, as it is now called, finally formed.

Irish agriculture was, generally speaking, in the last stages of decadence when the movement began. Continental dairy and produce farmers sold in the British markets, and flourished on the returns. It was not a question of rent, because the continental farmer, in many cases, paid as much rent as the Irish farmer. It was a question of getting together and standardizing every grade of product and demanding a certain price therefor. By such methods the continental farmers were meeting the needs of the great produce houses controlling the British market, because they could control an immense and certain turnover at a definite price and at a regular profit to themselves.

A beginning was made with dairying, in the introduction of co-operative methods in Ireland. The present report shows a grand total of 301 societies in twenty-three counties, with a membership of 44,213 farmers or cowkeepers, a total capital of $1,248,595, with a turnover for the fiscal year of $9,202,500. The net gain in cash business over the preceding year is nearly $600,000, and the gain in membership is nearly 2,000.

Almost contemporary with the beginnings of the co-operative dairy system was the establishment of "farmers' "banks" not at all institutions of the character of the wrecked Farmers' Bank of Toronto, but rather credit societies on the principle of those which had proved so successful in Germany. These little banks have given hundreds of small farmers in Ireland an insight into—indeed, an education in—real business methods. The system consists in the formation of associations of farmers, who by accepting unlimited liability on the "joint and several" system are able to obtain loans either from the State, or, what is preferable, from a joint stock bank on the overdraft plan. The capital raised in this way is supplemented by local deposits made by farmers who wish a safe investment for their savings. Thus the savings of farmers in a given parish are lent to their neighbours, who use the money for economic purposes only. Every applicant for a loan must be well-known; and his capacity as a farmer, his habits and particularly his character are carefully looked into as the basis of a guarantee that he will use a loan properly and return it in due season. The number of those credit societies is now 234, with a membership of 18,422.

With those two societies as the basis of its working plans, the Irish Agricultural Society has gradually introduced other forms of co-operation, none of which has been a failure. The list includes flax cultivation to support the great linen industry of the north, to bacon-curing, beekeeping, and the poultry industry. The work from the beginning has been in the hands of trained "organizers," men of executive ability, who receive a regular salary and who are carefully trained at the headquarters of the Society in Dublin. These men go from district to district, explaining the methods and aims of the movement, enrolling members among the farmers, and gradually forming them into local societies.

The agricultural holdings in Ireland are mostly small, as is well known. There are 84,690 holdings that do not exceed one acre, 61,730 holdings that do not exceed five acres, 153,290 holdings not exceeding fifteen acres, and 136,068 holdings not exceeding thirty acres — those figures covering two-thirds of the rural population. The Irish Agricultural Organization Society has up to date expended some $500,000 of public money, and it is undoubtedly the wisest expenditure of money that has yet been made in Ireland. In the co-operative creameries alone, the additional annual gain to the farmers through the organization is now upwards of $2,000,000 a year—a very large gain indeed, in so small and so impoverished a country. The total trade of the movement since it began has amounted to over $100,000,000. And the movement is as yet only in its beginnings.

"THE INNOCENT MURDERERS"

By Wm. Johnson and Paul West

CHAPTER SIX.

THE PUZZLE OF THE DIAMOND

"Has anybody seen Ernesta Frost to-night?"

Detective Sullivan, standing within earshot of a group of Graydon students in the village drugstore, strove to betray no interest in this question from one of the group; nevertheless, he listened attentively for the answer.

"Probably at home, working out some of old Hoppy's chemical experiments!" said another student.

"I don't see what Ernesta sees in that stuff," was the comment of a third, a girl. "She's either up at the laboratory, or in her room, working all the time."

"I guess Hoppy pays her for her work," suggested another.

"Perhaps she's trying to learn a lot so she can help Professor Gordon when they get married" said a young man; whereupon the girls tittered.

The group scattered and went in various directions. The detective followed two of its most loquacious members, hoping that he would hear more concerning Ernesta, was disappointed. The students turned into a dormitory at the foot of College Hill without further comment on the young woman.

But Sullivan had heard something that surprised him.

"When she and Professor Gordon are married," one of the students had said. So there was another complication, a love affair, possibly an engagement, between the girl and one of the faculty. Mrs. Hopkins had told him nothing of this; doubtless she did not know of it; but if it existed, what about the elopement with Professor Hopkins?

The detective had left the Hopkins house well pleased with himself at having so easily, by the mere turning of a photograph, discovered the identity of the girl. He had made a plausible excuse for a young woman, more than ordinarily prepossessing, being attracted by a middle-aged college professor of high mental attainments. But now it seemed that Hopkins was not the only college professor to have attracted Ernesta. There was Gordon. Who was Gordon?

A matter easily discovered, thought Sullivan, as he mounted the elm-lined road leading to the college. Of course he could find that out in the morning, and, perhaps, if he were to approach Professor Gordon very carefully, he might learn of a quarrel between him and Ernesta. Perhaps the fact of her disappearance with Hopkins was the result of sudden pique.

"If the old fool was careless enough to leave that note where his wife could find it," he commented, "who knows but maybe he has left something around his laboratory that will give me a tip as to where they have gone! If the college isn't carefully guarded, and I can find his laboratory in the dark, I may be able to turn a little trick to-night."

As the detective arrived in front of the college building he heard footsteps approaching from the opposite direction. They were accompanied by a muffled, rumbling sound for which he was at a loss to account. Hastily extinguishing his cigar, he slipped behind a tree to avoid being discovered and to await developments. The footsteps came nearer. Peering out from behind the tree he could see in the gloom the hazy outlines of four figures. One of them was trundling what the detective concluded to be a wheelbarrow.

"Labourers, I guess," said Sullivan to himself, "doing some work around the college. But why don't they have a light?" He strained his eyes and ears, but could see or hear nothing further. The figures approached nearer, and in another moment would have passed the tree behind which he stood. He drew back to permit them to pass without discovering him, resolving to follow them at a safe distance. But to his surprise they did not pass him, and the rumbling of the wheel-barrow suddenly ceased. Sullivan cautiously leaned out from his hiding-place. The men were hidden in the shadow of the building, but he could hear them in whispered conference though they were too far off for him to distinguish their words.

"Students up to some devilment, I bet," thought he, and was about to retreat down the hill lest they should find him lurking there and give the alarm. But he altered his mind when one of the group lighted a match, and proceeded to ignite a cigar, for a moment throwing a red glare on the faces of all four men. Instead of students, they were full-grown, dignified-looking persons, at least one of them with grizzled hair and beard.

"Eliot!" one of them exclaimed, and the match was immediately extinguished; but the detective had already observed, not only that the men were not college students, but that they were in their shirt-sleeves, and, judging by the fact that two of them were mopping their brows, had been engaged in some sort of manual labour. The wheelbarrow also indicated this.

One of them next wheeled the barrow around to the side of the building and then rejoined his companions. After this the four of them walked hastily in the direction of the village.

As they passed the tree that concealed Detective Sullivan he heard one of them say:

"We will separate when we get to the foot of the hill. It would not do for us to walk through the village together."

Quick to make up his mind, Sullivan decided that he would gain nothing by following one of the group, all of whom he could recognise if he could see them again. Better to inspect the wheelbarrow, whose location he thought he knew, and to see if the men had been up to any mischief around the college. So he waited until they had passed down the hill and out of hearing. Then reasonably sure that the coast was clear, he made his way to the corner of the building, where he expected to find the wheelbarrow.

It was there and in it lay a spade. He felt the surface of the barrow and found it dry and clean, but the spade gave evidence to the touch of having been recently used.

"It's dirt!" said Sullivan, under his breath. "They've been burying something." He flashed his little pocket electric light on the spade, and was astonished to find that what he had taken for dirt was sawdust. "That's funny!" he said, and scraped off what sawdust adhered to the spade, perhaps half a handful, and put it in his pocket. Now he almost regretted not having followed the four men who had used the wheelbarrow. It was too late, however; the next best thing was to get into the college building.

"Anyway," he said to himself, by way of solace, "I'm not supposed to be runnin' down anything but Hopkins!"

He fully expected to find the front door of the college building locked, and was prepared to climb in a window; but the door swung obligingly open at his first touch. He stepped carefully inside, and waited, the condition of the door making him afraid that there might be a night watchman on hand. Hearing nothing, he located the stairs and, in the darkness, felt his way to the door of the laboratory. Flashing his light once more, his eye caught a notice of some sort pinned to the laboratory door. At the risk of his light attracting attention, he examined the note carefully. It said:

"Professor Hopkins has been called out of town unexpectedly."

Habit, chance or good luck led him to investigate more fully. He passed his finger lightly over the writing. The ink was still damp, showing that the notice could not have been written more than a few minutes ago.

"That's queer, mighty queer!" said Sullivan to himself. "Whoever put that there must have written it and stuck it up while those four men were right around here somewhere. If Hopkins himself wrote it—and very likely he did—he must have been in the building—he may be in the building now! Or else he has been, inside of a mighty few minutes! I'll see!"

He put out his light again and stooped to look through the keyhole of the laboratory door, to discover if there were a light in the room. It was dark. He opened the door cautiously. He wouldn't have been at all surprised to have found Professor Hopkins there, but a survey of the room, after he had pulled down the inside curtains, thus shutting in all light from his little "flash," convinced him that he was alone.

The cupboard came within range of his diminutive searchlight. The doors were open, and on the upper shelf he saw what he instantly recognized as the black bag of which Mrs. Hopkins had spoken. He emptied its contents unceremoniously on the floor. Quickly he ran through the crumpled papers, and thrust them in his pocket for future reference. None of them looked at all suspicious except the note from Ernesta, the contents of which Mrs. Hopkins had retailed to him. This he added to his collection, and put the bag back in its place.

"She said he always carried this with him wherever he went," said Sullivan, as he put the bag on the shelf in the cupboard. "Well, this is one time he didn't! Hello! What's this?"

It was a large notebook lying beside the bag. As he turned its pages he saw that it was a sort of diary kept by Professor Hopkins, and to his surprise the writing in it was not at all like that of the note on the laboratory door.

"Aha!" said Sullivan, "if Hopkins didn't write that note, he must have told somebody he was going away, and got them to do it for him! Now, who?"

He was about to close the notebook when his eye suddenly caught the last entry made in it:

"Monday, May 18—at last!"

"Why, that's to-day!" exclaimed the detective aloud. Then, eagerly, he ran back over the preceding pages for some clue to this last remark. He found it entered on the Friday previous:

"Ernesta is ready to go," was the sentence. Sullivan continued his search, and on a page still further back he found:

"Everything is working out satisfactorily. Imagine that my fears regarding Gordon were groundless. He knows nothing, I am sure."

Sullivan was jubilant. "I guess Mrs. Hopkins was right," he said to himself. "He was certainly planning to run away with the girl, and was afraid Prof. Gordon smelled a rat. Cagey old scoundrel, all right; But he'll have to be cagier than that to keep me from landing him!"

He gave the laboratory a thorough overhauling in search of anything else that might indicate where Ernesta and the professor had gone; but he found absolutely nothing, and decided, finally, that he might as well go back to the hotel and get a night's rest, after tabulating his work for the evening.

As he let himself out of the college door he was reminded of the wheelbarrow incident. Grown bolder now, he did not hesitate to examine the ground with his pocket-light, and was able to see the tracks made by the barrow and the four men, clearly. He gathered that the men had taken the wheelbarrow from its place at the side of the building, and brought it to the foot of the steps, where, very likely, they had put something heavy in it; for, while the tracks from the barrow's resting place to the steps were scarcely discernible, where they turned to the left they cut deep into the soft ground.

What had these men, at this hour of the night, been doing

BE WARNED BY HEADACHE

Tells of Serious Derangements of the Liver and Kidneys

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

You can stop a headache with powerful drugs. But it is not generally wise to do so.

A headache almost always warns you of derangements of the digestive system, the liver, kidneys or bowels.

Awaken the liver to healthful action by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and you not only free yourself of headache, but remove the cause which will soon lead to more dangerous results than headache.

Invigorate the action of the kidneys by this treatment and you take away the dangers of Bright's disease as well as free yourself of headache.

Pains are the result of poison in the system and whether you have headache, backache or aching limbs, you can be almost sure of relief and cure when you cleanse and regulate the vital organs by the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills.

They are wonderfully prompt, as well as definite and thorough in action. You can depend upon them, no matter how long-standing or complicated your case, so long as the cause is the sluggish, torpid condition of the liver and kidneys.

RUN-DOWN CONDITIONS

Their Cause and Effect

Run-down conditions are caused by a lack of iron in the blood and malassimilation of food. If you are one of the unfortunates who have drifted into this state, change your diet, eat foods that are rich in mineral elements of nutrition, and take Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic (without oil), which supplies iron to the blood in the most easily assimilated form.

A case is reported from Mattoon, Ill.—Mrs. O. M. Watrous was in very poor health for years. She was weak, all run-down, no appetite, and only weighed ninety-seven pounds. She had doctored for a long time without benefit. Vinol was recommended. She tried it, and in less than a year she was in perfect health and weighed 127 lbs.

Vinol creates an appetite, reestablishes perfect digestion and makes good, pure blood. In this natural manner it builds up the run-down weak and debilitated, and replaces weakness with strength.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you. McDermid and Jury, corner George and Charlotte streets; also Payne's drug store, corner George and Charlotte streets.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

WHEN you criticise folks and undertakings and conditions, do you criticise constructively or always negatively?

The other day I was puzzling over a birthday present for one of those difficult people who have so very much that it is almost impossible to find an unfilled niche in their possessions.

There were four people in the room with me. As I named over to them the different articles I had thought might be suitable, three of the four spoke up objecting to this or that, and only one made any constructive suggestion.

I think that was a fairly good example of the proportion of constructive and negative critics in this world.

Negative criticism is of about as much use as a sign post which says, "This is not the way to so-and-so."

I have an acquaintance who has exquisite taste in dress. I admired her clothes so much that when I was going to have a new gown I sometimes talked it over with her. I don't any more. For, whereas she would frequently turn up her nose at my ideas, assuring me that "she wouldn't think of having that; nobody wore that sort of thing now," she hardly offered me any constructive criticism and seldom said, "I would have this."

And I think it was not because she had any objection to sharing her ideas, either. Merely that the lazy habit of negative criticism was so strong with her that she couldn't escape it.

And most people are not only inclined to be negative critics, but worse still, they are apt to be also indefinite critics.

An honest, definite negative criticism is worth something, but an indefinite negative criticism is absolutely valueless.

A twentieth century business man from the "I will" city was speaking to me one day of people who criticised him, and this is what he said:

"I like criticism. But I want it definite. If a man should come into my office and say, "Look here, you are running your business all wrong. You don't know anything about this business,' I wouldn't kick him out. I'd say, 'All right, tell me just what I'm doing wrong and how I can do better.' And if he could point out any mistakes I was making and how I could correct them, I'd thank him and even pay for telling me what a fool I'd been. But if he couldn't tell me anything definite, well, then I'd think I had a right to get pretty thoroughly mad at him for daring to criticise me."

When a woman discharges her maid or an employer his employe, I think the employer should tell the one discharged exactly what was the matter with the work.

And if the employer does not do this, I think the discharged employe should go to him, and frankly and pleasantly ask for definite fault-finding so that when he rears a new structure of service in a new position he may rear it on the foundation of this criticism.

The world needs definite constructive critics very badly.

But it doesn't have much use for the indefinite negative critic.

Which kind are you?

Fifty-Year-Old Woman Flees With Young Man

Retired Merchant Tells Police His Wife Wrote "I Have Found a Younger Man"---Daughter Home on a Visit is Prostrated---Case of Hypnotism.

NEW YORK, FEB. 1.—Mrs. Adam Linz, who is nearly fifty years old, and who for a quarter century has lived with her husband in the colony of well-to-do cottagers at Whitesville, near Lakewood, N.J., eloped yesterday, it is said, with Philip Grubber, twenty-three years of age. Grubber had no known occupation or resources, Linz said last night.

In a note left behind for her husband, who formerly was a Lakewood merchant, Mrs. Linz said she was leaving him for ever because she had found a younger man.

Linz did not even know that his wife and Grubber were acquainted, until he reached home, early yesterday evening and found the letter. The couple have one child, Mrs. J. G. Brown, of Georgia. She arrived in Whitesville yesterday morning for a long visit to her parents. Mrs. Brown says her mother greeted her cheerfully, and did not betray by even the faintest sign any intention to go away.

ASKS AID OF POLICE

The elopement was made known by Linz, when he asked the Lakewood police to aid him to bring his wife home. He said he had learned that the couple had taken a train for New York from the Lakewood depot. He added that he had heard that in New York they bought tickets for California. But Linz said he did not credit that report, for he did not believe either Grubber or Mrs. Linz had enough money to carry them very far.

Linz's story of an elopement caused great surprise in the entire colony, for Mrs. Linz is a church member and has always ben regarded by her neighbors as a home loving woman and happy in her family life.

HAS THEORY OF HYPNOTISM

Linz, who is sixty-five years old, retired from business several years ago, having accumulated much money. Yesterday morning he drove over to Lakewood to see about several things connected with the management of his property, and returned to find his daughter almost prostrated by the discovery of her mother's action.

Linz told neighbors he knew of no reason for his wife leaving him. He thought Grubber must have hypnotized her or she would never have done anything of the kind. Close questioning of every one in the neighborhood of the Linz neighborhood failed to reveal any eye-witnesses of Mrs. Linz's departure from her home, nor is it known on what train she started for New York.

Linz said last night that if he learned the couple were now on their way to California he would invoke the aid of the police in the cities along the way to have them turned back.

SHE TRIED TO CHOKE PRISONER IN THE COURT

Examiner Special.

NEW YORK, JAN. 31.—Mrs. Mathilda Polichuk, of No. 206 East One Hundred and Ninth Street, was in the Manhattan Avenue Court, Williamsburg, yesterday to accuse Karl Tinchen of having made her a prisoner in a Williamsburg tenement. When Tinchen was led into the room the woman sprang at him and seized his throat. She was choking him when a court attendant parted them. Then she fainted.

When she was revived she said that last Thursday when she was in her home with her two children, and her husband was absent, a man came who said he was a policeman and that she must go to a police station. She had been in the country only two weeks, and in her ignorance she went with the supposed policeman. He took her to No. 224 Cook Street, Williamsburg, where she was locked in a room. After a time Tinchen, whom she had known in Russia, came, and holding a knife over her told her that if she tried to escape she would be killed.

In the meantime her husband had found his wife missing and had gone to the police. Detectives of the Stagg Street station traced the woman and her companion to No. 20 Cook Street and released her Friday night. Tinchen appeared later and they arrested him. He was held yesterday without bail for a hearing to-morrow on a charge of assault.

ECZEMA NOT A BLOOD DISEASE

Eczema is a disease of the skin and not of the blood. For this reason internal medicines have never been a success in curing eczema. Whatever the cause local application is necessary to heal the sores and restore the skin to a healthful, natural condition. For this reason Dr. Chase's Ointment has a world wide reputation as being without a rival for the cure of Eczema.

THE GREAT WHITE PLAGUE ITS PREVENTION AND CURE

Important Lecture Given Last Night Under the Auspices of the Provincial Board of Health, by Dr. McCullough

A very interesting and instructive lecture, coupled with an extensive exhibit of lantern slide views, was given in the Assembly Hall of the Collegiate Institute last night.

Dr. McCullough, the secretary of the Provincial Board of Health was the principal speaker of the evening. In his opening remarks he said it gave him great pleasure to be present at the meeting; it was not his intention to give those present a learned address, but to lay before them a few simple facts concerning the greatest scourge of the human race to-day, its cause, prevention and cure. He said that tuberculosis was caused by the entrance of germs or microbes into the system, the germs in question being so small that in order to make them visible to the naked eye, it would be necessary to magnify them three hundred times. The germ in itself was not to be feared, in fact we could not get along without them. The farmer could not grow his grain without them, the housewife could not make her bread without them. The speaker went on to say that he had no desire to cause a panic or any uneasiness whatever, but on the other hand to reassure and instruct the hearers on the suppression of the great White Plague.

It was away back in 1882 that Robert Koch, a German chemist, discovered what is commonly known to the world as the tuberculosis germ. This startling discovery was at once made known to the world by Prof. Koch and it proved to be of infinite value to the medical profession and all concerned, and it served to give increased impetus to the sway of public opinion towards the suppression of tuberculosis.

The speaker did not believe consumption to be hereditary in any sense whatever, but in his opinion the reason why so many families are wiped out with this disease was the direct result of weak constitutions or one member of the family being so diseased as to transmit the infection to the others by carelessness on the part of the patient. It is a curious fact that in the towns and cities the death rate is much lower that it is in the rural districts, the reason being that so many of the farm houses are so badly ventilated and poorly constructed.

In England, where the population is very large on a small area of land, tuberculosis is decreasing, while in Ireland, where the characteristics are pretty much the same as England in respect to climate and population, tuberculosis is increasing rapidly.

The speaker then went on to describe the various classes of consumption, such as white swelling, enlarged glands and some forms of skin diseases, all of which are attributed to consumption. In order to effect a cure the first and most vital point to take into consideration was the education of the masses to their responsibility in the propogation of protective measures for themselves and others. There is as yet no remedy known to the medical world for the cure of tuberculosis, the so-called cures, commonly known as patent medicines which flood the markets are practically useless. In the majority of cases they only serve to increase heart action or stimulate the system, and the after effects leave the patient in a weaker condition than he was before. The most essential necessities for the cure of tuberculosis were fresh air, good food, such as milk bread cereals, bacon, etc., coupled with moderate exercise.

Next followed a series of lantern slide views, exhibiting tuberculosis in its various stages of propagation, portions of diseased lungs and others too numerous to mention, all of a highly interesting and educative nature.

A meeting will be held in the same place to-night and will be addressed by Dr. Hodgetts, Medical Adviser of the Commission on Conservation, and those concerned in the abolition of the scourge of the nation should be present for their own personal edification and hear what this learned gentleman has to say on this vital subject.

Labour Conditions In Peterborough During The Month Of December

Mr. J. Arthur Sharp, the local correspondent to the Labour Gazette, has sent the following report of the conditions here during December:

The labour situation in this district has shown very little change from last month. Outdoor workers, however, had a quiet month. Manufacturing lines showed the same activity as last month. The Bonner Worth Company, Limited, may erect a factory here; it is asking the city to assist them by a loan of $12,000 without interest and exemption from municipal taxes for a period of ten years. They will manufacture worsted yarn. C. E. Dittman is asking the city the right to lay mains on the streets to convey natural gas. These two by-laws will be voted on at the time of the municipal elections. Messrs. Rose and Hickey have been awarded the contract for the extensions and improvements to the Peterborough Post Office; the amount of the tender is a little in excess of $8,000.

An order was made by Honourable Justice Sutherland at Osgoode Hall for the winding up of the Canadian Cordage Manufacturing Company, Limited, on the ground that the company was insolvent. The nominal assets of the Company over and above all liabilities are over $900,000. The committee representing the citizens sent a cable order to Taylor and Company, Loughborough, England, for a chime of eleven bells; they will cost $5,600, and will be placed in St. John's Anglican church. The Charlotte street Methodist church is preparing plans for a new church. They have $40,000 subscribed at present; work will be started in the early spring. Over five hundred immigrants have been placed from the local immigration office during this present year. Since the office was opened here four years ago fifteen hundred have been supplied with places. Most of them have been sent to farmers.

Condition of Local Industries.

Agriculture.—There was a good demand for farm produce and good prices prevailed.

Lumbering.—Lumbering is not so extensive as for several years past. Fifty men employed by the Gull River Lumber Company were thrown out of work by the breaking up of the Hawk Lake Camps, enough timber having been already cut for the season.

Manufacturing.—The various industries are running full time.

Railway construction.—Conditions were quiet, but preparations are being made for a larger amount of work in the coming spring.

Condition of Particular Trades.

The building trades were quiet. Plumbers were active. Iron moulders and helpers, coremakers, machinists and engineers were active. Electrical workers and linemen were also active. Brass workers were rather quiet. Wood workers were active. Printers had a good month. Journeymen tailors and garment workers were active. Bakers and confectioners had a very busy month. Butchers and meat cutters also had a good month. Leather workers were busy. Railway and street railway workers were active. Unskilled labour was fairly well employed.

District Notes.

Lakefield.—The Electric Light Company has started operations on the new power house.

Young's Point—Mr. John Miller is erecting a sawmill on the site formerly occupied by Mr. E. Young's mill.

Lindsay—Horn Brothers, woollen mills, are erecting an additional storey to their blanket department. Active conditions prevail in every department.

JUDGMENT IN LIQUOR CASE RESERVED FOR A WEEK

His Worship Heard the Evidence in Charge Against Unlicensed Hotel Man, Having Allowed Liquor to Be Consumed on His Premises---Occurred in Barber Shop

The case of George Lipsett, charged with having unlawfully allowed liquor to be consumed on his premises, which were not duly licensed for that purpose, was heard at the police court this morning. Mr. W. H. Moore, K.C., appeared for the prosecution, while Mr. G. N Gordon appeared for the defence

City Clerk Armstrong was called to show that Lipsett had an eating house license. At this stage of the proceedings all the witnesses were excluded from the court except the one under examination.

The first witness called by the prosecution was David Quinlan, the barber at the Lipsett house. He was subjected to a severe examination by Mr. Moore.

Some interesting facts were brought out during the examination. It was shown that about two weeks ago he had served a fellow barber named Kane with a drink of whiskey over the bar. The whiskey had been found in a drawer in the barber shop adjoining.

Mr. Kane was the next witness called. His evidence coincided with that of Quinlan.

Frank Arkels, the next witness called, admitted having been a party to the events leading up to the charge which took place in Lipsett's hotel on Jan. 26th.

One more witness being called, the evidence for the prosecution was closed, No witnesses for the defence were called.

Mr. Gordon pointed out that it was customary for barber shops to be established in hotels. He referred to the Munro House and numerous others throughout the country. His contention was that drinking a glass of liquor in a barber shop adjoining the hotel was no violation of the liquor act.

His Worship decided to reserve judgment for a week.

A LURE TO RAG PICKERS

Special to The Examiner:

WASHINGTON, JAN. 30.—When the Baltimore sub-treasury cancelled a quantity of old paper money recently, by punching little crosses out of it with the new machines just adopted, someone forget to burn the punchings, according to orders, and put a bag full into the waste paper basket.

What looked like a million dollars chopped into tiny bits was discovered on the city dump heap a few days later and caused great excitement among the rag pickers.

Several persons in Baltimore have sent some of the tiny pieces to the Treasury Department, with letters, saying they were remnants of bills destroyed by accident and asking to have the Treasury issue good money in redemption.

Jacob Goldberg accompanied his request with an affidavit, in which he swore his little daughter had playfully cut up one ten-dollar bill, two fives and five ones. He enclosed a dozen of the little crosses.

The Secret Service decided that what Jacob had sent was the punchings from twelve ones, one ten, three fives and one two-dollar bills. He was arrested to-day, charged with making a false affidavit in support of a fraudulent claim against the Government. The other claimants made no affidavits, and cannot be prosecuted.

CASE DISMISSED

Assault Charge Was Heard in the Police Court This Morning

John Brooks was this morning charged in the police court with having assaulted Frederick Leach. The charge arose out of a racket which took place at the Calcutt Brewery Co. on Tuesday. The evidence was so weak on both sides that the court saw fit to dismiss the case. His Worship advised the plaintiff to leave a place where the temptation to get drunk was so great. "That's what I intend to do, and make a better man of myself," replied Leach as he left the court.

THIS IS CANDLEMAS DAY - DID BRUIN SEE SHADOW?

This is the second day of February, Candlemas day, popularly regarded as the pivotal point of winter; the day that decides whether the big end of winter is behind us or is yet to come. According to popular superstition this is the day when the bear wakes from his winter slumber, and comes forth from his den, where he has spent the hungry hours in sucking his paw, to look again on the world and see what the outlook is. If the day is bright and he is able to see his shadow, he is, very properly, frightened at it and retires again to his den to spend in hibernation as much time as he has already spent in winter confinement. Hence the old couplet—

If Candlemas day is bright and clear,
We'll have two winters in one year.

According to this, the present winter, at least the hardest of it, is over. For, unless the sun comes out after these words are written—two o'clock—bruin won't have a chance of seeing his shadow, cast by the sun, to-day.

Candlemas day is so called from the large number of candles used in the services in Roman Catholic churches on this day, which is also used for the blessing of candles. It is in reality a church festival, observed in honour of the Purification of the Blessed Virgin.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

THE FOURTH ESTATE.

Peterborough people had an opportunity of being initiated into a few of the mysteries that surround "printers' ink," when the famous newspaper play, "The Fourth Estate," by Joseph Medill Patterson and Harriet Ford was presented at the Grand to a large and most enthusiastic audience. Strong in plot, rich in unusual situations, and with a wealth of cleverly portrayed character sketches, the production proved one of the most interesting and entertaining of the season. While some of the details might have been too technical in nature to be fully appreciated by the audience, and some of the points of the comedy features a trifle shaded to the laymen, the story is so sharply and clearly delineated that it was easily followed. The action is woven around incidents in the daily life of a big newspaper and the scenic effects were of an unusual elaborate nature. The big scene was the last act, showing the composing room of a newspaper, with the "compa" at work on the linotypes, and the make-up men busily engaged around the stones. The effect was decidedly realistic, and a round of applause followed the raising of the curtain. The play was most artistically acted by a large and capable cost. Chas. Balsar who was remembered by local playgoers, by his good work here, earlier in the season in "When All Has Been Said," gave a magnificent portrayal of the role of Wheeler Brand, the central figure in the action. Even the minor roles were in the hands of efficient artists.

HOUNDED TO DEATH FOR TELLING THE TRUTH

Examiner Special.

PRAGUE, BOHEMIA, JAN. 31.—Dr. Franz, a young physician in Riedau, a member of a family of distinguished scientists, has just died of a broken heart.

This year's army manoeuvres, for which all preparations had been made, were given up because some cases of typhoid fever had ended fatally in the districts where the greatest concentration of troops was intended. Dr. Franz, the parish doctor of Riedau, having discovered a case of typhoid fever, informed the sanitary authorities. Mayor and municipality had threatened that he would repent if he did not suppress the case.

The town was prepared to receive several regiments of Hussars and promised itself a rich harvest from the manoeuvres. The municipality gave the physician notice to quit.

He complained to the Board of Physicians, which decided that Franz had done his duty and must be allowed to remain parish doctor at Riedau.

The people boycotted him. When anybody fell ill the patient was transported to a neighboring town at the expense of the municipality. He married about a year ago, and when his wife was about to become a mother no nurse would attend to her.

The doctor had to buy a cow and get meat, vegetables and groceries by mail. His windows were smashed about once a week, and all the small indignities that a lot of spiteful women are capable of were vented upon his young wife.

The Board of Physicians decided that no doctor should accept the post of parish doctor at Riedau and that the doctors in neighboring cities must not treat patients from that town.

Dr. Franz was induced to begin a number of lawsuits against the Mayor, the municipality and persons who had been caught in any outrage. Months of anxiety and nervous excitement undermined the doctor's health and he died of heart failure.

SURE SIGNS

Of Kidney Trouble

If your back is constantly aching and if you experience dull shooting pains, your kidneys are out of order. If your urine is thick and cloudy or your passages frequent, scanty and painful, your kidneys and bladder are out of order. Neglect quickly brings on rheumatism, diabetes, lumbago, sciatica and etc.

Mrs. John Wagner of 110 Hollis St. Halifax, N. S., says: "Dull shooting pains would catch me across the small part of my back and extend into my shoulder and neck, often causing me to suffer with severe headaches and spells of dizziness. Spots would dazzle before my eyes and everything would turn black. I would fall to the floor and be unable to get up again without assistance. A friend told me of Booth's Kidney Pills and I began their use. The first box gave me relief and I am now well and strong."

Booth's Kidney Pills

All druggists sell Booth's kidney Pills 50c. a box with a guarantee to relieve or your money back. They are the world's greatest specific for Kidney and bladder trouble. Post paid from the proprietors, The R. T. Booth Co. Ltd., Fort Erie. Sold and guaranteed by Wm. Madill.

CRITICISM OF BARBARA TENNANT.

An English critic, in writing of Miss Tennant's recital, said in part: The great selection last night was the Potion speech from "Romeo and Juliet." Few, indeed, succeed in giving a true interpretation of this, the most beautiful but most difficult character that Shakespeare gave to women. As beautiful Barbara Tennant came on the stage we felt that a great Juliet was in front of us: before she had finished the great scene, we knew it. As she unfolded the lines, picturing the terror of the imagination, the suspense, the bravery and the great love of poor Juliet, she was a truly living exponent of the character, and when sh shad given the great climax, "Romeo, I come; this do I drink to thee" with a grandeur worthy of only herself, one could well repeat the English critics: "A great Juliet."

The Work Of The Lord's Day Alliance---An Interesting Address

Mr. Hanna, of Toronto, the Ontario Secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, addressed a union meeting in St. Andrew's church last night and gave a most interesting resume of the work accomplished by the Alliance during the past year. The meeting was opened with devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. Jas. Collins. Mr. Hanna showed what has been and is being accomplished by the Alliance. Among the most notable feats was the arrangement made with the Dominion Steel Company, employing 20,000 men by which 10,000 of these were given their Sundays regularly and the other 10,000 allowed to take a day off each week if they so wished. Hitherto the men worked seven days a week. In British Columbia the sentiment of the people had changed to such an extent that the Attorney General was now enforcing the Lord's Day Act, which had been a dead letter until last year.

At the conclusion of Mr. Hanna's address a motion was passed requesting the Ministerial Association to elect officers from among the citizens to form a local branch of hte Lord's Day Alliance.

FORMER PETERBOROUGH MAN MEETS A HORRIBLE DEATH

William Calder, of Cumber, Essex County, met with a horrible death on Thursday last. Deceased went out in the morning to do the chores and had been out about an hour when his wife, who by this time was getting anxious as to his whereabouts, went out to look for him. She failed to find him, but noticed that he had completed the chores so she returned to the house.

In about an hour, Mrs. Calder went out to look for him again, and by chance happened to look into the pig pen, where she was horrified to find the mutilated body of her husband being eaten by the pigs.

The hands were eaten completely off and the face was so badly mutilated as to be past identification. Deceased was an uncle of Mr. Alex Calder, of Peterborough, and was born in Dummer. He moved to Essex about thirty years ago. He leaves a wife and seven children and was 68 years of age.

It is supposed that he had been overcome by heart failure while feeding the pigs.

SIXTY-MILE GALE AT NEW YORK

Ships Are Blown Out to Sea at Express Train Speed

NEW YORK, JAN. 31.—A northwest wind blowing from 45 to 60 miles an hour caused high waves in the harbor yesterday, and made it hard for incoming ships and easy for outgoing ones. A big fleet put to sea. Four-masters and three-masters made steamboat time, going south or east under double reefs.

The only square rigger that sailed to the eastward was the old ship Rhein, one of the first iron ships built. She is bound for London. Among the twenty-five fore-and-afters bound down the coast, which flung up spray and trailed suds from wet decks, were the four-masters Maud Palmer, Perry Setzer, and Clifford N. Carver. They were almost in a bunch as they went out through the high combers.

BARQUENTINE LOSES SAILS

Part of the incoming fleet crawled under the Highlands for a shelter when the wind increased to sixty miles from its earlier speed of thirty-six. The old barquentine Bruce Hawkins had a tough time off Squan Beach on the Jersey coast. She lost her sails and gaff. Her captain hoisted a signal for a tug, but no tug would venture to her. She had to let go her anchor and trust to good luck for the rest.

The ship S. D. Carleton from San Francisco tried to dock at the Bush Stores, South Brooklyn. The tugs Dalzelline and E. T. Dalzell had hold of her. The wind dashed water over the tugs' bows. The full-rigger began to go sidewise toward the lee shore. Screeching for aid, the tugs summoned the Raymond and another tugboat to assist. The four succeeded in dragging the big ship off the lee shore and towing her to a safe anchorage off Stapleton, S.I.

ROMA SWEPT UPON MUDBANK

The Roma, of the Faber Line, tried to dock at Thirty-second Street, South Brooklyn, and spent the greater part of the day on a mudbank a quarter mile from her pier. She had eleven cabin and 100 steerage passengers. The strong ebb tide caught her below the water line and the wind caught her above and she was helpless.

The tugs Adelaide and N. J. Lennox started to help the Roma, but the rough oging in the bay was too much for them. The Adelaide was almost swamped. Both tugs put into the Erie Basin. It took three wrecking tugs to pull the Roma off at high water.

The ferryboat Baltimore of the Wall Street service, when breasting the high waters in the East River, struck the lighter Potomac of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad. The shock of collision threw down a team of horses on the ferry boat. The fifty passengers clung to the seats and rails and none was injured. The rail on one side of the ferryboat's bow was knocked off and the Potomac's nose was pushed in.

FORMER HASTINGS RESIDENT IS DEAD

Examiner Special.

HASTINGS, FEB. 1.—The public auction sale at the farm of Mr. Philips' on Wednesday last, was a grand success in every way. The auctioneer was Mr. S. Fisher, of Campbellford.

We learn with regret of the death of Mrs. G. Brooks, of Ash, Ont., who moved from here only a year ago, having spent the greater part of her life in this district. The late Mrs. Brooks was very highly respected by everyone who knek her, and the news of her death has caused a widespread feeling of sadness. She was a consistent Christian, and for many years was a faithful member of the Methodist church here, always showing her interest both by her presence at the public services and by her willingness to help financially. She leaves to mourn her loss one son and five daughters, who have the sympathy of the whole community in their sad bereavement. Miss Lottie Brooks, of China, is a daughter. The remains were brought here and interred in the Trent Valley cemetery beside those of her husband who predeceased her many years ago.

An accident, which might easily have been more serious, happened on Tuesday of this week to little Willie, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Asa Lobb of Beatty, Sask., who are at present on a visit to the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Oakman. While in the act of climbing up a ladder in the barn the little fellow lost his footing and fell to the floor beneath, where he was picked up in an unconscious state by his father, who carried him to the house and immediately summoned Dr. Edmison. Upon examination it was discovered that the collar bone was dislocated. Chloroform was administered and the injured member replaced and the little fellow is doing as well as can be expected.

The Ladies' Aid in connection with the Methodist church held their regular monthly meeting on Thursday at the parsonage.

Miss Grace Douglas, of Norwood, has been the guest of Miss Willena Fife.

The icy condition of the streets is responsible for an accident to Mr. I. Preston, who by falling, caused a fracture of the arm. Dr. Wade set the broken limb, but Mr. Preston will be laid off work for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Stewart have the sympathy of all in their loss by death of their youngest child, a bright little girl of eight months. Death was due to pneumonia.

Miss Ethel Collins is confined to her home suffering from a fractured rib as the result of an accident while tobogganning.

THIRTY PEOPLE WERE KILLED BY EXPLOSION

Cargo of Dynamite Explodes With Terrible Results---Lighter With Her Crew of Seven Utterly Disappears---Heavy Property Loss.

New York, Feb. 2.—A cargo of dynamite in transit from a freight car to the hold of a lighter moored at pier 7, Communipaw, N.J., let go at just one minute past noon yesterday, 150 yards south of the Jersey City terminal of the Central Railroad, of New Jersey, and in the wide-spread ruin that followed seven men are known to have been killed, seven more are known to be missing, hundreds were wounded, and varying reports leave from fifteen to twenty more unaccounted for.

Thirty seems to be a conservative estimate of the dead, and property damage will hardly fall below $750,000. The cause of the explosion is variously attributed to the dropping of a case of dynamite and to a boiler explosion on a boat.

The Jersey Central terminal was wrecked: three ferry boats in the slips were torn and splintered; lower Manhattan, across the river, was shaken from the street level to the top of the Singer tower; severe damage was done in Brooklyn, Staten Island, and the immigrant detention station on Ellis Island; the shock was felt on Long Island in Amityville, 36 miles distant, and in New Jersey at Long Branch, 40 miles distant.

The lighter Whittier, owned by the American Storage & Delivery Co. of New York, was so badly shattered that she sank with her crew of two, while the Swedish steel bark Entine Engrid, a stone's throw to the south, was stripped of her rigging and the lives of two deckhands aboard snuffed out. Fragments of one man's head were found swinging high on a tangled piece of rope.

The Katherine W. was tied to the outer end of the pier, and a crew of deck hands were unloading a consignment of fifty pound boxes from two freight cars to the lighter when the crash came. Theoretically, dynamite will not let go either shock or fire, but only from a combination of both—the detonation produced by a percussion cap. What followed is the best possible example of the whimsies of dynamite.

The Katherine with her crew of seven simply disappeared; not a splinter of her hull been found. The freight car went up in a puff of dust. On the rear deck of the bark Entine, Engineer Edward found a pair of iron trucks. They may be the trucks of the dynamite car, or of one of the other four cars standing near that were also torn to bits.

Fifty yards back stood another car of dynamite. The explosion ripped the roof off it, and broke in the doors, but the dynamite itself held true and rested quiescent in its wooden boxes. On board the Entine the steel mizzen-mast snapped off below the lower yard and tangled wreckage came tumbling about the decks. Everything abaft the mizzen-mast was leveled flat, but the steel plates of the hull held stoutly and showed not even a mark.

For 100 feet the pier-end itself was utterly demolished. The planking seemed to have been ground to powder. Over the broken edges twisted steel rails of track.

The known missing: Edward Traver, master of the steam lighter Katherine W.; Louis Heinzeman, engineer of the Katherine W.; Frank Ackley, Henry Ackley, Oscar Stolpe, James London, Louis Belgian, all of the crew of the Katherine W.

Thought to be missing: Twenty unknown laborers just getting ready to eat luncheon at pier 7, when the explosion came.

James Healing, owner of the Katherine W., said he is not positive that the lighter and her crew of seven had been blown up. Nobody living knew for certain if she had been tied to the pier or not.

A man who senses had been strangely deranged, apparently by the dynamite explosion on the Jersey waterfront, appeared at the mayor's office in the City Hall yesterday afternoon. His incoherent mutterings about his "sufferings from electricity" and other weird talk, prompted the attendants to arrest him. He gave his name as Charles Thile, and said he was working in Bayonne when the explosion occurred. An open knife was found in the man's pocket, but he was not otherwise armed.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY.

And Col. Munro of Farmers' Bank Goes Up for Trial.

Toronto, Feb. 2.—Colonel Munro, president of the defunct Farmers' Bank will be tried before a jury.

It was well toward noon when the slate at the Police Court was sufficiently cleared to enable Col. Denison to turn his attention to the case of Col. Munro.

The accused, who was absent when the case was first called on Monday, was on hand yesterday along with his counsel, H. H. Dewart, K.C.

During the preliminary proceedings these two sat apart, Mr. Dewart going over his brief and Col. Munro affording additional facts as they came to his mind.

Col. Munro was charged with having supplied the Federal Government, for every month throughout the year 1910 with incorrect reports regarding th standing of the Farmers' Bank. Those reports are demanded by the authorities at Ottawa, and they go into every phase of the bank's business; their design is to show the relative strength of each bank at the end of every month.

Travers is believed to be the one who perverted the monthly return sent to the Government, sending them along to Col. Munro for the latter's signature. The charge is that Col. Munro willfully and knowingly signed the returns in question, cognisant at the time that they were false.

"Do you plead guilty or not guilty?" asked the magistrate.

"Not guilty," came from Col. Munro in low but deliberate tones.

"We elect to be tried by you," said Mr. Dewart.

"I am not asking you to do that," interposed the magistrate. "I only purpose investigating the case.

"We would like to have it settled at once," rejoined Mr. Dewart.

"Yes, I know," concluded the magistrate, "but the case will have to go to trial."

Englehart Hospital Opened.

Petrolea, Feb. 2.—The Charlotte Eleanor Englehart Hospital was formally opened Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock. The hospital itself, a very fine building, is situated on the brow of an incline, and a fine view is obtained of the surrounding country across the stream that runs near the foot of the garden on the further side of which the golf links stretch. The conservatory is attached to the building, and every convenience is provided that could be suggested.

The formal opening was said of a short service, which Rev. Canon Crain announced, was held at the request of the hospital committee, in accordance with the wishes of Mr. Engle hart. The doxology was sung, and after a reading of the Scriptures by Rev Mr. Grimshaw, Rev. Dr. McNair delivered a prayer, following by reading of the Bible by Mr. Knight of the Salvation Army. Rev. Mr. Garbutt then prayed, and the service was closed by Rev. Father Hussey pronouncing the benediction.

Mr. Englehart then made a few remarks and presented Mayor Pollard with the documents by which the town takes possession of the premises. Mayor Pollard read an address of appreciation, in which the town recognized the generosity of Mr. Englehart.

Thunderer Launched.

London, Feb. 2.—The Thunderer the seventeenth British Dreadnought and the fourth of the super-Dreadnought type was successfully launched from the yards of the Thames Iron Works Co. at Canningtown yesterday. The Archbishop of Canterbury conducted the religious services preceding the christening by Mrs. Davidson.

Fifteen thousand people, many of whom had gone by special train from this city, witnessed the ceremonies and cheered wildly as the great fighter woke to life and plunged into the water.

The Thunderer has a displacement of 22,880 tons, and will be equipped with turbines with a total of 27,000 horse-power. She is expected to make a speed of 21 knots an hour. The vessel is 584 feet in length and is armed with ten 13.5-inch guns, and 16 4-inch guns. She is the largest vessel ever launched so far up the Thames. Three thousand workmen were employed in her construction.

Favor Disarmament.

Budapest, Feb. 2.—The Committee on Foreign Affairs of the Austrian delegations, at a session here yesterday, adopted a resolution in favor of President Taft's disarmament proposal.

TO SHELVE THE BILL

Ontario Government Retreats From Its Position and Will Leave the Hydro-Electric Commission in Charge

ANNOUNCEMENT MADE

Toronto, Feb. 2.—The Ontario Railway and Municipal Board is not to obtain control over municipal electrical power enterprises for some time to come; the friends of cheap power are hopeful again. This abrupt change in the situation came in the Legislature yesterday afternoon, when Sir James Whitney surprised the House by a graceful retreat from the position previously taken by the Government.

When the leader of the Government gave precedence to Government order No. 21: "Bill No. 102, to amend the Power Commission Act and the Ontario Railway and Municipal Act, 1906." Sir James said that when the bill was under consideration last year there was some question whether jurisdiction over the power transmission system should rest with the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board or the Hydro-Electric Commission. This was altogether a new question. Reasons for each side of the proposition were given. It was difficult to define what the proper legislation should be.

Doubts had been expressed regarding the course to be taken. He had discussed the matter with some of the engineers interested in and connected with the transmission plan, who had pointed out that in their opinion it was important that at least a portion of the jurisdiction should be allowed to remain with the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, if not all of it, at any rate, until the final completion of the transmission lines and the handing over the lines to the municipalities. It was quite possible, indeed probable, that further construction work would be entered upon by the Hydro-Electric Commission, and many additional miles of transmission line would be necessary, therefore, having regard to the doubt respecting jurisdiction and to the necessity which, according to the engineers, existed for the Hydro-Electric Commission to have some jurisdiction, notably that of inspection, and to the fact that further construction would be entered upon, and as it would be a couple of years before the final work would be completed, he was not prepared to press this bill in its present shape.

Sir James, in concluding, said that he would let the bill stand on the order paper for a few weeks at least, until he could have further consultation with the engineers, because, whatever the final form, might be, there were several provisions which experience might show the necessity of adding.

Hon. A. G. MacKay—"Are we to understand that the bill in its present form takes the power from the Hydro-Electric Commission and gives it to the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board?"

Sir James—"Certainly, certainly, in its present form, yes."

J. W. Johnston (West Hastings) gave notice of a bill to prevent the issuing of watered stock in certain companies. The bill is designed to prohibit the issuing of bonus or free stock. Mr. Johnson takes the position that the increased cost of living is being keenly felt by the great mass of the people. There are certain contributing causes that are remote and not easily defined, but there are factors in the existing situation that can be easily ascertained, and can be removed, at least so far as the incorporation of future companies is concerned, by legislation.

One of these factors is the practice now so prevalent of issuing watered stock.

The consuming population is being bled by companies that are charging for their products such prices as not only yield a dividend upon stock that was paid for, but also upon stock for which neither money, property, nor service was rendered. There are articles of food, which, the member for West Hasting said, are consumed by every family that have, through the determination of companies to acquire unfair profits, increased in price fifty per cent. within two years.

Defective Switch Causes a Wreck.

Montreal, Feb. 2.—Five persons were injured, three of them probably fatally, when the New York bound Rutland express which left Montreal yesterday morning tore through a defective switch at Lacadie, Que., 18 miles from here, cut its baggage car in two and overturned the locomotive.

Fireman Wm. Marchand and Engineer H. Laperiel and Mrs. Laura LeBombard, of Isle La Motte, were most seriously hurt. They were brought to the Royal Victoria Hospital.

Unearned Increment.

Berlin, Feb. 2.—The Reichstag yesterday passed the third reading of the bill taxing unearned increment by a vote of 190 to 96. Cities and other local municipalities will retain forty per cent. of the proceeds derived from the new taxation, and also may collect an additional tax in the form of a supplementary percentage. It is estimated that the German Empire as a result of the measure will obtain $5,000,000 annually.

Magazine Eats Crow.

New York, Feb. 2.—Counsel for the Standard Oil Co., which recently began suits for $250,000 damages against Hampton's Magazine, and for $100,000 damages against Cleveland Moffett, the writer of an alleged defamatory statement concerning the Standard Oil Co., yesterday received written retractions from both the publishers and the writer. The article in question stated that the Standard Oil Co. manufactured and sold impure materials, which went into candles, and that, when the various dealers were arrested and fined, the Standard Oil Co. paid the fines.

QUIET IN COMMONS.

Mr. Conmee's Bill is Declared a Private One.

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—The proceedings of the House of Commons yesterday were unusually barren of interest. James Conmee tried to get his bill to amend the act respecting the Ontario & Minnesota Power Co. introduced as a public bill, but the Speaker ruled that it was a private bill and must be treated accordingly. He was ruled out of order after he had spoken for two hours on the subject.

Hon. Frank Oliver introduced a bill to amend the Dominion Lands Act. Its object is to render it possible to lease as well as sell school lands. It was read a first time.

Mr. Verville's much amended bill to compel an eight-hour day on public works was talked out.

J. D. Taylor (New Westminster) said that in fairness to the House it should be made clear whether the petitions in favor of the bill related to the original measure, or the bill in its amended form. When Mr. Taylor referred to Prof. Skelton, who compiled information for the eight-hour bill of last session, as the Minister's own witness, Mr. King objected. He said Prof. Skelton, with the approval of the committee, had been engaged by him during the Christmas recess to proceed with the work. Mr. Taylor had endeavored to mislead the House.

There were cries of order, and the Minister withdrew the statement.

In conclusion, Mr. Taylor expressed regret that the recommendations made by Prof. Skelton had not been embodied in the bill.

William Thoburn (North Lanark) said he could not understand the distinction which had been made between men working on public works and on Government buildings. He doubted if the bill would benefit one per cent. of the laboring men of Canada. Mr. Thoburn read a letter he had received from the Trades and Labor Council of Carlton Place, in which the bill was severely criticized, and the Minister of Labor accused of curtailing the measure, in order to bring discredit on Mr. Verville as the representative of the laboring men. He said he would be willing to support a real eight-hour day measure, but not this bill in its present form.

Reciprocity Debate Tuesday.

Ottawa, Feb. 2.—The Government notified the Opposition last night that the debate on the reciprocity agreement with the United States would be begun next Tuesday.

The Conservative members held a caucus last evening, at which the trade arrangement was discussed at length. The caucus adjourned until this afternoon.

Caught a Heavy Cold.

It Left Him with a Hacking Cough.

Mr. J. H. Richards, 1852 Second Ave, East, Vancouver, B.C., writes:—"Allow me to write a few lines in praise of your Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. Last fall I contracted a heavy cold which left me with a hacking cough, and every time I would get a little more cold this hacking cough would become a lung splitting one. It kept on getting worse and I kept on spending money buying different cough remedies until a friend asked me if I had ever tried Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup. I told him I was willing to try anything, I thought would cure, and on the same day bought two bottles. Before half the first one was used my cough began to get much easier, and by the time I had used a bottle and a half my cough was gone. I am keeping the other half bottle in case it should come again but I am quite sure I have a positive cure. Let me recommend Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup to all who suffer from a cough or throat irritation of any kind."

Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup is put up in a yellow wrapper; three pine trees the trade mark; price 25 cents.

TWO PETERBOROUGH RINKS IN THE PRIMARY FINALS

Skips Giroux and Lang Will Fight it Out For First Place in Big 'Spiel To-night--Oshawa and Norwood Were Knocked Out in the Semi-Finals.

Two Peterborough rinks are left to fight it out for the first place in the primary competition in the Peterborough bonspiel. To-night the rinks skipped by Messrs. W. M. Lang and Geo. H. Giroux, will meet in the final game at 7.30 o'clock and there will undoubtedly be a record crowd of curlers on hand to see the windup of the big competition. In yesterday's third round games Skip Lang's rink had a runaway game with Skip Ferguson of Peterborough, winning by the big score of 17 to 4. Skip Sykes of Oshawa administered an even worse trimming to Skip Fitzgerald of Peterborough, the score being Sykes 17, Fitzgerald 1, the worst beating of the 'spiel. Skip Finlay, of Norwood and Skip Smith of Campbellford had a nip-and-tuck fight which was finally captured by the Norwood quartette by 9 to 8. Skip Giroux, of Peterborough had an easy win to his credit over Skip R. J. Sturgeon, leading at the finish by 16 to 5.

As a result of yesterday's games the competition was down to the semi-finals this morning with Lang and Giroux of Peterborough, Sykes of Oshawa, and Finlay of Norwood left in the running. Lang was drawn against Sykes and the two crack rinks had one of the hardest fights in the competition before victory finally perched upon the banners of the local rink. The score was 12 to 11. Skip Giroux who drew as his opponents the Norwood rink had a much easier task and won by 17 shot to 4. The two rinks who will battle for premier honours to-night are as follows:

W. G. Read — W. P. Adamson
C. N. Brown — H. F. Foote
R. Hicks — R. M. Waddell
W. M. Lang, sk. Geo. H. Giroux sk.

In the consolation event there are only four rinks left. Ray and Fitzgerald of Peterborough, Sykes of Oshawa and Neale of Claremount. The semi-finals and finals are being played this afternoon. The scores follow:

PETERBOROUGH TEAM IN GOOD SHAPE FOR GAME

Locals Had Their Final Practice for the Game With Trenton Last Night--Are Determined to Turn the Trick on the Visitors Again.

The Peterborough team had its final practise for the Trenton match last night and the players are in the and they will set a pace to-morrow night's battle against the team from the East, which promises to be the sensational ice struggle of the season. The Petes are anxious to prove that their victory of last week over the Trenton bunch was not a fluke, and they wil set a pace to-morrow night that will keep the visitors on the jump all the way to hold them. The ice will be lightning fast and the speedy going will be appreciated by both teams, so that there can be no complaint about the conditions. The Petes were going great guns at last night's practice, their speed tickling the many rail-birds who were in attendance, and they are right now in better shape, as far as condition goes than at any other time this season. There is a good deal of speculation as to the result of Trenton's shift in the line-up. One thing is certain, it is not liable to cause much improvement in the team work of the visitors and that was where they fell down last time out. Art Armstrong who was injured in last Friday's game against Cobourg, was not so seriously injured as was stated, and will be on the team to-morrow night. It is probable that the line-up will be the same as stated in last evening's Examiner, with McGiffin, McGaw, and Cummings on the sidelines. The Peterborough line-up will be selected at a meeting of the Executive to-night, at the Examiner office at 7.30 o'clock.

THE SITUATION IN THE WRESTLIING WORLD

There is nothing complex of complicated in this heavyweight wrestling situation, although to read some of the stories printed about affairs among the big fellows one becomes distracted and delirious.

Summed up the whole thing is this:

There are three leading contenders for a chance at Frank Gotch's title—George Hackenschmidt, Yusiff Mahmout, and Stanislaus Zybsco.

Gotch has said that he wished a series of elimination trails, these three men to decide which is the best at this time, he to get the chance at Gotch for the tile.

Hackenschmid and Zbysco dissent from this arrangement. For purely personal reasons, mainly, reasons of their managers, they decline to have aught to do with Mahmout because of the latter's connections with Antoine Pierri, who, they say, has been an extremely "bad actor," both here and in Europe, circulating stories that reflected deep discredit on all of them.

Can't See Mahmout.

That is the nub of the whole thing. The "Lion" and the Pole decline absolutely to "see" Mahmout at any stage of the game.

Thus is Mahmout out in the cold, and even the machinations of the so-called "trust," as the Mahmout people are pleased to refer to the only club that can get them any money, are impotent in the situation. The trust would like to get Zbysco to wrestle Mahmout or have Hackenschmidt cut into the game with the Turk, but persuasion is in vain. The two foreigners are a unit in this matter, and that has ended abruptly all negotiations.

Gotc hsays he does not want to train for more than one match or else he would take them on one at a time. He has erected Mahmout as a bulwark, although on the "straight dope" hte Turk does not figure as strongly as either of the others.

The Turk Was Easy.

Gotch beat the Turk in 17 minutes, two falls, while Zbysco stuck a matter of 35 minutes with the champion, while Hackenschmidt wasn't thrown at all to his shoulderblades.

Zbysco has beaten Mahmout twice, once in an hour's handicap and again in a level match that Pierri now says wasn't honest.

Naturally the dope now is or should be, that the Pole and the Turk take holds once more and wipe out hte stain of that match, wherever the stain lies. The Pole won't do it. He says, even if felt inclined to, there wouldn't be any money in it, or enough for him to quit the road shows.

Hack is Dignified.

Hackenschmidt says he came to this country to match with Gotch, if the champion was willing. If he was not willing the "Lion" said he would be on his way to other parts. He has taken, through his manager, Jack Curley, a dignified stand regarding Gotch.

When he learned that the champion had retired he didn't challenge him, but dropped the whole thing. That's how the matter stands, as far as he is concrened. He will meet Gotch, apparently, or nobody.

The result is there are no "big" matches in sight, and at the present time of writing none likely.

Mahmout does not care to go on the road and "hustle" the way "Hack" and the Pole are hustling, and is grieving silently here without work.

It is an unparalleled situation and wrestlers and promoters are letting the game slip down into the mud.

BATTLER NOT DEAD YET

Sporting Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly settle an argument in your sporting columns:

"A" says Battling Nelson is dead.

"B" says he is not.

"B" is right. Battling Nelson is still in the land of the living unless that rather over-trained gentleman, the prince of knock-outs, has got in his work too recently for the record to be scheduled.—Sporting Editor.

Challenge For Machine Shop

To whom it may concern—

As it is a couple of weeks before the Wm. Hamilton Co. Hockey team leave for the East to play for the Stanley Cup, we should like to play the C. G. E. Machine Shop Mercantile League hockey team some night next week, for anything from an oyster supper to a million dollars, and as we have not at the time of writing any particular use for the million, but we could use the supper supper for an excellent purpose. If the C. G. E. team have not any particular variation in the temperature of their pedal extremities, we should hear from them at once. For prompt service and general satisfaction, address all communications and make all checks payable to the Manager of the W. H. C. hockey team.

WHITEHEAD TO REFEREE

A telegram received by the Secretary of the Peterborough Hockey Club this morning stated that Lawson Whitehead, who handled the last Trenton game here, will referee tomorrow night's game. The appointment is satisfactory here as Whitehead has always been a favourite with players and crowd alike.

Tickets Are Now On Sale

The seats in the gallery for to-morrow night's big game with Trenton were placed on sale at W. A. Sanderson and Company's store to-day and are being eagerly snapped up. It should be understood that these seats are not reserved, but only a limited number, (one hundred and five in all) will be sold, so that holders of these tickets are sure of a place in the gallery.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—Business in Manitoba spring wheat over the cable to-day was very quiet. Demand was quieter, and bids were unchanged to 1½d lower. The market for Canadian western oats was again weaker, and prices show a further decline of ½c to ⅝c per bushel. There was some demand for Ontario malting barley, and bids of 48c were made for round lots. The foreign demand for spring wheat flour showed some improvement, but the bids were out of line with millers' views. A fair local trade continues to be done. Millfeed is still scarce and firm. Dressed hogs are easy, in sympathy with the further decline in prices for live hogs. Refined sugar has declined 10c per 100 lbs., to $4.35 for standard granulated.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market were 56 carloads, consisting of 814 cattle, 1164 hogs, 273 sheep and lambs, 36 calves and 2 horses.

Butchers.

Geo. Rowntree bought 125 cattle for the Harris Abattoir Company, as follows: Butchers' steers and heifers, $5.65 to $6.20; cows, $3.25 to $5.10; bulls, $4.40 to $5.10. Those quoted at $6.20 were a load of 1250-lb. cattle of choice quality, good enough for export, the best cattle on the market.

Milkers and Springers.

Prices ranged at from $60 to $70, and one brought $75.

Veal Calves.

Prices unchanged, at $3.50 to $8 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Wesley Dunn quoted prices as follows: Sheep, ewes, $4 to $4.50; rams, $3 to $3.50; lambs, $5 to $6.25. One or two lots of selected light lambs brought a little more.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, $7.60, and $7.15 to drovers, for hogs, f.o.b. cars at country points, or $7 to the farmer.

Heavy, thick, fat hogs will be taken only at a reduction of 25c per cwt. off these prices.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the offerings this morning were 700 cattle, 75 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 200 calves. There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices being well maintained at the advance noted on Monday.

The demand was fairly good, and the supply was ample to fill all requirements, but there were choice beeves on the market, consequently the top figure realized was 6¼c for the best steers, while the lower grades sold somewhat down, to 5c per pound. Cows were fairly plentiful, which met with a fair sale at prices ranging from 3c to 5c per pound, as to quality, and bulls sold at from 3½c to 5½c per pound, the outside figure being obtained for a few choice heavy weights.

Supplies of sheep and lambs were very much [illegible] the market for sheep was weaker, and prices show a decline of ½c per pound, with sales of a few small lots at 4c to 4¼c per pound. Lambs were steady, at 6c to 6½c per pound. A weaker feeling prevailed in the market for hogs, and prices scored a further decline of 5c to 25c per 100 pounds, on account of the continued liberal supplies coming forward. At this reduction the demand from packers was fair, and sales were made at $7.50 to $7.75 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars. A fairly active trade was done in calves at prices ranging from $3 to $20 each, as to size and quality.

At the Montreal Stock Yards west end market there were 250 cattle, 100 sheep and lambs, 600 hogs and 100 calves. There were some choice steers on this market, which met with a good demand at 6¼c to 6¾c, and the lower grades brought the same prices as quoted above. This market for hogs was 25c to 35c per 100 pounds lower than on Monday, with sales of selected lots at $7.75 to $7.90 per 100 pounds, weighed off cars.

Fisher Folk Pleased.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 2.—J. F. Calder, Dominion fisheries inspector for the southern part of New Brunswick, says that the proposed reciprocity agreement has brought joy to the hearts of the fisher folk along the Bay of Fundy coast. WOULD VERY OFTEN FAINT AWAY.
Doctor Said That Sometime He Would Never Come Out of One.

Many people may be unaware of having anything wrong with their heart till some little excitement, overwork, or confinement in an overheated or overcrowded room or public building makes them feel faint or dizzy.

If you neglect the warning the slight pains of dizziness gives you, and fail to take treatment, there will be a gradual progression to something more serious.

There is no reason you should wait till your case becomes desperate before you avail yourself of a perfect cure by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mr. F. S. Chute, Wheatley, Ont. writes:—"It is with gratitude I tell how your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills benefited me. I was very weak and run down, and had headache, nearly every day and would very often faint away.

"In fact, my doctor said that sometime I would never come out of one of them. After taking three boxes of your pills I am glad to relate that it has been a number of years since I have had a fainting spell and scarcely have had a headache. Too much cannot be said in praise of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for in me they have effected a perfect cure."

Price 50c. per box, or 3 for $1.25.

TWO PETERBOROUGH RINKS IN THE PRIMARY FINALS

Skips Giroux and Lang Will Fight it Out For First Place in Big 'Spiel To-night---Oshawa and Norwood Were Knocked Out in the Semi-Finals.

Two Peterborough rinks are left to fight it out for the first place in the primary competition in the Peterborough bonspiel. To-night the rinks skipped by Messrs. W. M. Lang and Geo. H. Giroux, will meet in the final game at 7.30 o'clock and there will undoubtedly be a record crowd of curlers on hand to see the windup of the big competition. In yesterday's third round games Skip Lang's rink had a runaway game with Skip Ferguson of Peterborough, winning by the big score of 17 to 4. Skip Sykes of Oshawa administered an even worse trimming to Skip Fitzgerald of Peterborough, the score being Sykes 17, Fitzgerald 1, the worst beating of the 'spiel. Skip Finlay, of Norwood and Skip Smith of Campbellford had a nip-and-tuck fight which was finally captured by the Norwood quartette by 9 to 8. Skip Giroux, of Peterborough had an easy win to his credit over Skip R. J. Sturgeon, leading at the finish by 16 to 5.

As a result of yesterday's games the competition was down to the semi-finals this morning with Lang and Giroux of Peterborough, Sykes of Oshawa, and Finlay of Norwood left in the running. Lang was drawn against Sykes and the two crack rinks had one of the hardest fights in the competition before victory finally perched upon the banners of the local rink. The score was 12 to 11. Skip Giroux who drew as his opponents the Norwood rink had a much easier task and won by 17 shot to 4. The two rinks who will battle for premier honours to-night are as follows:

W. G. Read — W. P. Adamson
C. N. Brown — H. F. Foote
R. Hicks — R. M. Waddell
W. M. Lang, sk, Geo. H. Giroux sk.

In the consolation event there are only four rinks left, Ray and Fitzgerald of Peterborough, Sykes of Oshawa and Neale of Claremount. The semi-finals and finals are being played this afternoon. The scores follow:

PETERBOROUGH TEAM IN GOOD SHAPE FOR GAME

Locals Had Their Final Practice for the Game With Trenton Last Night---Are Determined to Turn the Trick on the Visitors Again.

The Peterborough team had its final practise for the Trenton match last night and the players are in the and they will set a pace to-morrow night's battle against the team from the East, which promises to be the sensational ice struggle of the season. The Petes are anxious to prove that their victory of last week over the Trenton bunch was not a fluke, and they wil set a pace to-morrow night that will keep the visitors on the jump all the way to hold them. The ice will be lightning fast and the speedy going will be appreciated by both teams, so that there can be no complaint about the conditions. The Petes were going great guns at last night's practice, their speed tickling the many rail-birds who were in attendance, and they are right now in better shape, as far as condition goes than at any other time this season. There is a good deal of speculation as to the result of Trenton's shift in the line-up. One thing is certain, it is not liable to cause much improvement in the team work of the visitors and that was where they fell down last time out. Art Armstrong who was injured in last Friday's game against Cobourg, was not so seriously injured as was stated, and will be on the team to-morrow night. It is probable that the line-up will be the same as stated in last evening's Examiner, with McGiffin, McGaw, and Cummings on the sidelines. The Peterborough line-up will be selected at a meeting of the Executive to-night, at the Examiner office at 7.30 o'clock.

THE SITUATION IN THE WRESTLIING WORLD

There is nothing complex of complicated in this heavyweight wrestling situation, although to read some of the stories printed about affairs among the big fellows one becomes distracted and delirious.

Summed up the whole thing is this:

There are three leading contenders for a chance at Frank Gotch's title—George Hackenschmidt, Yusiff Mahmout, and Stanislaus Zybsco.

Gotch has said that he wished a series of elimination trails, these three men to decide which is the best at this time, he to get the chance at Gotch for the tile.

Hackenschmid and Zbysco dissent from this arrangement. For purely personal reasons, mainly, reasons of their managers, they decline to have aught to do with Mahmout because of the latter's connections with Antoine Pierri, who, they say, has been an extremely "bad actor," both here and in Europe, circulating stories that reflected deep discredit on all of them.

Can't See Mahmout.

That is the nub of the whole thing. The "Lion" and the Pole decline absolutely to "see" Mahmout at any stage of the game.

Thus is Mahmout out in the cold and even the machinations of the so-called "trust," as the Mahmout people are pleased to refer to the only club that can get them any money, are impotent in the situation. The trust would like to get Zbysco to wrestle Mahmout or have Hackenschmidt cut into the game with the Turk, but persuasion is in vain. The two foreigners are a unit in this matter, and that has ended abruptly all negotiations

Gotc hsays he does not want to train for more than one match or else he would take them on one at a time. He has erected Mahmout as a bulwark, although on the "straight dope" hte Turk does not figure as strongly as either of the others.

The Turk Was Easy.

Gotch beat the Turk in 17 minutes, two falls, while Zbysco stuck a matter of 35 minutes with the champion, while Hackenschmidt wasn't thrown at all to his hsoulderblades.

Zbysco has beaten Mahmout twice, once in an hour's handicap and again in a level match that Pierri now says wasn't honest.

Naturally the dope now is or should be, that the Pole and the Turk take holds once more and wipe out hte stain of that match, wherever the stain lies. The Pole won't do it. He says, even if felt inclined to, there wouldn't be any money in it, or enough for him to quit the road shows.

Hack is Dignified.

Hackenschmidt says he came to this country to match with Gotch, if the champion was willing. If he was not willing the "Lion" said he would be on his way to other parts. He has taken, through his manager, Jack Curley, a dignified stand regarding Gotch.

When he learned that the champion had retired he didn't challenge him, but dropped the whole thing. That's how the matter stands, as far as he is concrened. He will meet Gotch, apparently, or nobody.

The result is there are no "big" matches in sight, and at the present time of writing none likely.

Mahmout does not care to go on the road and "hustle" the way "Hack" and the Pole are hustling, and is grieving silently here without work.

It is an unparalleled situation and wrestlers and promoters are letting the game slip down into the mud.

BATTLER NOT DEAD YET

Sporting Editor of the Examiner.

Dear Sir,—Will you kindly settle an argument in your sporting columns:

"A" says Battling Nelson is dead.

"B" says he is not.

"B" is right. Battling Nelson is still in the land of the living unless that rather over-trained gentleman, the prince of knock-outs, has got in his work too recently for the record to be scheduled.—Sporting Editor.

Challenge For Machine Shop

To whom it may concern—

As it is a couple of weeks before the Wm. Hamilton Co. Hockey team leave for the East to play for the Stanley Cup, we should like to play the C. G. E. Machine Shop Mercantile League hockey team some night next week, for anything from an oyster supper to a million dollars, and as we have not at the time of writing any particular use for the million, but we could use the supper supper for an excellent purpose. If the C. G. E. team have not any particular variation in the temperature of their pedal extremities, we should hear from them at once. For prompt service and general satisfaction, address all communications and make all checks payable to the Manager of the W. H. C. hockey team.

WHITEHEAD TO REFEREE

A telegram received by the Secretary of the Peterborough Hockey Club this morning stated that Lawson Whitehead, who handled the last Trenton game here, will referee tomorrow night's game. The appointment is satisfactory here as Whitehead has always been a favourite with players and crowd alike.

Tickets Are Now On Sale

The seats in the gallery for to-morrow night's big game with Trenton were placed on sale at W. A. Sanderson and Company's store to-day and are being eagerly snapped up. It should be understood that these seats are not reserved, but only a limited number, (one hundred and five in all) will be sold, so that holders of these tickets are sure of a place in the gallery.

Montreal Grain and Produce.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—Business in Manitoba spring wheat over the cable to-day was very quiet. Demand was quieter, and bids were unchanged to 1½d lower. The market for Canadian western oats was again weaker, and prices show a further decline of ¼c to ⅜c per bushel. There was some demand for Ontario malting barley, and bids of 48c were made for round lots. The foreign demand for spring wheat flour showed some improvement, but the bids were out of line with millers' views. A fair local trade continues to be done. Millfeed is still scarce and firm. Dressed hogs are easy, in sympathy with the further decline in prices for live hogs. Refined sugar has declined 10c per 100 lbs., to $4.35 for standard granulated.

Oats—Canadian western, No. 2, 46c to 46¼c, car lots, ex-store; extra No. 1 feed, 36c to 36½c; No. 2 C. W., 35½c to 35¾c; No. 3 local white, 37½c to 38c; No. 3 local white, 35½c to 37c; No. 4 local white, 35½c to 36c.

Flour—Manitoba spring wheat patents, firsts, $5.40; seconds, $5.10; winter wheat patents, $4.75 to $5; strong bakers', $4.90; straight rollers, $4.25 to $4.50; in bags, $2 to $2.10.

Rolled oats—Per barrel, $4.45; bar of 90 lbs., $2.10.

Feed barley—Car lots, ex-store, 46c to 50c.

Corn—American No. 2 yellow, 56½c to 57c.

Millfeed—Bran, Ontario, $19 to $20; Manitoba, $20 to $22; middlings, Ontario, $22.50 to $23; shorts, Manitoba, $23 to $24; Moullie, $25 to $30.

Cheese—Westerns, 11¾c to 12½c; easterns, 11½c to 11¾c.

Butter—Choicest, 32½c to 33½c; seconds, 29½c to 32½c.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Toronto Live Stock.

TORONTO, Feb. 1.—Receipts of live stock at the City Market were 56 carloads, consisting of 814 cattle, 1164 hogs, 273 sheep and lambs, 36 calves and 2 horses.

Butchers.

Geo. Rowntree bought 105 cattle for the Harris Abattoir Company, as follows: Butchers' steers and heifers, $5.65 to $6.30; cows, $2.25 to $5.10; bulls, $4.40 to $5.75. Those quoted at $6.30 were a load of 1250-lb. cattle of choice quality, good enough for export, the best cattle on the market.

Milkers and Springers.

Prices ranged at from $40 to $70, and one brought $75.

Veal Calves.

Prices unchanged, at $2.50 to $8 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Wesley Dunn quoted prices as follows: Sheep, ewes, $4 to $4.50; rams, $3 to $3.50; lambs, $6 to $6.25. One or two lots of selected light lambs brought a little more.

Hogs.

Selects, fed and watered, $7.40, and $7.15 to drovers, for hogs, f.o.b. cars at country points, or $7 to the farmer.

Heavy, thick, fat hogs will be taken only at a reduction of 25c per cwt. off these prices.

Montreal Live Stock.

MONTREAL, Feb. 1.—At the Canadian Pacific live stock market the offerings this morning were 700 cattle, 75 sheep and lambs, 1400 hogs and 200 calves. There was no important change in the condition of the market for cattle, prices being well maintained at the advance noted on Monday.

The demand was fairly good, and the supply was ample to fill all requirements, but there were choice heaves on the market, consequently the top figure realized was 6¼c for the best steers, while the lower grades sold somewhat down, to 5c per pound. Cows were fairly plentiful, which met with a fair sale at prices ranging from 3c to 5c per pound, as to quality, and bulls sold at from 3½c to 5½c per pound, the outside figure being obtained for a few choice heavy weights.

Supplies of sheep and lambs were very [illegible]

BRIEFS FROM THE WIRES.

Miss Annie Clobesky of Guelph stepped off a moving train at Clifton, and was seriously injured.

The smallpox situation at Moncton, N.B., grows more serious, ten new cases developing yesterday, making fourteen in all.

A wireless message from the C.P.R. steamer Princess Adelaide says that the vessel went ashore at Appletree Point in a blinding snowstorm last night.

Nine passengers were injured when the C.P.R. Overland Limited was derailed near Gleichen, Alberta. Mr. Robert Taylor of Toronto was slightly injured.

Stamford fruit-growers held a meeting and warmly endorsed the proposed trade arrangement with the United States. No resolution was put, but the sentiment of the meeting was unmistakable.

A group of Ontario capitalists have had forwarded to them photographs and data in connection with a scheme they have to harness the reversing falls at St. John, N.B., to supply power for industries.

Louis Leblanc, employed by a contractor to drive the mail between Yarmouth and Wedgeport, N.S., pleaded guilty and was sentenced to five years in Dorchester penitentiary, for robbing the mail bags of letters.

The militia officials are considering the feasibility of taking all the units of the eastern Ontario militia to Petawawa this summer for training. The idea would be to have military manoeuvres extending over two or three days.

On the historic Plains of Abraham a statute is to be erected to the memory of King Edward the Peacemaker. Hon. Mr. Taschereau, Minister of Public Works for Quebec, has given notice of a motion of the intention of the Government in that respect.

Fisher Folk Pleased.

St. John, N.B., Feb. 2.—J. F. Calder, Dominion fisheries inspector for the southern part of New Brunswick, says that the proposed reciprocity agreement has brought joy to the hearts of the fisher folk along the Bay of Fundy coast. This joy seemed to be mutual, for in Maine, where he has been, all interested are of the opinion that the fishermen on both sides of the line will benefit.

Building Aeroplane In Toronto.

WOULD VERY OFTEN FAINT AWAY.

Doctor Said That Sometime He Would Never Come Out of One.

Many people may be unaware of having anything wrong with their heart till some little excitement, overwork, or confinement in an overheated or overcrowded room or public building makes them feel faint or dizzy.

If you neglect the warning the slight feeling of dizziness gives you, and fail to take treatment, there will be a gradual progression to something more serious.

There is no reason you should wait till your case becomes desperate before you avail yourself of a perfect cure by using Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills.

Mr. F. S. Chute, Wheatley, Ont. writes:—"It is with gratitude I tell how your Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills benefited me. I was very weak and run down, and had headache, nearly every day and would very often faint away.

"In fact, my doctor said that sometime I would never come out of one of them. After taking three boxes of your pills I am glad to relate that it has been a number of years since I have had a fainting spell and scarcely have had a headache. Too much cannot be said in praise of Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for in me they have effected a perfect cure."

No Better Remedy at any Price. Fully Guaranteed.

Put 2½ ounces of pure Pinex (fifty cents' worth) in a 16 oz. bottle, and fill it up with the Sugar Syrup. This gives you a family supply of the best cough syrup at a saving of $2. It never spoils. Take a teaspoonful every one, two or three hours.

This recipe for making cough remedy with Pinex and Sugar Syrup (or strained honey) is a prime favorite in thousands of homes in the United States and Canada. BLOOD-POISONING AFTER A CUT

Zam-Buk Saved His Finger

Mr. Albert Brennan, butcher, of 141 Lindsay Ave., Toronto, has good cause to be thankful for Zam-Buk! While at work, he cut the middle finger of the left hand rather badly, but did not think that any serious consequences would follow. Some disease germs—of which the air is full—entered the wound, however, and next day the finger was swollen and painful. He bathed it in hot water and applied some ordinary ointment, but the pain got worse, and the swelling continued. Not only so, but the area of the inflammation extended, until from the finger to the elbow it was inflamed and sore, and he knew that blood-poisoning had set in. He had to give up his ordinary work, and suffered acute pain.

Finally he decided to enter St. Michael's Hospital, but just before doing so, having mentioned the intention to a friend, the latter advised him to try Zam-Buk. Mr. Brennan acted on this advice, and soon proved Zam-Buk's great value. He says: "It cured the pain almost as soon as applied, and within a day of first commencing the Zam-Buk treatment, I was back at work." Of course, I don't mean that in that time the wound was healed, but the pain had gone and the danger from blood-poisoning was averted. After that, healing was only a matter of a short time under the beneficial operation of Zam-Buk. I have no hesitation in saying that Zam-Buk saved my finger, and I am very glad to let you state these simple facts publicly, in the interests of other workers, liable to similar accidents."

Zam-Buk is equally effective for piles, ulcers, abscesses, eruptions, ringworm, children's rashes, scalp sores, chapped hands, frost bite, and cold sores. Every housewife should keep a supply handy, and no mother should be without it in the home. Sold by all druggists and stores, 50c box or post free from Zam-Buk Co., Toronto, upon receipt of price. Refuse substitutes.

LUMBERMEN'S EXCITING STRUGGLE WITH BEAR

Old Bruin Gave Shanty Crew a Warm Tussle—Was Sleeping Under Roots When Tree Was Felled and Mauled a Couple of Men Before He Was Despatched.

OTTAWA, FEB. 2.—"If you have any bears to kill, send word to J. J. MacRae's men, and they will go to Ottawa at once."

So read the concluding sentence of the tale of a desperate fight with a monster brain, sent down by Mr. Thomas Perry, of J. J. MacRae's lumber camp at Chapau, Pontiac county, to The Citizen.

According to the writer Mr. MacRae has a shanty crew of about 35 lumbermen at Chapau, and recently two of them, Isaac Lanthier and his chum, C. Holden, were engaged in cutting down a tree. During the operation they heard a continued groaning, but were unable to ascertain its cause. The tree being felled, they decided to call the "boss" and have him investigate. He, in turn, summoned his trusty dog which soon located the groans or sounds at the root of the tree, and began to scatter the snow left and right. When the dog had cleared away the snow, Mr. MacRae stooped down to see what kind of an animal was nested up so cosily for the winter, when suddenly out jumped a huge bear, which struck out and caught him a glancing blow with its paw on the side of the face. The claw struck the "boss" over the eye, almost causing him the loss of his sight. Shouting for help, the loggers soon came to his assistance, and with the help of the dog, which worried the bruin, the men were able to beat the animal off. Isaac Lanthier struck at the bear with an axe, but slipped on the ice when in the act, the bear seizing him in its grip and severely mauling him, partly tearing his clothes off, and lacerating him down the left side. Holden, the chum of the injured man, then stepped up and gave the bear a slashing blow over the end of its snout with his axe. It then turned on him, but the dog came to their assistance and kept the animal worried so that its attention was drawn from the men. At last Lanthier recovered sufficiently to come to the help of his chum, and hitting the bear on the back of its head with his axe, killed it.

After the brute was skinned a bullet was found in its hip, probably resulting from an old wound. Mr. MacRae gave the men $15 for the hide, which he converted into a sleigh robe.

BRANDRAM-HENDERSON'S CONVENTION

Banquet at Place Viger Hotel the Feature

An annual convention of salesmen, branch managers and executive officers is fast becoming a habit among the more progressive of our big Canadian business houses. One of the first to take up the idea was the paint firm of Brandram-Henderson, Limited, and they are among its most enthusiastic advocates.

Their last Convention, lasting three days, was held in Montreal just before Christmas. The salesmen gathered from as far as Winnipeg on the West, Halifax on the East and the British West Indies on the South, to discuss past and future business with the President and the other head office officials.

An evening of Grand Opera and a most enjoyable Banquet at the Place Viger Hotel helped to make the Convention the most successful which they have ever held. The interchange of suggestions among Executive, Advertising and Selling forces and the thorough inspection of the great Brandram-Henderson plant, filled every man in the organization with pride and confidence in his firm and his goods. The result will be a still more vigorous advertising and selling campaign this year.

With the well-known quality of their paints, varnishes and white lead to back up this campaign, Brandram-Henderson should have the most successful year in their history.

EVIDENCE OF INTEREST.

Sir James Whitney does not apparently place much importance on Technical education. When first confronted with his duty in this regard, he tried to shift the financial responsibility upon the Dominion government, and actually proposed that the Dominion should make a grant in aid of Technical Education in the wealthy province of Ontario. Now, he has come nobly to the scratch and gives evidence of interest on the subject—more interest than principal. In the Ontario estimates for the ensuing fiscal year, there appears the munificent appropriation of all of $20,000 for a few technical schools. For a rich province, with a large revenue, in the interests of a subject of such tremendous importance as Technical Education, ten times $20,000 would not be considered extravagant or out of proportion to the magnitude of the interest of our mechanical population and our industrial development. Sir James could only squeeze out $20,000 in the interests of technical education, but he opened his hand wide to pay $40,000 extra a year in increase of the indemnity of the members of the Legislature. Not that there is any very grave objection to this increase—the labourer is worthy of his hire—and our parliamentary patriots should not be called upon to serve their country, at a loss. But there seems to be some slight disproportion involved in the fact of $20,000 a year for technical education and $40,000 a year for increase of indemnity of legislators who make — and to a very large extent unmake—our laws. But what can be expected, when our somewhat debilitated educational interests are in the hands of a doctor, who neither troubles himself with an understanding of the symptoms or any attempt at heroic treatment. If Dr. Pyne would call in consultation the public school inspectors of the province, he would learn some truths that might aid him in diagnosing the disease and the remedy would be easy. In the practice of modern diagnosis is the thing; find out what really ails a patient, and any fairly educated doctor can effect a cure.

AS WE ARE WE STAY.

The Washington (U.S.) Star seems to have struck a false note. It says in the course of a recent article:

In time the thoughts of the Canadians may turn toward annexation as the most to be desired of all political boons. The isolation and humiliation of the colonial position will not be forever endurable.

To use the slang of its own country, the Star is "away off". There is no annexation sentiment, or desire in Canada. There may have been in the remote past some desultory chatter as to annexation, but to the Canadian born in the present generation, annexation is merely a word in the dictionary, or is most frequently employed to express the absorption of growing suburbs by the expanding cities of prosperous and happy Canada. There is no "isolation and humiliation of the colonial position"—there is no colonial position; for, so far as complete autonomy, complete self government, is concerned, Canada is as much a nation as the country of our friends across the border. Canada is a true democracy, where the people rule, where the Government is the servant of the people, where a Government cannot do national business a minute after it has forfeited or lost the confidence of the people, expressed through its representatives. We have no "colonial isolation," neither have we any democratic autocracy as obtains among our neighbours, where the governing power is independent of the popular will and can hold power for four years and work its own will, in spite of the will of ninety million people, even if every soul declared its objection to the policy and acts of the administration. Annexation to the United States is as impossible and far away as perpetual motion. We are a happy, and prosperous nation within the greatest Empire of history, perfectly content to occupy, as the proudest postion conceivable, the relation expressed in the words, "daughter I am in my mother's house and mistress in my own."

THE TACTICS OF SLANDER.

Some members of the Conservative Opposition at Ottawa are shameless in their pursuit of the policy of slander and misstatement to bolster up their imaginary scandals. Mr. Lennox, the Conservative member for the riding of South Simcoe—it is to be hoped that he is not the representative of Simcoe Conservatives in the matter of fair play and manliness—is a conspicuous offender. In his vicious attack the other day, upon Hon. Mr. Fielding, Mr. Lennox made the rash statement that the Globe's receipts from the patronage of the Dominion Government, amounted to $80,000 per year, with the insinuation that it was thereby bribed to defend anything. A statement, ten times overdrawn, is bad enough, but sticking to it and refusing to retract is ten times worse than drawing the long bow in the heat of debate and in the anxiety to score. A statement made in the House of Commons on Thursday, showed that the Globe's receipts from legitimate Government advertising amounted to only $8,500 per year. In the face of this undoubted and uncontradicted fact and distinct disproof of his false statement, Mr. Lennox sat silent in his seat and declined to retract a palpably false statement. We have no brief to defend the Globe—truth in this case is the best defence—but everybody is concerned in giving prominence to a regrettable feature of Opposition policy, or, rather, tactics, for there is not enough cohesion to form a policy—of slander in the face of disproof. It is unworthy of a great party, but it has its value in showing that in default of having a policy on any great public issue, or question, the Opposition is determined to rely upon the practice of scandal, of slander, even in the face of fact and distinct and direct reproof.

OLD LEADERS ON RECIPROCITP.

(Toronto Star)

Sir Gilbert Parker, the Canadian author, who represents Gravesend in the British House of Commons, says that the reciprocity agreement is a desperately serious thing, and will eventually mean the loss of Canada's grip on her independence. Sir Gilbert refers to the strong opposition of Sir John Macdonald and the Hon. Edward Blake to commercial union with the United States.

Neither Sir John Macdonald nor Mr. Blake was opposed to reciprocity of the kind now proposed. Both expressly declared themselves as favouring reciprocity of that kind. In his famous letter to the electors of West Durham, Mr. Blake avowed his belief that in the political conditions as they then existed, the best arrangement would be, if practicable, a moderate revenue tariff with all the world, accompanied by liberal provisions for reciprocal free trade with the United States. The States, however, were opposed to a limited reciprocity, so that what seemed best was not attainable.

Sir John Macdonald, as we have already pointed out, was always in favour of as much reciprocity in natural products as he could obtain. He fought hard for that kind of reciprocity in Washington in 1871. In a resolution moved in Parliament in 1878, he expressed the belief that the National Policy would eventually bring about reciprocity. The N. P. tariff of 1879 contained an offer of reciprocity in natural products. Parliament was dissolved at Sir John's instance in 1891, in order that the Government might have a mandate from the people to negotiate a reciprocity treaty with the United States. The opponents of reciprocity to-day must find their own reasons. They can obtain no support in the declarations of Sir John Macdonald or Mr. Blake.

EDITORIAL NOTES.

The Dominion Railway Commission and the Ontario Railway and Municipal Board do not seem to be in the same class. The former is almost daily adding to its triumphs of usefulness in the public interest, while the latter seems only to have demonstrated its otherwiseness.

"Reciprocity in tariffs will greatly tend to procure for this country, eventually, a reciprocity of trade," said Sir John Macdonald in his National Policy resolution 33 years ago. Would Sir John, if he had lived, howl against reciprocity to-day?, asks the London Advertiser.

A Conservative newspaper in London, said that the Dominion government would do nothing for Port Stanley because London, its next door neighbour, sent a Conservative member to Parliament. Yet $250,000 is to be spent to make Port Stanley a first class harbour of refuge such as is much needed on Lake Erie.

Sir James Whitney has not the same pride in all his children. He begat the Provincial Railway and Municipal Board, but it is such a bad boy that he will not trust it with his pet child, the Hydro-Electric Commission. Is it not possible to discipline the Railway Board, so that it can be trusted, not only by the public but by its own father?

Even among Conservatives there are many who seem to think that the trade agreement is not so bad after all. The Conservative caucus held on the subject in Ottawa, reveales considerable difference of opinion This is significant, from the fact that while the negotiations were in progress Conservatives universally condemned any arrangement in advance—anything brought about by the help of the Laurier government was bound to be bad, bound to be opposed. Now when the agreement has become a fact and is submitted to the judgment of Parliament, many Conservatives see so much good in it, that even their party loyalty cannot bring them to the point of opposing its adoption.

Railway Extension In New Ontario And Shorter Trans-Continent Route

(Toronto World.)

One big question before the legislature this season and for some time in the future will be that of railways for New Ontario. New Ontario is a great country, and its settlement will have much to do with making Canada continuous, the eastern provinces put in living touch with Manitoba and the west. In other words, New Ontario must be filled up. The only way to fill it up is with railways. There is farming land and timber lands and the greatest wealth of minerals probably in any spot in North America is to be found in New Ontario. There is copper, nickel, gold, silver; other valuable ores will be unearthed. There are immense stores of pulpwood; there is any amount of water power. Every railway opened up so far has been profitable. The Canadian Pacific is profitable, the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario is profitable, the Canadian Northern in so far as it is built has proved profitable, the Grand Trunk lines that run up into that north country have proved profitable.

All that is wanted is extensions of existing lines and new ones. There is no doubt now that the extension of the state-owned railway into Porcupine will prove a success. A big delegation will be here in a few days to urge that it be extended still further, and on down into Gowganda and Elk Lake. We believe there is lots of business for such an extension. In fact, we will look to see the extension made right down to Sudbury, and from there the line to have running rights both over the Canadian Northern and the Canadian Pacific to the Georgian Bay and Toronto. We believe the fastest passenger line to Cochrane will be from Toronto to Sudbury over the Canadian Northern or the Canadian Pacific, and from Sudbury over a new line on the Temiskaming and Northern Ontario to Cochrane, where connection will be had with the Grand Trunk Transcontinental. The people from North Bay are coming down in a few days also to have an extension of the Canadian Northern into that town and further on. The Canadian Northern, we also believe, is working with the government for some kind of rearrangement in the matter of aid already voted for the construction of its line from a point north of Sudbury to Port Arthur, all round Lake Superior. This line, we believe, ought to be built at the earliest possible moment. It will open up mining, timber and agricultural lands very rapidly and all these things will tend to bring about what we say is absolutely necessary for the confederation, namely, a living touch between Manitoba and Ontario.

There is no reason why Sir William Van Horne's illustration of a spout to the tunnel should continue any longer. There should be no spout, but a continuous country opened up and settled. As was pointed out in these columns the other day the remarkable thing is that notwithstanding that Ontario has been the backbone of the construction of the three transcontinental lines, the only place to-day where two of them are not construcis in Northern Ontario. We have paid more than our share for these lines and their building and yet they are not built in the Province of Ontario The Grand Trunk Pacific is all over the west, so is the Canadian Pacific and so is the Canadian Northern, but only one of them is a transportation force in Northern Ontario to-day.

The legislature cannot frame up too big a policy not only for the building of railways, but the settlement of the new country with energetic settlers There must be liberality in railway buildings, there must be liberality in the treatment of settlers, and there must be liberality in the treatment of miners, and at the same time a fair regard must be maintained to public interest.

No one can imagine what a settled up North Ontario means for the business and people of Southern Ontario The trade and business of Southern Ontario would be quadrupled by a great consuming public between the Georgian Bay and the Manitoba boundary, and there is to-day all the material necessary for filling up of that country, provided we have the railways and a policy.

MIRACULOUS RESULTS IN DUNVEGAN, C.B.

GIN PILLS Brought Relief

"I suffered untold misery even when under treatment from the best doctors for over ten months, and nothing seemed to do me any good or relieve my painful condition. My trouble was Inflammation of Kidneys and Bladder.

I finally determined to go to the Victoria Hospital, Halifax, for treatment.

Two days, however, before my intending departure, a neighbor called and happening to have a GIN PILL in his pocket, insisted on my taking it. I did so and six hours after taking it, the results and benefits I derived were simply nothing more or less than miraculous. Instead of going to the hospital, I sent for a box of GIN PILLS with the result that I am a cured man. I recommend GIN PILLS to everyone suffering from Kidney Trouble."

"THE INNOCENT MURDERERS"

By Wm. Johnston and Paul West

"Anything's a detective's business" said Sullivan to himself. "I might as well follow the tracks and see what they lead to."

With his pocket-lamp picking out the direction the wheelbarrow had taken, Sullivan investigated. From close observation of the footsteps he decided that one man had walked ahead, one wheeled the barrow and the other two walked on either side to steady it.

"Must have been something pretty heavy!" he commented. "If old Hopkins had been murdered, now, instead of skipping out, I could easily believe that these were the four murderers carrying the body away to bury it. I'm almost sorry this ain't a murder; this would be such a good start for it!"

He followed the tracks along the road that led away from the village. Presently they turned into a wood-covered path, where all trace of them was lost. Sullivan stumbled on along this path until it brought him into a dense thicket. His little light, to make things worse, went out, the battery having become exhausted. He tripped on a projecting root and nearly fell. Now he decided that it was useless to try to follow the trail further, and started to retrace his steps.

Suddenly he stopped, and a smothered exclamation escaped him. The dense darkness ahead was pierced by a tiny needle of light. He thought that it came from behind him, and turned, with his arm raised to ward off any sudden blow that might be struck him over his shoulder. There was nobody there. He smiled.

"My pocket-flash must have come to life again!" he said; but it was not that. The light came from the big diamond he wore in his tie. Like a miniature beacon this jewel—a present from a grateful client—cast a glaring shaft of light far into the darkness. It was a light more brilliant than any the detective had seen before. It seemed to go through things, instead of illuminating objects with which it came in contact. It was, in short, a ghostly light.

An uncanny feling came over Sullivan. He placed his hand over the diamond, but the light came through his fingers, only now, instead of pointing out in a single ray, it was diffused. He could almost feel it burn his fingers, and withdrew them hurriedly. Rushing from the open road, he lost the path and stumbled blindly through the thicket, finally emerging a hundred yards from where he had entered.

As he came into the open, the light of the diamond seemed gradually to fade. By the time he had reached the hotel it had entirely disappeared.

For an hour after he went to his room he sat staring at the jewel under the light of the lamp. It was now lustreless.

"It beats me!" was Sullivan's comment. "It beats me, if I really saw it, and I'll swear I did!"

CHAPTER SEVEN.

THE PROBLEM OF THE FOUR.

The four men whose strange actions had led the detective to follow the trail of the wheelbarrow with such surprising results, were Professors Snyder, Rice, Gordon and Fischer.

Their course of procedure after the scrub-woman's shrieks had drawn them in terror to the laboratory to find Hopkins' body in its terrible, luminous condition, had been erratic, to say the least, and not at all the line of action ordinarily followed by a quartette of deliberate college professors.

But it must be remembered that their nerves were on the ragged edge, so, when they reassembled in Snyder's room there was not one among them capable of careful reasoning.

For several minutes they were silent; Snyder, with a hopeless stare; Rice with knitted brows, striving to collect his shattered wits sufficiently to form the first equation necessary to the solution of the problem; Gordon shaken by many disquieting suspicions, and Fischer, white with rage at himself and the others who had drawn him into this situation. On one point their minds were working in concert. It would never do to let Mrs. Hopkins find her husband's body in its present condition.

Rice, as usual, took the lead. Turning suddenly to his silent confreres, he demanded:

"Well, are you going ot sit here all night like a trio of sphinxes? Have not any of you a suggestion? What's going to be done?"

"I don't know," faltered the luckless Snyder, whose unfortunate spying had caused the whole affair. "Did not Dr Fischer suggest some sort of story we were to tell to account for Professor Hopkins' untimely death?"

"No story would go about a body like dot van," said Fischer. "Ve could not explain it."

"Dr. Fischer is quite right," said Rice. "How could we account for the luminosity of the body? We could not and an investigation would naturally follow. Our presence in the building at this hour—and we have yet to explain it at our homes—is known to lite scrub woman. Perhaps our trip over the roof and down the skylight would come out. Do you see the position in which we would find ourselves? No, gentlemen, the body must not be found in the college building."

This startling suggestion caused a commotion.

"I don't understand," said Gordon.

"It's plain enough," said Rice. "The scrub woman has seen the light that emanates, I don't profess to know why, from Professor Hopkins' body. If it comes out htat the body was in the cupboard, at the time, and that we tried to deceive the scrub woman, won't they want to know what our reasons are? And if they do, who's going to give them a satisfactory explanation?"

"Der only course," said Fischer, "is vat Rice suggests. Get der body out of der building first, und hide it until der peculiar light has left it—if it shall leave it at all. After dat—vell, ve cannot see vat vill happen, but it vill be better for us, anyway."

"Where shall we hide it?" asked Snyder.

"There is the woods back of the college," said Rice.

They were ready to accept any suggestion now. They rose, when Rice rose, and left Snyders room. Rice led procession toward the laboratory once more. With trembling hands he unlocked the door and let them in, forgetting to fasten the lock after them. The whole room was now completely filled with the whitish glare. The body had evidently grown even more luminous, for the cupboard doors glowed as if there was a raging fire behind htem and they were of translucent glass, instead of thick oak.

When exposed to their view Hopkins' whole body looked like a human jack-o'lantern. They recoiled from it in horror.

"You see," said Rice, "it's growing worse. It may set fire to the college. It may—who knows what it may do? We must lose no time. But how shall we get it away?"

"There is a wheelbarrow outside," said Gordon. "The Gardener left it there to-day."

"Get it," said Rice and Gordon went to do so.

"And now," siad Rice, with grim desperation, "we will carry it down to the front door."

"Like—like that?" stammered Gordon.

"No," said Fischer, "ve must rap it up in something."

Rice came to the rescue. In a closet in the inner laboratory he found several large sheets of blueprint paper. Withthese they made an ungainly bundle of Professor Hopkins, and tied him with strings. Sheet after sheet they wrapped about the body, trying to shut in all traces of the radiance, but it insisted on stealing out between cracks and folds in the paper.

"That's the best we can do," said Rice, at last. "Now come."

They lifted it carefully and carried it down to the waiting vehicle. The curious light still streamed from the bundle, making a nimbus easily perceptible several yards away. In despair Rice gazed on the thing as it lay in the wheelbarrow, and pulled his coat off, which he threw over the burden. The others followed his example. Then Snyder grasped the handles of the wheelbarrow and they started, Rice ahead and Gordon and Fischer walking on either side to steady the barrow.

With a feeling of great relief they ended the short journey in the open and found themselves at the entrance of the woods. Not till they had reached this point did Snyder dare rest his limp muscles. He set the barrow down and stopped to take breath.

"Where shall we bury it?" whispered he.

"Bury it! Preposterous!" said Rice. "A suicide does not attend to his own interment! We must hide it."

"I know der place," said Fischer. "Der old ice-house by Brindler's pond."

They were all familiar with the spot. The ice-house, now in a dilapidated state after many years of disuse, reposed on the edge of a pond at the other end of the little patch of woods. The path could be found only by one familiar with it. Fischer stumbled once or twice after they had resumed their march, and Gordon took the lead. He sighed. Memories connected with this path, locally known as "Lovers' Walk," crowded his thoughts and gave him exquisite agony of mind.

The ice-house reached, they lifted their burden from the wheelbarrow and carried it inside. Rice lit a match to help them see the interior of the place, and before it had died out they had deposited the bundle in a corner of the bulling, on the floor just over the edge of the pond. They heaped some boards which they found on the floor over it, and with a spade threw some loose saw-dust on the heap.

On the way back to the college, Rice said:

"That's done. Now, how long before we dare allow the body to be discovered? I mean we don't want anybody to find it until the radiance has left it. Therefore, we must hold off any possible search for at least twenty-four hours."

"How?" demanded Snyder quickly. "Hopkins will be missing in the morning, won't he?"

"He iss missing to-night," said Fischer. "His wife is missing him. all right!"

"My plan is this," said Rice. "We must let it be thought that Hopkins has gone away. Suppose we put a note on his laboratory door, saying that he has been called away unexpectedly."

"I'll write that," said Snyder, taking a fountain pen and a sheet of paper from his pocket. Rice held a match and Snyder wrote the note, which he pinned to the door of the laboratory, running ahead of the others and rejoining them as they came back to the building.

As they passed the corner of the building Rice said:

"What's that rattling in the wheelbarrow?"

"The spade," said Gordon.

"Spade!" repeated Rice. "We had no spade."

"Snyder found one in the ice-house and used it to cover the bundle with sawdust," explained Gordon.

"Der idiot!" cried Fischer under his breath, and, in a fit of carelessness, he lighted the cigar. Rice ordered that he extinguish the match, and cautioned silence, fancying that he heard the sound of a twig being cracked underfoot, among the trees. They listened, but heard nothing further, and Gordon replaced the wheelbarrow, leaving the spade in it. Nobody, thought Rice, would connect Hopkins' disappearance with the wheelbarrow, anyway.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS

A Germ Disease Which is Baffling the Doctors and Alarming the People Generally

It may be said that doctors are only agreed on two points regarding this much dreaded disease.

First, that it is a germ disease, and, second, like all germ diseases can only be fought with pure, rich blood.

Prevention is always the better way and that is why we are always talking about the wisdom of keeping the blood pure and rich and the nerves healthy and strong by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food.

Rich, red blood is a deadly foe to disease germs whether they are germs of infantile paralysis, of colds, of consumption or any other disease.

Don't let the blood get thin and watery. Don't let the nerves get exhausted. The risk is too great. Every dose of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food goes to the formation of a certain amount of pure, rich blood. For this reason you are certain to benefit by this treatment.

You need not wait until you have some form of paralysis before testing this great medicine. Be warned by headaches, sleeplessness, irritability, failing memory and power of concentrating the mind. Restore the system while still you have something to build on.

Get new energy and vigour into the system by using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. 50 cents a box, 6 boxes for $2.50; at all dealers or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THE EVENING CHIT-CHAT

By Ruth Cameron

A WOMAN to whom I wrote the other day informed me very tartly in her response that I should have addressed her as Mrs. instead of Miss.

And another young woman objected even more vigorously because I sent her a letter addressed to Mr. E. R. Crane.

Perhaps you think they both had some pretty good grounds for complaint.

Wait a bit until the case for the plaintiff is heard.

The first letter was signed Margaret L. Brown.

The second bore the even less illuminating signature of E. R. Crane.

In the first case I had absolutely no clue to the married or unmarried state of the writer.

In the second case my only clue to the sex was the handwriting which I—wrongly as it turned out—diagnosed as masculine.

It is really astonishing, I am told by business men, how many women indulge in these particular brands of epistolary carelessness.

It may be that all the offenders are people who "know the right and yet the wrong pursue," but in case there are others who err through ignorance, let me plainly set forth the very simple rules which should be followed by women writing to other than personal acquaintances.

If the woman be single, she should sign her name with the prefix "Miss" in parenthesis before it, as:

Very truly yours,
(Miss) Lucy A. Doe.

If she be married, she should sign her own name with her husband's in parenthesis beneath it, as:

Very truly yours,
Lucy A. Doe.
(Mrs. Phillip Doe.)

To signify the married state by signing Mrs. Lucy A. Doe or Mrs. Phillip Doe is incorrect.

In endorsing and signing checks, and conducting business of any sort, a married woman should use her own name—that is, whatever part of her maiden name she has elected to keep, linked to her husband's name. For instance, if her maiden name was Lucy Mead Atchison, and she married Phillip Doe, she would sign, Lucy Mead Doe or Lucy Atchison Doe, according to the name she had decided to keep.

All these things are trifles to be sure, but they are some of the many trifles the care in which oils the wheels of business and social life and makes things run smoothly for those about us.

NAGARA DISTRICT GROWERS FAVOUR FREE TRADE IN FRUIT

NIAGARA FALLS, FEB. 2. — The Fruit and Vegetable Growers and Farmers' Association of Stamford held an enthusiastic organization meeting in the Township Hall, Niagara Falls South, yesterday. The following officers were elected: Hon. Presidents, Reeve Thomas Berriman, Egerton Morden and C. Pettit; President, Charleton Monroe; Vice-President, Allen Stevenson; Secretary, Thomas R. Stokes; Treasurer, Charles H. Biggars. Executive Committee — Allan Emmett, Frank Gallenger and Chas. Saunders.

The following resolutions were carried: One appreciating the work of thepioneer fruit-growers of this locality; instructing the Secretary to get prices on baskets, spraying materials for the year 1911, and copies of an association's by-laws.

Dr. Boulter, President of the Niagara Falls Board of Trade, led off the reciprocity discussion by declaring the new arrangement would mean the loss of the western markets to the Niagfiara district fruit growers. It would upset and dislocate the present fruit markets It would mean the flooding of Canadian cities by cheap southern and tropical fruits to the exclusion of home-grown produce.

Reeve Berriman declared himself a protectionist of the "first watzer." He was afraid the change would weaken British connection, and warned the growers that the American commission men were crooked. He said things at present were very satisfactory and the farmers ought to be contented to let them remain so. He admitted, however, he had retired from farming three years ago.

Mr. Egerton Morden, the veteran nurseryman and fruit-grower, who was Fruit Commissioner for Ontario at the Pan-American Exhibition combated the statements of Messrs. Boulter and Berriman. Mr. Morden surprised the protectionists by stating that tropical and southern fruits, such as melons, oranges, lemons, grape fruit and bananas had been admitted duty free for years into Canada. He completely knocked out the loss of the western market bogey by showing the advantage to be obtained through free access to the markets of 40,000,000 Americans living within five hours' railway radius of Niagara Falls. He challenged anyone present to name a single American farmer that had ever stood on Niagara Falls, Ont., free market, with a load of produce against the immense loads of Stamford produce that had paid duty to enter the United States. Mr. Morden's speech was punctuated with frequent applause.

Secretary Thomas R. Stokes said thatreciprocity was the best thing he had ever heard of. It was like a 50 per cent. raise in wages. He declared it was the only salvation for the grape and berry growing industries of Ontario. He defied any one to deny it. These two industries were on their last legs. Hundreds of acres of grapes were being neglected and let go out of cultivation and berries had been raised at a loss for several seasons past. He asserted that the whole opposition came from the "ten-million-dollar canners' combine," and the wine manufacturers, and the buyers who catered to the Canadian markets. "These fellows will have to compete with the fruitling American buyers if the treaty goes through."

Nobody dared put a resolution opposing the treaty. The whole sentiment was overwhelmingly in favour of reciprocity. Many declared they would help arrange a counter-deputation to Ottawa to support the passage of the bill.

EDWARD THE PEACE-MAKER

January 30th, 1911.

King Edward the VII, the Peacemaker.

Dear Editor Examiner.—The within verses, written by me on May 17th, 1910, to the tune of God Save Our Gracous King, has not yet been printed. I believe the sentiments are such, that our whole Empire, and most people of the world would be pleased to read.

Yours truly,
JOHN BELL,
Peterborough.

King Edward VII, The Peacemaker.

The King of Kings on earth
Was dearly loved from birth,
The Peacemaker,
Peacemaking was his pride,
In the universe wide,
He was an earthly guide,
The Peacemaker,

The King of Kings is gone
To his Heavenly home,
The Peacemaker,
In all he did excel
He did his duty well,
Which every tongue can tell,
The Peacemaker,

As King, his reign was brief,
As King, he was the chief,
The Peacemaker.
May his deeds ever sway,
Until the doom of day,
We all now humbly pray,
The Peacemaker,

Edward the Seventh King,
Whose death was a sad sting,
The Peacemaker.
May George the Fifth succeed,
To keep us in the lead,
To give us all we need,
The Peacemaker.

JOHN BELL,
Peterborough, Ont

WAS SLAIN FORTY.

Doctor In St. Petersburg Was Murderer by Trade.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 3.—There was an unusual occurrence at yesterday's session of the trial for murder of Count O'Brien de Lassy and the notorious poisoner, Dr. Pantchenko, the latter being called upon to plead a second time. He pleaded guilty as before.

The police say the doctor has killed at least forty people for various sums paid him to commit murder.

The count is accused of having employed the doctor to murder his brother-in-law, Count Vassilli Bouturlin, the heir to estates of an estimated value of $3,000,000, in order that the property might be inherited by Countess de Lassy.

Pantchenko confessed his guilt but set up the defence that he committed the crime while under the hypnotic influence of the count. As the trial progressed he wavered in matters of detail and his lawyers were quick to strengthen his original defence by declaring to the court that their client was still under the influence of the count to such an extent that he was little by little retracting the vital points of his confession.

Yesterday the public prosecutor took cognizance of the situation and after referring to the proximity of the prisoners in the dock made a motion that the cardinal question of his guilt or innocence be proposed again to Pantchenko. He said that the replies of the poisoner had been unsatisfactory throughout his examination. The court granted the motion and the formal question of the indictment was again read.

Once more the aged physician replied that he was guilty of Bouturlin's death.

His examination was then continued. Asked whether he had administered poison to his victim, Pantchenko demurred, saying that he would answer that question after the data of the medical experts who had made the post mortem had been presented in court. He explained that he did not sterilize his hypodermic syringe after he had sent some one on the way to the grave, because the spermo preparation diminished in effectiveness when the syringe was sterilized.

The whole empire is interested in the case because of the wholesale confession made by Pantchenko. Every mysterious death of recent years is recalled and there are rumors that the prisoner may have been engaged to cause the death of members of the royal family. He has admitted that he made a business of killing for hire, heirs, rivals in love, insistent creditors, and in fact, any undesirable person whose enemy was prepared to pay liberally for their sudden taking off.

The poison doctor, according to the police, has admitted some forty deaths, his fees running as high as $250,000 for single assassination. His method was to innoculate the patient with cholera bacilli, after he had been called to the bedside in his professional capacity. Ordinarily it was necessary that the proposed victim should be caught while indisposed, and some ruse adopted to bring about Pantchenko's attendance. He is now credited by some with having originated the cholera epidemic of a few years ago.

In order to convince out-of-town persons that our claims are genuine, we will pay Fare up to $10 to the first person enrolling from any municipality. This is because we fully realize how vigorously we are opposed by those interested in the older six-months' systems. Toronto, Montreal, Ottawa and other cities where our system is being taught need no further evidence. They have living testimonials on every hand. 30-day Stenography is genuine. Our catalogue explains fully. Moon College 282-286 Yonge St., Toronto

Found Dead In Bed.

Colborne, Feb. 3.—At two o'clock yesterday afternoon Mrs. George M. Teasdale, wife of the proprietor of the Bristol Hotel, Colborne, was found dead in her bed by her son.

This is the hotel in which Josephine Brimacomb was recently strangled to death. The proprietor is now in jail for selling liquor illegally. It is a strange coincidence that Mrs. Brimacomb, a sister-in-law of the murdered girl, slept Wednesday night with Mrs. Teasdale, but she is not under suspicion.

Wednesday, Mrs. Teasdale visited her husband in Cobourg. She was apparently in good health when she returned. Yesterday morning her son looked into the room and his mother was apparently sleeping. At two o'clock yesterday afternoon he found her dead.

The coroner is now at the hotel, and an inquest will be held.

Calls Trial Illegal.

Paris, Feb. 3.—Edward H. James, the editor of The Liberator, whose article was the basis of the suit against Edward Mylius, convicted in London on Wednesday of libelling King George, yesterday issued a statement declaring that the trial of his British agent was illegal and the proceedings "whitewashing."

The statement proceeds: "The trial was illegal because Mylius was not indicted, but was tried under an 'information ex-officio,' which is used only in charges of sedition. It was a whitewashing because the crown had no right to call witnesses to disprove charges, when the defendant had refused to offer evidence proving the charges. Mylius having refused to substantiate that bigamy was practiced, the case ended immediately."

Manitoba Boundaries.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—Premier Roblin and Hon. Robert Rogers of Manitoba had a conference last evening with Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Hon. W. S. Fielding on the question of the extension of boundaries of Manitoba. The conference lasted for two hours and was adjourned until this afternoon. After the conference, Mr. Roblin stated that they had discussed the old proposed delimitation of the boundaries and the financial consideration, but had not reached an agreement.

Nominations In West Middlesex.

Mount Brydges, Ont., Feb. 3.—The Conservatives of West Middlesex yesterday afternoon nominated James Coffan of Middlemiss as their candidate for the Federal House, and Dr. H. A. Wilson of Wardsville for the Provincial House. Mr. Coffan is a prominent stock dealer, and Dr. Wilson is a dentist. Dr. Wilson is a graduate of Toronto University and an active temperance worker.

Miss Maud Lonergan Delighted Large Audience in Lindsay

The Lindsay Post has the following interesting reference to Miss Mary Lonergan, a former resident of Peterborough:

Last evening at St. Joseph's Academy, Miss Mary Lonergan, an accomplished pupil of that institution, gave a recital in which she was assisted by other pupils. The affair was a very successful one, the different numbers being admirably rendered. Miss Viola Lucas gave a splendid reading of the life of Moskowski, and Miss Mary Lonergan gave a brilliant rendering of a Valse by the same composer. Miss F. O'Brien's recitation "Aunt Jane's Classical Concert" was well executed. Miss M. Prunty gave a most interesting reading on the life of the great Beethoven. Miss K Bruce, in splendid voice, rendered the vocal number "Good night, little girl, good-night." Beethoven number by Winston. The programme closed with a splendid rendition of an Ave Maria by a chorus.

Some Plans To Help Batters

"Iron Man" Joe McGinnity and "Eagle Eye" Jake Beckley, both of whom ought to know considerable about the workings of the never ending conflict between the pitcher and the batter, have widely different ideas as to what should be done to increase batting.

McGinnity is of the opinion that the pitcher's mound is doomed and that hereafter the twirler must be on a level with the batter. He also thinks that pitching distance should be decreased to fifty feet from the box to the home plate.

Beckley claims that to reduce the pitching distance would make hitting more difficult than it is to-day. "With the short distance," says "Eagle Eye," "the pitcher with speed will wing them over so that the batter will never see the ball."

McGinnity has radical views on the subject. He thinks the game is a case of "too much pitcher." Being a manager the "Iron Man" appreciates the troubles of the batsmen. He says on the subject:

"Baseball just now is a one-man's game. A manager gets good pitchers and builds the team up around the flinger. The idea is to get a twirler in the box who can keep the opposing team from scoring many runs and try to make more off the man performing in the box for the other fellows.

"By putting the box on a level with the rest of the diamond the twirlers—that is, most of them—would find it harder to fool the batters. Underhand twirlers would like to see the box down as low as possible, as it would help them in their work.

"The Rules Committee has gone the wrong way about it in trying to increase hitting. In moving the box further away from the plate the baseball rulers only handicapped the sluggers. It would have been better if the pitcher had been moved up nearer the batter. It is easily figured out that a man standing at the plate can hit it out when the pitcher is near the plate.

"Take, for instance, a few years ago, when the twirler stood only forty-five feet from the man at bat. Look at the hitting that was done in those days. The pitchers probably didn't have as many curves, but they had speed, and there were not near as many strike-outs.

"Nowadays the batter gets his eye on the ball too quick. When the sphere comes up to him he is unable to do himself justice. I talked this matter over with the Rules Committee a few years ago and suggested at that time that the pitching distance be made fifty feet from the home plate. I believed then, and am of the same opinion now, that such a change would increase batting all around."

"FARMERS' ADVOCATE" TO OPERATE A FARM

Dear Sir,—The assertion has been made that agricultural papers could not practise what they preach, but the Farmers' Advocate and Home Magazine has the courage of its convictions. Faith, backed up by works, is the kind that carries strongest proof to the doubting mind. Believing earnestly in this principle, the publishers have followed up their valuable line of Orchard demonstration by purchasing a farm of 135 acres, six miles north of London, where the methods advocated through the paper will be worked out in practise, and where new ideas may be tested before being recommended for general adoption. The farm is what is known locally as the old Silton place. The rolling land, while naturally good, has been worked out and infested with weeds till it has become about the dirtiest farm in the County of Middlesex. The barns are dilapidated and the fences down. Altogether it presents an excellent opportunity for showing what can be accomplished in restoring a run-down property. The Managing Editor of the Farmer's Advocate will live on the place, superintending it with the assistance of a competent working foreman.

This is not to be an experimental farm, except incidentally, nor yet a model farm save in so far as any well-managed farm should be a model. It is simply a farm run on a straight commercial basis, where strict accounts will be kept and the information published from time to time. "Good farming without frills" is the motto.

Col. Matheson Presents Budget in Local House—Expenditure is Going Up—McDougall Criticizes

THE LEGISLATURE

Toronto, Feb. 3.—Clear in statement and serious in tone, was the budget speech, delivered by Hon. Col. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, before the Ontario Legislature yesterday afternoon. The serious tone was owing entirely to the crisis in regard to the trade of Ontario and the Dominion caused by the projected reciprocity agreement with the United States.

Hon. Col. Matheson congratulated the Legislature and province upon another very successful year. The current account showed receipts of $8,891,004.67; expenditures, $8,887,520.09, leaving a balance of $3,404.59. This balance might have been made considerably larger by a little bookkeeping, he declared.

The receipts had exceeded the estimates, except subsidies which are fixed and the T. & N. O. Railway. Others were much in excess of the estimates. The increases aggregated $690,000, while the decrease in the T. & N. O. of $206,000, left the increases an aggregate of $485,000 over the estimate.

It was very satisfactory to note the promptness with which executors had paid the succession duties.

In spite of the spread of local option the brewers licenses fees amounted to $5,800.

The decrease in the net earnings of the T. & N. O. Railway were accounted for by the large additional amount expended in connection with maintenance of railway. This outlay of $164,000, the wage schedule was also increased to correspond with that of the Grand Trunk and the C.P.R.

The T. & N. O. carried 670,000 passengers, without one passenger's life being lost.

The charge against the T. & N. O. for the current year was for the Porcupine extension. It would be from 30 to 40 miles in length, and would cost $15,000 a mile. There was already a very large traffic going out from Kelso

Negotiation were in progress with the Grand Trunk Railway by which, when the extension north was completed the T. & N. O. would share in the G. T. R.'s northwest traffic. If these expectations were not disappointed by the reciprocity agreement the T. & N. O. would pay its way in two or three years.

According to such leading C.P.R. officials as Mr. Whyte of Winnipeg, under the proposed agreement the tendency of the northwest traffic would be southward. That would divert the northwest traffic from Ontario and would result in great loss to Ontario and Quebec by trade going by Minneapolis and Chicago.

In re-building the west wing of the Parliament Buildings the Government had provided an additional 52 rooms. The 18,000 square feet of extra floor space, figured at $1.50 a foot rental as is charged for good office buildings, providing light and heat, should be considered a good, investment.

The new north wing and library cost $500,000 and provided 41,000 square feet of floor space.

"Two million one hundred thousand dollars had been spent on the Hydro-Electric system. In some respects it has cost more than was estimated on the original plan, but I am told that the whole original scheme will be built within the estimates given to the municipalities and the municipalities will get the benefit of the rates promised. From all over the province come requests for the extension of the service, and down in the eastern part of the province and in Port Arthur district extensions will be made.

"The whole system, without striving to drive out the other power companies, has compelled them to reduce their prices to a more reasonable figure."

Col. Matheson declared it was odd that the Dominion Government had not given the Dominion Board of Railway Commissioners power to regulate the prices which power companies should charge.

"The only real and supreme test as to whether we have done well or not is to be noted in the development of the province. The Government has opened the north country, completed the T. & N. O. Railway, and have practically completed the Hydro-Electric system.

"We show $24,500,000 assets against $22,000,000 of liabilities. Of those assets, more than $23,000,000 is interest-bearing."

The Provincial Treasurer again referred to the danger to Ontario of the reciprocity pact. He urged the members of the House as patriotic Canadians to make their voices felt against the ratification of the agreement, to stand true to Canada not to give the trade of the Dominion to a foreign country.

The main and supplementary estimates for the fiscal year ending Oct. 31, 1911, aggregate $10,272,775. These expenditures are $378,006 less than the estimated revenue.

A prolonged and tumultuous applause followed the conclusion of the budget speech, and it was several minutes before D. J. McDougall, Ottawa East, lieutenant of Hon. A. G. MacKay, Opposition leader, could make his voice heard. After a few words of congratulation upon Col. Matheson's recovery from his injury, Mr. McDougall lavished his criticism. Mr. Matheson, he said, had different methods of calculating the finances at the present time than he had in his first term. Then he was very emphatic that the receipts from crown lands should be charged up to the capital account and not put into the current account. There was a very different treatment of these accounts now, when the honorable gentleman proposed that all revenue from crown lands be placed to the current account. Also, the Provincial Treasurer had then criticized an annual expenditure of $5,000,000 in ten years of Liberal rule. Now, after five years in power, the present administration was expending $10,000,000. "His prunning down has resulted in doubling in five years what we spent after ten years," said Mr. McDougall.

The speaker made a plea for conservatism. "What benefit are we to derive by selling our timber if we are to lose our forests? There should be a policy of reforestry, as in Germany. The problem is so important that a commission should be appointed to investigate the whole great subject."

T. W. McGarry, South Renfrew, replying to the previous speaker, drew attention to the fact that $1,095,000 in royalties had been received from mines, which would never have been if the Opposition had had the reins of Government. He believed that the position taken by Col. Matheson on reciprocity was the right one. He did not think that the treaty of reciprocity would ever become law.

Shot Down at Her Door.

Flint, Mich., Feb. 3.—Miss Ellen Blane, who kept a boarding-house here several years, was shot and killed early yesterday when she answered a knock at the door of her home. Her sister, Mrs. Catherine Talbot, who was also shot in the arm, charged the crime to Frank Fox, of Sandusky Ohio, a brother-in-law, who has disappeared.

THE CORRESPONDENCE IN BANK CASE TABLED

Travers Was Always Ready With an Answer---Letters and Telegrams That Passed Between the Financial Department and the Manager of the Farmers' Bank.

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—A voluminous return was presented to Parliament yesterday by Mr. Fielding at the request of Mr. Foster, composed of correspondence which reached the Finance Department relating to the transactions of the Farmers' Bank. The return refers to the warnings given as to the methods adopted in organizing the institution. The later letters deal with various transactions of the bank.

On Oct. 8, 1906, Leighton McCarthy wrote to Mr. Fielding that a number of subscribers to the shares of the Farmers' Bank would dispute the bona fide character of the subscriptions. "Grave conditions have arisen," he said, "which require careful consideration before the Treasury Board grants any certificate for the organization of this bank." In a subsequent letter dated Oct. 19, Mr. McCarthy again wrote the Minister of Finance, formally asking that the Treasury Board stay any action on the application of the Farmers' Bank for a certificate.

To this Mr. T. C. Boville, Deputy Minister of Finance, replied that when the application was made by the Farmers' Bank for a certificate, the representations made in Mr. McCarthy's letter would be laid before the Treasury Board. On Oct. 31, however, Mr. Boville again wrote to Mr. McCarthy, asking whether the latter still wished the protest contained in his letters brought before the Treasury Board. Mr. McCarthy replied that his client's claim had been settled by the transfer of their stock to parties interested in the bank, the return of their money and of the notes which they had signed. "The objections which I made on their behalf to the issue of the certificates are therefore withdrawn," he concluded. On Nov. 27, 1906, W. R. Travers applied for a certificate for the bank, enclosing the required declaration and a list showing that $579,200 of subscribed stock and $291,310 as the amount paid up.

Mr. Boville thereupon referred the application to E. L. Newcombe, Deputy Minister of Justice, and the latter replied that the statements in the statutory declaration of Mr. Travers were sufficient—if they were accepted—to show compliance with the statute, and that the evidence thus offered was such as the Treasury Board might lawfully accept and thereupon issue to the bank a certificate. However, Mr. Fielding wrote on Nov. 30 to Mr. Travers, stating that in a previous case there had been an evasion of the intention of the Bank Act, and that subscribers for stock had given their notes instead of paying in cash. He asked for an assurance that nothing of this kind had taken place in connection with subscriptions for stock of the Farmers' Bank. Mr. Travers replied: "I have to say in that in the case of the Farmers' Bank of Canada the provisional directors did not raise money in the way mentioned by you."

This statement was apparently accepted as true, for a certificate was issued to the bank on Nov. 30, $245,000 was returned to the bank, and the remaining $5,000 of the deposit was placed to the credit of the bank in the circulation redemption fund.

On the very day that the certificate was issued, Sir Edward S. Clouston, president of the Canadian Bankers' Association, wrote to Mr. Boville stating he had reason to believe that the money lodged at Ottawa as stock subscriptions could not be regarded as paid up capital.

"Permit me to request," said Sir Edward, "that if only for the protection of the public the Treasury Board will exercise its right to refuse to issue the certificate until a thorough investigation has been made."

Mr. Boville replied that the certificate had been issued, and enclosed a copy of Mr. Travers' letter to Mr. Fielding.

Further information reached Mr. Boville on April 17, 1907, in a letter from G. Van Koughnet, manager of the Milton branch of the Farmers' Bank. Mr. Van Koughnet asked an opinion respecting some of the transactions.

Mr. Boville thought this matter of sufficient importance to warrant further enquiry, and asked for copies of any of the notes. On May 2 he wrote to Travers, under the direction of the Minister, asking for a special return showing what part of the $375,473 paid up capital, as shown in the monthly returns to the Finance Department, was represented by promissory notes or other obligations of shareholders, for which the bank was really liable. Mr. Travers made a return showing that $50,110 of the paid up capital was represented by promissory notes of the shareholders held by the bank. On Dec. 3, 1908, Mr. Boville again asked for a special return giving details as to the subscribers and the amounts paid in cash by each in connection with the increase in capital stock of the bank to $1,000,000.

Mr. Travers informed the Deputy Minister of Finance that the subscriber capital of one million dollars was paid up to the extent of $541,891. He also commented upon Mr. Boville's "rather strange request."

Secretary John Knight of the Bankers' Association, wrote to Mr. Fielding on Dec. 7, drawing attention to the fact that a deposit receipt, issued by the Farmers Bank in its own favor, for from $100,000 to $150,000, was being offered for sale in New York.

Apparently no reply was made to this, but on Dec. 21 Mr. Boville, in response to a telegram from Mr. Knight, said that he had several conversations with Mr. Burns, vice-president of the Bankers' Association.

On Dec. 23, Mr. Boville drew attention to the fact that the monthly bank statement for November showed that in the case of the Farmers' Bank the proportion of cash reserved to immediate liabilities to the public, and also the total liabilities was something over two per cent., while the average for all the banks was something over ten per cent. Mr. Boville said: "It seems to the Department that a cash reserve of between two and three per cent. of immediate liabilities is very small compared with what is usually held."

Mr. Travers replied that there were two special items in return of assets totalling over $300,000, which could be immediately converted into cash, thus making the reserve over 15 per cent. of the total liabilities.

YESTERDAY IN THE HOUSE

Long Sault Dam is the Topic of Conversation — Ex-Judge Says Ashburton Compact Prevents Anybody From Closing Up the River

A LONG DISCUSSION

Ottawa, Feb. 3.—There was a revival in the House of Commons yesterday of the discussion on the proposal to dam the Long Sault rapids on the St. Lawrence. On the motion to go into supply, R. L. Borden arose to draw the attention of the Government to the present situation of the matter. A bill, he said, was before Congress in which a company sought power to build a dam at this point. He pointed out that under the Ashburton treaty the channels of the river from shore to shore were to remain open for navigation for ever to the vessels of both countries. The country was startled last year by an application to dam the Canadian side of the river.

The bill proposed to dam the channel and build a lock on the American side, and complete the dam across both channels to the Canadian side.

Mr. Borden declared that the navigation of the St. Lawrence was of such a supreme importance that the control of it should not be allowed to go into the hands of a private company, and an alien corporation at that.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier differed from Mr. Borden's view regarding the purpose of the Canadian bill last year. He assured him, however, that before the Government would agree to the damming of the St. Lawrence from shore to shore there would be a full discussion of the project. His understanding was that by international law a country had the right to put on its shores of the stream all works which would not affect navigation, and which was deemed for its own advantage or for the advantage of its citizens.

Mr. Pugsley took the first opportunity to deny a statement that the bill of last session was to permit the power company to dam the St. Lawrence. The application was simply for a power transmission equipment.

Mr. Graham declared, amid cheers, that the interests of navigation were paramount along the St. Lawrence and nothing could or would interfere with this. If power from the south Sault could there be produced without harm to navigation, and without damage to the Canadian side of the river, he favored permission being given.

Judge Doherty (St. Annes) taking up the Ashburton treaty, showed a specific clause which referred to the channels at this particular spot, which declared that the river would be free and open to navigation by vessels of both countries forever. Those who framed the treaty foresaw just such a contingency as has arisen. Canada had a strong case to present at Washington.

At the evening session, F. D. Monk (Jacques Cartier) moved an amendment to the motion to go into supply calling upon the Government to take steps to enquire into the cause of the mergers which have become so prominent in the commercial life of the country.

He said that in the course of the last two decades at least 20 of these mergers had been formed, having an authorized capital stock issue of $214,750,000, of which $168,075,000 had been issued.

Hon. Mackenzie King said he would like to know just what sort of investigation Mr. Monk had in mind in reference to his motion.

Mr. Monk: A royal commission composed of competent men would, I believe, be the proper way.

Mr. King said there was no need for a commission to get the facts concerning mergers in Canada, for Mr. Monk himself had given an admirable exposition of the subject. He did not think the commission idea of investigation of last session, the Combines Investigation Act, was the ideal method of investigation for matters of this sort.

Her Face and Body Were Litterly Covered With "BOILS."

Burdock Blood Bitters Cured Them.

Mrs. John H. King, Johnston, N.B. writes:—"Last summer I was very much troubled with boils, and my face and body were literally covered with them A friend advised me to take Burdock Blood Bitters. I got three bottles, and before I had taken all the first one my boils began to go away. I had just taken a few doses out of the last one when they all disappeared. My husband has also used Burdock Blood Bitters with much benefit."

Boils in themselves are not a dangerous trouble, but still, at the same time, are very painful. They are caused entirely by bad blood, and to get rid of them it is necessary to put the blood in good condition, and for this purpose there is nothing to equal that old and tried remedy, Burdock Blood Bitters.

Your owe it to your family to buy
St. Lawrence Granulated

It would not matter so much if you only used sugar in one or two articles of food. But when you think how many of the dishes and drinks you serve, owe much of their goodness to sugar, you see how important it is to get the very best sugar.

By actual analysis St. Lawrence Granulated is 100 per cent pure cane sugar, with no impurities whatever. Being cane sugar, it is much whiter and sweeter than the ordinary beet sugar you so often get.

Because it is all sweetness, St. Lawrence Granulated goes farther and is most economical.

Women's Secrets

There is one man in the United States who has perhaps heard more women's secrets than any other man or woman in the country. These secrets are not secrets of guilt or shame, but the secrets of suffering, and they have been confided to Dr. R. V. Pierce in the hope and expectation of advice and help. That few of these women have been disappointed in their expectations is proved by the fact that ninety-eight per cent. of all women treated by Dr. Pierce have been absolutely and altogether cured. Such a record would be remarkable if the cases treated were numbered by hundreds only. But when that record applies to the treatment of more than half-a-million women, in a practice of over 40 years, it is phenomenal, and entitles Dr. Pierce to the gratitude accorded him by women as the first of specialists in the treatment of women's diseases.

Every sick woman may consult Dr. Pierce by letter, absolutely without charge. All replies are mailed, sealed in perfectly plain envelopes, without any printing or advertising whatever, upon them. Write without fear as without fee, to World's Dispensary Medical Association, Dr. R. V. Pierce, Pres., Buffalo, N. Y.

SENSATIONAL GAME MARKED WIND-UP OF PETERBOROUGH CURLING CLUB'S BONSPIEL

Skip Giroux Defeated Skip Lang by 13 to 12, Winning First Place in the Primary With His Last Shot—Lang Was Down by Nine Shots at One Stage but Made a Grand Finish.

THE FINISH OF THE 'SPIEL

The bonspiel of the Peterborough Curling Club was brought to a fitting and most sensational close last night, when Skip Geo. Giroux's rink defeated Skip W. M. Lang's quartette in the finals of the primary event, after the most exciting game probably ever seen in the Charlotte Street rink. The score, at the finish, was 13 to 12, and it required the very last shot of the game to settle the issue. In the early stages it looked like a runaway game for the Giroux-Waddell-Foote-Adamson combination. They opened with a three-end, piled a two on top of that, and after the tenth end, with only six more to play, were leading by 12 shots to 3. Lang's rink made a wonderful rally at this stage, and for five ends Giroux did not touch the chalk. Lang piling up four twos and a single, and they were all even when they started the sixteenth and last end, which Giroux managed to win by one shot, getting the game and first place in the 'spiel by the same narrow margin.

The exciting game which marked the wind-up was a climax to one of the best bonspiels in the history of the Peterborough Curling Club. The curling throughout has been excellent, the games, as a rule, were closely fought, the interest displayed was unusually keen, there was a fine representation of outside clubs and all things taken into consideration, the competition must be classed as a grand success. Although none of the prizes went to the outside clubs, some of the visiting rinks made a grand showing, and they are to be congratulated upon the success they achieved. That excellent curler Skip Sykes of Oshawa, and his men were not downed without a hard fight, getting into the semi-finals of the primary. Special praise should be given the youthful four from Fenelon Falls, a quartette of young curlers, led by Skip Aldous, who made Skip Ray, the ultimate winner of the Consolation, go an extra end to knock them out of that competition.

The Fight For First Honours.

There was a big gallery of spectators, including a large number of ladies, on hand, when Skips Lang and Giroux of Peterborough commenced the final game for the first prize in the primary event last evening, and the game was watched with breathless interest, especially when Skip Lang started to make his gallant fight and came up from behind to finally challenge Giroux at the wire.

The curling on both sides was, on the whole, what would be expected in the finals of such a competition. There were a few mistakes, a few badly-executed shots, but, for the most part, it was clever curling, and the game was a treat from start to finish. All eight men are to be congratulated upon the splendid exhibition.

Giroux got away to a grand start. The first end gave him a three to start with, and he followed up this auspicious opening by bagging two on the next. Lang succeeded in landing a single on the third, but Giroux got it back on the fourth, and when he added three on the fifth, and was leading by 9 to 1, the prospects for an easy victory seemed of the brightest. Close curling on the next two ends gave Lang two singles, closing the gap a little, but it widened again on the next three, which gave Giroux three more lonelies, leaving the score at the end of the tenth end, Giroux 12, Lang 3.

It was in the eleventh end that Lang commenced the brilliant rally that was responsible for such an exciting ending to the game. His men commenced to curl in splendid fashion and the skipper started the good work himself by a beautiful raise with his last stone, in the eleventh end, which gave him two shots. Two more were added in the twelfth, the thirteenth was responsible for a single and the fourteenth saw two more added to his total, leaving him two behind and two ends to go. The crowd was beginning to get enthused at this stage, and when Lang corralled two more shots in the second last end, tying the game, there was great excitement.

The last end was hard on the nerves. Every eye in the rink followed each stone as it came down the ice. Read, leading for Lang, placed his first stone a foot away from the tee, and when Adamson, Giroux's lead, failed to draw to it, Lang commenced to guard the shot. Only one was needed to win, and he played safe. With good curling by Brown and Hicks he seemed to have succeeded in his object fairly well, but he tried to make assurance doubly sure by building up more guards, and unfortunately for himself, was too heavy with his last stone, leaving it in such a position that Giroux, with his first rock, was enabled to make a beautiful raise upon Lang's stone, carry out the shot, and lay shot himself. It was a magnificent shot and apparently the game was won for Giroux right there. There was only one chance for Lang, a long raise onto the shot, a difficult proposition, but he was equal to the task, and, amid loud cheers, played his last stone perfectly, raising a guard onto the shot and leaving only one stone, one of his own rocks, in the rings. The game, and possession of the cup, depended upon Giroux's last shot. There was dead silence as the skip prepared to play his last stone. Would he carry out Lang's rock and lay shot? Or would he get the shot and go out himself, leaving the game a tie? Or would he miss altogether and give Lang the game? Skip Giroux settled the speculation by sending down a beauty that bumped Lang's stone out of the ring, while his own remained in the charmed circle and a magnificent game was won and lost. The rinks were as follows:

W. P. Adamson	W. G. Read
H. F. Foote	C. N. Brown
R. M. Waddell	Robt. Hicks
Geo. H. Giroux	W. M. Lang

The Consolation Event.

Ray's rink, which was skipped during the Consolation event, by S. T. Medd, with Mr. Ray acting as vice-skip- carried off the the Consolation first prize in good style, after a high scoring game, with Skip Fitzgerald of Peterborough, whom they defeated by 19 to 14.

The four rinks to reach the semi-finals in the Consolation, were Ray of Peterborough, Fitzgerald of Peterborough, Sykes of Oshawa, and Connal of Peterborough. Ray was drawn against Connal, and won easily by 13 to 3. At the same time Sykes of Oshawa, was falling before Fitzgerald of Peterborough, to the tune of 14 to 5.

Ray and Fitzgerald were, therefore, left to battle for first place, the final game being played last night simultaneously with the deciding contest in the primary. The game was interesting all the way through. Like Giroux, Ray succeeded in piling up an early lead. He connected with two singles and added a double in the third. Connal touched the chalk for the first time in the fourth, getting a brace of counters, but the ultimate winners came back first with a single, then with a double, and finally with a three-end. Another single followed and half way home Ray was leading 11 to 2. Fitzgerald began to pick up at this stage, and a three-end in the ninth helped his stock a lot. Although he was blanked in the tenth and eleventh ends, two "three" ends followed for Fitzgerald, and he was only two down Ray increased his lead by getting two in the fourteenth, but Fitzgerald countered with a triple, and when they started the last end Ray was leading by only one shot. However he made the victory decisive by building up a four-end for a finisher. The rinks were:

J. S. Knapman	Jas. Montgomery
S. Ray	T. Brightman
S. T. Medd	J. E. A. Fitzgerald

By ends:

Fitzgerald . .0002000030033030—14

Connal of Peterborough, and Sykes of Oshawa, played off for the third prize in the Consolation, the honours falling to the Peterborough rink by a score of 18 to 11.

The winners and prizes are, therefore, as follows:

Primary.

First Prize.—The Curling Club's Cup and travelling companions, won by Skip Giroux, of Peterborough.

Second Prize—Silver dishes, won by Skip Lang of Peterborough.

Consolation.

First Prize—Travelling bags, won by Skip Ray of Peterborough.

Second Prize—Carving sets, won by Skip Fitzgerald, of Peterborough.

Third Prize.—Coat sweaters, won by Skip J. H. Connal, of Peterborough.

The ice throughout has been magnificent, and Manager Angus McIntosh has been receiving the congratulations of the curlers upon the excellent sheets provided. The outside rinks were especially loud in their praises.

HAD KIDNEY TROUBLE.

COULD NOT CROSS THE FLOOR PAIN WAS SO GREAT.

Miss Hazel Hess, Winchester Springs, Ont., writes:—"I was troubled with my kidneys for five years. They were so bad, at times, I could not cross the floor for the pain. The doctor could not do me any good and a friend advised me to use Doan's Kidney Pills. I bought six boxes and now I have been cured for over four years. I will recommend them to every sufferer."

No woman can be strong and healthy unless the kidneys are well. When the kidneys are ill, the whole body is ill, for the poisons which the kidneys ought to filter out of the blood are left in the system. Then how important it must be to see to it that this system of sewerage be not clogged up.

Doan's Kidney Pills are a purely vegetable medicine, realising quick, permanent relief, without any after ill effects. A medicine that will absolutely cure backache and all forms of kidney and bladder trouble.

Doan's Kidney Pills are 50c. per box or 3 for $1.25, at all dealers or mailed direct on receipt of price by The T. Milburn Co., Limited, Toronto, Ont.

If ordering direct specify "Doan's."

LIGHTNING FAST ICE FOR TO-NIGHT'S GAME

District Depends Upon Battle Between Trenton and Peterborough---Locals Must Win to Keep in the Running ---The Line-up of the Two Teams.

A lightning fast sheet of ice is ready for to-night's intermediate O. H. A. battle between Trenton and Peterborough, and both teams are correspondingly happy, as both like good going. The game should be the most exciting struggle of the season. Peterborough must win to be in the running in the district, as a victory for Trenton will give the Eastern team the honours. Under these circumstances, both teams will work their heads off for victory, and it will be a battle royal from the first tap of the bell. The Petes are confident of giving the visitors the liveliest kind of a chase for the game. Indications are that the crowd will be even larger than that which saw the downfall of Trenton last week. The game is the principal topic of conversation among the fans and there will be a record attendance to-night. Lawson Whitehead will start the players going sharp at 8.15. The teams will line-up as follows:

Trenton.

Goal—Law.
Point—Powers.
Cover—Reynolds.
Rover—Croft.
Centre—Fletcher.

Peterborough.

The Big Store Employees Have Exciting Game Semi-Readies Beat Annex

Cressman's hockey team of by-gone fame, has again come into the limelight, when two teams from this establishment met last night at Brock street rink from six to seven. The Annex Dodgers took the Semi-readys into camp to the tune of 11 to 4. The Dodgers would have piled up a still better score but for a sign in the rink which read, "No fast skating," this being the cause for their falling off from scoring in the last half.

When the report got abroad that Miss Helen Pringle was going to be referee, everyone wanted to play, but twelve fast men were chosen, and she displayed the ability, not uncommon to the feminine sex, of holding a dozen men easily in command. The score which defeated the Semi-readys was as neat as a semi-ready fit and to-day the only comfort they can get is a "Maish Taminated."

When the teams faced off it was discovered that the Annex-Dodgers had placed a German dreadnought in the nets. This, combined with the fast English cruiser at cover-point formed an Anglo-German defence, which was an invincible as Sir Wilfrid Laurier's navy.

For the winners Deen played such a fast game that it was impossible for the feminine timekeepers to record, while for the losers Fred Cressman was mostly in evidence. The line-up:

Annex Dodgers		Semi-Readys

Max Schleuter		Foley

Manning		J. C. Edwards

Edney		F. Cressman

WHAT ADDIE WOLGAST HAS TO SAY OF OWEN MORAN

PHILADELPHIA, FEB. 2.—England will never see Champion Ad. Wolgast battle for a world's championship title. In the champion's estimation, English sporting fraternity, while composed of "good fellows," does not understand the boxing game as well as do their brothers across the sea. The fighting rules differ, and England, says Wolgast, would not like his style of fighting.

Wolgast is inclined to talk at length about Moran, the Britisher, who cleaned "Battling" Nelson and forever dimmed the Dane's chances of coming back. Regarding the drawing abilities of both fighters, the Britisher and the Dane, Wolgast thinks that the former would not prove the better. "His clean job at taking Nelson under his wing made Moran better liked than ever and with the possibilities of an international champion a fight between Moran and myself ought to pull in half again as much money as one would have with Nelson."

When Nelson was carried from the ring after losing the title to Wolgast the Dane better than anyone else knew that his fighting career was ended, says Wolgast.

Wolgast first met Moran in New York city, April 7, 1908. One paper awarded the champion a draw and others criticized Moran's roughing. At that time the Britisher had had six years' experience in the ring, while the coming champion had had less than fifteen months' experience. Still Wolgast held up over Moran who had just had a 25-round bout with Abe Attel. Moran then weighed 132 pounds, ringside, and Wolgast tipped the scales at 118.

In height Moran is one-quarter of an inch shorter than the champion. His waist line is one inch larger and his chest two inches deeper than Ad's. But Wolgast has legs almost an inch larger than Moran's, while his arms and neck are also larger, the former stretching tape a half-inch more than the Britisher's and the champion's neck taking three-quarters of an inch more measure.

In reach the pair are about equal. Their hitting powers compared give Wolgast somewhat the stronger blow. Moran is a pretty willing mixer, showing that he has confidence in his staying qualities and he can also take considerable punishment in the hope of landing a blow. His style of fighting, says Wolgast—and the champion has studied it very close—is like Abe Attel's. Moran stands almost straight when battling and is a very clever in-fighter. But on the latter point Wolgast wants to claim the honours. His in-fighting has proven a revelation to the sporting fraternity and as yet the champion is of the opinion that no boxer developed has that winning card of boxing tucked up his sleeve as securely as he.

"Moran is the roughest and toughest clever fellow I have ever seen, and the Britisher is having that reputation stamped more indelibly upon him each day," claims Wolgast.

But the aspirant from across the water has the characteristic form of dissipation accorded the British, and that is cigaret smoking. Like Freddie Welsh and Jem Driscoll, Moran dearly loves the "nail." His appearance upon the street, says Wolgast, is never complete unless Moran has a cigaret placed in one corner of his mouth at a tantalizing angle.

SOME HOCKEY HAPPENINGS

As Peterborough has a larger ice area than Oshawa the local boys will appreciate playing there rather than on the smaller ice.

Frontenacs will hold a practice tonight at the covered rink in order to get into good shape for the game in Peterborough next Tuesday. A good workout in the Y.M.C.A. gym. tomorrow night will also be held. The boys will have to turn out in real earnest for these practices.—Kingston Standard.

The East City team wish to challenge any team in the city under sixteen years of age. Apply to Percy Vanhorne Neill.

Messrs. Geo. Giroux and Sam Ray are the proudest men in Peterborough to-day. Last night the former won the primary and the latter the consolation event in the curling bonspiel and to-night each has a son playing on the Peterborough hockey team against Trenton.

ARTISTIC HOMES.

Planning, building, decorating a home is a most fascinating occupation. Every home builder grasps at every suggestion that may give new ideas or better ways. To those and to all who appreciate the charm of well arranged houses, the February number of Canadian Home Journal will give the greatest pleasure. With wide experience and exact knowledge, Mr. Paul Fitzpatrick, the associate editor for this issue, combines a very attractive manner of writing. The special headings are suggestive, 'Houses that Fit," the surroundings for different styles; "The Heart of the House," all about fireplaces; "Building a Home," suggestions from experience. There is "Making the Home Decoration Individual" and "Household Decoration," containing suggestions for selection of harmonious curtains, shades, hanging and wall papers, with stencilling designs for the home makers who enjoy the personal work in their homes. The regular household departments are good as usual, and there are well written short stories, and a fine page for the youngsters. In color work February of this Toronto magazine probably surpasses any previous number. Each new issue of the Journal brings fresh proof of the very high standard of excellence that the publishers have set themselves. They deserve our heartiest support in building for Canadians a clean, attractive magazine of the very best type. To any of our readers who are looking for a home magazine, we suggest they write to the publishers for a sample copy.
